GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, I looked upon my case as hopeless. However, I tried Egan's Imperial Truss, and in less than two weeks from then my rupture was entirely healed. I have worn it ever since, and am pleased to say that it has given perfect satisfaction in every respect. I have no hesitation in recommending it to all ruptured persons, as I have tried many other kinds of trusses, but never found one to equal it. I am willing to answer any inquiries in regard to it, as I consider it a duty I owe to suffering humanity to make it public, in so far as the benefit of others is concerned. Yours truly, [illegible]

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken the people by storm. It will cure any case of rupture in from 20 to 30 days. It will not chafe or gall; and it can be worn with ease and comfort. It is the only truss that will retain the rupture in all positions. It is the only truss that will cure. Price $3.00. Sent by mail to any address on receipt of price. Send for circular. Agents wanted in every town in Canada. Address all orders to

LOVE CONQUERS,

BY THE AUTHOR OF "DORA THORNE," "A ROSE IN THORNS," etc.

(Concluded.)

confused and he was faint from want of food.

Only one thing was clear to him; there was one ray of light in all this darkness. He was going home, so that he could take care of his promised sister Kate, and if the Duke of Bayefort came there again he would meet him on the threshold. He was free now and could speak his mind.

His senses were certainly confused. The rush of the mill-stream and the rustle of the green leaves grew louder. Standing on the threshold of his home, he fancied he saw the proud beautiful lady he loved, with the sunlight on her dead-gold hair, and a sword in her white hand. It was his mother standing under the honeysuckle, looking wonderingly and anxiously at him.

"Mother," he said gently, "I am worn and weary. I have come home to rest."

CHAPTER XVIII., AND LAST.

He awoke in a small room, the window of which was covered with trailing honeysuckle, and within which everything was as white as the driven snow. Before he was quite awake, while the dew lay on the honeysuckle, these words passed through his mind again and again.

"Old pleasures and places though we may roam,
Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home;
A charm from the skies seems to hallow us there,

He had learned his lesson; he had tried his wings, had broken them in his flight, and he had come back to the nest. He had tried the world, and bruised, battered, and beaten, he had come home to rest.

"Home, sweet home," he repeated to himself; "there is no place like home."

His mother had held him in her arms and grieved with bitter words that she had ever let him go from her. The old farmer had clasped his hand and said—

"Heaven bless the bonnie lad! I am best pleased to see him home again." And Kate could do nothing but look at him and admire him.

* * * * * *

Vane had not been home twenty-six hours. He had gone to the mill-stream, his favorite spot. There he could collect his thoughts, and decide what was best to be done with the remainder of his blighted, marred, and ruined life. He would not leave home again; this one little circle of simple loyal hearts loved him as no others could. He sat down where the sound of the weary wash pleasantest, and, as of old, lost himself in dreams. It was Kate who roused him. She came to him hastily, with bright eyes and a flushed face.

"Vane," she said, "you are wanted."

"Who can want me, Kate? No one knows that I am here."

"Yes; some one does. You must come, Vane. I promised not to tell who it was. It is some one who kissed me, so they must love you. Come, Vane."

"Who is it? Ah, Kate, do not jest with me just now?"

"I am not jesting. Come."

He rose and went with her. She led the way to the pretty little parlor, where, long before, Sir Raye Vibart had spent so many lonely hours.

"You must go in alone," she said. "I have an idea that I am not wanted."

He went in—he had no idea as to whom he should see—and there before him stood Lady Lilias. He saw the graceful elegantly-dressed figure, he saw the beautiful face pale with agitation, the trembling lips, the pleading eyes; then a mist came before his own, and his great passionate love stirred in his heart and shook his whole frame.

She was speaking to him—she who had rejected him with such scorn, who had sent him from her with such imperious words—speaking to him with hands folded, and her lips pleading.

"Vane," she said, "I have read your letter. There is a mistake. You have misunderstood me."

"You spoke plainly enough, Lady Lilias," he rejoined.

"We were both mistaken. I said I knew all. I did not know that this was your home, and Kate your sister—I swear to you I did not."

"What did you think?" he asked.

"I am ashamed to tell you, Vane. When I saw you kiss Kate, I thought you loved her. When I said I knew all, I meant simply all your love for her. I was jealous, Vane. Now I understand. We were both mistaken. Why did you not trust me? Why did you not tell me this before?"

"Because I felt certain the moment you knew it you would send me from you."

"You might have tried me," she said gently.

"I should have told you, Lady Lilias, but I was so intoxicated with my own happiness that I could think of nothing else."

"I have come to say something to you, Vane," she said in a whisper. "I am sorry I was so cross; but I was jealous; and when people are jealous they say much more than they mean. Are they not?"

"I, my darling, Lady Lilias."

"I said more than I meant, Vane."

"Thank heaven for having the sharpest sting of your words," he said. "You do not now believe I am a traitor?"

"I do not. When I called you a traitor it was because I thought you had another love, not because you had kept this knowledge from me."

"So thank you," he said, "for

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Court of Revision.

The Court of Revision of the assessment roll of the town of Peterborough for the year 1886, will be held in the Council Chamber on Thursday evening, June 3rd, at 7 o'clock, p.m.

Brooch Found.

Mr. T. Brooks lost evening, when crossing George street, at Simcoe street, found a jet bar brooch. The owner will receive the brooch on applying at Ormond & Walsh's drug store, where it was left.

Methodist District Meeting.

The annual district meeting of the Methodist clergymen of Peterborough District was held in the Charlotte street church this afternoon, commencing at 2 o'clock, Rev. I. Tovell, District Superintendent, presiding. The laymen's meeting will be held to morrow afternoon.

The Gun Club.

R. W. Kent	0 0 0 1 1 1 1 1 0 1 — 6
R. Tivey	1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 1 — 10
C. H. Goslo	1 1 1 0 0 0 1 1 1 1 0 — 7
S. Ray	0 0 1 0 0 1 0 0 1 1 — 4

The Band at the Park.

Last evening the Fire Brigade Band presented a fine programme of selections from the pavilion in Court House Park to a very large number of visitors. If our city fathers would or would witness the pleasure the public enjoy at this beautiful resort they would take more interest in its maintenance and should not begrudge the little sum asked by the Horticultural Society for the purpose of keeping up the beauty of the park. The burthen of taxation will only amount to a trifle to each ratepayer, who would be amply repaid by the enjoyment of one evening on band night.

Uniforms for the Police.

At the meeting of the Council held Monday night, the Police Supervision Committee were authorized to procure the necessary clothing for the police—hats, boots, and hymn books, too, most likely. The brave men of the force were spoken of as well—not well-dressed, and it was decided that the town should clothe her protectors in a proper uniform, which the Supervision Committee, assisted by the Chief and staff will probably select. A well dressed and handsome policeman is a joy forever—so the police say—and why not provide a proper and becoming uniform for the members of the local "force" who have the necessary qualifications to rank as "joys, etc."—minus the handsome uniform.

A New Switch.

The belles that came from the central telephone office this morning were about double the usual languid length. On enquiry, it was found that Mr. H. W. Kent, the popular local agent, assisted by Mr. E. Johnston, Lindsay agent, had been busily engaged yesterday, all day and all night, in placing and connecting a new fifty-point switch, which arrived yesterday from headquarters and were both "rung off." The central is now one of the best equipped offices in Ontario. Three fifty-point switches with the necessary apparatus are now in readiness for use. Mr. Kent says that he expects before long to have the night service in operation.

A Paralytic Seizure.

During the noon hour to-day Mr. Charles Robinson, painter, who was working at Comstock's block, George street, and who had only recovered from illness, was seized with a paralytic stroke, and was removed to his home on Water street in a hack. He is said to be seriously affected.

Explanatory.

The EXAMINER is asked to state by Mr. T. Dunn that his name was put on the programme for "Pro Peccatis" at the "Ruth" cantata entertainment on Monday evening, without his consent, and if there was any disappointment, he is not responsible for it. His name appeared in our report by an unfortunate misunderstanding.

Personal.

Mr. Wm. Loch returned home from his trip to Germany on Monday night. He had a pleasant voyage and his gain of seven pounds in weight shows that his health was benefitted by the journey.

Our thanks are due Mr. R. S. Edwards, formerly of Dummer, now of Sidney, New South Wales, for copies of "The Australian," a magnificent weekly illustrated journal. Mr. Edwards is in New South Wales in connection with the publishing agency of Messrs. Lyon & Co., of Guelph.

It is a household word that Rentley's wall paper is better and cheaper than elsewhere in the town; 25c. paper for 18c.; 20c. paper for 7½.; other prices accordingly.

A child's body which was washed ashore at Kingston during the recent gale, is supposed to be the body of the boy, Bell, drowned at Belleville at the time of the spring floods.

A liquor dealer, brought before the court yesterday for violation of the Scott Act, when asked how he disposed of his liquors before the 1st of May, said he sold a large quantity to strictly Scott Act men.

Pigeon Creek bridge is said to be haunted—by ghosts in the shape of balls of fire. It was hoped when the Scott Act came into force "Smiff," of the Bobcaygeon Independent, would cease starting these ghost scares.

Protecting the Park.

Court House Park, now that the people having had a taste of its enjoyment, is indispensable and it would be a pity to exclude the general public, but something like this will have to be done if the young trees and terrace banks are saved from destruction. Last night scores of persons, not boys alone, but adults, would seize the trunk of the young trees (only removed this spring and not firmly rooted) and sway them about in a manner sure to destroy their growth. Other persons insisted on running up or down the terraces, a practice which will speedily destroy them. Both practices must be stopped. If the police were to arrest some of the thoughtless or wanton persons, who do the damage, and make an example of them the practice would be lessened. Persons that can't frequent the park without injuring it, must be excluded, and as discrimination is not practicable the result may be that the park will have to be closed to the public. Respectable and orderly frequenters will therefore see that it is to their interest to individually do all in their power to prevent the park from being injured by the thoughtless or wanton.

District Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Peterborough district began in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church yesterday. Rev. I. Tovell, Superintendent of District, presiding. After the ballots had been passed round several times, the Rev. F. McAmmond, pastor of the Mark street Methodist Church, Ashburnham, was duly elected Secretary of the District. All the ministerial members of the District were present. The question of ministerial character was taken up, and there being no objections, the ministers were all passed on. The young men were asked the usual disciplinary questions by the Superintendent of District, and satisfactorily answered. Joshua H. Barrows from Lakefield, was received as a probationer on trial, and preached his trial sermon last night in the Mark street Methodist Church, Ashburnham. Rev. H. C. Garbutt, of Hall's Bridge, was recommended to the conference to be received into full connexion and ordained. H. V. Mounteer, who has been attending the Montreal Theological College, having passed satisfactory examination, receiving a certificate of a high order, was continued on trial. Several other important matters occupied the attention of the District till 5 p.m. The meeting is continued to-day, when the lay element will be present from the various circuits.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Fifth Parliament—Fourth Session.

TUESDAY, MAY 18th.

In the Commons to-day the Franchise Amendment Bill, to make the first prepared lists the bases of all future lists, passed its first reading.

The bill to effect a settlement with the C. P. R., of the $30,000,000 loan was read a third time, Sir John showing his hostility to Ontario, by opposing and defeating an amendment proposed by Mr. McCarthy, to prevent the C. P. R. discriminating against Ontario shippers.

Fliers.

One of the most exciting events of yesterday afternoon was a race between a Pidgeon and a Jay, which finally resulted in the former pouncing upon the latter in a fowl coop where he had hidden himself. Constable Pidgeon carried a subpœna for a local bartender named Jay, who returned from Toronto yesterday. The bar-tender on arriving in town was made aware of the fact and tried to evade the constable's eagle eye, but failed. The bar-tender ran for a hiding place. He succeeded in getting there, but so did the constable.

The new Salvation Army temple, Belleville, will be dedicated on Sunday next. Cost, $3,500; seating capacity, 1,000.

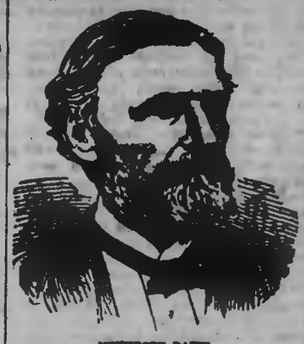
MONTGOMERY, ALA.

JEFFERSON DAVIS LAYS THE CORNER STONE OF A MONUMENT

To the Brave Confederate Dead—"Official Burial of the Southern Confederacy," Great Ovation to the ex-President. Flags, Flowers and "Yells."

April 26 was Memorial day in the south. By a sort of natural movement and common the week beginning with that day was given up in Montgomery, Ala., to the remembrance of the Southern Confederacy. A marble monument to the memory of the Confederate dead is to be built in that city. The corner-stone of the monument was laid by Mr. Jefferson Davis, president of the Southern Confederacy.

He is nearly 80 years old now, having been born in 1808. He is a native of Kentucky. He lives in the strictest retirement at his plantation of Beauvoir, the place willed to him by a southern lady who was one of his admirers. The ladies of the south have always stood up for Mr. Davis with unfaltering devotion. His first wife was the daughter of Gen. Zach Taylor, and the marriage was a runaway match. The fiery old general was in a fury, and it was long before he forgave the pair. Davis was a graduate of West Point and was a colonel in the Mexican war. He led a gallant charge of his regiment at Buena Vista, and contributed no little to the victory of that day. Near midnight, after the battle, "Old Zach" sent for Col. Davis. He went in made trepidation, not knowing was coming. But instead of a rating, Taylor congratulated him on his bravery and thanked him. From that day he was reconciled to his son-in-law.



JEFFERSON DAVIS.

He played a prominent part in the politics of the country from the time he started in life till the collapse of the Southern Confederacy. He was United States senator from Mississippi at the time of the election of Abraham Lincoln, but resigned when the state seceded. At Montgomery he was inaugurated president of the Southern Confederacy, Feb. 18, 1861.

Great enthusiasm was manifested at the ceremony. It was in the evening. Mr. Davis stood upon the veranda of the state capitol building and made his speech of acceptance.

In 1861 he was welcomed to Montgomery with enthusiasm. The mayor and distinguished citizens met him eight miles out of town and gave him greeting. At the railway station a cheering crowd awaited him. He made a ringing speech to them, telling them that all who opposed secession would be made to "smell southern powder and feel southern steel." That promise, at least, was kept. The scene of the speech was a strange spectacle. Two negroes stood, one on each side of him, holding each a lighted candle, that the crowd might see his features.

1861—1886! How the scene has changed! Mr. Davis, solitary, gray and broken, lives quite away from the world, at fair Beauvoir, seeing nothing and nobody. The blue Gulf of Mexico, shining in plain sight below Beauvoir, is his only outlook. The demonstration at Montgomery and elsewhere during this tour will probably be his last appearance to to the world's eye. His family consists of his wife and daughter, Miss Varina.

A northern newspaper correspondent sought to interview him not long since. He failed even to see him. The melancholy leader of the lost cause sent the following note:

20TH MARCH, '86.

DEAR SIR: I am not well enough to leave my chamber, or I would orally reply to your request for my opinions that I am not in office, am not a candidate for official position, therefore have a right, as it is my wish, to lead the life of retirement in which the will of others, as well as my own, has placed—respectfully, JEFFERSON DAVIS.

But in the closing days of April the citizens of Montgomery kindly resolved to give him, at least, one more rousing "send off" to gild his declining days. All joined heartily in the demonstration. The strangest mingling of former foes was there. A northern man had charge of the electric illuminations. Frank Foster, an ex-Union soldier, who bears to this day the mark of a southern bullet, had charge of the decorations, and right royally performed his duty. Flowers and bunting gave a dash of color to the whole city. Splendid starry United States flags waved everywhere, emblem once more of a whole, happy and glorious country. The portrait of Gen. Robert E. Lee was encircled with United States flags. Here and there a historic Confederate banner displayed itself as a silent witness of a time long gone.

INAUGURATION OF JEFFERSON DAVIS, 1861.
[From an old print.]

From the same spot in which he stood to address the people twenty-five years ago, when he accepted the presidency of the Confederacy, Mr. Davis now again spoke to the multitude. But he sat in a chair this time, and his voice was feeble and broken, and he could only talk a few minutes. In the few words he said was a touching personal acknowledgment of the people's ovation to him. The rest seemed an echo from a sepulchre of a century ago. His reception was a greater ovation than that in 1861. As he entered the same hotel in which he had stayed before ladies threw their arms about his neck. A vast crowd gathered from far and near, all over Alabama. They wept their heartfelt tears and bade, and shouted themselves hoarse. Rank "yells" as they gave were not exceeded in war times.

He rode to the capitol hill through the streets of a revolutionized Montgomery, one of the finest cities in the Union. Flowers were rare in the streets. The building in which two black men held candles each side of him while he spoke is lighted by electricity.

THE NEW CONFEDERATE SOLDIERS' MONUMENT.

The memorial monument will stand in the state capitol grounds. The foundation of the monument only was ready. It is thirty-five feet square. The corner-stone to be laid by Mr. Davis was all ready for him. It bears this inscription:

The monument itself will be from a design by Alexander Doyle, of New York city. It will be very fittingly built of Alabama limestone. It is to be eighty-five feet high, a single column, architecturally beautiful and commanding. The base is in form of a Greek cross, up a flight of five steps. Upon the arms are four statues, representing branches of military service. The single round column rises seventy feet. Then comes a carved Corinthian cap, and upon that a bronze figure, ten feet high. This will be a southern woman in bronze, to represent patriotism. A niche is to be left in the base for a statue of Jefferson Davis. The whole work will cost $45,000, and will require two to three years to complete. The artist who planned it is the one who designed the statue of Margaret of New Orleans, and of the late Senator Ben Hill at Atlanta, Ga.; also that ordered by the United States government at Yorktown, Va.

Gen. John B. Gordon, who carries the scar of a saber cut on his brave, rugged face, accompanied Mr. Davis during the ceremonies, and made a speech. A long procession moved to the capitol grounds. The newspapers called the occasion "the official burial of the Southern Confederacy." From Montgomery Mr. Davis went to Atlanta to unveil the statue of the late Senator Hill.

West Riding Central Agricultural Society.

Meeting of Directors.

A full meeting of the Directors of the West Riding Central Agricultural Society was held at the Crown Timber Offices, Water street, on Wednesday afternoon.

The directors decided to wait upon the County Council at its next sitting, to urge the matter of a grant by that body for the purpose of aiding in the erection of exhibition buildings. Whatever may be the result of the application, the buildings will be erected, but their extent and style will depend on the measure of assistance extended by the County Council.

A committee consisting of Messrs. Garbutt, McWilliams and Collins were given charge of the Agricultural grounds to arrange for levelling them in view of the construction of the new buildings this season. On the invitation of one of the Directors, Mr. T. Blezard, M. P., was present at the meeting and was interviewed in respect to the question of the amalgamation of the Otonabee Agricultural with the Peterborough Society. Mr. Blezard explained that he could not take any responsibility upon himself in the matter, but he would lay the subject before the society for its consideration. The secretary was directed to communicate with the Otonabee Society on the subject. After the transaction of some other business the meeting adjourned to meet on Tuesday, June 1st. At this meeting the prize list for the fall exhibition will be revised and other arrangements will be made.

The Great Question.

A Dissolution of Parliament.

LONDON, May 19.—The Daily News in an article, evidently inspired, assures constituencies which complain that they have not been given a chance to declare their opinion on the Irish question, that dissolution must follow the rejection of the Home Rule Bill.

THE ARMS ACT.

The Morning Post says the Government does not intend to renew the Arms Act, but to hasten the new bill relating to the possession of arms in Ulster and elsewhere.

At a recent meeting of the East Riding Agricultural Society a committee was appointed to wait on the County Council to solicit a grant.

A NEW LABOUR JOURNAL.

Among the new journalistic claimants of public patronage is the Canadian Labour Reformer, with this sensible motto, "We demand all the Reform that Justice can ask, and all the Justice that Reform can give," which is a pithy epitome of the views and claims of the journal on the labour question—the interests of "labour" as popularly regarded in relation to capital. The new journal has an extensive field, white unto harvest and will find in the effort to remedy the many disabilities that labour rests under, and the urgent necessity and justice of reform, ample scope for the exercise of its powers. The first number is a most promising one. It is very neatly printed, and, typographically, is an eminently presentable journal. Its columns bear the marks of good literary ability, and its matter is fresh, timely and to the point. Its cartoon, after the famous Laocoon group of statuary, represents a workingman and his two boys, being crushed in the merciless folds of the hydra of monopoly. The outcome and exponent of a live issue of universal interest, appealing intelligently and earnestly to a constituency of readers, wide as the brotherhood of toil, the Canadian Labour Reformer has a broad field before it, and if it is true to its aims, a successful career—which the EXAMINER cordially wishes it.

SENATOR SMITH AND THE STRIKERS.

The fact that there are proportionally fewer labor troubles in Canada than in the United States, does not so much prove that grievances do not exist, as that Canadian working men are more patient, possessed of greater self denial and more inclined to give employers an opportunity to do them justice. It is only when flagrant provocation exists, such as the street car employees of Toronto had to labor under, that patience gives way. Senator Smith a member of the Dominion Cabinet reflects the attitude of the Government towards the workingmen, by his tryannous treatment and his insolent disregard of their grievances. His cast iron agreement, requires his employees to sign away the right to associate themselves with their fellow laborers to benefit themselves and their families. He expresses his abhorrence of the principle at stake and says he will spend his last dollar in fighting the Knights of Labor. The latter will accept the issue and their first move in task Sir John to dismiss the bullying minister from his cabinet. The case is simply this; the workingmen are fighting for their daily bread and that of their families. Hon. Frank Smith is fighting for his long purse, made so largely by the labor of the men he is now seeking to oppress. It will be interesting to note whether Sir John, who professes such great love for workingmen—at election time—will stand by the workmen and dismiss Senator Smith from the Cabinet, or stick to the Senator and give him further chance to enrich himself at the expense of the rights and liberties and daily bread of the street car employees.

Methodist ministers very properly appreciate the importance of the franchise and object very properly to being deprived of it by the Dominion Franchise Act. One clause of this act requires a year's residence in order to entitle an otherwise qualified person to vote. Under this provision, about five hundred Methodist ministers will be disfranchised every year, the rules of the church requiring that removals from one "circuit" to another take place every three years. Therefore one third, or about five hundred of the ministers, cannot qualify as voters. The Norwich district conference of the Methodist Church considered this grave injustice, and on Tuesday unanimously resolved to petition the Dominion Parliament for the removal of this particular disqualification. The whole act could be repealed to the benefit of the country, not counting the enormous expense which will amount at every preparation of the lists to half a million dollars. And all for an utterly unnecessary measure, framed solely to give the present Government an undue and corrupt advantage at the coming elections.

A Great Musical Treat.

The beautiful cantata, "Flower Queen," on Queen's Birthday night, Sixty pretty maidens personifying Nature's loveliest flowers. Music fascinating; words instructive and enchanting; impersonations truly bewitching.

"Give place oh! Winter hoar, give place,
To Spring, the maiden fair;
The maid with smiles so sunny bright,
The maid with beaming step and light,

A Fight With a Boa.

A journal published in Singapore gives an account of a fight between a man eating python, which would indicate that the Guy Livingstone type of muscular heroes is not extinct among Europeans in the settlement. One day news was brought to the curator of the museum that a great reptile, which was on exhibition there, had escaped from its box, and was careering about the building, no doubt thoroughly enjoying the flight of the attendants and visitors. The brute was no less than twenty-two feet long. At that moment the curator happened to have a bottle of carbolic acid in his hand. It was a most exciting tussle when they came together, and for a few seconds the silvering native spectators could not make out which was snake and which was man. The guardian of the museum's treasures had secured a firm grip of the python's throat, but on the other hand the serpent had coiled its crushing folds around his legs. Had it been a question of strength merely, the bob must have won the day; the curator would soon have been only fit to make a stuffed mummy in his own museum. But after a struggle or two more he managed cleverly to uncork the bottle of carbolic acid down the reptile's throat—the grip on which he had never relaxed. The boa, had evidently been unaccustomed to drinking, it obviously disagreed with him. The coils loosened from the curator's limbs, a convulsive shiver went through the entire twenty-two feet of snake, and in a few minutes the great python was dead! The boa has not merely oftimes been mastered by man, but by much inferior beings. An officer stationed at Kalladgee, in India, was once climbing a rocky hill, when he and a native who accompanied him witnessed the following episode: A poor monkey was being slowly enwrapped in the voluminous folds of an enormous boa, its bones breaking like pine straws by the pressure. Gradually the reptile unwound itself, leaving a crushed, unrecognizable mass. The numerous monkeys on the rock were in the greatest state of excitement, running wildly about, gesticulating, chattering, and moaning, though of course powerless to help their comrade. While the snake was commencing its gorge, and before its body began to fill and swell, the officer and native went in quest of a stout cudgel and a sharp knife, expecting to make it an easy prey as soon as it should be filled to repletion. When they returned to the scene of strife, the boa lay thoroughly gorged, beneath a projecting mass of cliff, looking more like a log than anything more lively. On the summit above a troop of monkeys were assembled, and three or four of the largest and strongest were occupied in displacing a massive fragment of rock, already loosened by the rains from the main ledge. By enormous exertion—made, too, with a silence quite unusual to monkeys—they at length succeeded in pushing the rock until it trembled just over the boa's head; then, uttering a yell of triumph, they dropped it over the miniature precipice. It struck the boa on the head, mashing it to a jelly. As its great tail lashed about ineffectually in its last struggle, there was a general chorus of exultation—man joining his near relative, if we believe some of our instructors—over this well-accomplished act of revenge.

An Uncomfortable Accident.

A Frightened Horse Backs Over a Bridge.

Mr. John Finnie, of South Monaghan, accompanied by his wife and child, while driving to church last Sunday met with a serious and what might have been a fatal accident. On crossing Woodduck bridge their horse became frightened and unmanageable. It backed up against the railing of the bridge with considerable force, breaking it away, and continuing on its backward course, precipitated the buggy, occupants and horse into the stream several feet below, which is three feet deep at that point, where the party floundered in great danger of drowning. Mr. Jas. Wood and Thos. Pue, who fortunately happened to be near by, saw the accident and immediately went to the assistance of those in the water. By strenuous efforts and with considerable difficulty they succeeded in rescuing the whole party—horse, rig and all.

Notwithstanding much is said about the importance of a blood-purifying medicine, possibly the matter has never claimed your serious attention. Think of it now! If, by using Ayer's Sarsaparilla, you avoid scrofula, and transmit health to your offspring, thank us for the suggestion.

MADCAP MAY.

She was not beautiful, for people indeed called her pretty, but all the men staying at Orwell House ran after her, and all the women, as a natural consequence, were desperately jealous of her.

Had Orwell House been a private mansion, this state of affairs might have produced serious complications, but as it was simply a boarding-house, where people could come for three days or three years as they chose, the landlord was the only gentleman's notice, obviously the only one they paid their bills, meantime infatuation and feminine jealousy were matters which did not concern the two eminently respectable ladies who presided over the establishment.

They listened to May Ralston's exploits, they also listened to many spiteful things said about her, and in each case they smiled and prudently forebore to utter a word that could give offence to any one.

So Madcap May, as she was often called, pursued the uneven tenor of her way, equally untouched by the admiration or the envy so freely awarded her.

"It is a most singular proceeding for a girl who claims to be a gentlewoman, to go careering about the country with no other protector than a boy of fourteen," remarked Mrs. Prudhoim, sneeringly, when our heroine was the subject of conversation.

"Indeed, does Miss Ralston go 'careering' about the country?" asked a quiet, mild looking lady who had arrived in Dovercourt the previous day.

"Yes,—at least I don't know what else you can call it," was the somewhat confused reply. "There is some story told about her father having left her here, and about a married cousin coming to chaperone her, but no father has been here in my time, or cousin either, and I and my girls will have been here three weeks to-morrow."

"Then you think the father and cousin are myths?" asked Mrs. Drake, quietly.

Mrs. Prudhoim shrugged her shoulders expressively as she said.

"It doesn't matter much what I think; you and Miss Ralston became friends at once, I observed, and therefore you will no doubt be prejudiced in her favor; still, even you, Mrs. Drake, must admit that it is not the correct thing for an unmarried girl to go out in a boat with Captain Ferris and Mr. Smythe, and only her little brother to take care of her, and without asking any other lady to join the party."

"There you are in error, Mrs. Prudhoim, for she urged me to go with her; but I am afraid of the water," said Mrs. Drake.

"But as you would not go, she could have invited somebody else. I would have allowed either of my daughters to have gone, out of sheer kindness to a poor motherless girl, or I would have even joined the party myself with both my daughters."

"Why didn't you volunteer to do so?" asked the new-comer, with slightly elevated eyebrows; "surely the offer should have come from you."

"No, it should not," replied Mrs. Prudhoim, with great dignity; "only last week I allowed my sympathy to get the better of my judgment, and my daughters and I were neglected most shamefully. What the men can see in her I cannot imagine."

"No, nor can I," here chimed in Mrs. Thorrold, the jealous wife of a careless husband, and mother of three mismanaged children.

"Then you don't admire Miss Ralston?" asked Mrs. Drake, sweetly.

"No; but my husband does," was the spiteful reply; "he even carries his admiration so far as to order me to be civil to her, and though I do all in my power to keep him and the children from following her about, I don't in the least succeed."

"There can't be much harm in the girl, if the children like her," remarked Mrs. Drake, quietly.

"I don't know about that," was Mrs. Thorrold's dubious reply.

She came into the room with her face flushed, her eyes bright, her wavy, fluffy brown hair hanging in pretty disorder about her pleasant sweet oval face; and she swung her wide brim-ed hat in her hand, as she looked laughingly at three children who followed at her heels, and then addressing herself to Mrs. Thorrold, said—

"Fred wants to go in my canoe with me Mrs. Thorrold; will you trust him to my care?"

"And I want to go too," clamored both the other children.

"I can only take one at a time," said May to the noisy brood; then, glancing at their mother, she repeated her question—"Will you trust them to me, Mrs. Thorrold?"

"Certainly not, Miss Ralston; I should have thought you might have been satisfied with stealing two of the affections of my husband without trying to steal my children's love from me." And Mrs. Thorrold's face became white with rage as she uttered this outrageous impertinence.

The accusation was so cruelly unjust; the outburst of petty spite so utterly uncalled-for.

She had played with the spoilt children, but it had been to please them, not for her own amusement; and as for their father, she had not spoken to him a dozen times in her life.

Staring at Mrs. Thorrold with a bewildered gaze, she next turned her eyes upon her own little spites and jealousies, could not sit tamely by and see a motherless girl gratuitously insulted in that way, and feeling for once an impulse of honest indignation, she rose to her feet and said—

"For shame, Mrs. Thorrold, your hate does credit neither to yourself, and your remark is most unladylike."

"And mine unwarranted," added Mrs. Drake, likewise rising; "and I shall inform Miss Budd that I must take my cabin away from her thence, if she is to receive such treatment from any of its inmates."

And, so saying, she turned her back on that of poor Madcap May, and led her from the room, followed by all the other ladies except Mrs. Thorrold, who was left with her three children screaming in concert—

"I will go with Miss Ralston!" "I will go in a canoe with Miss Ralston!"

Their mother tried to quiet them, but in vain; and, sometime afterwards, her blistered and tear stained countenance testified terribly to her wrath.

"Children" she said curtly, to the little ones; "leave the room!"

And, as they obeyed him, he turned to [illegible]

"Pack your things directly. We are ordered out of the house because of your confounded jealousy and bad temper. By Jove! you'll have cause for jealousy one of these days! You may go into lodgings now; I am not going to live with other women."

Then he turned on his heel and the misunderstanding was at an end.

[illegible] May Ralston and Miss Budd would both have forgiven her, he was determined not to let the [illegible] another scene of the kind.

So the Thorrold's went into lodgings for the rest of their stay; and though the children always ran after May whenever they saw her, she made a point of discouraging such expressions of affection.

This little contretemps had the effect, however, of making May Ralston very popular in Orwell House.

Miss Budd soon discovered that she was a very charming girl, and if she did take part in a few mad pranks, still she was so young, and so artless, and so unaffectedly good natured, that it was well enough to smile at and look over them.

Mrs. Drake's presence and suddenly avowed relationship was also a protection to May, and as Captain Ferris and Mr. Smythe found their attentions were accepted with equal impartiality and good-natured indifference, they were piqued occasionally into devoting themselves to more appreciative members of the assembled visitors at Dovercourt.

So the days went on. Happy, pleasant, sleepy days. What with bathing in the morning when the tide was in, strolling on the sands, or on the parade, or lounging in the Spa subscription rooms, the time slipped away almost imperceptibly.

Excursions were organized to all the places of interest in the neighborhood, and very much May enjoyed them; but her chief delight was to paddle about the broad, calm harbor in her canoe. Sometimes she led a little fleet of canoes, and at other times she was quite alone, without even her brother to accompany her.

Those who know Dovercourt will remember that it stands in the centre of an extensive bay, bounded on the right by Walton-on-the-Naze, and by Languard

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Migratory Movements.

Mr. Matthew Carron and Master J. Amos left town yesterday for Dakota, the former for Grafton and the latter for Neebe, via C. P. R. and connections. Mr. Alex. Elliott, of the C. P. R. up-town agency, supplied the tickets.

Sanitary.

Health Inspector Reavis has completed his second inspection of the town and reports it in a fair sanitary state. He has ordered several parties to do further cleaning and will visit them shortly to see that his orders are carried out.

Missionary Union.

The mission meetings which have been carried on in town for several months by Mr. Geo. B. Sproule, will, in future, be held in the rooms over Matthews' meat store, opposite Mr. C. W. Sawers' law office. A number of those interested in the work have formed a union and intend holding regular meetings. The intention is not to clash with church work, but to strengthen it. The rooms have been secured for a term and will be comfortably furnished.

P. A. A. A. Sports.

Parties desiring to participate in the P.A. A.A. athletic sports on 24th May are reminded of the necessity of making entries promptly, so that the necessary arrangements can be made. Don't delay till the last day and then overwhelm the secretary with work. The secretary will be at his office, Brock street, daily, from eleven o'clock till one o'clock to receive entries, and on the morning of the 24th till 12 o'clock, at which hour all entries must close. Three entries required for each event.

A Drive Grounded.

Mr. Charles Mirron, who had charge of Gilmour & Co's Squaw river drive of logs, passed through town to-day with his gang of men on their way back to Trenton. The drive which Mr. Mirron was bringing down Squaw river became grounded in the township of Harvey, the heavy floods this spring having washed away the dams, allowing the water to escape to such an extent that there is not enough left to float the logs. They will have to remain where they are till next spring.

Changing Premises.

Mr. T. Cavanagh is arranging for the purchase of the stone building at the corner of George and King streets, owned by Mr. H. Winch and now occupied by Mrs. Isaac Robinson. Mr. Winch will give the building a complete overhauling, and erect suitable stables and sheds. Mr. Cavanagh expects to move within a month to his new premises where he will run a temperance hotel. It is probable that the Toronto Real Estate and Investment Company will begin to erect their colloseal block as soon as Mr. Cavanagh vacates his present premises.

Too Previous.

Yesterday afternoon a market official and a local grain buyer, after congratulating each other that they were the only men on the market who had not been subpœnaed as witnesses on any of the liquor cases before the court, drew straws for who should pay for the soda water. The grain buyer drew the wrong straw and the two repaired to Hall's confectionery. As they were wending their way back to the market rejoicing at their good fortune, an officer presented the grain buyer with an official document—a subpœna to attend court to-day to give evidence in a liquor case.

Belleville Girls.

Belleville girls are working up a reputation. If they are not engaged in tempting men to commit bigamy they are up to something else peculiar. Yesterday a young lady ordered a pair of $3 boots (the material must have been cheap to cover a Belleville girl's foot surface at that price), and the condition was that a member of the firm should call at her house for his pay. He called, and was given, as a seat, an invalid chair, which collapsed under his weight. The lady accused him of ruining the best chair in the house, and demanded that the price of the chair offset the cost of the boots. The Belleville girls have great heads for finance.

The carriagemakers of the United States are forming a National Union.

A mobbing of the workmen was recently called at Wheeling, West Virginia, to protest against the introduction of imported Italian laborers to the pipe lines of the West Virginia Natural Gas Co. Over 3,000 men were in attendance. In the meantime the gas company and the contractors changed the whole business, and agreed to dispense with the Italians. The intended demonstration meeting was, as a consequence, changed into one of jollification.

Norwood Masons will give an entertainment on St. John's day, June 24th.

The hearing of the adjourned Scott Act cases was resumed at the police court this morning.

Norwood Foresters will devote a day in the first week of June to an excursion to Toronto.

Owing to the absence of Police Magistrate Dumble, at Cobourg, the Police Court did not open until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Duffield and Mr. Frederick Pearce, of Norwood, leave on Monday next for the Colonial Exhibition, London.

Mr. George Wilson, of Belleville, a veteran of the Northwest war, had his leg broken in a friendly wrestling match on Tuesday.

Mr. Wm. Snowden has planked a strong roadway over the creek, leading back on his property, adjoining the Central Iron Bridge Works.

Rev. Mr. Learoyd preached the sermon in the Methodist church Port Hope, to the Grand Lodge of Orange Young Britons on Tuesday.

No one will say that work was begun too soon in putting down a new pavement on George street, east side, between Hunter and Brock street.

The Port Hope Times yesterday treats the Scott Act in Peterborough to three separate paragraphs. The Times seems bound to treat some way or another.

Messrs. P. Cameron, H. Davis, Wm. Patterson, R. Patterson and J. Headrup have left Norwood for the Rocky Mountains to work on the C.P.R. snow sheds.

The large iron roller made by the Central Iron Bridge Works for the P. A. A. A. was rolled over to the grounds to-day. It stands about five feet high and is six feet long.

Lansdowne Lodge, Sons of England, will attend divine worship at St. Luke's, Ashburnham, on Sunday, May 23rd. Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, Rector, will preach the sermon.

F. Otmeron and F. Billings are the Peterborough Club battery. Otmeron is pitching in good form and Billings holds him well. The club practices nightly at Burnham's Point.

The medals to be given for the P. A. A. A. sports are on exhibition in Mr. W. A. Sanderson's window. They are very attractive, and should put athletically inclined young men on their metal.

The waterworks company are at work extending their mains on Charlotte street, between Rubidge and Reid, and on Reid street. A valve is placed at the south-west corner of Reid and Charlotte.

Dr. John Bird, aged 67 years, died in Belleville jail on Tuesday. The coroner's jury condemned the heartless conduct of relatives, who refused to provide for a father and brother in his dying hours. A brother lives at Madoc and a brother, a Methodist minister, in the city. Both, says the Ontario, are well to do.

Canoe Meet at Stargeon Point.

A letter received yesterday from Lindsay shows that both the Lindsay and Bobcaygeon clubs are making great preparations for the canoe meet on the Queen's birthday. The Peterborough party will leave here by the 5.15 train on Saturday evening, and will be met at Lindsay by the Lindsay club and proceed on the steamer "Eva" to the Point where tents will be pitched. The hotel will be open for those who require meals or rooms. Those intending to go from here should give their names at once to Capt. Edwards. The canoes will be sent up by the 10.15 train on Saturday in care of themselves.

Personal.

Mr. W. G. Gunn, champion bicyclist of Oshawa, has entered for the open Triple A. bicycle contest to take place on the 24th.

Mr. L. Seward, of Brockville, is a candidate for the position of organist in St. John's church, to be vacant by Mr. Hampshire's departure for St. Catharines in June. Yesterday evening Mr. Seward met the musical committee in the church and gave a recital on that organ, with a view of giving the committee an opportunity of judging of his abilities. Mr. Seward comes highly recommended. He will take the organ on Sunday next, when Mr. Hampshire will be absent in Montreal.

Personal.

Mr. James Henry, barrister, and Mr. Peter Henry leave Wednesday morning for a two weeks holiday trip in the Western United States.

Mr. D. W. Dafoe was at Cobourg yesterday arguing the cases, Irwin vs. Sperry and counter charges before Judge Clark, arbitrator in the case.

Mr. Geo. Morrow, of Pullman, Ill., was in town to-day visiting his brother R. F. Morrow, dentist. He says Pullman is asleep owing to a strike among the workmen.

Mr. R. L. Sugert, travelling agent for the Karn organ, manufactured by D. W. Karn, of Woodstock, is in town visiting his father. He reports business brisk on the road.

Mrs. Charles C. Hampshire, wife of Mr. Hampshire organist of St. John's in company with Rev. L. W. Fuller and wife of Blairton, leave for England on Monday evening. The party sails on the steamer Parisian, Thursday, May 27th.

Dr. Hodgs, formerly of Lakefield, but recently of Mitchell, Ont., arrived in town last evening from Germany, where he has been for some time "walking the hospitals" of the "Vaterland". During his absence Mrs. Hodge has been staying with her father, Mr. Wm. Ray, of Smith. Dr. Hodge is looking remarkably well, and he received numerous congratulations from his many friends.

Mr. W. H. Hill, the energetic agent of the Sun Life Assurance Company, in recognition of his abilities has had two more counties added to his territory, making five counties included in his general agency—Peterborough, Victoria, Haliburton, Northumberland and Durham. Mr. Hill leaves for Montreal to-day, on business connected with the organization of his new district. While absent he intends visiting his parents in Inverness, Megantic County, Quebec.

TO DEPOSITORS—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amounts deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is FOUR per cent., either paid or compounded half-yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of $100, $200, $400 and $1000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested in first mortgages on Real Estate, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture-holders, they having a first claim or margin on the whole Assets of the Company, the shareholders having the second. The annual statement shows that the amount so invested was over $800,000, and on the security of real estate at least double that value.

Police Court.

Four More Liquor Cases Disposed of—The Defendant Fined $50 and Costs in Each Case—Some Strange Revelations.

Police court opened yesterday afternoon at two o'clock. Police Magistrate Dumble on the bench.

The room was crowded to its utmost capacity.

NUMBER FIVE.

The first witness called was

Mr. Michael Hickey, who testified,—I am a tailor; I was on strike last week; I visited Michael Halpin's hotel several times last week; I did not get any intoxicating drink at his house, nor did I see any other tailor get liquor at Halpin's last week.

Mr. John S. Murray testified—I am a tailor; I was on strike last week; I visited Halpin's and got something to drink there; it was beer—intoxicating liquor; I did not hand any money for it; I believe it was paid for; the money was thrown on the floor of the cellar; I can't say that Mr. Halpin asked us to do it; it was understood between us.

To Mr. O'Meara, counsel for the defendant,—It was arranged by the tailors; I threw 25c. on the cellar floor; and there was 5c. thrown after me when I came up; Halpin threw the change after me.

Mr. O'Meara—I don't see how we can get over that. We will offer no defence.

The magistrate found the defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $50 and costs, in default of payment, distress; and in default of distress, 20 days' imprisonment.

NUMBER SIX.

The case Queen vs. Darcy, on a similar charge, was next called.

Mr. Wm. McPherson testified,—I was in Darcy's last week; I got my dinner there all winter; I have been in on other times on business; I am not certain that I got anything to drink there between the 9th and 14th; I would not swear that I did or did not.

Mr. Edwards asked if he had had anything to drink between 1st and 14th of May at Darcy's.

Mr. W. A. Stratton, counsel for the defendant, objected to the question, as the time in the information was from the 9th to the 14th.

The magistrate overruled the objection.

Mr. McPherson continued,—I may have had a drink between the 1st and 14th. I asked for ginger ale and I got it; there might have been something in it; I don't know if there was anything intoxicating in it; there might have been liquor in it; I think it was this week; I drank with Andrew Boyd, of Cavan; I signed a cheque for him on that day, which will show the date.

Mr. John S. Murray testified,—I was in Darcy's last week before the 14th; I got something to drink; Mrs. Darcy served me; I can't tell whether it was whiskey or rye; I asked for something strong; another tailor was with me who took a cigar; I ought to know what whiskey is, but the stuff you get here is ——; it was intoxicating; the liquor was produced from behind the bar.

To Mr. Stratton,—I have not spoken to either Mr. Edwards or Mr. Keadry before; I don't know either of them; I am a stranger here; I am not a sneak; the whiskey you get here is different from the old country stuff; what I get at Darcy's tasted like the ordinary whiskey you get here; I never tasted sherry bitters; I am certain it was whiskey.

Mr Stratton—I don't see how we are going to get over this. Nevertheless I don't think there was any whiskey sold.

The magistrate found the defendant, Mrs. Darcy, the proprietress of the hotel, guilty and imposed the usual fine of $50 and costs.

NUMBER SEVEN.

Queen vs. Chamberlain, charging the defendant with a similar offence, was next called.

Mr. Wm. McPherson testified,—Between the 1st and 14th of May I got a drink of ginger ale at Chamberlain's; I went in with John Hurley; he took ginger ale too; I did not get anything intoxicating.

Mr. Thos. Redfern, testified,—I have been in Chamberlain's between the 1st and 14th of May, several times; I had intoxicating liquor of several kinds to drink; I never paid for it; Mr. Chamberlain treated me; I have seen the money offered him, but Mr. Chamberlain always refused; the money was not thrown on the floor.

Mr. Wm. Powers, sworn, testified,—I had something to drink at Chamberlain's between the 1st and 14th of May; the bartender served me; it was paid for; I don't know where it was drawn from; I paid 15 cents for three of us; I had whiskey to drink; it was paid for; it was malt ale I drank.

To Mr. Pousssette,—I could not remember the date or day; Mr. Chamberlain refused me a drink on Saturday, 1st of May; I went again to Chamberlain's, but was refused by a boy who was tending the bar.

Mr. P. Cunningham—I was in Chamberlain's about the 3rd or 4th day of May; I had some beer, with the last witness; Jos. Martin, the bartender, served us; the beer was paid for; I paid for the last; it was the ordinary malt ale; he took the beer from a pump behind the bar; I think I asked the others to go in; I did not tell anyone that I had a drink at Chamberlain's till I was subpœnaed, and then I told Chamberlain's bartender.

Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q. C., counsel for the defendant, submitted that it was not proven that Martin was the clerk, servant, or agent of Chamberlain; and also that Mr. Chamberlain was not responsible for the unlawful acts of Martin, who had sold liquor contrary to express [illegible]

Mr. [illegible] said that when Chamberlain left the ale on draught within the reach of and under the care of his bartender he was responsible for his acts.

The magistrate found the defendant guilty and adjudged that he should pay the usual fine of $50 and costs.

Mr. Poussette objected that the defendant should not be compelled to pay the fees of witnesses who gave no evidence against him.

NUMBER EIGHT.

The case Queen vs. Thomas and Elizabeth Darcy, enlarged from Tuesday was next called.

Mr. Stratton, counsel for the defendants, explained to the court that their efforts to ascertain the whereabouts of the late bartender at the saloon were unsuccessful.

Byron Decker, testified,—I was called as a witness on Tuesday; I did not say that evening at Cavanagh's that the liquor I drank at Darcy's might have been ginger beer; I said it looked the same as any beer I ever tasted; I knew Thos. Tremnam; he abused me at Cavanagh's that night; I was paid witness fees, but refuse to state by whom.

Mr. Edwards stated that the fees had been paid by his direction.

Mr. Thos. Tremnam, testified,—I was not here when Mr. Decker gave evidence on Tuesday; I heard the witness state to Mr. Bowman in Cavanagh's that evening, that he could not tell the difference between Calcutt's ginger ale and malt beer; Decker also said he had been paid $1.50 for witness' fees by Mr. Flavelle; I went to Mr. Flavelle and asked for my fees, and he refused to pay me, remarking that if I had sworn correctly he would not have objected to giving me $10.

Mr. Darcy, testified,—Hunter came into my place on Saturday; he told me he had been subpœnaed to give evidence against me for selling liquor; he thought what he got was cider; I told him it could not have been cider as I had had none for months; I gave him a bottle of Calcutt's ginger ale; when he tasted the ginger ale he agreed that it was what he had had to drink; it is not intoxicating; I have sold no beer since 1st of April, if the bartender supplied beer it was not mine.

Mr. Stratton submitted that there should not be a verdict, holding that the evidence of Mrs. and Mr. Darcy and Mr. Tremnam should outweigh that of Decker.

The magistrate found the defendants guilty and adjudged that Mrs. Darcy, the proprietress should pay a fine $50 and costs.

NUMBER NINE.

The case of Queen vs. Morgan, charging A. P. Morgan, the defendant with a violation of the Scott Act was next called.

Mr. A. P. Morgan, the defendant, testified,—Prior to the 1st of May I kept an hotel on Hunter street, known as the Morgan House.

Mr. W. H. Moore, counsel for the defendant, objected that the defendant was not a proper witness, but the magistrate overruled his objection.

Mr. Morgan continued,—Up to the 1st of May I had a stock of liquor on sale; there are some intoxicating liquors on the premises now; that which was left over from the 1st of May—with the exception of that which was drank; there were eight hogsheads of beer; I drew none for sale whatever; I had eighteen gallons of whiskey left over after the 1st of May and two or three octaves of brandy, rum and gin, each holding from 18 to 22 gallons; there was some ginger wine, too; the liquor is still on the premises; it is in a cellar I did not conduct the Inspector to that cellar; I have not sold any intoxicating liquor since the 1st of May; my bartender might have.

Mr. Moore here objected that the witness was not compelled to give evidence that might tend to criminate himself.

The magistrate overruled the objection, remarking that he would not change his mind on the point until instructed by the courts.

Mr. Moore said he would certainly submit the questions at issue to the high court to decide.

Mr. Morgan:—I guess there was some liquor sold by the bartender; (the fire bell sounded and the court room was almost deserted in a jiffy.) I told the bartender not to sell the liquor; he had a boy that would climb hill to where the liquors were.

To Mr. Moore,—The bar was dismantled; all the intoxicating liquors were removed; I intended to return all the liquor, as I cannot sell it; the beer has been returned; I was in hopes the sale of wine and beer would be permitted; I will not sell, without a license; I warned my bartender not to sell; I think the bartender did sell liquor; I am satisfied he did; but not with my approval; on the morning of the 1st of May I first instructed the bartender not to sell liquor under any consideration, as I knew it would bring about trouble; I refused several parties myself.

Geo. Ball was called, but had not been in Morgan's since the 1st of May.

Edward Purvis testified,—I have been in Morgan's twice since the 1st of May; I got two bottles of ginger ale to drink; on another occasion I had a drink of lime juice and something else; I could not say if there was any intoxicating liquor in it; there was not a real good swallow in it; Mr. Pidgeon served me; oh, I don't know who served me the drink; I took the drink to be lime juice and bitters; I did not get any intoxicating liquor between the 1st and 14th of May.

John Jay, who recently acted as bartender for Mr. Morgan, and who was subpœnaed as a witness, not answering to his name, and the prosecution desiring that he should be called, the case was adjourned till to-morrow at 3 o'clock.

NUMBER TEN.

A second charge against Wm. Kennedy for violation of the Scott Act was called. Owing to the absence of the defendant, the case was enlarged till to-morrow at three o'clock.

The court then adjourned.

The bill to amend the law respecting the Northwest Territories was read a second time.

The House went into Committee of Supply and considered the immigration estimates until the adjournment.

DAVID DAVIS.

Judge of the Supreme Court, Senator and Vice-President.

Ex-Judge David Davis has been a big man in more than one sense. For nearly thirty years he occupied a seat on the bench, fifteen years of that time as a judge of the supreme court. During the quiet and dignity necessary to this position, he acquired a ponderosity which brought his weight past the 300-pound mark. But then the judge is built on a large body. He came of a stalwart family, who settled on the eastern shore of Maryland, where the future judge was born in 1815. He graduated from Kenyon college, Ohio, in 1832, studied law in Massachusetts and Connecticut, and when admitted to the bar began to practice at Bloomington, Ills. Speaking of this the judge said recently: "While going to college in the west, I got to see western people and the better chances in the west, so I settled in Illinois. When I got out there I think every member of the bar drank and gambled. Some of them were as brilliant men as ever you knew. I looked on awhile, and made up my mind I would neither drink nor gamble, and consequently I have survived a small host of men probably better entitled to live and to useful than myself. I did not smoke a cigar until I was pretty well advanced in life; indeed, only a few years ago. Perhaps my loss of flesh of late years is attributable to my stopping smoking, which I did for some time."

Mr. Davis entered politics in 1844 by being elected to the Illinois legislature. He was a member of the state constitutional convention of 1847, and was elected a circuit judge in 1848. In 1862 President Lincoln appointed him one of the judges of the United States supreme court, which position he held until 1877, when he resigned to succeed John A. Logan as United States senator from Illinois. Upon the death of President Garfield in 1881 Vice-President Arthur became the head of the government, and Judge Davis was chosen president of the senate. After the expiration of his senatorial term he married a young lady in North Carolina, and retired to private life in his old home in Bloomington, Ills. Some weeks ago he first complained of not feeling well. He began to lose flesh rapidly until he became but a shadow of his former self. Judge Davis leaves a record as a jurist and a statesman of which he [illegible] is justly proud.

THE LATE HON. L. S. HUNTINGTON.

Hon. Lucius Seth Huntington, a prominent character in Canadian political circles, died suddenly in New York on Wednesday. The cause of death was laryngitis complicated with congestion of the lungs.

The deceased was born at Compton on May 26th, 1827. He was of Puritan descent on both sides. The ancestor of the New England Huntingtons was originally from Norwich, England, and emigrated to Massachusetts in 1633. The grandfather of the deceased came to Canada about the beginning of the century, and settled on the Coaticook River, where he resided until his death. Mr. Huntington was called to the Bar of Lower Canada in 1853. In 1856 he started the Waterloo Advertiser, which, under his able and vigorous management, soon became a powerful influence in the affairs of the district. In 1860 he contested Shefford, but the contest resulting in a tie he failed to reach Parliament. He was, however, elected in the following year, and continued to represent the constituency until the general election of 1882. In 1863, on the reconstruction of Sanfield Macdonald's Ministry, he became an Executive Councillor, and Solicitor-General in the Macdonald-Dorion Administration. From 1867 to the fall of the Macdonald Government in 1873, he was a loyal supporter of the Opposition Chiefs.

The important and patriotic part played by Mr. Huntington in bringing about a change of Government at that time is matter of history. At the general election of 1872 it was apparent to the whole country that the Conservative Leaders were practising corruption on a most extensive scale. The sudden conversion of Sir Hugh Allen to a supporter of Sir Geo. Cartier's in Montreal excited grave suspicions. The granting of the Pacific Railway charter to Sir Hugh confirmed these suspicions in the minds of the great majority of the Canadian people. About the date of the opening of the new Parliament, Mr. Huntington came into the possession of information which satisfied him that Sir John Macdonald had sold the Pacific Railway charter to Sir Hugh Allen for money to buy up the electorate. Proceeding upon his information, on March 31st, 1873, he gave notice that he would move for a committee of inquiry into matters generally affecting the Pacific Railway, with a view to the conviction of the traffickers in the charter. On the 2nd of April he moved his motion in the House. It was rejected by a vote of 107 to 76. Subsequently a Committee of Inquiry was appointed, but it never got the length of taking evidence, and was finally succeeded by a Royal Commission. In the meantime the Allan-McMullen correspondence was published, and produced perhaps the greatest political sensation in Canadian history. The work of the Judicial Commission being done, Parliament re-assembled in October, 1873, and after a heated and protracted debate closed by an overwhelming summing up of the evidence by Mr. Blake. Mr. Huntington enjoyed the triumph of the successful completion of the great work he had so courageously undertaken, in the resignation of the Government on the 5th of November. In December he was given a banquet at Montreal in recognition of his efforts to uncover the details of the great political crime involved in the sale of the Pacific Railway charter. He was sworn in a member of the Privy Council on January 20, 1874, and held the office of President of the Council until October, 1875, when he became Postmaster-General. This office he held until the change of Government in 1878. During the campaign preceding the election of 1878 Mr. Huntington spoke at many points in Ontario, and everywhere his noble presence, his pure and persuasive oratory, and easy grasp of public questions fascinated and delighted the people. Canada has had few more finished orators than Lucius Seth Huntington. He was defeated in the election of 1882, and has since resided chiefly in New York. In his death Canada loses a politician whose loyalty to the country and a desire for the promotion of its interests, overbore every other consideration.

A Great Musical Treat.

The maid with smiles so sunny bright,
The maid with beaming step and light,
The maid with radiant hair."

MADCAP MAY.

Between the latter and Dovercourt lie the broad estuary of the Rivers Orwell and Stour, and the harbor and towns of Harwich.

At a point about midway between Dovercourt and Harwich there is a low, headland, from which there has been built out into the sea a kind of breakwater or rather groin for the protection of the harbor of Harwich. Standing at the end of this groin, one may have the water at one's left hand as calm as a mill-pond, while there will be a perfect little tempest raging at one's right, with only some five or six feet of solid stone between the two.

From seaward comes the monotonous boom! boom! boom! of the bell-buoy on the bar at the entrance of the harbor, and its ominous clang reminds one incessantly that, however placid and safe it may be in the harbor, there is storm and danger enough outside.

Sometimes this groin is under water, and inaccessible; but generally it is possible to get out to the end of it, where strong seats have been fixed for the benefit of those who appreciate the luxury of having water on three sides of them, without the least risk of having their retreat cut off.

The currents are dangerously strong at the point of the breakwater, and it is perilous for any small craft or canoe to tempt to round it without going some distance out to sea, though the most fragile craft ever floated could lie close to the sloping stonework on the harbor or Harwich side without the least danger.

It was a hot, hazy afternoon. The Spa was filled with brightly dressed people, who seemed to have deserted the parade and the sands for such shade as they could find there.

A band is playing in the grounds, and Madcap May sitting comfortably in her canoe, with her paddle at rest, listens dreamily to the witching strains, and thinks how much sweeter the music sounds here on the water than it does close to the performers.

Her canoe is lying almost opposite the Spa, and not a hundred yards from the breakwater, and she is enjoying the pleasant sensation derived from the slight rocking of the canoe, and the notes of the distant music, when a shrill piercing shriek comes through the air and makes every listener start with sudden alarm.

May looks about her anxiously to see from whence the cry of terror comes.—Then she sees upon the end of the breakwater a woman frantically waving her arms, and screaming, while two terrified children cling to her skirts.

Their faces are turned in the direction of Naugard Fort, and they are evidently trying to call attention to some person or thing that had fallen into the water.

Some of the people of the Spa grounds hear the cries of distress, for what wind there is, is in that direction, and madly run along the sea-wall towards the breakwater, but it will take the quickest runner a full ten minutes to reach it, and traverse its entire length; and, even when there, what help can any one give? It would be madness for the strongest swimmer to throw himself into the seething, whirling water at this point. One moment's pause and then May makes straight for the spot. She knows her danger well, and in the brief moments that elapse between the alarm and her reaching the scene of peril, she thinks of what she has to lose, and of who will be left behind if she perish.

There is her father. He will mourn for her, but her brother Frank will comfort him—and there is another; but she knows in her heart that either of them would risk his life just as she is about to risk hers, so she dismissed from her mind all thought of hesitation.

A few vigorous strokes, and she is within speaking distance of the people on the breakwater, and she calls out—

"What is the matter? Tell me!"

"Freddy! Freddy has fallen into the water! My child! My child!"

And Mrs. Thorrold, for it was she, held up her arms, shrieking like a mad woman.

May's face was very pale; a clear steadfast look came into her eyes; little Freddy was drowning, and she must save him or lose her own life in the effort.

A few seconds later, and she is on the spot; at the mercy of the swirling current, it would seem, but as she is swept past the place where the child was last seen, he rises again to the surface, and she reaches over and clutches him.

"Well done! Well done!" is shouted by the lookers on; but their exultation is premature, the girl has grasped the child firmly, but what she feared, what she has prepared for has happened, she has overbalanced the canoe, and she and little Freddy are both in the water.

She had just presence of mind enough to throw herself out when she found she must go, and grasp the canoe with her left hand in the hope that the tiny craft would bear the strain long enough to allow time for help to reach her, and here she floats, holding Freddy in one hand and clinging to the canoe with the other, while the bell from the floating buoy booms solemnly as if ringing her knell.

"Manned, boat on!" is shouted wildly by the spectators on the breakwater, while people in boats from the Harwich side are pulling lustily towards the scene of the accident, though they only have a very hazy idea of what has happened.

Counting by minutes, and not one had been lost in coming to May Ralston's aid, the time had been very short indeed, but to her it seemed as though the agony of a lifetime would never be at an end. Her strength was almost gone, and the child seemed to grow heavier every moment. Her left arm was numb with the strain of holding the canoe, and she had not strength to turn it over and lift little Freddy into it.

So here she hung at the mercy of the current, which had already carried her several yards beyond the end of the breakwater. It was upon the safety of the child that her whole thoughts were centred.

Her arm was tired and numb, and seemed as though it must fall powerless by her side; but if Freddy's face were not kept above the water, of what use would her own peril have been?

Her very terror lest she should loosen her hold on the child increases her exhaustion, and her ideas become vague and confused. She is dimly conscious of a babel of voices and the rushing sound of the waters; and then, with one convulsive sob, she realizes that help is close by, and she has just strength enough to murmur—"Take him!" Her eyes watch the child grasped and lifted into the boat, and she knows no more.

"She was nearly gone," is the verdict passed upon her as tender hands drag her tenderly into the boat. They carry her to Orwell House, where everything that skill and affection can suggest is done for her recovery.

She came back to life slowly and painfully, and the first thing she was positively conscious of, was a small curly-headed boy of five clambering over her bed and nestling in her arms, he said—

"I'm your little boy now, Miss May; mamma says so, and she says, please will you forgive me, my dear—"

Two days later May's father received he had heard of his daughter's noble and wonderfully timed deed.

And he brought with him a young lieutenant in the navy, who had evidently known our heroine at some earlier period of his life, and who, the first moment he found her alone, clasped her in his arms, exclaiming—"Your father has consented, May."

This will, no doubt, account for the very sudden departure of Captain Ferris and Mr. Smythe from Dovercourt, and also for the wedding that took place at the old church a few weeks later.

May is as happy as any bride can be; but she will always be Madcap May to those who know her.

MEASURE THE BABY.

We measured the riotous baby
Against the cottage wall—
A lily grew at the threshold
And the boy was just as tall;
A sprig of rosemary,
With sprigs of purple and gold,
And a heart like jeweled chalice
The fragrant dew to hold.

With one the blackbird whistle
High up in the old red trees,
And to and fro at the window
The full rose nodded her bees,
And where one pair feet of the baby
Were never a moment still—
Snatching at stems and shadow
That stepped on the window sill.

His eyes were wide as blue bells,
His mouth like a flower unblown—
Two little bare feet like funny white mice,
Peeped out (coquettish enough now)
And we measured, with a thrill of rapture,
That had yet a touch of pain,
When June rolls round with her roses,
We'll measure the baby again.

Ah me! in a darkened chamber,
With the sunshine shut away,
Through tears that fell like bitter rain,
We measured our baby to-day;
And the little bare feet that we'd kissed,
And kissed as a budding rose,
In the hush of a long repose.

Up from the dainty pillow,
White as the risen dawn,
The fair little face lay smiling,
With the light of heaven thereon;
And the dear little hands, like rose leaves
Dropped from the rose, lay still,
Never to pluck at the sunshine
That crept to the shrouded sill.

We measured the sleeping baby,
With ribbons white as snow,
For the shining rosewood casket
That waited him below;
And out of the darkened chamber,
We went with a childless moan—
To the height of the sinless angels
Our little one has grown.

Home Rule Rumours.

Orangemen Organizing Opposition.

LONDON, May 20.—The Orangemen of this city, through a special committee, have approved of a manifesto which will be issued to the various lodges of their brethren throughout the world, appealing for funds to oppose the Home Rule, by creating a strong Protestant party in Parliament and assisting the Loyalists of Ulster. Lords Rossmore and Hill will act as treasurers of the fund. Major Sanderson, M. P. for North Armak, is secretary of the committee.

A "LOYALIST" MEETING.

A "Loyalist" meeting was held last night at Wolverhampton. A number of Irish Radicals were present and frequently interrupted the proceedings, creating considerable disorder. E. J. Sanderson, M. P., for North Armagh, denied that the Irish Loyalists had appealed to the English army for assistance, but he hoped that if a struggle occurred the army would hold aloof and see fair play. A resolution was adopted by the meeting condemning Gladstone's Irish policy.

A MINISTERIAL QUESTIONER.

Dr. Evans, President of the Irish Wesleyan Conference, addressing a meeting of Loyalists at Bristol, asked whether, in the event of a rising in Ulster, the Scottish and other Wesleyan regiments would be sent to shoot down the Presbyterians of Ulster because the latter had a loyal love for the Queen.

INDICATION OF STRONG FEELING.

DUBLIN, May 20.—The United Ireland declares that there are Nationalists sufficient in any town of Ulster to whip the rat tag and bobtail Orangemen into good behavior, provided the police stand aside.

"El Padre" Cigars.

The Dictionary of Commerce, Encyclopædia of Anecdotes, The Classics, etc., etc. Also a large miscellaneous line to choose from, all of which we are offering at rock bottom figures. So members of our "Library Association" lose no time, but join us now, and reap the benefit of our close buying in all the large markets. Samples to be seen in the Dominion Express Co's office where all information may be required. Call soon, as our time is limited. S. U. Nelson & Co., of Toronto.

SATURDAY, MAY 22, 1886.

Police Court.

The Liquor Cases Continued, and Three More Convictions.

The police court opened at five o'clock yesterday evening, Police Magistrate Dumble presiding.

NUMBER TEN.

The magistrate announced that Mr. W. H. Moore, counsel for Mr. Wm. Kennedy, admitted the second charge preferred against him, and also that he found the defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $50 and costs.

NUMBER ELEVEN.

The adjourned case of Queen vs. Morgan was next called.

John Jayes, who failed to put in an appearance on Thursday, answered when called.

The magistrate gave Mr. Jayes a lecturing for absenting himself from court when subpœnaed, but did not inflict any penalty upon him owing to the circumstances in which the witness was placed.

Mr. Jayes was sworn and testified that he was, until within a few days, bartender for Mr. A. P. Morgan, and admitted selling intoxicating liquors between the 1st and 14th of May. He had charge of the liquor, but sold it contrary to Mr. Morgan's orders to men staying at the hotel.

The magistrate found the defendant guilty and imposed upon him the usual fine of $50 and costs.

The court then adjourned.

NUMBER TWELVE.

Queen vs. Calcutt, charging the defendant, Mr. H. Calcutt, with two violations of the Scott Act, by selling in the village of Ashburnham, between the 1st and 9th, and 9th and 14th of May, intoxicating liquor in less quantity than eight gallons, was called.

Mr. E. B. Edwards asked that the information be made to cover from the 1st to the 14th of May.

Mr. John Burnham, counsel for the defendant, agreed to the amendment.

The magistrate amended the information, and allowed the second charge to be withdrawn on payment of costs.

Mr. Burnham, for Mr. Calcutt, admitted the charge as amended. He stated that Mr. Calcutt had had hopes that some special legislation would be passed which would allow him to conduct his brewery as heretofore.

The magistrate imposed the usual fine of $50 and costs, one-half of the fine to be paid to the informer and the other half to the county.

The court then adjourned till Tuesday morning.

Items of Interest to Workingmen.

The New Jersey Legislature has enacted the arbitration law.

Cincinnati, Ohio, has granted its employees ten hours' pay for eight hours' work.

Eighty-four master painters of Boston have agreed to the eight-hour system, and about 750 men have returned to work.

The shoe industry at Dover, N. H., gives employment to some 1,200 hands with a weekly pay-roll of over $10,000.

In the brickyards at Concord, N. H., the men are forced to work from 4 a.m. till 8 p. m., for $16 and board per month.

The Columbus Iron Works Company, of Reading, Pa., has conceded the advance demanded by the men and the strike in those works is ended.

Resolutions of sympathy, together with offers of financial support if required, are daily pouring in to the Executive Committee of the striking street car employees of Toronto.

The Washburn & Moen Barbed Wire Company, of Worcester, Mass., has imported a number of Portuguese to take the place of the men now out on strike.

Before the Congressional Committee at St. Louis last week one witness testified that he supposed the expense incurred by the K. of L. during the strike would be at least, $1,000,000.

The State of Massachusetts employs over 700 convicts in making shoes notwithstanding that there are 1,000 honest shoemakers unemployed within the borders of that State.

The Knights of Labor of Troy, N.Y., have purchased the State Armory in that city at a cost of $13,000. The order is also taking steps with the object of building halls in some twenty cities and towns in the State of New Jersey.

The Local Executive Board of the Knights of Labor in Lewiston, Maine, recently issued the following, "As we know the parties who are supplying some of our members with liquor, we request them to stop at once and save further trouble."

At the instance of the Labourers' Protective Union, of Newark, N. J., the Street Commissioner of that city has been instructed to discharge all men who are not residents of the city, and the Labourers' Union was notified to furnish the Commissioner with a list of those so unemployed who are non-residents.

Imperial Permission.

LONDON, May 20.—Lord Granville introduced in the House of Lords last night a bill respecting the representation in the Canadian Parliament of the territories belonging to the Dominion, but not included in any province.

The Agricultural College.

By a change made last session in the Act respecting the Ontario Agricultural College, each county in the Province has the right, through its Council, to send one student to the college, to whom entrance and tuition shall be free for a full course. The only condition required of the person chosen for this privilege by the Council is that he shall have resided two years with his parents on a farm—the object being to provide against the nomination of persons who have no knowledge whatever of agricultural affairs. It is likely that nominations under this provision of the Act will be made at the June session of councils, and doubtless, it will be in order for any who desire to be honored with the favor to make their wish known by application through the clerk of their County Council.

Upholding the Scott Act.

The Following Memorial Explains Itself.

To the Hon. the Commons (and Senate) of Canada in Parliament Assembled.

The undersigned, as representing the Synod of Toronto and Kingston, of the Presbyterian Church respectfully show—

That they represent a Synod, consisting of two hundred and fourteen ministers, and upwards of three hundred congregations and mission stations, and that their attention has been for some time called to the extensive and alarming evils of intemperance, and to the widely spread misery which this debasing vice produces as well as to the grave national dangers to which it exposes the Dominion.

That they regard the "Canada Temperance Act" of 1878 as the best available measure, if properly enforced, for the legal suppression of the terrible traffic, and therefore strongly deprecate the attempts that are in the course of being made, to practically destroy the measure by seeking to allow the sale of wine and beer under its provisions.

That they therefore respectfully request your honorable body to make no change in the aforesaid Act, except in the direction of providing more effective means for enforcing it and for thus more completely suppressing the traffic in intoxicating liquors.

And your petitioners as in duty bound will ever pray.

WM. BENNETT, JOHN GRAY, D. D.,
Moderator of Synod. Clerk of Synod.

Praising the Flower Queen.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

Dear Sir,—On Friday evening I attended a rehearsal of the "Flower Queen" in St. Andrew's church school room, and must say I was surprised to find so many good voices amongst the chorus of young ladies and children. They have evidently been well trained, keeping excellent time, reflecting great credit upon their teacher, Mr. Gallelly. Some of the solo voices were remarkably good. I am sure that with the aid of an orchestra, the young ladies will give a delightful entertainment. It speaks well for the musical teachers of Peterboro that so many fresh young voices can be gathered together. If vocal music were taught in the Public Schools as a part of the regular course of daily study, I am convinced that Peterboro would have good reason to be proud of the vocal capacities of her children. Those sable children will soon grow up into manhood and womanhood and there is no reason in the world why Peterboro' in a few years should not be able to boast of a chorus of three or four hundred strong. Every church choir in the city would be strengthened and Peterboro' would become as famous for her musical people as she is at present for her business push and energy.

Remain, dear sir,
Yours respectfully
L. SEWARD,
Organist, Brockville.

Appreciated Abroad.

The morning Dr. Crevier, V.S., shipped a case of medicine to Scottsville, Michigan, for a horse owned by Mr. J. B. Boyd, a former resident of this county. Dr. Crevier had successfully treated a horse for Mr. Boyd when he lived here, and the latter having a horse similarly affected, wrote for medicine to Dr. Crevier.

Ready for the Trade.

Messrs. Hubbard, Davidson & Co. have their splendidly equipped and fitted roller mills in full running order, and they are now ready to supply the public of Peterborough with the best grades of roller flour of all kinds. None superior made in Canada. All orders promptly delivered. The firm requests the favor of your order.

Attractive China Hall.

China Hall has put on the streets a beautiful delivery wagon, in keeping with the artistic character of the establishment. It is the finest product of Porter Bros., and does credit to their establishment. The platform gear is painted a rich wine color and the box a bottle green, enriched with gilding, and the name of China Hall in golden letters.

Business and the Scott Act.

Twelve convictions for breach of the Scott Act! The sum of $600 paid in fines! What a frightful waste of money! What a terrible example of the depravity of appetite that leads men to indulge it at such great risks! There is only one thing on earth that equals the desire for drink, and that is the opposite of the public for the cheap clothing to be found at the store of Gough, the wonderful cheap man. There is no law to prevent his selling goods at from ten to fifty per cent. cheaper than they can be got elsewhere. Clothing for men, clothing for youths, clothing for boys, and gents' furnishings in unending variety and at rock bottom prices at Gough's Cheap Store, Arcade Building, Peterborough.

Death of the Late John Wilson.

The funeral of the late John Wilson, who died from being crushed by a roller on the farm of Mr. J. Jackson, of Emily, took place yesterday and was largely attended by friends of the deceased. Mr. Wilson was well known in this neighborhood, having been a resident of Smith for many years. While engaged in rolling a field for Mr. Jackson, and in turning his team, he backed them slightly. The lines, which were trailing behind the roller, were caught by the roller, pulling the horses still further back. Mr. Wilson went behind the roller to pull out the lines, when the horses again backed, running the heavy roller completely over him. Mr. Jackson called him out from behind the horses and called some neighbors to send for medical assistance, which was unnecessary, as he expired a few minutes after the accident. Mr. Mervin was sent for, who removed the remains of his uncle to his residence in town, from which the funeral took place.

Ashburnham Improvements.

In many respects this village is going rapidly forward and the hand of improvement has been particularly busy on Sophia street. The street has been graded and a new walk laid from Lake street east as far as where Mr. James Long has built two fine detached tenement houses. These are situated on a lot with 76 feet frontage and are approached by neat steps from the street, the rest of the front being in the form of a terrace neatly sodded and with no deforming fence. The houses themselves are neat two story red brick structures, well and conveniently built. Each house contains, on the ground floor, a hall, parlor, connecting with the dining room in the rear, with china closet, kitchen with pantry, summer kitchen, wood shed, cistern, etc., under cover. The second floor contains a hall lighted with stained glass windows at the landing of the stairs, and four airy bedrooms and servant's bedroom, all with closets. Each house has a verandah in front with a French window opening from the parlor. The view from all the windows of each house is delightful, the hill on which they stand commanding the whole town and village and the surrounding country as far as the eye can reach. These houses are well finished, convenient and will make most desirable residences. They will be ready for occupation about the first of June.

THE BATTLE FOR BREAD

DR. TALMAGE DISCOURSES ON THE LABOR QUESTION.

His Advice to Workmen Who Are on Strike, Workmen Who Have Employment, and Workmen Who Have No Employment—Anarchy Cannot Prevail.

BROOKLYN, May 16.—Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D. D., to-day began a series of Sabbath morning discourses in the Brooklyn Tabernacle on the all-absorbing labor question. He discusses the following subjects in the series: "The Battle for Bread," "The Rights of Capital and Labor," "The Hardships of the Working Classes," "How Employers and Employes Ought to Treat Each Other," and "The Greatest Foe of Labor," five in all.

The opening hymn of the service this morning begins:

Arm of the Lord, awake! awake!
Put on thy strength, the nations shake!
And let the world adoring see
Triumphs of mercy wrought by Thee.

After expounding appropriate passages of scripture Dr. Talmage gave out the text Genesis i. 2: "The earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters." Dr. Talmage said:

Out in the sea there hung a great chunk of rock and mud, and water and shell, thousands of miles in diameter, more thousands of miles in circumference. A great mass of ugliness, confusion and distortion, uselessness, ghastliness and horror. It seemed like a great commons on which smashed up worlds were dumped. It was what poetry and prose, scientist and Christian agree in calling chaos. Out of that black, rough, shapeless egg our beautiful world was hatched. God stood over that original anarchy of elements and said: "Atlantic ocean, you go right away and lie down there! Pacific ocean, you sleep there! Caucasian range of mountains, you stand there! Mount Washington, you be sentinel there! Mont Blanc, you put on your coronet of crystal there! Mississippi, you march there and Missouri you marry it there!" And He gathered in His almighty hands the sand and mud and rock, and rolled and heaved and moulded and dented and compressed them into shape, and then dropped them in four places; and the one was Asia, and another was Europe, and another Africa, and another America, North and South.

That original chaos was like the confusion and anarchy into which the human race ever and anon has a tendency to plunge. God has said: "Let there be light of law, light of justice, light of love!" "No! No!" say anarchic voices; "let there be darkness, let there be out-throatery, let there be eternal embroglio, let there be chaos."

Such a social condition many are expecting because of the overshadowing contest between Labor and Capital; there has not been an intelligent man or woman during the last two months who has not asked the question: "Shall we have bloody revolution in this country?" I have heard many answer the question in the affirmative; I answer it in the negative.

There may be, and there have been, terrific outbursts of popular frenzy; but there will be no anarchy; for the church of Christ, the mightiest and grandest institution of the planet, shall, laying hold of the strength of the eternal God, come out, and, putting one hand on the shoulder of Labor, and the other on the shoulder of Capital, say: "I come in the name of the God who turned chaos into magnificent order to settle this dispute by the principles of eternal justice and kindness; and now I command you take your hands off of each other's throats." The only impartial institution on this subject is the church, for it is made of both capitalists and laborers, and was founded by Christ, who was a carpenter, and so has a right to speak for all laborers; and who owns the earth and the solar system and the universe, and so can speak for the capitalists.

As for myself, as an individual, I have a right to be heard. My father was a farmer, and my grandfather, and they had to work for a living, and every dollar I own I earned by the sweat of my own brow and I owe no man anything, and if any obligation has escaped my memory come and present your bill when I descend from this pulpit and I will pay you on the spot. I am going to say all that I think and feel on this subject and without any reservation, asking your prayers that I may be divinely directed in this important series of Sabbath morning discourses.

That labor has grievances I will show you plainly before I get through this course of sermons. That capital has had outrage committed upon it I will make evident beyond dispute. But there are right and wrong ways of attempting a reformation.

When I say there will be no return to social chaos, I do not underrate the awful peril of these times. We must admit that the tendency is toward revolution. Great throngs gather at some points of disturbance in almost all our cities. Rail trains hurled over the rocks. Workmen beaten to death within sight of their wives and children. Factories assailed by mobs. The faithful police of our cities exhausted by vigilance night and day. In some cases the military called out. The whole country asking the question: "What next?" An earthquake has with one hand taken hold of this continent at the Pacific beach, and with the other hand has taken hold of the continent at the Atlantic beach, and shaken it till every manufacturing, commercial, agricultural, literary and religious interest has trembled. A part of Belgium, one great riot. Russia and Germany and Austria hearing their workmen exist only by standing armies so vast that they are eating out the life of those nations. The daily lament that Ireland is in peace because she is hoping for home rule and the triumph of Gladstonism. The labor quarrel is hemispheric, aye, a world-wide quarrel and the whole tendency is toward anarchy.

But one way in which we may avoid anarchy is by letting the people know what anarchy is. We must have the wreck pointed out in order to alter that of anarchy is abolition of right of property. It makes your store and your house and your money and your family mine, and mine yours. It is wholesale robbery. It is every man's hand against every other man. It is arson and murder and rapine and lust and death triumphant. It means no law, no church, no decency, no rights, no happiness, no God. It makes hell let loose on earth, and society a combination of devils incarnate. It means extermination of everything good and the coronation of everything infamous. Do you want it? Will you have it? Before you let it get a good foothold in America take a good look at the dragon. Look at Paris, where for a few days it held sway, the gutters red with blood and the within down the street a stepping between corpses, the archbishop shot as he tries to quell the mob, and every man and woman armed with knife or pistol or bludgeon. Let this country take one good, clear, scrutinizing look at anarchy before it is admitted, and it will never be allowed to set up its reign in our borders. No, there is too much good sense dominant in this country to permit anarchy. All good people will, together with the officers of civil government, cry "peace!" and it will be re-established. Within six months there will be a kindlier understanding between Labor and Capital than has ever been known in this country. They have had demonstrated as never before, their absolute dependence upon each other.

Meanwhile my brotherly counsel is to three classes of laborers:

First, to those who are at work: Stick to it. Do not amid the excitement of these times drop your employment, hoping that something better will turn up. He who gives up work now, whether he be railroad man, mechanic, farmer, clerk or any other kind of employe, will probably give it up for starvation. You may not like the line of steamers that you are sailing in, but do not jump overboard in the middle of the Atlantic. Be a little earlier than usual at your spot of work while this turmoil lasts, and attend to your occupation with a little more assiduity than has ever characterized you.

My brotherly counsel, in the second place, is to those who have resigned work. It is best for you and best for everybody to go back immediately. Do not wait to see what others do. Get on board the train of national prosperity before it starts again, for start it will, start soon and start mightily. Last year in the city of New York there were forty-five general strikes and one hundred and seventy-seven shop strikes. Successful strikes, ninety-seven; strikes lost, thirty-four; strikes pending at the time the statistics were made, fifty-nine; strikes compromised, thirty-two. Would you like me to tell you who will make the most out of the present almost universal strike? I can and will. Those will make the most out of it who go first to work.

My third word of brotherly advice is to another class of laborers, namely, those who have been a long time out of work. How many of them! Before this present trouble began there were nearly two million people in this country out of work, and could not get work. I have for the last ten years been busy much of the time in trying to get people work who asked for it. I have worn myself out again and again, as many of you have, to get employment for those who besought it. In some cases we succeeded, in others failed. My brotherly counsel is to the nearly two million people who could not get work before this trouble began, and who have themselves and their families to support, to go now and take the vacated places. Go in and take those places a million and a half strong. Green hands you may be now, but you will not be green hands long. My sentiment is full liberty for all who want to strike to do so, and full liberty for all who want to take the vacated places. Other industries will open for those who are now taking a vacation, for we have only opened the outside door of this continent, and there is room in this country for eight hundred million people, and for each one of them a home and a livelihood and a God.

So, however others may feel about this excitement as wide as the continent, I am not scared a bit. The storm will hush. Christ will put his foot upon it as upon agitated Galilee. As at the beginning, chaos will give place to order as the spirit of God moves upon the waters. But hear it, workingmen of America! Your first step toward light and betterment of condition will be an assertion of your individual independence from the dictation of your fellow workmen. You are a free man, and let no organization come between you and your best interest. Do not let any man or any body of men, tell you where you shall work, or where you shall not work, when you shall work or when you shall not work. If a man wants to belong to a labor organization, let him belong. If he does not want to belong to a labor organization, let him have perfect liberty to stay out. You own yourself. Let no man put a manacle on your hand or foot or head or heart.

I belong to a ministerial association that meets once a week. I love all the members very much. We may help each other in a hundred ways, but when that association shall tell me to quit my work and go somewhere else, that I must stop right away because a brother minister has been badly treated down in Texas, I will say to that ministerial association: "Get thee behind me, Satan!" Furthermore, I have a right to resign my pastorate of this church and say to the people: "I decline to work for you any longer. I am going. Good-by." But I have no right, after I have quit this pulpit, to linger around the doors on Sunday mornings and evenings with a shotgun to intimidate or hinder the minister who comes to take my place. I may quit my place and continue to be a gentleman, but when I interfere with my successor in this pulpit I become a criminal and deserve nothing better than soup in a tin bowl in Sing Sing penitentiary. Here is a statement that I would have every laborer put in his memorandum book or paste in his hat, and every newspaper put at the head of its columns. There are now about twelve million people in this country receiving wages and about six hundred thousand belonging to organizations that control their labor. I would have all the six hundred thousand do as they please, and I would have all the other eleven million four hundred thousand do as they please. You will admit that the six hundred thousand in such organizations ought not to control the eleven million four hundred thousand laborers not in them. Your first duty, O laboring man, is to your family. Let no one but Almighty God dictate to you how you shall support them. Work when you please, where you please, at what you please and allow no one for a hundred millionth part of a second to interfere with your right. When we emerge from the present unhappiness, as we soon will, we shall find many tyrannies broken and Labor and Capital will march shoulder to shoulder.

This day I declare the mutual dependence of Labor and Capital. An old tentmaker put it just right—I mean Paul—when he declared: "The eye cannot say to the hand, I have no need of thee." You have examined

Fortye & Phelan

(Successors to Melville Miller.)

Wheels, a thousand bands, a thousand levers, a thousand pulleys, but all controlled by one great water wheel, all [illegible] that if you jarred one part you jarred all the parts. Well, society is a great piece of mechanism, a thousand wheels, a thousand pulleys, a thousand levers, but all controlled by one great and ever-revolving force—the wheel of God's providence. So thoroughly is society balanced and adjusted, that if you harm one part you harm all the parts. The professions intermingle, all the trades interdependent, [illegible] labor interdependent, as the [illegible] of the valley is a foundation on the hill, and the man who breaks cobblestones at the foot of the hill, affects each other's misfortune or prosperity. Dives cannot ride Lazarus without hurting his own flesh; Trudy who threw Shadrach into the furnace got their own frame scorched and blackened. No such thing as independence. Smite society among the rocks and you smite the entire community. Or to fall back on the old tent maker's figure, what if the eye should say: "I am overseer of this physical anatomy; I am independent of all the other members; if there is anything I despise it is those miserable and loathsome fingers." While if the hand should say: "I am both workman and I am independent of all the other members; look at the callous in my palm and the knots of my knuckles; if there is anything I hate it is the human eye, seated under the dome of the forehead, doing nothing but look!" Now, we come in this morning to break up that quarrel, and we say: "Oh, silly eye, how soon you would swim in death if you had not the hand to support and defend you. Oh, silly hand, you would be a mere fumbler in the darkness if it were not for the human eye." The eye cannot say unto the hand: "I have no need of you."

Relief will come to the working classes of this country through a better understanding between Capital and Labor. Before this contest goes much further it will be found that their interests are identical; what helps one helps both; what injures one injures both. Show me any point in the world's history of the thousand years when Capital was prospered and Labor oppressed, or where Labor was prospered and Capital oppressed. What is the state of things now? Labor at the wits' end to get bread; Capital at its wits' end to pay the rates and to keep the store and factory running. Show me any point in the last fifty years where Capital was getting large accumulation, and I will show you the point at which Labor was getting large wages. Show me a point at any time in the last fifty years where Labor was getting high wages, and I will show you the point where Capital was making large profits. Until the brack of doom there will be no relief for the working classes until there is a better understanding between Labor and Capital and this war ends. Every speech that Capital makes against Labor is an embarrassment of our national prosperity. Every speech that Labor makes against Capital is an adjournment of our national prosperity. When the Capital of the country mistrusts Labor, it is the eye cursing the hand. When Labor maligns Capital it is the hand cursing the eye. The capitalists of the country so far as I know them, are successful laborers. If the capitalists in this house to-day would draw their gloves, you would see the broken finger nail, the scar of an old blister, here and there a stiff second finger joint. The great publishers of New York and Philadelphia, so far as I know them, were bookbinders or printers originally. The carriage manufacturers of the country used to sandpaper the wagon bodies in the wheelwright's shop. On the other hand, you will find in all our great establishments taken on wages who used to employ their one hundred and five hundred hands.

Peter Cooper was a glassmaker. No one begrudged him his millions of dollars, for he built Cooper Institute and swung open its doors for every poor man's son, and said to the day laborer: "Send your boy up to my institute if you want him to have a splendid education." And a young man of this church was the other day walking in Greenwood cemetery and he saw two young men putting flowers on the grave of Peter Cooper. My friend supposed the young men were relatives of Peter Cooper and decorated his grave for that reason. "No," they said, "we put these flowers on his grave because it was through him we got our education." Abraham Van Nest was a harness maker in New York. Through economy and industry and skill he got a great fortune. He gave away to help others hundreds of thousands of dollars. I shall never forget the scene when I, a green country lad, stopped at his house, and after passing the evening with him he came to the door and came outside and said: "Here, De Witt, is fifty dollars to get books with. Don't say anything about it." And I never did till the good old man was gone. The wealthy men of the Twentieth century are in the last fourteen years of the Nineteenth century, sitting with their feet on the shuttle, or standing up swinging the pickax, or doing some kind of hard work, and from the same chances are to come the philosophers and poets and orators. Henry Clay was "the Millboy of the Slashes." Hugh Miller, a stonemason; Columbus, a weaver; Bailey, a soap boiler; Arkwright, a barber; the learned Bloomfield, a shoemaker; Hogarth, an engraver of pewter plate, and Horace Greeley started life in New York with ten dollars and seventy-five cents in his pocket.

The distance between Capital and Labor is not a great gulf over which is swung a Niagara suspension bridge, it is only a step and the laborers here will cross over and become capitalists. Would to God they would shake hands while they are crossing, these from one side and those from the other side.

The combatants in this great war between Capital and Labor will not have it. It is the hand cursing the eye, or the eye cursing the hand. Where is their [illegible] in the hand? No. Is railroad stock? No. Their muscles, their nerves, their bones, their mechanical skill, their physical health, are the highest kind of capital. The man who has two feet, and two ears, and two eyes, and two fingers, owns a machinery that puts Vulcan, Iron Cortlet engine and all the railroad rolling stock, and all the carpets and organs and other [illegible] of the world. Down with the flag of truce this morning between these combatants. I demand a cessation of hostilities between Labor and Capital. What is bad for one is good for both. What is bad for one is bad for both.

Again, relief will come to the working classes of this country through co-operative associations. I am not now thinking of trades unions. We may hereafter discuss that question. But I refer to that plan by which laborers become their own capitalists, using their earnings and [illegible] they are carrying on [illegible] In England and Wales there are 700 co-operative associations with three hundred thousand members, with a capital of [illegible] dollars' business in the year to the amount of $97,000,000. In Troy, N. Y., there was a co-operative [illegible] association. It worked well long enough to give an idea of what could be accomplished when the experiment is fully developed. Thomas Hughes, one of the [illegible] of the English parliament, declared: "Co-operation is the one and only solution of this question; it is [illegible] which [illegible] abiest and the most brilliant friend of the working man; Lord Derby, John Stuart Mill, [illegible] their lifetime to the study of this question, all favor co-operative association.

The principle was illustrated in Ireland. One day a mail coach traveler found a man standing in the water repairing a dam. "Are you working by yourself?" inquired the traveler. "Yes," was the answer. "Where is your steward?" "We have no steward" "Who is your overseer?" "We have no overseer." "Who pays you?" "We pay one another." "Then who told you to do this work?" "The committee." "Who is the committee?" "Some of the members." "What members do you mean?" asked the visitor. "The plowmen and laborers who are appointed by us as a committee. I belong to the new system."

You say that there have been great failures in that direction. I admit it. Every great movement at the start is a failure—the application of steam power a failure, electro-telegraphy a failure, railroading a failure—but after a while the world's chief successes. I hear somebody say: "What is absurd to talk of [illegible] to put [illegible] this co-operative association when men can hardly get enough to eat and wear and take care of their families." I reply: "Put into my hand the money spent in the last five years in this country by the laboring classes for rum and tobacco, and I will start a co-operative institution of monetary power that will surpass any financial institution in the United States."

Again: I remark that relief will come to the working classes through more thorough discovery on the part of employers that it is best for them to let their employes know just how matters stand. The most of the capitalists to-day are making less than 4 per cent., less than 5 per cent., less than 6 per cent. on their investments. Here and there is an [illegible] swallowing down everything, but such are the exception. It is often the case that employes blame their employer because they suppose he is getting along grandly, when he is oppressed to the last point of oppression. I knew a manufacturer who employed more than [illegible] hands. I said to him: "Do you ever have any trouble with your employment do you have any strikes?" "No," he said. "What! in this time of agitation between Capital and Labor, no trouble?" "None at all—none." I said: "How is that?" "Well," he said, "I have a way of my own. Every little while I call my employes together, and I say: 'Now, boys, I want to show you how matters stand. What you turned out this year brought so much. You see it isn't as much as we got last year; I can't afford to pay you as much as I did. Now, you know I [illegible] all my means in this business. What do you think ought to be my percentage, and what wages ought I to pay you? Come, let us settle this.' And," said that manufacturer, "we are always unanimous. When we suffer we all suffer together. When we advance we advance together, and my men would die for me." But when a man goes around his employes with a supercilious air, and drives into his factory as though he were the autocrat of the universe, with the sun and moon in his vest pockets, moving amid the wheels of the factory, chiefly anxious lest a stranger's smirching hand should touch his immaculate broadcloth, he will see at the end he has made an awful mistake. I think that employers will find out after awhile that it is to their interest, as far as possible to explain matters to their employes. You be frank with them, and they will be frank with you.

Again, I remark, relief will come to the laboring classes through the religious rectification of the country. Labor is appreciated and rewarded just in proportion as a country is Christianized. Why is our smallest coin a penny, while in China it takes six or a dozen pieces to make one penny, the Chinese paying in his own country the "cash," as it is called, around his neck like a string of beads, a dozen of these pieces necessary to make the value of one of our pennies? In this country, for nothing do we want to pay less than a penny. In China, they often have to pay the sixth of a penny, or the twelfth of a penny. What is the difference? Christianity. Show me a community that is thoroughly infidel, and I will show you a community where wages are small. Show me a community that is thoroughly Christianized, and I will show you a community where wages are comparatively large. How do I account for it? The philosophy is easy. Our religion is a democratic religion. It makes the owner of the mill understand he is a brother to all the operatives in that mill. Born of the same Heavenly Father, to lie down in the same dust, to be saved by the same supreme mercy. No putting on of airs in the sepulcher or in the judgment.

An engineer in a New England factory gets sleepy, and he does not watch the steam gauge, and there is a wild thunder of explosion, and the owner of the mill and one of the workmen are slain. The two slain men come up toward the gate of heaven. The owner of the mill knocks at the gate. The celestial gatekeeper cries: "Who is there?" The reply comes: "I was the owner of a factory at Fall River, where there was an explosion just now, and I lost my life, and I want to come in." "Why do you want to come in, and by what right do you come in?" asks the celestial gatekeeper. "Oh!" says the man, "I employed two or three hundred hands. I was a great man at Fall River." "You employed two or three hundred men?" says the gatekeeper, "but how much Christian grace did you employ?" "None at all," says the owner of the mill. "Step back," says the celestial gatekeeper, "no admittance here for you." Right after comes up the poor workman. He knocks at the gate. The shining gatekeeper says: "Who is there?" an angel messenger comes forth from your world to our world to welcome it. I have been a bad man. I used to swear, awful. I have my hand with the wheel; I used to be angry; I have done a great many wrong things, but I confessed it all to the passenger that came from your country, and after I confessed it he told me to come up here, and that you many I have called to enter there's to his name in the palm of my hand; here is his name on my forehead." Then [illegible] of [illegible] judges, and the gates fly, and the workingman goes in. There was a fine [illegible] between the foreman at Fall River. The driver of the mill had a great funeral. The poor workman had a small funeral. The man who toiled upon the form purpose resources was shut out of heaven. The poor man, crushed in the grave of the Lord Jesus Christ, entered [illegible].

So you see it is a democratic religion. I do not care how much money you have, you have not enough money to buy your way [illegible] I do not care how poor you are, you have grace enough to [illegible] If the shining gatekeeper, smitten by some injustice, should try to keep you out, all heaven would fly from their thrones, and they would cry, "Let him in! Let him in!" My friends, you need to saturate our populations with the religion of Christ, and wages will be [illegible] all the elder of strife will be [illegible] I have the highest authority for saying that Godliness is profitable for the life that now is. It pays for the employer. It pays for the employe. The religion of Christ came out to reliefy all the wrongs of the world, and it will yet settle this question between Labor and Capital [illegible] certainly as [illegible] the [illegible] The [illegible] between the wheel and the soft hand of the counting room will sleep each other yet. They will sleep each other in congratulation. They will sleep each other on the glorious morning of the millennium. The hard hand will say: "I plowed the desert into a garden;" the soft hand will reply: "I furnished the seed." The one hand will say: "I threshed the mountains;" the other hand will say: "I paid for the flail." The one hand will say: "I hammered the spear into a pruning hook;" and the other hand will answer: "I signed the treaty of peace that made that possible." Then Capital and Labor will lie down together, and the lion and the lamb, and the leopard, and the kid, and there will be nothing to hurt or to destroy in all God's holy mount, for the mouth of the Lord hath spoken it.

A Sure Thing.

There are many fine things in this life of which we may be absolutely certain, but this is one of them: that Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" have no equal as a cathartic in derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. They are very small and their action is pleasant. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless. 25 cents a vial. All druggists.

Safe and Sure.

Fluid Lightning is simply a marvellous Rheumatic remedy. I was for two months a cripple, unable to get out of the house from Sciatica. One bottle gave me instant relief, and placed me on my feet again. I have driven fourteen miles to-day (something I could not possibly have done were it not for Fluid Lightning) for the express purpose of procuring another bottle. So says Wm. Dixon, Jananeque. Only 25 cents per bottle at J. McKee's Drug store. d115-eod w20

I had for years been a miserable sufferer from Dyspepsia, and tried all known remedies and the best medical skill of my acquaintance, but still grew worse, until unable to eat anything without great suffering, or do any kind of work. I began to think there was no hope for me, and that I must surely die; when, like a drowning man catching at a straw, I determined to give McGregor's Speedy Cure a trial, I at once began to improve so rapidly that in two months I was as well as I had ever been in my life.—Wm. Evers Leamington. Sold by J. McKee, druggist. Free trial bottles. d115-eod-w20

A Fine Lot of Cattle.

This morning there was a fine lot of cattle weighed on the market, and purchased by Mr. Jas. Eakins, of Port Hope—thirty from Mr. Charles D. Moore, of Smith, and nine from his brother, Mr. J. K. This lot which, was pronounced among the finest that ever appeared on the market, was purchased for shipment to the old country market and will doubtless be devoured as the "roast beef of old England" by the Canucks visiting the Colonial Exhibition.

Sport and Speed.

The races at the Driving Park on Monday afternoon will certainly be the best ever held in town. In every event the necessary entries (four) have been made and in some over that number. The management of the races is in the hands of thorough horsemen, who will see that everything is carried out honorably and satisfactorily, and the public may rely on something above the ordinary.

The Scott Act Again.

Who says that the enforcement of the Act is injuring business in the Plate Glass City? True it must naturally affect the receipts of those in the hotel business, but it leaves the surplus money for spending in a better way. This is evidenced by the rushing business we are doing in our canvass for the Library Association, new members joining every day and new goods arriving constantly. We will show something handsome in silk plush albums next week. Should our canvassers miss you in their rounds, kindly favor us with a call at office of the Dominion Express Company, where we will be happy to show you our samples.—S. D. Nelson & Co., Toronto.

Slaughter of Sheep by Dogs.

Dogs have commenced their ravages on sheep and consequently farmers should be prepared to receive them with a single salute. On Sunday night last a number of dogs visited the farm of Mr. Wm. Goodfellow, North Monaghan, about a mile and a half out of town, and killed one sheep and wounded another. Again on Thursday night dogs attacked Mr. Goodfellow's sheep, which were enclosed in his barn yard, killing seven lambs and two ewes, and worrying three other valuable ewes so badly that it is probable they will have to be killed. Mr. Goodfellow's loss will amount to $30. Owners of large dogs should be careful to keep them chained at night, as killing sheep seems to be a favorite sport to them, and no prohibition law will restrain them.

BANKERS—Bank of Toronto and Canadian Bank of Commerce.
SOLICITORS—Dumble & Henry.

TO DEPOSITORS—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amounts deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such manner the depositor may from time to time require, is FOUR per cent., either paid or compounded half-yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of £100, £200, £300 and £500 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

The funds of the Company being invested in first mortgages on Real Estate, no better security can be offered to depositors or debenture holders, they having a first claim upon more than the whole Assets of the Company, the shareholders having the second. The annual statements show that the amount so invested was over $600,000, and on the security of real estate at least double that value.

By the laws of Ontario, Trustees, Executors and Administrators may deposit Trust Funds of the estates which they control in this Company, and are free from all further liability, a privilege of which many have largely availed themselves.

TO BORROWERS—Money is obtainable from this Company on approved Real Estate security at the lowest current rates of interest.

The Mortgages may be repaid by yearly instalments, on the plan so long in operation in connection with this Company, whereby the whole debt is extinguished at the end of a certain number of years, the interest charged at each payment being proportionately reduced as the principal is paid off.

Applications may be made either to the Head Office, or to any of the Agents.

THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY.

How Peterborough Passed the 67th Anniversary.

The morning of the 67th anniversary of our beloved Queen's Birthday dawned bright, clear and sparkling, veritable Queen's weather. The atmosphere was made fresh and bracing by the rain which fell during the night, while the clouds rolled away early in the morning, allowing the sun to shine in all its geniality and splendour throughout the day.

The smallboy realizes that it is the Queen's Birthday, and after rolling out of bed, hauling on some habiliments, he feels for and gets a bunch of firecrackers and adjourns to the back or front yard to shoot 'em off. Neither a mother's, a reporter's nor aneagle's eye could follow him for the rest of the day.

Before nine o'clock people appeared on the street in large numbers, many of whom were from the country, in quest of something to see.

BASEBALL.

By nine o'clock two or three hundred spectators had assembled in the P. A. A. A. grounds to witness the baseball match between the Lock Works team and Wm. Hamilton's Manufacturing Co's team, for a valuable silver cup, the former captained by J. Landry and the latter by C. Callaghan, both famous ball tossers. The teams were composed as follows:—

Locks.		Hamiltons.
J. Landry	catcher	J. Callaghan.
M. Honan	pitcher	W. Hickey.
G. Corcoran	short stop	A. McFarlane.
J. Farley	1st base	H. Hawkins.
J. Cahill	2nd base	H. Robinson.
E. O'Neil	3rd base	T. Derrig.
W. Rudkins	left field	H. Harvey.
F. Burdett	centre field	J. Every.
C. Taber	right field	J. McKim.

W. J. Scott, Umpire.

Both teams looked as if they were determined to win the cup. The "Hamiltons" won the toss and sent the "Locks" to the bat, to face the pitching of Hickey who was supported behind the bat by C. Callaghan.

The first innings ended with four runs to the credit of the Locks. The Hamiltons sent Hickey to face Honan, who was ably supported by Landry. He and two others retired without scoring. The second innings resulted in three for the Hamiltons and a whitewash for the Locks. In the third innings the Locks found the key to Hickey's pitching and from that time forward pounded him all over the field. The fielding of the Hamiltons was behind that of their opponents, they not having practiced to the same extent. Batting was particularly heavy during the whole game, three-baggers being common. The catching of both Landry and Callaghan was much admired. The match resulted in a victory for the Lock Works team by 43 to 11. The scores stood:—

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Locks	4	0	3	5	11	0	3	8	9	—43
Hamiltons	0	3	3	0	2	0	0	0	0	—11

The game was finished about 1.20 p.m.

THE GUNS.

At 10 o'clock the Right Division of the Durham field Battery rolled out their venerable nine-pounder into Central Park and fired a royal salute—as far as their ammunition would permit.

Several enthusiastic members of the Gun Club met at Riverside Park at 9 o'clock. The number being very limited, no match took place.

The Athletic Association Sports.

At one o'clock the gate at the P. A. A. A. grounds was thrown open for the reception of visitors, who continued to arrive for upwards of an hour, when there was in the neighborhood of one thousand persons present. The grand stand, the seats along the fence and the space between the track and the fence were well occupied. Inside the charmed circle the starter, R. B. Rogers, with pistol in hand; Dr. Burnham, the general president of the association, J. E. Hammond, Clerk of the Course; Hon R. Hamilton, and Dr. Halliday, Judges; E. W. Muncaster, Timer; the contending athletes and the reporters were stationed. The track was in the finest condition, Mr. Barnbart says, it is the finest track he ever stepped on, and he has been on several. The executive committee were most painstaking in their endeavors to add to the pleasure of all. P. A. A. A. colors were very conspicuous.

At 1.30 p.m., Mr. J. E. Hammond, who noticed athletically formed young men lolling around as if anxious for the fray, sounded his bell, calling out the contestants for the first event.

For throwing the cricket ball there were eight entries. W. Packenham, won the prize, a ball, throwing the sphere 85 yards and 6 inches.

Kicking the football was not indulged in, there not being sufficient entries of a sharp sort.

The 100-yards dash, for a cup given by Mr. J. McClelland, brought four athletic young men to the scratch. The race was a very spirited one, and was won by J. Morris in 10 4-5 seconds.

The high jump, for a prize given by Salisbury Bros., had five entries. W. J. King, of Lindsay, secured first place, clearing 4 ft. 9 inches. The jump was well contested, and was won after a hard struggle. Messrs. Carter and Slight pressing the winner closely.

For the long jump (running) there were six entries. B. Carter cleared the most ground and was awarded first place. The spot chosen was very slippy, which prevented a good record being made.

The 440 yards race, open to all amateurs, was won by A. A. Barnhart, of Ottawa, a very powerful runner, in 56 2-5 seconds. There were two other entries. Prize, a handsome silver medal.

The two mile bicycle race brought four wheelmen on the track, and was won by H. A. Dean, secretary of the Montreal club, in 5 min. 7 2-5 seconds. Alex. Gibson was a good second. The medal for this race was given by Mr. R. W. Muncaster. In starting in this race F. Might missed a peddle in starting, which resulted in giving him a heavy fall, placing him out of the race.

The 220 yards race for boys, prize, a silver cup presented by Mr. McFarlane Wilson, brought three fleet-footed youths on the track. After a spirited dash first place was won by A. Miller.

Four sprinters entered in the open 100 yards race, for a medal, A. A. Barnhart, of Ottawa, again crossed the line first in 10 1-5 seconds, with G. F. Orde a good second.

In the mile race there were three starters; it soon became a race between C. Lawford and C. W. Orde. On the 6th lap Lawford made a determined effort to overhaul Orde, who took the lead from the first, but failed in his attempt and was compelled to abandon the race, being seized with a dizzy fit about 100 yards from the finish. Orde crossed the line in 5 minutes, 22 1-5 seconds from the start, winning the medal for the prought.

The hurdle race, 120 yards for a medal, brought fifteen three most successful in the high jump, Messrs. King, Carter and Slight, to the mark. W. J. King, of Lindsay, won the race and medal in 17 4-5 seconds.

Four contestants started in the 440 yards race, but after running about 100 yards three dropped out, leaving G. F. Orde to complete it as he pleased. He did not loiter on the track, however, and won the medal in 57 2-5 seconds' work.

In the open mile race for a silver medal, there were three entries. A. A. Barnhart won with ease, making the mile in 5 minutes, 15 2-5 seconds.

In the fancy bicycle riding contest, Messrs. McNamara, Carter and Dean entered. The first mentioned, in performing a difficult feat, was unfortunate in breaking one of the pedals off his machine, after which he retired. Mr. Carter was very amusing in his several attempts, while Mr. H. A. Dean by his daring and difficult feats won a hearty applause as well as the medal.

Three contestants started in the 220 yards race, which was won by G. F. Orde after a fine run.

The five mile bicycle race, which brought the sports to a close, was a grand race from start to finish. F. Might, Ames, J. McNamara and C. Lawford started, but the latter two dropped out early in the race, leaving the battle to Might and Ames. Ames led until the 18th lap when Might, by a desperate sprint, succeeded in passing his lighter opponent, which lead he maintained to the finish though hard pressed to the last. The time made was 21 minutes, 32 seconds.

During the afternoon the Fire Brigade Band were in attendance and enlivened the programme with choice music.

In almost every event the competition was keen and very creditable records were made, and the association may be proud of the material it is composed of.

Mr. G. F. Orde was probably the most successful competitor in the running events, taking first in two and a close second in two others. Mr. B. Carter, distinguished himself in almost every event, but was only successful in the long jump. W. J. King, of Lindsay, now a member of the association, C. Lawford, H. Morris, C. W. Orde, and F. Might also did very creditably, considering their opponents.

A. A. Barnhart, of Ottawa, proved himself a genuine flyer, while H. W. Dean shewed the boys a trick or two on the wheel.

The association is to be congratulated on the excellent manner in which the sports were managed, there being not the slightest hitch, or disagreement or appeal from the decision of the judges, who ruled with all fairness. Those foreigners who took part in the games are well pleased with the manner in which the sports were conducted, and will come again, when probably they will be given a better reception. It is unfortunate that the gate receipts were not larger and that there were not more present to witness the sports. The public will have to be cultivated to sympathize with genuine sports.

At the Driving Park.

The races at the Driving Park were one of the chief attractions of the day, and to say that they constituted the most successful meeting ever held under the auspices of the Association is simply stating a straight fact. At one o'clock the gates began to admit the crowds which poured in on foot and in vehicles till at least two thousand spectators were present. The grand stand was graced with the presence of many ladies, and male spectators filled every good point of view. The crowds arrived on foot and in 'busses, the latter driving a brisk trade. Refreshment booths, furnishing soft drinks, mildly slacked the thirst of the thirsty. Several sharpers were also on hand. A couple of three-card-monte men and a thimble-rigger succeeded in securing a few victims, but their little game was interrupted by their being run off the grounds. It was 2 o'clock before the starter's bell, wielded by Mr. H. C. Winch, rang up the contestants in

THE OPEN TROT.

For this exciting event there were three entries—J. J. Daly's "Fanny B.," A. P. Morgan's "Grey Ned," and C. Bartlett's "Maud Bartlett" (Lindsay). After the regulation amount of scoring the trio was sent off for the first heat, "Maud Bartlett" leading, "Fanny B." at her wheel, "Grey Ned" closing the procession. At the half-mile the three closed and the grey gelding took second place. In this order the three slipped under the string—"Maud Bartlett" 1st, "Grey Ned" 2nd, "Fanny B." 3rd. Time, 2.41½.

In the second heat "Maud Bartlett" got off again in the van, with "Fanny B." and the gray horse at hand. At the three-quarter pole "Maud" lost her feet, and "Fanny B." seized the opportunity and got a good length on the wire side of her opponent. She kept her lead, collecting interest as she forged on, and she passed under the string an easy winner in 2.47. "Maud Bartlett" second, and "Gray Ned" third.

The third heat was an exciting one. The horses got off with "Gray Ned" as drum major, this office he kept easily till the finish. The contest was virtually between "Fanny B." and "Maud Bartlett" with pretty even work the first three quarters. "Maud" in her anxiety to get the lead, left her feet, and her driver applying the whip, got a good start, but the judges put him back to third record, and the lead ended with "Gray Ned," who to the equitable between bay and gray had got in winning work, first, "Fanny B." second. Time 2.43.

The fourth heat brought out some lively work. For the best part of the half mile it was neck and neck between "Maud Bartlett" and "Gray Ned," but the excitement terminated by "Maud Bartlett's" driver, urged his horse on the run and was got back to third place. Meanwhile "Fanny B." had overhauled her competitor and came in under the wire ahead, "Gray Ned" second, and, of course, "Maud Bartlett" third.

The fifth heat the steppers got well off together, "Maud Bartlett" taking the lead, which she rather improved on till she broke at the three-quarter pole, when "Fanny B." pulling out, shot to the front, a position she kept till she passed under the string, winner of the heat and race. Time, 2.39.

RUNNING RACE.

For this event there were seven entries, as follows: J. Simpson's "Kahn," J. H. O'Neil's "Scott Act," (Cobourg) J. R. McIntyre's "Nancy Lee" and "Graybird," A. Elliott's "Maggie Roach," Gus White's "Wild Deer," E. H. Dickinson's "Lantenant."

The first heat without any exciting contest resulted in the judges declaring "Scott Act," 1st; "Graybird," 2nd; "Kahn," 3rd; time, 2.01½.

THE THREE MINUTE TROT brought to the scratch J. Beatty's "Lady Tariff," Mac McGregor's "Maud M." and W. Clancy's "Lulu."

In the first heat "Maud M." cut out some pretty lively work for "Lady Tariff," but the latter kept the lead and came in 1st, "Maud M." 2nd, and "Lulu" 3rd.

The third heat was a walk-over for "Lady Tariff" 1st, "Maud M." 2nd, and "Lulu" 3rd.

THE SCRUB RACE

brought out four entries, "Graybird," "[illegible]," "Nancy Lee" and "Scott Act." This was a very pretty race between "Graybird" and "Scott Act," the latter taking the first heat. In the second heat these two horses took the last hurdle as if they had been harnessed together. "Scott Act" however, gained a few inches between that and the wire which he passed under about a nose ahead of "Graybird's" beak, taking first money, "Graybird," second.

The association is to be congratulated upon the success of the first spring meeting and though the horses so early in the season were not in prime condition and training and though the track was a little too elastic for speed, the spectators had no reason to complain of the excellent programme of sports presented. The judges, Messrs. W. H. Rackham, town, and Messrs. G. S. Page and J. S. Saunders, of Montreal, fulfilled their duties with the strictest impartiality and not a protest was entered against their ruling. The motto carried out was, the first place to the best horse. This meeting in its mode of management and square dealing will insure an increased interest in future meetings; horsemen will have confidence in entering their horses on a square turf where only speed can win the day and the ducats.

NOTES.

No wonder "Scott Act" took first money, as Inspector in the interests of the Act was present to see fair play—and foul play if any should pop up.

A special staff of constables was detailed to keep order in the grounds and keep the track clear of spectators and broken bones. This consisted of P. C. McGinty of the regular force and the following special constables, A. N. Murphy, M. Hennessey and John May.

Messrs. Gus Sawers and James English timed the steppers with their usual fractional exactitude. The result was not affected by one of the watches wanting to be a clock and going on strike.

One driver, at least, learned yesterday that he can't palm of running (under whip, too,) for square trotting on this Driving Park.

As an outcome of yesterday's meeting a matched running race was made between Mr. J. E. McIntyre's "Graybird" and Mr. Alex. Elliott's "Maggie Roach" for a purse of $200. Half mile heats, best three in five. Race to be run at the Driving Park on Monday, June 7th.

Church Chimes.

A Suitable Sermon to Sons of England by Rev. W. C. Bradshaw.

On Sunday evening the local lodge of the Sons of England Benevolent Society, numbering about one hundred strong assembled at their lodge rooms and after forming in a body marched to St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, for divine worship. Rev. W. C. Bradshaw, Rector, addressed the society, delivering an eloquent and impressive sermon, suitable to the occasion, from the text "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ," contained in the 2nd verse of the 6th chapter of St. Paul's epistle to the Galatians.

The reverend gentleman approved of the benevolent, loyal and patriotic principles of the society, and their assembling together in the house of God to pray for their beloved Queen. He referred to the Home Rule bill for Ireland now before the Imperial Parliament, denouncing it as a step towards the separation of Ireland from the British Empire, confident that his hearers were in sympathy and were zealous to preserve the unity of the empire. He referred to the rapid growth of the society, which was organized in Toronto in 1874, since which time it had grown rapidly and had been a means of alleviating distress, benefitting the sick, aiding the widows and orphans and by a brotherly bond bearing each other's burdens, thus fulfilling the law of Christ, and assisting the church in its work. The society, by its plan of assurance, also encouraged economy and thrift which was especially necessary at present throughout the world.

The services were concluded by hymning the National Anthem.

PREPARING FOR THE ELECTIONS.

It is plain to see that the present is the last Session of the Dominion Parliament before the general elections. According to a despatch from Ottawa, the Government have brought in their annual railway subsidy bribery resolutions—at least they have brought in some subsidies. There may be more to follow. It will all depend upon "political exigencies." Although a large loss is incurred every year on the operation of the Intercolonial Railway, it is proposed to spend two millions and a half in extending the road as a Government work through the Island of Cape Breton, and of course, the longer an unprofitable road is made the greater will be the annual loss on its operation. Mr. Pope's resolutions also propose to spend $650,600 upon a railway from Metapedia to Paspebiac, in Quebec. This makes about three million dollars to be added to the debt of Canada this year for the sake of purchasing support for Toryism. Not a dollar for Ontario. On the contrary, Sir John Macdonald has refused to listen to the request of the Ontario municipalities to have refunded to them the bonuses granted in aid of railway construction; and Tory candidates in Cape Breton and Quebec will claim that Sir John should be supported because he has taxed Ontario money to build railroads in other provinces. It looks also as if the Tories hope to make out of the Robitaille railway job some of the "boodle" that is wanted for election purposes. Heavy subsidies, amounting to $620,000, have been granted to the Robitaille-McGreevy Langevin ring out of the Dominion Treasury. The company have also secured a subsidy amounting to about $500,000 from the Government of Quebec Province, making a total subsidy of $1,120,000 for one hundred miles of railway. Having secured such enormous subsidies, Mr. Robitaille will doubtless have no difficulty in selling out his contract and forming the nucleus of an election fund.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

At a meeting of St. Patrick's Literary Association of Pembroke, held in their hall on Thursday, 13th May, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"That the thanks of the St Patrick's Literary Association be tendered to the Hon. Edward Blake for the noble and generous manner in which he brought forward the Irish Home Rule resolutions in the House of Commons of Canada."

Occasionally the Mail breaks into a spasm of rejoicing over the alleged "special cable" (from the New York Herald) that Fair Trade, the trans-atlantic synonym of the "National Policy nostrum," is making gigantic strides in popular favor. It seems, however, that British representative institutions do not work well; the popular thirst for "protection" is not shared by the people's representatives in the Imperial Parliament. The other day a motion favoring protection was introduced into the Imperial House of Commons by Mr. Jennings, who was formerly a resident of the United States, and is a correspondent of a New York newspaper. The motion was negatived without a division. Perhaps the Tory journals in Canada which boasted a few months ago of a great protectionist reaction in Great Britain will explain this incident.

"Misery loves company," and that explains why Tory politicians are trying to degrade some prominent Liberal members of Parliament to the level of Beaty, (the Boy) John White and other members of Parliament who make money out of their positions. An obscure government member was put up to assert that Mr. H. H. Cook, M. P., East Simcoe, had certain timber dues remitted by Hon. D. Mills when that gentleman was Minister of the Interior. Mr. Cook absolutely denies the charge, and he, as Mr. Mills, insisted that the charge should be referred to the Committee on Public Accounts, but Sir John, knowing that the investigation of the charge would shew its opposed the reference, trusting that a lie like this, diligently circulated, would tend to injure a political opponent, whereas its investigation, by showing its falsity, would not result in any party advantage.

A Sure Thing.

There are very few things in this life of which we may be absolutely certain, but this is one of them: that Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" have no equal as a cathartic in derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. They are very small and their action is pleasant. Purely vegetable, perfectly harmless. 25 cents a vial. All druggists.

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 21st, 1885.
GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age and supposed incurable, I looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I had tried almost in vain, without success, almost every [illegible] York State, costing me [illegible]. Well, I would [illegible] have worn your truss over [illegible] and that only [illegible] fraction and comfort; even to bathe [illegible] down, it holds up perfectly secure under all circumstances. Yours truly, [illegible]
P.S.—You are at liberty to publish it for the benefit of other sufferers.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken two years to perfect; in construction it holds the very worst case during the hardest exercise, and in one out of every 100 of all cases. In worst cases of Rupture, both inguinal and femoral, it will give better results than any truss. Send stamp for our treatise, and mention this paper. Write us for prices and testimonials. BICYCLE SHOW.

SKETCHES OF FAVORITE TRICYCLES AND TANDEMS.

Latest English Improvements in Cycling Machines—Why Not Cycling Vacation Parties?—Tour Through Italy Upon a Tandem—Healthful Pleasure.

Every year there is a bicycle show in England. It is given under the auspices of the Stanley Bicycling Club, and is called the Stanley show. It is a great event. England is the most enthusiastic bicycling country in the world.

To a slight extent cycling has taken the place of the old stage coach. It is a healthful and beautiful recreation. Ladies there patronize the tricycle far more than they do in this country. Royal tours of ladies and gentlemen on bicycles and tricycles have been planned and carried with great success and enjoyment. Why do we not do the same thing in America? Coaching has become tiresome, fox hunting has died a natural death, and the fashionable world is put to its wits end to devise something new wherewith to amuse itself. A summer run of tour of a cycling party, made up of both sexes, would be charming.

THE TRICYCLE.

Trundling over the roads upon tricycles and bicycles, their cheeks aglow with the exercise, their eyes bright with health and the pure air, our people on such a summer vacation might actually learn something about their own country. (I suppose as far as local history of our own country goes we are about as ignorant a lot as ever pointed with pride to heroic ancestors.)

Mr. Joseph Pennell, artist and literary man, describes, in the last number of Outing, the Stanley show. His pictures have been redrawn and engraved from that lively magazine for our purpose here. He sketch deals with the latest and best improvements in cycle mechanism in England. He finds the greatest improvements have been made of recent years in tricycles.

An objection has been made to bi and tricycling that it is unsocial, that only one fellow can ride off in a grumpy way by himself, like one of those detestable fast horse men in a single-seated wagon. But that has been changed. A double tricycle has been invented. All the world can now take its girl cycling along with it upon its steel steed. You can see how it is done.

THE TANDEM.

This social machine is called the tandem tricycle. In some of them the lady sits in front, in others behind. The tandem will be something new in America, where for some reason ladies do not take kindly to the tricycle. It would attract more attention than would be pleasant in the cities, but in the country it would be just the thing. Many a time, on the farm, it would obviate the necessity of taking a horse from needed work and harnessing him to a buggy or wagon. When I get that home in the country for which I've been pining ever since I have lived in a city and done newspaper work, I mean to have a tricycle, and ride to the postoffice, three miles away, upon it. See if I don't! The postoffice shan't be a foot nearer than three miles away, either.

The tandem, and indeed many of the bicycles and tricycles, have rests and supports to which baggage may be strapped, and the tourists are thus enabled to take a tooth brush and a change of clothing with them. The ideal journey of this kind was taken by Mr. Pennell himself, accompanied by his wife. It was a tour through Italy, that described in The Century.

THE TOURISTS.

It will be a gratification to cyclists in this country to have the writer say that the he is sure the favorite American make of machine could have held its own with any British manufacturer. He also says that horsepower over the dusty turnpike counting cycle is to make a mile in less than two minutes. Over 500 cycles were exhibited at the Stanley show, and different varieties. The steerage and brake apparatus of a tandem should be controlled by one person. One tandem at the show had the driving wheels of a bicycle and tricycle combined. Dwart, or dwarfed safety bicycles are pronounced a delusion and a snare.

Wanted, a good [illegible] and will be sold accordingly. See our fine Mackinaws.

Don't be Duped.

Smokers will further their own interest by insisting upon having the "Cable" or "El Padre" brands of cigars, which have stood the test for a quarter of a century, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to persuade them to take other brands which pay them a larger profit, the consumer being the loser thereby.

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Morrow, Tierney & Co.

Have a large and varied stock of the choicest family groceries which they are selling at the closest prices. It will be to the interest of housekeepers to give them a call.

Off for the Colonial.

This Tuesday evening Mrs. Geo. A. Cox, Miss Cox, Mrs. A. L. Davis, Mr. Ed. W. Cox, Mr. Fred. G. Cox and Master Bertie Cox leave town for Quebec, where they will embark on Thursday in the Parisian of the Allan Line, for Liverpool, England. The party during an expected absence of two or three months will do the Colonial Exhibition and visit the chief points of interest in Great Britain and on the continent.

Quite a Curiosity.

Mr. Henry Beavis, of Dummer, is the owner of a monstrosity in the shape of a calf which flourishes two tails. The second tail springs from the root of the neck and is exactly like number one, even to a white tip. The calf is an improvement on the ordinary single handled article, as it will be able to keep the flies away from its fore quarters as well as the hind. Those who have seen it say it is quite a curiosity. It is as lively as can be and sails around the field in which it is kept, with both tails hanging up, like a two-masted schooner minus the rigging.

Interesting to Farmers.

Mr. Peter Hamilton has ready for issue a beautifully gotten up catalogue, profusely illustrated, of the numerous agricultural machines and implements manufactured by him, including over a score, from Hamilton's Twine Binder to a turnip drill. The machines and implements of this manufacturer are the result of years of experience, experiment, observation and study of the farmers' wants, and Mr. Hamilton's success is shown in the largely increasing business and the practical appreciation of the products of his shops by the farming community. The Hamilton Twine Binder has met with great favor, and the catalogue above referred to gives testimonials from the best farmers in the district, expressing their perfect satisfaction with the machine and its work. Every farmer should have a copy of Hamilton's catalogue.

An Extract.

The following is an extract from S. U. Nelson & Co's Library Association Catalogue. Books not in our Catalogue will be furnished if you write us giving correct title, and the author's name, and, if possible, the publisher's, and we will then inform the member of the cost of the book, and supply it if desired. Membership fees, $4.00. Premiums, each yearly member on payment of his or her fee, receives from the Association, his or her membership certificate, and as a gift their choice of $5.00 worth of books.

The object of this Association is to cultivate a taste for choice literature, and to enable members to obtain same at a small advance above wholesale prices. The Library Association will supply books only to parties holding Certificates of Membership. The above will go far towards dispelling any doubt that may have arisen in the mind of the public owing to the misrepresentations of interested local dealers. Their actions will recoil against themselves, and defeat the end they have in view by advertising us more fully. We stand on our merits, can they say the same? S. U. Nelson & Co., Book Brokers, Toronto.

The Excursion to Idyl Wild.

The steamer Golden-Rye left her wharf yesterday morning, for Idyl Wild, at eight o'clock, carrying about three hundred pleasure seekers. The trip was a most beautiful one, and all enjoyed themselves immensely. Commodore Calcutt was untiring in his efforts to please, and succeeded admirably in catering to the wants of the party. Messrs. Morton and Butcher, with their instruments, were on board and provided excellent music, to which dancing was kept up during both trips. The Alnwick Indian quadrille band furnished music for dancing in the dancing hall, which was continued with little interruption from morning till the boat left on the return trip. The drawing for the prizes resulted as follows:—Mr. Cotain, of Hastings, the $10 gold piece; Mr. Varneywright, of Harwood, the cruet stand; and Mrs. Fisher, of Ashburnham, the cake casket. The steamer Whistlewing with palace scow, brought a load of excursionists from Keene, the Beaver a load from Hastings and the Dora a load from Harwood, while the number assembled was upwards of a thousand. Unfortunately the wind was very high and prevented the rowing and paddling races from taking place. However, the grounds were in fine condition and everybody seemed delighted with the day's outing. On the return trip to town dancing was continued till the wharf was reached, about eleven o'clock.

Purchase of Stock.

Mr. J. Mouncey, of Cavan, has sold a five years old Durham cow to Mr. Snell, of Snell & Sons, Edmonton, for the handsome sum of $250. In driving from Cobourg to Peterborough Mr. Snell stopped at Mr. Mouncey's farm to see his stock, when he was so pleased with the cow that he made the above purchase. Mr. Mouncey also sold, for $100, to Mr. G. H. Charlesworth, of Hope, a yearling Durham bull after the latter had taken first prize at the Bailliesboro spring show.

Sermon to Young Men.

On Sunday evening in the George street Methodist Church, Rev. I. Tovell, the pastor, preached an excellent special sermon to young men, taking as his text the 9th verse of the 119th Psalm. In the course of the address he referred eloquently to the late John Palmer Howden, a member of his congregation, speaking in high terms of his courtesy, amiability and sweetness of character which endeared him to all. His Christian character and walk were held up as examples, and his death the triumphant ending of a Christian's earthly career and an entrance into the bliss of heaven.

Grand Display of Vehicles.

Messrs. Porter Bros., held their first spring opening exhibition of waggons, carriages and buggies at their shop on the corner of Charlotte and Aylmer sts. Saturday. The exhibition numbered over thirty vehicles of every variety, from the strong farmer's waggon, to the lightest and prettiest buggy, showing all the latest improvements in gears, a large number of which Porter Bros. have patented. The exhibit was a most creditable one and was admired by the large number of persons who visited it. Messrs. Porter Bros. know how to construct a first class vehicle and desire that the public should know it also which they should, and have succeeded admirably. Twelve of the vehicles exhibited were made to order for parties from neighboring towns, and which were shipped to their destination Saturday. The new delivery waggon for China Hall was much admired. The proprietors were delighted with the success of their first opening.

The Twenty-Fourth's Fire Record.

Last night about ten o'clock the bell rang out an alarm of fire, the residence of Mr. A. Sawers, London street, being in flames. The fire brigade and engine were quickly on the spot, but the fire had made such headway before the alarm was sounded that they could do nothing to save the building. A number of neighbors lent their assistance in removing the furniture, which was removed from the first storey in safety, but that in the basement and second storey was consumed in the flames. A strong north wind was blowing at the time, which handicapped all efforts to extinguish the fire, but it was fortunately prevented from spreading, although red hot cinders as large as a man's hand floated as far south as Charlotte street. During the fire several explosions occurred from cartridges which Mr. Sawers kept on and. The house, stables and outbuildings were all burnt to the ground. The fire is supposed to have originated from the sparks from a rocket which fell on the northern slope of the stable roof, several rockets having been fired in that locality. Insurance, $1250 in the Royal Insurance Company.

While the foregoing fire was under headway, a bright light flashed up in the north ward. A small frame house on Smith street, owned by Mr. Martin Barry and occupied by Mr. John Parker was found to be in flames. A crowd of persons soon gathered but all efforts to extinguish the fire or save the furniture of Mr. Parker were fruitless. Mrs. Parker was out at the time the fire occurred, and all the children were in bed asleep. The flash of the flames awakened the eldest boy who, with the assistance of several neighbors, succeeded with difficulty in rescuing the smaller children. Mr. Parker's loss will be heavy to him, as all his effects were lost. He only moved into the house about two weeks ago, from Haliburton. The house was insured for $300, and Mr. Barry's loss will be about $600.

"The Flower Queen."

Or the Coronation of the Rose—A Pretty Cantata Performed in the Opera House by Sixty Juvenile Musicians & Choristers—Successful Production.

The beautiful cantata "The Flower Queen" or the coronation of the rose, was presented in the Opera House last night, in aid of the organ fund of St. Andrew's church, by a choir of sixty pretty maidens, assisted by Mr. D. D. Galletly. The audience was so large as the hall would nicely seat. At 8 o'clock the curtain rose showing the flowers assembled in a secluded dell of the forest to select a Queen.

The stage was nicely decorated with evergreens, lilies and appropriate scenery. The entertainment was opened by the whole company singing "Britannia" and "God Save the Queen," in which the audience joined. The personification was as follows:

SOLOISTS.—Rosebuds, D. D. Galletly; Rose soprano, Miss Johnston; Sunflower, soprano, Miss S. Cameron; Cowan, soprano, Miss Ballantyne; Dahlia, soprano, Miss Heathcote; Heliotrope, soprano, Miss Mulcahey; Lily, soprano, Miss Galletly; Hollyhock, soprano, Miss Galletly; Touch-me-not, soprano, Miss Ida Hill; Dandelion, soprano, Miss Minore; Japonica, alto, Miss Clarkson; Violet, alto, Miss Cochrane; Mignonette, alto, Miss Sherlock; Tulip, alto, Miss McIlmoyle.

Accompanist, Miss W. Johnston.

The first number of the programme, "We are the flowers, the fair young flowers," was given by a full chorus. Mr. D. D. Galletly, as a worldling seeking rest and retirement, enters the charmed dell and gives vent to his song of disappointment and discontent. The flowers by their cheerful song induce him to remain with them, and proceed with the selection of their queen. The Crocus, Dahlia, Heliotrope, Mignonette, Japonica and Sunflower, severally pressed their claims. The modest Violet and Lily decline the proffered honor. The close of the evening brings the first part of the Cantata to a close, the flowers retiring to sleep on the question in dispute, the Rose and Nightingale singing a duet as an interlude. In the morning the selection is continued, the Hollyhock, Dandelion and Touch-me-not putting in their claims. By agreement of the flowers the task of selecting a queen is committed to the Recluse, who chooses the Rose. The coronation then follows, the Heather Bell, gathering from hill and vale chiming in with the others in a coronation anthem. The Rose, with gratitude, accepts the proffered crown, and the flowers separate to fill their intended missions on earth. The Recluse having learned that to fill well the station allotted by Providence is to be happy, with all selfish discontent and misanthropy removed, bearing the benediction of the flowers returns to usefulness and consequent happiness.

The solos by the several contestants for the crown were particularly well taken throughout, and a discrimination is unnecessary, while the choruses were full and well sustained. The duets by the Rose and Lily and the Violet and Lily were very pretty. The chorus of the Heather Bells, while dancing around the Rose, was well given and elicited an encore. The coronation of the Rose by the Lily, and attendant semi-chorus by the Heliotrope, Mignonette, Violet and Lily, and the Rose's response, were well rendered.

The separation chorus and finale solos, by the Rose and Recluse, brought the cantata to a close.

Mr. D. D. Galletly, choir master, who has spent considerable time in getting up the cantata, is to be congratulated on its success, while the young ladies who took part deserve credit for the manner in which they performed their parts, especially Miss Johnson, as the "Rose," who added new laurels to her already high reputation as a vocalist.

The proceeds were very satisfactory and will materially assist in paying for the organ for St. Andrew's.

SALVATION ARMY.

War at Lakefield.

Last Friday James Golborne, J.P., heard several charges against members of the Lakefield Salvation Army for creating disturbances on the streets of Lakefield by beating drums, tambourines, etc. Mr. W. A. Stratton, barrister, appeared for the Salvation Army. After hearing the evidence of Constable Cochrane, in each of the four cases, the complainants closed their case.

Counsel for defendants addressed no evidence but, among other things, objected that the by-law, if proved, was bad, that it had not been properly proved; that the evidence disclosed no offence, and asked that the case should be dismissed.

Mr. Golborne overruled all objections and fined the defendants $1 each and costs, and in default of fine distress, and in default thereof, imprisonment for ten days.

The case is being brought up to Toronto on appeal by writ of Certiorari.

A CHAPTER OF ACCIDENTS.

Last Tuesday afternoon, while a little son of Rev. Mr. Farncombe was coming down stairs he tripped and fell to the bottom. He had a small glass bottle in his hand, which was struck by his head in the fall, inflicting a severe wound, requiring medical assistance.

The same evening, while Mr. Jonathan Griffin was engaged in his planing mill, his left hand came in contact with the revolving knife of the jointer, which took off part of the little finger and mangled the next one. Mr. Griffin will enjoy an enforced holiday for a time.

The day following (Wednesday), while Gerald, son of Mr. Edward Fitzgerald, 13th concession, Smith, was at Selwyn, the team he was driving ran away, throwing him out and fracturing both bones of the leg above the ankles. The young man was removed to his father's residence, where the injured member received the necessary attention.

On Sunday afternoon Master Charley Amys, son of Mr. P. Amys, who resides in Smith, about a mile from the village, took a fancy for bird-nesting, and climbed an old pine tree in search of crows' eggs; he secured three, when the bough broke and he reached the ground with his prize beyond repair. The doctor in attendance will, however, make the repairs on Master Charley, and, perhaps, the lesson, taught by experience, will also prove beneficial.

ARREST.

On Friday evening one of the large scows, brought from Lindsay a few years ago by Mr. G. Chalmers, and now owned by Ross & Co., Quebec, broke loose from the place where it was moored, and started for Peterborough. Arriving at the dam, it struck a pier, causing it to enter the large slide at an angle and there it stuck. A large crowd soon collected and many were the plans suggested to get her through or back, but darkness put an end to operations until the following morning, when a gang of men, under Mr. J. Griffin's directions, cut away that portion in the slide, when the stop logs were let down to deaden the current and the remainder was hauled up the stream, where it now lies snakes. The dam was not injured.

COUNCIL.

A special meeting of the members of the village Council was held in the Clerk's office on Saturday evening, to consider the tenders for plank &c., required by the corporation. Only one tender was received, and as the prices asked were considered too high, the matter was left over until the regular meeting of the Council.

THE TWENTY-FOURTH.

Although favored with "Queen's Weather" the day passed off very quietly in Lakefield, quite a number went down to town to attend the races, some went out boating, and, in the afternoon, the members of the Gun Club had another match for the challenge cup which was won by Mr. R. Cottee. The shooting was very poor, owing, it is said, to the boys not being able to get a tonic to steady their nerves. In the evening quite a large number attended the tea and concert in the P. C. A. Hall, the receipts were, we understand, about $60 to the good.

RUNAWAY.

EXPLANATORY.

We are sorry to say that we were misinformed with regard to the steamer Fairy running an excursion on the Queen's Birthday.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Wm. McGregor, who went to British Columbia November last, has returned home. He speaks in glowing terms of that place, especially of the timber trade.

DISGRACEFUL.

A man who has not resided here many years, when there is an opportunity amuses himself by killing rabbit. One day this week he shot two rabbits who had made their nest on his property and then whether to save ammunition or not, shocking to say, he commenced to club the young ones to death, from which he was prevented by the timely interference of a passer-by. Such conduct needs no comment.

Selwyn.

(From our own Correspondent.)

On Saturday evening the residence of Mr. Wm Northey, Selwyn, was burned to the ground. About six o'clock [illegible] noon, the fire having originated [illegible] upper ceiling and the roof. [illegible] was discovered by an apprentice could be made through which water could be conveyed to the fire, by which time the fire had gained such headway as to be beyond control, many having gathered from the surrounding country by this time built went to work to remove the furniture, most of which was saved, and men, women and children [illegible] their efforts to save the stables and sheds of Mr. Northey, and the shop and residence of Mr. John Pearson. Pearson's shop stood within about 25 feet of the burning building, but parties stood on the roof and between the buildings applying water plentifully, while many others carried it in pails, and, strange to say, they succeeded in saving the building, while fire fell as much as 100 yards away. I feel safe in saying that seldom has fire been fought with such determination as it was in this case; some stood between the buildings throwing on water, while others stood back and threw the cold water on those parties to enable them to stand the heat. The house burned was the late Selwyn Hotel. I am not aware whether it was insured or not.

Mr. Northey has the sympathy of the neighborhood in his loss.

An Explanation Wanted.

To the Editor of the DAILY EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—I was among the well satisfied spectators at the races in the Driving Park on the 24th. Though I admire a good, square race, I do not sympathise with the sharks that often assemble at such places to fleece the green and unwary. I was astonished to see the amount of three-card monte business and other skin games flourishing under the very nose of the Chief of Police, and County Constable, and his staff of policemen. Now is it that there are no prosecutions? It is a shame that such actions should be allowed without any attempt being made to bring the scoundrels to justice. I and many others would be glad of an explanation.

Yours truly,
LEX.

The Drawing Classes.

The Minister of Education has issued the following circular to Inspectors:—

"The Drawing Classes conducted at the Education Department, Toronto, during the last two summers will not be continued during the current year. It is nevertheless desirable in order still further to qualify teachers in this subject, that facilities of some kind should be offered for their self-improvement. Instead of the classes formerly taught at the Department it is now proposed to give a grant to each Inspectoral Division in which a class is formed for instruction in elementary drawing.

The conditions on which such classes may be formed are:—

1. The class must consist of at least ten persons holding a public school teacher's certificate.

2. The teacher in charge must possess a local certificate to teach drawing; or be approved of by the Education Department.

3. At least 20 lessons of two hours each must be given.

4. Teachers who attend this course will be allowed to write at the Departmental examination in Drawing in April, 1887.

5. The Primary Drawing Course only shall be taught.

6. A grant of $20 will be made for each class of 10 pupils, but only one class will be [illegible] in any Inspectoral Division.

[illegible] will you be good enough to inform the [illegible] of your Inspectorate of these proposals in order that they may make the necessary [illegible] for organizing classes.

Yours truly,
[illegible]
Minister of Education."

There is now being manufactured here an article for instantly removing pain of any acute external nature, and it is certainly the most perfect cure for Neuralgia, Headache, Toothache and the like that has ever been tried. It is called Field Lightning from the rapid manner in which it acts, and is manufactured by McGregor and Parke. Sold in bottles by John McKee, druggist.

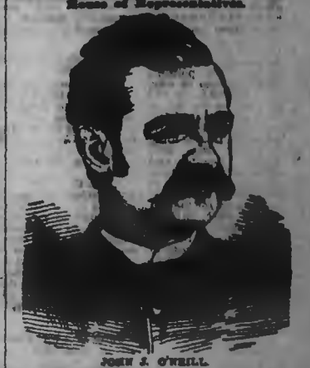
I had for years been a miserable sufferer from Dyspepsia, and tried all known remedies and the best medical skill of my acquaintance, but still grew worse, until unable to eat anything without great suffering, or do any kind of work. I began to think there was no hope for me, and that I must surely die, when, like a drowning man catching at straws, I determined to give McGregor's Kidney Cure a trial. I at once began to improve so rapidly that in two months I was the well man I had ever been in my life.—Edward Kensington. Sold by J. McKee, druggist. Free trial bottles. [illegible]

Provincial Minister Education.

The [illegible] of the Chicago University is Dr. W. R. Harper, whose portrait is presented herewith. Though young in his profession, Dr. Harper has achieved a reputation for the excellence of his intellect and the profound erudition he has properly attained. He had under consideration the excellent position offered him by the authorities of Yale college, when his name was presented to form the working force of the Chicago university. At the opening of the trustees of this university, it was decided to elect the president at once, and bring to this college his vigorous energy as well as strong pecuniary support.

REPRESENTATIVE JOHN J. O'NEILL,

Chairman of the Labor Committee of the House of Representatives.



JOHN J. O'NEILL.

A valiant champion of the cause of the workingman is John J. O'Neill, the St. Louis congressman. He is chairman of the very important committee of labor of the house of representatives. Just now he has his hands full in investigating the causes of the recent labor troubles throughout the country and principally in his own city.

Mr. O'Neill was a St. Louis boy, and will be 40 years old on June 25. He received a common school education, and was in the civil service of the government during the war, after which he was engaged in manufacturing pursuits. For the indomitable energy, perseverance and pluck which is shown so well in his portrait he was elected to the legislature of Missouri in 1872, and was twice re-elected. The workingmen's party nominated him for congress in 1878, but he withdrew from the fear of injuring their cause through the risk of defeat. He was elected to the Forty-eighth congress as a Democrat, and immediately received a place on the labor committee, of which he became the head on his election to the present congress.

Matrimonial.

This afternoon at five o'clock, Mr. H. Burroughs Beach, of Meriden, Connecticut, was united in marriage to Miss Lottie Louise Brooks, daughter of Mr. Thos. Brooks, Managing Director of the Peterborough Lock Works. The interesting ceremony was performed at Mr. Brooks' residence, at the corner of Scott and Reid streets, Rev. F. H. Wallace, M.A., B.D., officiating. The bride, though only a resident of town for a comparatively short time has, by her many excellent qualities, made a host of warm friends, who will miss her society very much, but their loss will be Mr. Beach's gain. Mr. Beach is a resident of Miss Brooks' late home, Meriden, and is a handsome and worthy young man. He holds a position as traveller for a substantial New York firm and is very popular. The wedding presents were particularly handsome. The happy couple will leave by the 6.40 express for Toronto on an extended tour through the Western and Southern States, after which they will reside in Meriden, the home of their childhood. The EXAMINER adds its congratulations to that of their many friends and wishes them all happiness.

The Peterborough Rangers.

According to the last Canada Gazette, the headquarters of No. 2, 4, 5 and 6 companies of the 57th Battalion, Peterborough Rangers, has been transferred from Ashburnham, Keene, Norwood and Hastings to Peterborough, with a view of forming a city battalion in town. The Government objected to forming a city battalion in a town, but the battalion will practically be a city one.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 26, 1886.

THE CHIEF TORY ORGAN'S DOUBLE TONGUE.

From Toronto Mail, May 25th, 1886.

Why should there be an Irish Catholic vote any more than an Anglican vote or a Methodist vote? The contention of the pleasantries is that the Irish Question have allowed themselves to be segregated from the rest of the population by just such men as Mr. O'Donohoe, who have been enabled to make terms advantageous to themselves upon the strength of their position as Irish Catholic ball-wethers. . . . Heenans in politics, the Heenans in war, are entitled to the dirty stabbing for which they have covenanted, but to nothing more, and even that is flung to them with contempt. Leagues and conventions without number have met in this city in times past to arrange for the sale of the Irish Catholic vote, naturally, we regret to say, under the influence of spiritual guides who should have known better than to have shown that corruption is an unclean thing whether purp trated by communities or individuals

From Toronto Mail, June 1st, 1886.

The Catholic Irishmen of Ontario have no reason to complain that they will not be represented. Till but a week or two ago they had a representative in the Cabinet, and we have the best authority for stating that the vacancy will not remain long unfilled, and that one of their people will be taken into the Cabinet to supply that very necessary element for this great Province of Ontario.

Toronto Mail, June 8th, 1886.

It is known that the Hon. Jno. O'Connor was compelled by ill health to retire from the Cabinet. He is to be succeeded as the representative of his co-religionists by the Hon. Frank Smith. . . . Mr. Smith is the only Roman Cath lic Senator of Irish origin from Ontario, and to give that class of our fellow-citizens a more just representation in Parliament, especially in the Upper House, than they now enjoy, is, it is understood that Hon. John O'Donohoe will be placed in the Senate.

Toronto Mail, June 19th, 1886.

They (Messrs. Smith and O'Donohoe) in common with the rest of their countrymen, had been anxious to obtain fuller representation at the seat of government. . . . The Conservatives offer him (O'Donohoe) and Mr. Smith an earnest of their desire to see their people more fully represented. Let us say that Messrs. Smith and O'Donohoe would have been false to themselves, to their people and to their convictions if they had refused.

Comment is unnecessary.

The Fairdale cheese factory is now in the usual flourishing condition for the season and will be operated by a Mr. Steele from Hamilton.

Though a little isolated here, the farmers are not forgotten this season by owners of the finest specimens in imported Clydesdales. Improvement in stock of cattle and horses is becoming an industry of some importance.

South Monaghan.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The Rossin House has had no repairs since the Scott Act was submitted.

We have been enjoying all the pleasure and occasional footsores connected with organising a football club, and putting the fussy thing in motion. Great interest is apparently taken by those who take part in the lively game. It is spreading like contagion, but differs in effect by leaving those affected ever ready to kick. The ball was started last fall and the first competitive game is now a common topic.

The river has been usually high during the season. We were reminded by a northern friend to look out down below, but we have had nothing serious to fear, except the condition of the ice rendered a little shaky by stoppers placed in the water above town, thus preventing the usual flow, and lowering the ice. The ice left the river this year March 30 and April 20th last year. The effect of the high water was seen most about the middle of the 4th concession line, where the road was impassable for about a week.

The seeding season, though a little backward at first, has been all that could be expected. Growth of vegetables has been very rapid. The trees are green nearly a month earlier than last year. Winter grain has all a fine appearance. Clover and grasses have escaped winter-killing and are in good flourishing condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Moscrief, Sr., left on Friday, 21st, from amongst many well wishers for a three month's tour in the west.

There are very few things in this life of which we may be absolutely certain, but this is one of them: that Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" have no equal as a cathartic in derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels. Go to any drug store for it. Large bottles only 25 cents, at all druggists. Nerviline the pain king, cures cramps, headache, neuralgia. An ointment made, called white bottling saturated with Nervilina, will cause aching within five minutes. Try Nervilina for all kinds of pain. Ten and 25 cents a bottle.

Eighty-four master painters of Boston have agreed to the eight-hour system, and some 700 men have returned to work.

Fluid Lightning is simply a marvellous Rheumatic remedy. I was for two months a cripple, unable to get out of the house from Sciatica. One bottle gave me instant relief, and placed me on my feet again. EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

St. Catharines, Ont., [illegible]

Gentlemen,—Being over 70 years of age, and [illegible] I was looked upon my case as hopeless, although I [illegible] without success, among others, [illegible] York State, costing me $40. Hearing [illegible] have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, Capt. H. Bell.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it [illegible] hold the very worst [illegible] rupture; call it out of every 100 of cases. [illegible] cases, but send stamp for our treatise; it explains full [illegible] price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper.

CHICAGO RIOTING.

PICTURESQUE AND PATHETIC ILLUSTRATIONS OF THE OCCURRENCE.

Scenes of the French Revolution Repeated—Anarchy Reveling—The Dead and Dying—Bombs—Like the Old Haymarket Riots.

Those who have comforted themselves that there never could be such mobs and rioting in America as there have been frequently in the old world, must by this time begin to conclude that they have been singing above a volcano. The disorders at Chicago, May 4, bear a tragic resemblance to those at the storming of the French Bastile, July 14, 1789, three years less than a century ago. Curious facts of race appear in the Chicago events. Looking over the list of names of the killed and wounded [illegible] it will be seen that they are not those of native Americans, but of Bohemians, Poles, Hungarians and Germans, the very element that Bismarck has been doing his utmost to get rid of. A smile broke over his iron face, undoubtedly, when he opened his favorite morning paper and read how the factories and mills of Chicago were going to bow-wows.

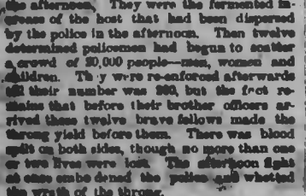
Another fact will strike the general reader. The fearless policemen who were killed and wounded in drying to disperse the rioters were, at most, without exception, Irish. England fancies that Irishman is only another name for lawlessness, but in the United States they are on the side of the law.

THE INCENDIARY SPEECH.

It was a man mounted upon a wagon who made the speech the night of May 4, that precipitated the bloodiest part of the riot. It was in the evening at the old Haymarket on the west side.

Twelve thousand men assembled in the old Haymarket after the riotous proceedings in the afternoon. They were the fermented remnants of the host that had been dispersed by the police in the afternoon. Then twelve determined policemen had begun to scatter a crowd of 20,000 people—men, women and children. They were re-enforced afterwards till their number was 200, but the fact remains that before their brother officers arrived these twelve brave fellows made the throng yield before them. There was blood spilt on both sides, though no more than one or two lives were lost. The afternoon fight at once embodied the pallen spell whetted the wrath of the throng.

In the evening they reassembled to vent their anger and brandish out vengeance. Now there is no law in this country against a man's speaking his mind. It is quite possible that if the red flag speakers had been allowed to finish their harangues the crowd would have dispersed in peace. They were doing so. In fact August Spies and T. R. Parsons had made violent speeches which had fallen rather flat. The crowd had dwindled down to 1,000.



THE DYNAMITE BOMB.

This would never do, thought Anarchist Fielden. He sprang upon a wagon and called wildly on the people to kill the police [illegible]. Word was sent in a moment to a police station, and 180 men started at once to the Haymarket. "To arms!" cried Fielden, as they advanced on the scene. Police Inspector Bonfield ordered them to disperse in the name of the law. A second time he spoke the [illegible] command. The next moment it seemed as if earth and sky split open. The policemen marched in ranks, one row behind another. A number of bombs were seen to fall between the second and third rows. Policemen dropped to the ground shattered

AFTER THE BATTLE.

Two thousand [illegible] were conveyed by the patrol wagons to the station [illegible] where were hear reading the officers' names down, and their fingers shot away and their knees brought the judge [illegible]. "Ten dollars or ten days," was the sentence: [illegible] "Ten days for [illegible]."

R. FAIR.

Don't be Duped.

Smokers will further their own interest by insisting upon having the "Cable" or "El Padre" brands of cigars, which have stood the test for a quarter of a century, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to persuade them to take other brands which pay them a larger profit, the consumer being the loser thereby.

"El Padre" Cigars.

Universally acknowledged to be the finest 10c. cigar manufactured. Don't be persuaded to take other brands. No chemicals or artificial flavorings used.

The Weights and Measures Humbug.

We are requested to call attention to what is pronounced by sufferers, the "weights and measures humbug." Last Saturday (May 15th) a person representing himself as inspector of weights and measures, visited several women and others on the market, telling them that unless their scales were brought to his office in town within a fortnight for inspection, the severest penalties of the law would be visited upon them. Accordingly during the succeeding week several took the trouble to come to town, bringing their scales for inspection, but they were unable to find the imperious inspector nor was he to be found at the place designated. This disappointment is felt to be a great nuisance by the farmers who are much opposed naturally to leaving their farms at a busy season of the year to dance attendance on an inspector who fails to keep his appointments.

An Extract.

The following is an extract from S. U. Nelson & Co's Library Association Catalogue. Books not in our Catalogue will be furnished if you write us giving correct title, and the author's name, and, if possible, the publisher's, and we will then inform the member of the cost of the book, and supply it if desired. Membership fees, $4.00. Premiums, each yearly member on payment of his or her fee, receives from the Association, his or her membership certificate, and as a gift their choice of $5.00 worth of books.

The object of this Association is to cultivate a taste for choice literature, and to enable members to obtain same at a small advance above wholesale prices. The Library Association will supply books only to parties holding Certificates of Membership. The above will go far towards dispelling any doubt that may have arisen in the mind of the public owing to the misrepresentations of interested local dealers. Their actions will recoil against themselves, and defeat the end they have in view by advertising us more fully. We stand on our merits, can they say the same? S. U. Important Sale.

On Monday, May 31st, the hospitably situated and valuable property of Mr. G. A. Mitchell, in the North Ward, lots No. 1 and 2, on the corner of Smith street and Communication Road, will be offered for sale on the premises, by Chas. Stapleton, auctioneer. On lot No. 2 a fine brick dwelling, with kitchen and suitable outbuildings, is erected. This will be an excellent opportunity to secure valuable properties at reasonable prices.

Heavy Cattle.

Mr. Wm. Armstrong, of Otonabee, on Saturday brought into town for Mr. George Webster, butcher and cattle dealer, probably the finest lot of cattle ever exhibited in Peterborough. They were much admired. They were weighed on the market scales and averaged 1,678 pounds, their combined delights being 30,070 pounds. Mr. Armstrong evidently knows how to feed cattle.

Fiftieth Year of the Gore Fire Insurance Company.

We have much pleasure in calling attention to the advertisement of the Gore District Mutual Fire Insurance Company, whose head office is at Galt. This company does business on both the cash and mutual plans, and has of late been so successful that its fiftieth or semi-centennial birthday finds it in the front rank of Canadian insurance companies. The fact that on the 31st December last, the company practically owed nothing except its Re-insurance Reserve, and held assets to the value of $218,896 available to meet losses, over $90,000 of which was in cash or its equivalent, proves it to be as strong financially, (when their relative business is compared) as the best stock companies, with every ability to deal promptly and liberally with sufferers by fire. The rates to those who prefer the cash principle are liberal, and to mutual policy-holders they are about 20 per cent. less than the customary stock rates. Mr. John Hull is agent for Lakefield and vicinity.

Handsome Premises.

During the past few weeks carpenters and painters have been busily engaged in remodeling and repainting the premises occupied by Mr. Adam Hall, on George street. The magic touch of these workmen's hands has strikingly improved the appearance of Mr. Hall's shop, making it one of the most attractive on the street, as well as more convenient in several particulars. A popular plate glass front has been put in, the door and headlight over the door both being supplied with the crystal. The supporting pillars in the front of the shop are painted a rich wine color, while the woodwork of the door is grained a pretty mahogany having an artistic effect. The office which formerly occupied the northern side of the building immediately in front of the window has been removed, giving an unobstructed view from the street, of the handsome stoves on exhibit, arranged on a raised platform on that side of the shop. On the south near the window and at the end of the counter a neat little office, with colored glass top has been placed, the woodwork of which is finished in grained mahogany and oiled oak. The counter and shelving have also received the attention of the painter and now show to advantage Mr. Hall's fine stock of shelf hardware and general house furnishings. His large stock of stoves, tinware, etc., which have been jumbled up during the renovating of the shop, are again neatly arranged and cannot fail to attract the attention of housekeepers. Mr. Hall is now prepared to receive all persons wanting anything in his line of goods. In the manufacturing department his specialties are wrought iron ranges of all kinds, plumbing, gas fitting, iron roofing, eave troughing, etc. The workshops occupy the second flat and are particularly well equipped with all the best machinery and modern appliances, from which the best work is turned out. "Adam Hall" in porcelain lettering on the windows marks the place.

Police Court

John Welsh was arraigned before Police Magistrate Dumble, Tuesday morning, two charges of drunkenness having been preferred against him—the first offence having been committed on Sunday, and the second on Monday. He admitted the charge and was fined $2 and costs in each case.

H. May, charged by Miss T. Cunningham with having threatened to shoot her on Monday last, was summoned before the court.

The defendant seemed very penitent, admitted the charge, and was bound over to keep the peace in a sum of $1,000, and two sureties of $500 each.

May was also charged with a second offence of using abusive language toward Miss Cunningham, which he admitted, and was fined $5 and costs.

POLITICIANS AND WORKINGMEN.

According to the returns of the Ontario Bureau of Industries the average monthly wages for the Province in 1884 was $17.70 with board and $26.78 without; and in 1883 they were $19.28 with board and $27.05 without. By this it is seen that the rate of wages has considerably fallen in these two years, but the last year's average wages shows a still greater reduction, the rate of monthly wages being, in 1885, with board, $16.45, and without board, $24.75; while the year 1886 follows in the downward tendency with the average figures of $16.25 and $24.02, monthly wages with and without board respectively. The report further states that "the supply of farm labourers appears to be ample." Yet, in the face of this fact, in the face of a decided and increasing decline in the rate of wages, the blundering Dominion Government continues appropriating hundreds of thousands of dollars to assist the paupers of the old country to come to Canada to compete in a labour market already supplied so fully that the demand is less than the supply to such an extent that the rate of wages is steadily dropping. Every year the tariff is tinkered, in the interest of monopolist manufacturers, to enable them to still further gorge their purses by preying on the workingman's pocket, members of parliament are bought right and left for the sake of their votes, yet the workman receives no benefit; all that he can get in demand for justice is an extra dose of taxes to enable the government to import pauper labour to cuckoo him (the workingman) out of a job. Workingmen of Canada, in a few months the government and its friends will be patting you on the back and calling you fine fellows. But they are only after your votes; if they had your welfare at heart they would legislate in your interests and not discriminate against you as they are doing year after year.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. Frank Smith, a member of Sir John's Cabinet, resisted the demands of the Toronto street railway employees in disdain, with the addition of calling workmen who stood up for their rights, "a lot of thieves." Hon. Mr. Smith is still in the Dominion Cabinet, therefore, the Toronto News concludes "that not only Frank Smith, but Sir John and the rest of the Cabinet Ministers, believe that the Knights of Labor and trade unionists generally are "a lot of thieves."

The Duke of Connaught's infant daughter has been baptized Victoria Patricia Helena Elizabeth. This the Toronto World remarks is shorter than the usual outfit of princesses and duchesses, but it makes up in weight what it lacks in length. In about a score of years young Patricia will be a Home Ruler, like the young Connaught lady that she is.

ARL. ANARCHIST'S HEAD.

The Typical Lawbreaker in Search the Portrait of Herr Most.

"Whose portrait is that?" a lady asked when shown the photograph from which the accompanying portrait was engraved. "That is Herr Most, the Anarchist." "Well, he looks it" was her laconic comment, and most readers will agree with her. Herr Most has a retreat face and body that would indicate he was not looking only of the gold things of this world. Meeting him with his hat on one would take him to be a well-to-do saloon proprietor. But with his hat removed and his hair closely cropped his physiognomy is one on which no mistake can be made, the characteristics are too strongly defined. The great, heavy jaws, heavy eyes and overhanging eyebrows, the receding forehead, the abnormal development of the posterior portion of his cranium, all indicate a beast admirably adapted for the mission he has in life. What the mouth and chin would show cannot be told, but it is presumed his luxuriant beard covers equally strong characteristics necessary to the man. It does seem cruel to call attention to the abnormal phrenological points of this monster, and yet it is the most charitable thing one can do. His training from childhood has developed the brutal and animal passions to the sacrifice of the inherent humane nature, so that it has molded his head, until it shows the brutal nature within.

Herr Most is what he is because he cannot now be otherwise, though it is unfortunate that men will follow such a leader. He gained his notoriety in Europe some dozen years ago through his connection with a Socialistic organization in Russia, from which Nihilism was developed. He was forced to flee from Russia and lived for a time in Germany and Austria, where he quietly advanced his doctrines and gathered some followers, the outcome of their plotting being, it is claimed, the assassination of the late czar. Germany and Austria becoming too hot for Most and his conspirators they scattered. Their leader next appeared in London, where he was finally imprisoned. On his release he came to this country, as being the last one among the civilized nations that would harbor him. Here he has published his doctrines in a paper called Die Freiheit, growing gradually bolder and bolder until the police and grand jury had become convinced that his methods had become unlawful and ordered him to be locked up, but he could not be found.

Herr Most's last appearance in public was before his "Workingmen's Rifle club," a society of Anarchists in New York. Twenty kegs of beer were drank by his auditors to give them courage. Here he made a speech, rifle in hand. He advised his hearers to arm themselves against the interference of the police and brought his rifle to his shoulder occasionally to illustrate his intentions. Two detectives were in the audience whose evidence will be sufficient to convict Most when caught. Two lieutenants of Most's, who were arrested, became so terrified when they found they were within the law's grasp, that the were willing to promise to renounce Socialism forever if they would be allowed their freedom. This is one of the peculiarities of the Socialist leaders that they are personally arrant cowards. August Spies, the leader of the Chicago Anarchists, is an ardent pupil of Most's in the shedding of blood and yet the sight of blood makes him deathly sick.

TO DEPOSITORS—Deposits are received by this Company both on current account and for periods of one year or longer. The rate of interest paid on amounts deposited on current account and which may be withdrawn by check in such sums as the depositor may from time to time require, is FOUR per cent., either paid or compounded half-yearly, and the rate on yearly deposits is FIVE per cent.

TO INVESTORS—The five and ten year FIVE PER CENT DEBENTURES of this Company which are issued in denominations of $60, $240, $480 and $1000 each, transferable by endorsement, with half-yearly interest Coupons attached, payable at the Head Office of the Company in Peterborough, or at any Branch of the Bank of Toronto in Canada, afford a safe and convenient mode of investment.

RUPTURE CURED
IN FROM 20 TO 90 DAYS BY WEARING
EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 25th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. R. KERR.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child; and 9 out of every 10 of adults. We guarantee it, under proper management, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' names, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS CO., 23 Adelaide St. East, Toronto.

THE LICK OBSERVATORY.

A Californian's Munificent Gift to the Cause of Science.

It is but right that a successful merchant should on dying see to it that his wealth should be distributed among the people from which he collected it, and in the state whose government protected him in the acquisition of that wealth. So thought the late James Lick, one of the richest but greatest old misers of California. James Lick was a Pennsylvanian by birth and a piano and organ maker by trade. He began business life in Philadelphia away back in 1820, but he carried on successively and successfully in Baltimore, Md., Buenos Ayres and Valparaiso, South America, and California. He reached this last place in the early days of 1847, "getting in on the ground floor," as they say in Wall street, in speaking of one who gets a big hold of an enterprise on the start. Old Lick kept cautiously hoarding and increasing his pile until it amounted to some $4,000,000 in 1874.

"And then a wonder came to light" in the shape of a trust deed by which he conveyed all of this fortune to a board of trustees to be divided among public charities and for the erection of valuable scientific institutions.

Among the other bequests was one of $700,000 for the construction and equipment of an astronomical observatory for the University of California. This was a pet project with the donor. He even selected the site for the buildings, and expressed a desire to be buried near them. His wish is to be gratified, as it is intended to chisel a vault out of the solid rock under the pier which will support the great telescope, and here, twenty-five miles from civilization on a lonely mountain top 4,265 feet above the sea, will be the solitary grave of the man who was a recluse in life.

The spot selected for the observatory site is the summit of Mount Hamilton, fifty miles south of San Francisco. The Federal government ceded the land and congress made a grant of all the land embraced within a circle one mile below the summit. A road over twenty miles in length has been constructed from the nearest settlement at a cost of $75,000.

VIEW OF THE OBSERVATORY COLONY.

Work was begun on Lick observatory in 1880, the first being done was to cut off the apex of the peak thirty-one feet so as to form a flat surface on which to construct the buildings. Our illustration from a photograph shows the present appearance of the work, but it conveys no idea of the amount of labor it was to get them there. All the building material, tools, food, water and workmen had to be hauled from the valley below. There are already erected the observatory proper, which is a building 287 feet in length, and three other buildings for various other observations. It was a big undertaking and it is now only waiting the arrival of the great telescope to be completed.

THE GREAT DOME AND TELESCOPE.

This building that will be the center of attraction for astronomers and scientists the world over. In it will be "the most powerful telescope yet made." The order of Mr. Lick's trust deed. It will contain a thirty-six inch objective, the largest ever attempted and the largest the great telescope makers, Alvan Clark & Sons, of Cambridgeport, Mass. The next largest objective, measuring thirty inches in diameter, has recently been finished by the same firm for the government of Russia. At the time of Lick's death the largest telescope in existence was the one in the Naval observatory at Washington, D. C., which has a twenty-six inch objective, and Lord Rosse's great six-foot reflecting telescope in Ireland. The imperial government of Austria has just constructed a very powerful telescope with a twenty seven inch objective, but it is the intention of the trustees of the Lick observatory to keep ahead of the world in the power of their telescope.

The dome in which shown in their sectional plan presented herewith. It will weigh fifty tons, being probably seventy feet in diameter, though this cannot be determined until the polishing of the objective is completed and its focal length is found. This, it is hoped, will be accomplished this year, and two years later this country can proudly claim the best equipped astronomical observatory in existence.

ST. LOUIS JOCKEY CLUB HOUSE.

A Building For the Accommodation of Lovers of the Turf.

ST. LOUIS JOCKEY CLUB HOUSE.

The St. Louis Jockey club is one of the institutions of the city, and is now building a club house which will be one of the attractions to the visitor. It is a beauty, architecturally, of the Queen Anne style, and is to cost $50,000. The entrance to the building is from the side shown in the illustration, though the front proper faces the fine race track and combines two broad piazzas, from which a splendid view of the whole course may be had. Though these porches will be an important feature on racing days, it is to the social features of the club that architect Thomas Walsh has devoted most of his skill. There are large and small parlors and complete private dining rooms, an ample reception hall, billiard rooms and bowling alleys, gymnasium and all the appointments of a well regulated club house, with the additional attractive feature of [illegible] have [illegible] ... fruits to be given [illegible]

A Risky Venture.

"I'd give a good deal if I had such a pure healthy skin as you have," said a lady to a friend. "Just look at mine, all spots and blotches, and rough as a grater. Tell me the secret of your success in always looking so well." "There is no secret about it was the reply. "Dr. Pierce's 'Golden Medical Discovery' cleansed my blood, and when that was done, my skin, which was worse than yours, began to look smooth and healthy as you see it now." d121-6tw21

Don't be Duped.

Smokers will further their own interest by insisting upon having the "Cable" or "El Padre" brands of cigars, which have stood the test for a quarter of a century, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to persuade them to take other brands which pay them a larger profit, the consumer being the loser thereby.

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Commissioners' Meeting.

A meeting of the East Riding License Commissioners was held in town to-day. Nothing of public importance was transacted, the business disposed of, all being of a routine character.

A Demand From Afar.

Messrs. Porter Bros., carriage builders, to-day shipped a phaeton to Mr. John Dixon in the Northwest, and they are finishing two more for shipment to the same neighborhood. Such practical testimonials to the excellence of the work of this establishment speak louder than words.

Break-down.

Yesterday evening the old square watering cart, when being hauled away from the stand-pipe on Hunter street, broke down, the axletree breaking in two. The jolt in leaving the new platform placed under the pipe was too great for the axle and it gave way.

The First Blank Cartridge.

The charge against Francis Martigny for violation of the Scott Act is the first preferred by the Scott Act Association in which a conviction has not been made. Mr. Edwards says it will show dealers in temperance drinks that they are closely watched, if it does no other good.

Seizure of Liquor.

Inspector Cochrane and P. C. Adams visited a number of places yesterday which were suspected of keeping liquor for sale. Darcy's hotel was the only place at which their search was successful. They discovered a quantity of liquor in the room formerly occupied by the Town Clerk, which they confiscated and carried to the police station. Whether it was tried immediately or not is not known.

Crushed by a Key Press.

Mr. Frank Burdett, an employee of the Peterborough Lock Works, this afternoon, while engaged in running a power press used in cutting keys and small pieces of machinery, had the misfortune to crush very severely the thumb and first finger of his right hand. The machine, which is a powerful one, was running rapidly at the time. He immediately proceeded to Dr. Kidcaid's office where the wounds received the necessary attention. The thumb bone was found to be broken above the first joint and the flesh severely lacerated, while the first finger was jammed and lacerated at the first joint, but not broken. The doctor has hopes that Mr. Burdett will not lose the use of the crushed members, although he will be laid up for a time.

Peterboroughians in Luck.

Mr. James Stewart has received notification that at the latest drawing of the Art Union, of London, of which Mr. J. H. Roper is the town agent, he was successful in drawing a painting valued at £70 sterling—"General Monk Declaring for a Free Parliament," by the late E. M. Ward, R.A. This is one of the three grand drawings, the other two going to Spain and Australia respectively. Among the other lucky members was Mr. H. LeBrun who is entitled, by virtue of his "little draw," to select a work of art of the value of £15 sterling. Both gentlemen are to be congratulated, especially if the artist's drawing was as happy in its results as their own.

Band Uniforms.

Recently the public have asked why the Fire Brigade Band does not appear on the streets in uniform. The explanation is simple. Their uniforms have become so shabby that they are not fit to be worn. The present remains of a uniform have lasted a long time, and it is necessary that they be replaced by something new and nobby. All classes are interested in having the band appear properly and uniformly clad. The boys furnish good music liberally and without stint. The public enjoy it free of cost, and it is to the public that the band naturally looks for assistance in the matter of securing new uniforms. If the town Council gave a small grant as a encious, there is little doubt that the required balance could, with proper effort, be secured. The Fire Brigade Band is a credit to the town and a musical organization no city would be ashamed of, and it should be accorded a hearty support. The imminent changes in the headquarters of the Peterborough Rangers and the reorganization of the corps might be turned to advantage in the premises.

Guelph papers publish the names of voters against whom, or in whose behalf, appeals have been made, and urge their attendance at the Courts of Revision.

Mr. Alex. Hamilton, of Thurlow, has just had a small tumor successfully removed from his face, and another, weighing 2½ pounds, taken from his breast.

The City Battalion.

Active Steps will be Taken to Organize Additional Officers and New Companies Required.

Active steps are being taken by the officers of the 57th Battalion in town to proceed with the formation of a City Battalion in town since the government sanction has been granted, and a meeting will be held on Tuesday evening next for organization. Captain Edwards will meet with his Company, No. 1, Friday night, in the drill shed, for re-organization. The local members of the Battalion are highly delighted with the change, and it is affirmed that many men of the right stamp are applying for admission to the ranks of the soon to be City Battalion. The formation of the Battalion will necessitate the appointment of several officers, but that difficulty will be easily overcome where so many competent men are to be found. Lieut-Col. Rogers is making arrangements for the necessary clothing, red coats and blue trowsers; and also for the transfer of arms from Keene, Norwood and Hastings to town. The gallant Lieut-Colonel by his untiring efforts to bring about the desired end, in which he has been successful, has won the appreciation of both officers and men.

Personal.

Rev. F. H. Wallace, M.A., B.D., left for Toronto last evening on ministerial business.

Dr. Hodge and family, who have been the guests of Mr. J. B. McWilliams since the former's return from Europe, left this morning for Mitchell, where Dr. Hodge intends resuming the practice of his profession.

Mr. J. F. White, Toronto, one of the two Provincial Inspectors of Separate Schools, is in town in an official capacity. He spent yesterday and this morning in inspecting the Central School, Murray street, and will inspect the Convent this afternoon and the Lake street school to-morrow.

We regret to learn that owing to ill health Mr. James Henry, B. A., barrister, has been compelled to withdraw from the practice of his profession for a time. Last evening's DAILY EXAMINER contains a notice of the dissolution of the firm of Dumble & Henry. This step was found necessary in order to afford to Mr. Henry that perfect rest and freedom from care, ordered by his physician. We hope that our talented and popular young townsman may speedily regain his old time vigor and be enabled to return to a profession in which his learning and ability will certainly secure him an honorable position.

Police Court

Two More Cases of Violation of the Scott Act—The Charge Against Joseph Martigny Dismissed.

Police Court opened at 10 o'clock this morning before Police Magistrate Dumble. The docket consisted of charges against R. N. Roddy and Catharine Roddy and Joseph Martigny for violation of the Scott Act.

Just before the court opened Mr. R. N. Roddy entered the room with a good sized valise in his hand. From this he produced seven bottles of different styles, a glass, spoon and lemon, with which he decorated a small table in front of the magistrate's desk, giving it the appearance of a miniature bar.

QUEEN VS. RODDY.

The charge against Robert and Catharine Roddy for violation of the Scott Act, in keeping for sale intoxicating liquor between the 1st and 25th days of May, was first called.

Mr. Roddy appeared for himself and wife and pleaded not guilty. He said he was ready for trial if all his witnesses were present, but objected to P. M. Dumble sitting on the case as he was subpœnaed as a witness.

The names of the witnesses were called, among whom were J. W. Flavelle, Geo. A. Cox, P. C. Adams and P. C. Pidgeon and D. W. Dumble.

The prosecution not being prepared to proceed, the case was adjourned till to-morrow morning.

Mr. Roddy while objecting to an enlargment, packed up his valise, leaving out the lemon which he presented to Mr. Edwards.

QUEEN VS. MARTIGNY

Joseph Martigny, peanut vendor, charged with a similar offence was summoned before the court. He pleaded not guilty and the hearing of the case was proceeded with.

Francis Main, John Fry, Peter O'Neil, John Masters were sworn and testified that they had been at Martigny's on several occasions for fruit, tobacco, peanuts, etc., but had got no intoxicating liquor to drink.

Joseph Martigny, sworn, testified that he had no intoxicating liquor on his premises since May 1st; did not sell or give any away. Lots of full men came to his house. They were "drunk like h—l" and asked him for liquor, but did not get any. He kept nothing stronger than ginger beer. By way of illustration he produced a bottle from his pocket, knocked in the cork, poured out half a glass, which he left on the table for inspection, and drank what was left in the bottle.

Mr. J. O'Meara appeared for the defendant.

The magistrate held that there was no evidence against Martigny, and dismissed the charge against him. He expressed himself as pleased that Martigny had not broken the law, and hoped he would keep clear of selling liquor.

The court then adjourned.

Mr. Moore, who appeared for Mr. Lipsett, pleaded guilty.

The magistrate imposed the usual fine of $50 and costs, to be paid in five days.

The Medals Arrived.

Lieut.-Col. J. Z. Rogers yesterday received from the Militia Department forty-six silver medals for presentation to the members of the late "G" Company of the Midland Battalion, as a recognition of the gallant services rendered by them in suppressing the rebellion in the Northwest. The medals are considerably larger than a 50c. piece and are appropriately designed. On one side the profile of the Queen is raised, while the other bears the words: "Northwest, 1886, Canada," encircled in a wreath of maple leaves. Col. Rogers has communicated with Capt. Burke, and arrangements will be made for the presentation of the medals.

DR. TALMAGE ON LABOR

"HOW EMPLOYERS OUGHT TO TREAT THEIR EMPLOYES."

Without Submitting to Dictation from Anyone, Employers Should Take a Christian Interest in the Welfare of Those They Employ.

BROOKLYN, May 23.—Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., to-day preached the second in his series of sermons on the great Labor discussion, the subject being: "How Employers Ough to Treat Employes." The opening hymn was:

Glory to God on high,
Let heaven and earth reply.

Dr. Talmage chose two texts, the first from Galatians, v., 15: "If ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another;" and Philippians, ii., 4: "Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others." Following is the sermon in full.

The labor agitation will soon quit. The mills will again open, the railroads resume their traffic, our national prosperities again start. Of course, the damage done by the strikes cannot immediately be repaired. Wages will not be so high as they were. Spasmodically they may be higher, but they will drop lower. Strikes, whether right or wrong, always injure laborers more than the capitalists. You will see this in the starvation of next winter. Boycotting and violence and murder never pay. They are different stages of anarchy. God never blessed murder. The worst use you can put a man to is to kill him. Blow up to-morrow all the country seats on the banks of the Hudson, and all the fine houses on Madison square and Brooklyn heights, and Bunker Hill and Rittenhouse square and Beacon street, and all the bricks and timber and stones will just fall back on the bare hands of American labor. The worst enemies of the working classes in the United States and Ireland are their demented coadjutors. Assassination—the assassinations of Lord Frederick Cavendish and Mr. Burke, in Phœnix park, Dublin, Ireland, in the attempt to avenge the wrongs of Ireland, only turned away from that afflicted people millions of sympathizers. The attempts to blow up the house of commons in London had only this effect, to throw out of employment tens of thousands of innocent Irish people in England. In this country the torch put to the factories that have discharged hands for good or bad reasons; obstructions on the rail tracks in front of midnight express trains, because the offenders do not like the president of the company; strikes on shipboard the hour they were going to sail, or in printing offices the hour the paper was to go to press, or in the mines the day the coal was to be delivered, or on house scaffoldings, as the builder fails in keeping his contract—all these are only a hard blow on the head of American labor, and cripple its arms, and lame its feet, and pierce its heart. Traps sprung suddenly upon employers and violence never took one knot out of the knuckles of toil, or put one farthing of wages into a callous palm. Barbarism will never cure the wrongs of civilization. Mark that.

Frederick the Great admired some land near his palace at Potsdam, and he resolved to get it. It was owned by a miller. He offered the miller three times the value of the property. The miller would not take it because it was the old homestead, and he felt about as Naboth felt about his vineyard when Ahab wanted it. Frederick the Great was a rough and forcible man, and he dodged the miller into his presence, and the king with a stick in his hand—a stick with which he sometimes struck the officers of state—said to the miller: "Now, I have offered you three times the value of that property, and if you won't sell it I'll take it anyhow." The miller said: "Your majesty, you won't." "Yes," said the king, "I will take it." "Then," said the miller, "if your majesty does take it I will sue you in the chancery court." At that threat Frederick the Great yielded his infamous demand. And the most imperious outrage against the working classes will yet cower before the law. Violence and contrary to the law will never accomplish anything, but righteousness and according to the law will accomplish it.

But gradually the damages done the laborer by the strikes will be repaired, and some important things ought now to be said.

The whole tendency of our times, as you have noticed, is to make the chasm between employer and employe wider and wider. In olden time the head man of the factory, the master builder, the capitalist, the head men of the firm worked side by side with their employes, working sometimes at the same bench, dining at the same table; and there are those here who can remember the time when the clerks of large commercial establishments were accustomed to board with the head men of the firm.

All that is changed, and the tendency is to make the distance between employer and employe wider and wider. The tendency is to make the employe feel that he is wronged by the success of the capitalist, and to make the capitalist feel: "Now my laborers are only cradle of burden; I must give so much money for so much drudgery, just so many pieces of silver for so many heads of sweat." In other words, the bridge of sympathy is broken down at both ends. That feeling was well described by Thomas Carlyle, when he said: "Pigeon, of St. Dolly Winter-Rot, buccaneer-like said to his men: 'Noble spinners, this in the hundredth thousand we have gained whereby I mean to plant my vineyards. The hundred-thousand pound is mine, the daily wage was yours. Adieu, noble spinners; drink my health with this great cask which I give you over and above.'"

Now, what we want is to rebuild that bridge of sympathy, and I put the support of one of the abutments to-day; and I speak more especially this morning to employers as such, although what I have to say will be appropriate to all who are in the house.

The outrageous behavior of a multitude of laborers toward their employers during the last three months, behavior inhuman and worthy of most cruel punishment, may have instead proved employers to unparalleled Christian forbearance that many in their employ.

Do not be too ready to cut down wages. As far as possible pay the and pay promptly. There is a great deal of Bible teaching on this subject. Malachi: "I will be a swift witness against all sorcerers and against all adulterers and against those who oppress the hireling in his wages." Leviticus: "Thou shalt not keep the wages of the hireling all night unto the morning." Colossians: "Masters, give unto your servants that which is just and equal, knowing that ye also have a Master in heaven." So you see it is not a question between you and your employe so much as it is a question between you and God.

Do not say to your employes: "Now, if you don't like this place get another," when you know they cannot get another. As far as possible once a year visit, at their houses, your clerks and your workmen. That is the only way you can become acquainted with their wants. You will by such precept find out that there is a blind parent or a sick sister being supported. You will find some of your young men in rooms without any fire in winter, and in summer sweltering in ill-ventilated apartments. You will find how much depends on the wages you pay or withhold. On Saturday morning, when you come into your counting room to draw the check which will bring the money for the wages or the salaries, you will have a thrill of satisfaction in knowing it is not only the money you give to the young man, but the relief to the dire necessities which stand back of him.

Moreover, it is your duty as employer, as far as possible, to mold the welfare of the employe. You ought to advise him about investments, about life insurance, about savings banks. You ought to give him the benefit of your experience. There are hundreds and thousands of employers in this country and England, I am glad to say, who are settling in the very best possible way the destiny of their employes. Such men as Marshall, of Leeds; Lister, of Bradford; Akroyd, of Halifax, and men so near at home it might offend their modesty if I mentioned their names. These men have built reading rooms, libraries, concert halls, afforded cricquet lawns, cricket grounds, gymnasiums, choral societies for their employes, and they have not merely paid the wages on Saturday night, but, through the contentment and the thrift and the good morals of their employes, they are paying wages from generation to generation forever.

Again, I counsel all employers to look well after the physical health of their subordinates. You are expected to understand better than they all these questions of ventilation and sunshine, and all the laws of hygiene.

There are stores and banking houses, and factories and newspaper establishments where the atmosphere is death. Your employes may always appreciate your work, as that style of kindness was not appreciated in the instance mentioned by Charles Reade, where in a great factory a fan was provided for the blowing away of the dust of metal and stone, the dust arising from the machinery, and some of the workmen refused to put this great fan in motion. They seemed to prefer to inhale the filings—the poisonous filings—into their lungs. But in the vast majority of cases your employes will appreciate every kindness in that direction.

Do not put on them any unnecessary fatigue. I never could understand why the drivers on our city cars must stand all day when they might just as well sit down and drive. It seems to me most unrighteous that so many of the female clerks in our stores should be compelled to stand all day, and through those hours wear there are but few or no customers. These people have aches and annoyance and weariness enough without putting upon them additional fatigue. Unless those female clerks must go up and down on the benches of the store let them sit down. At the end of the year you will find that they have sold as many goods and made as fine bargains, yea, better, for one clerk with a clear brain and rested body and radiance will sell more goods than two clerks with health badraggled.

Then I would have you carry out this sanitary idea, and put into as few hours as possible the work of the day. Some time ago—whether it has been changed I know not—there were one thousand grocer clerks in Brooklyn who went to business at 5 o'clock in the morning and continued until 10 o'clock at night. Now, that is inhuman.

It seems to me all the merchants in all departments ought, by simultaneous movement, to come out in behalf of the early closing theory. These young men ought to have an opportunity of going to the mercantile library, to the reading rooms, to the concert hall, to the gymnasium, to the church. They have souls, they have brains, they have intellectual aspirations, they have immortal spirits. If they can do a good round day's work in the till or shop

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spring-action trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. I [illegible] publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. H. [illegible]

This new Spiral Spring Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every case; and 20 out of every 100 of others. By return mail, send your address on postal card, but send stamp for your trouble; it contains full information, how and why, with price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

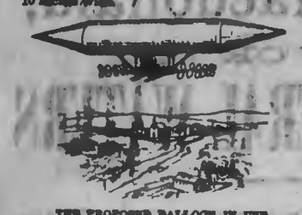
ANOTHER FLYING MACHINE.

An Inventor Who Intends to Navigate the Air With a Steel Balloon.

Dr. de Baumet, of Chicago, has been experimenting in the endeavour to solve the problem of aerial navigation, and has published the results of his labors. He has hit on an entirely novel material for the construction of his balloon, which he renders buoyant in an exceptional manner. He has made a practical test of his device, which he claims was successful. Previous workers in this direction have been making balloons of silk and muslin. De Baumet proposes to use steel. The previous balloons have been filled with a light gas or heated air. In this case he expects to produce rarefied air through a partial vacuum.

The plan is to build a steel cylinder 150 feet long and 75 feet in diameter, with a 50 foot cone at each end, the whole length being 450 feet. Beneath this cylinder it is proposed to suspend a car, which will be about 120 feet long and carry the motor and a large number of passengers. The inflation process will be dispensed with and the cylinder will be almost a complete vacuum. The inventor proposes to use electricity as a motor, and expects to attain a speed of fifteen to twenty miles an hour near the earth's surface, and forty-five to sixty miles an hour at an altitude of 6,000 feet. To accomplish this he will use dynamo electric motors, which will rotate twelve screws and displace 300,000 cubic feet of air a minute. The cylinder is to be built of steel plates 64 inches long and 10 inches wide.



THE PROPOSED BALLOON IN USE.

The cylinder will be a vacuum to three-quarters, one quarter being reserved to counteract the atmospheric pressure of 1.66 pounds. To raise the aeroplane with the car attached, the machinery and 200 persons, the pressure is 8.55 pounds, giving a margin of eighty tons of air in reserve in the cylinder to carry merchandise. With the eighty tons of air displaced, the atmospheric pressure will be eleven pounds.

De Baumet has found the steel plates and found they would withstand a pressure even greater than was expected. But the all important question yet to be determined is whether airtight joints can be maintained during the rack and straining to which such a cylinder as this will be subjected. The scheme has many interesting features, and its development will be watched with interest.

Colorado's New Capitol.

The "Centennial state" is about to have a capitol building in the city of Denver worthy of her dazzling wealth. Like the town that could not purchase a fire engine because the wealthy citizens wanted a "steamer" and the workingmen wanted a hand "jumper," Colorado has had a conflict between the bonanza members of its legislature and the hayseed representatives as to the cost of the structure. The silver nabobs would, of course, like to have much of the precious metals of which they are possessed used in the construction of the building, while a common stone structure was deemed adequate by the common granters. Well, they compromised on a $1,000,000 building of the design shown herewith.

THE PROPOSED BUILDING.

Architects from the country over were invited to compete with designs for the building. Prizes of $1,500, $1,000 and $500 being specified for the three best plans. Twenty sets of plans were submitted and the prizes were awarded E. E. Myers, W. Detroit; F. M. Petrottia, of Denver, and H. B. Seally, respectively, for the three best plans, and in the order named. The design adopted being that of Mr. Myers, the one shown in our illustration.

The building is to be 336 feet long, 192 feet deep and 236 feet high, and will be constructed of smooth dark-brown quarryfaced stone. There are to be three floors beside a [illegible] The first floor, reached by broad steps from the outer side, will contain the offices of the governor and other state officials. The upper two stories will be taken up with the legislative chambers and the room of the supreme court, the law library and committee rooms. The rotunda in the centre of the building will be forty-five feet in diameter, and will contain three balconies, one of which will be placed above the first floor, over all will be a handsome dome, which will be seen for miles in all directions. The building is to be completed in 1890.

S. A. Jubilee.

The local corps of the Salvation Army held a jubilee in their barracks last night. Special Capt. Philpot and Mrs. Capt. Eadie had charge of the meeting. The Lakefield division were well represented at the meeting and assisted in the jubilee.

Another Jubilee.

It is said that the Italians, Martigny, Anthony and others, who live opposite the Salvation Army barracks, hold a jubilee last night at the same time as the army. The cause of rejoicing was over the success of Martigny in proving his innocence at the police court yesterday when charged with selling liquor.

Important Sale.

On Monday, May 31st, the beautifully situated and valuable property of Mr. G. A. Mitchell, in the North Ward, lots No. 1 and 2, on the corner of Smith street and Communication Road, will be offered for sale on the premises, by Chas. Stapleton, auctioneer. On lot No. 2 a fine brick dwelling, with kitchen and suitable outbuildings, is erected. This will be an excellent opportunity to secure valuable properties at reasonable prices.

Chatting the Chief and His Big Aids.

At the closing exercises of the Salvation Army jubilee meetings at Belleville, there was an "experience meeting" in which those who had been confined in prison for marching in the streets and banging drums, "told their experience." "But," says the Ontario, Capt. Smith, of Peterborough,—a dark-eyed sprightly lassie—caused the most amusement when she told how the "poor little Chief of Police and another big policeman had tried to stop her marching on the street but she "wouldn't give in, no, not a little bit" and now no objection was made to the Army's work." Trust a woman for having the last word.

Answer to "Lex."

Chief Cooper wishes us to state in reply to the communication of "Lex" in Tuesday evening's EXAMINER that he was not at the Driving Park at the time the gaming was going on. During the day he had sufficient to occupy his attention in town, but, to insure proper order at the Driving Park, he appointed, at the request of the directors of the park, four special constables, who were on duty there all afternoon. Hearing that several "sharks" were pushing their trade at the park, he, at his own expense, hired a vehicle and drove there with all expedition. On arriving at the grounds he found that the objectionable parties had been ordered up and out some time before, and they did not return while he was there.

The Postoffice Deal.

The excavation for the new postoffice on the Hunter street site has been finished about a fortnight, and there the work stands. There must be some reason for the cessation of operations that seems to have taken place. And various surmises are indulged in, ranging from a change of site to a change putting both postal and revenue offices under one roof. There is an African in the enclosure somewhere and the mystery is still further deepened by the fact that the first batch of Dominion Supplementary Estimates contains no appropriation for the further prosecution of work on the postoffice or other buildings. Of the $15,000 appropriated several years ago, about ten thousand have been expended in the purchase of the twin sites, and less than $5,000 is a small sum to carry on the erection of buildings to cost $60,000. At that rate of expenditure, supposing that the $5,000 of balance is spent this year, it will take 12 1-2 years to complete the public buildings promised to Peterborough in 1881 or '82. It is hopeless to pronounce on anything positive in this postoffice deal, for Sir Hector shuffles his twin cards with the dexterity of a "two"-card-monte swindler.

Personal.

Rev. Canon Chaperon, M. A., R. D., of Millbrook, conducted services, preparatory to the communion services, in St. Andrew's church this afternoon.

Police Court.

NUMBER TWELVE.

Queen vs. Simpson.—John Simpson, jr., charged by Inspector Cochrane with unlawfully keeping intoxicating liquor for sale between the 1st and 20th of May, was summoned before the court.

Mr. Moore, counsel for the defendant, admitted the charge.

NUMBER THIRTEEN.

Queen vs. Darcy.—Elizabeth Darcy charged with keeping intoxicating liquor for sale between the 15th and 20th of May, contrary to the Scott Act, was next called.

Mr. W. Stratton, who appeared for the defendant admitted the charge.

The magistrate imposed a fine of $20 to be paid in 24 hours; in default of payment and distress, 2 months in jail.

NUMBER FOURTEEN.

Queen vs. Hamilton.—R. D. Hamilton, on a charge of violation of the Scott Act preferred by Inspector Cochrane, was next called. Mr. Stratton, who appeared for the defendant, admitted the charge, and the magistrate imposed the usual fine of $50 and costs.

NUMBER FIFTEEN.

Queen vs. Roddy.—The charge against R. N. Roddy and Elizabeth Roddy, for violation of the Scott Act, enlarged from yesterday, was next called.

Mr. Roddy asked for a further enlargement, his counsel, Mr. O'Meara, being absent.

On Mr. Edwards asking Mr. Roddy where his counsel was he answered that Mr. O'Meara had gone to Toronto before 10 o'clock this morning to confer with Mr. Blackstock.

The magistrate refused to enlarge the case, and it was proceeded with, with the understanding that any objections Mr. Roddy's counsel raised to the proceedings could be allowed.

John Scattergood, sworn, testified that he had "Chief" in Roddy's on two occasions; he got ginger ale to drink at Roddy's; he did not know that Roddy kept intoxicating liquor for sale.

Enos Dunford testified that he had been at Roddy's several times since May 1st; he got something to drink, but did not know what it was; a man gave him something to put in his ginger beer when he drank. Mr. Thos. Clancy gave him something out of a flask on one occasion—when he drank at Roddy's; he could not swear that it was whiskey; he supposed Clancy was in charge of the bar, but he skipped out since; he did not think there was any whiskey in it; when he asked what it was, the bartender said it was better than nothing; he had many drinks since the 1st of May, the majority of which he got from persons who carried pocket flasks.

Thos. Parrington testified that he had been at Roddy's on business on several occasions since May 1st; he drank ginger beer with the last witness.

Mr. Edwards asked the witness if he had had a drink with Enos Dunford at Roddy's.

The witness answered, "I had a cigar."

Mr. Edwards asked him to answer yes or no, which he refused. He also refused to answer yes or no, after being cautioned by the magistrate.

The magistrate then committed the witness to jail for ten days for contempt of court, and he was taken off to jail by a constable.

Wm. Reynolds testified that he had been at Roddy's almost every day since May 1st. He had several drinks at Roddy's, but did not pay for it directly or indirectly. Enos Dunford gave him a drink of rye whiskey from a flask at Roddy's; he had ginger beer to drink and would not swear that there was any intoxicating liquor in it; he saw a number of persons drunk in the hotel but did not know where they procured the liquor.

Mr. Roddy was called and objected to being sworn in the case.

The magistrate overruled the objection, but allowed another witness to be called.

Mr. Bowman, formerly bar-keeper for R. N. Roddy, testified that he had had several drinks at Roddy's, all of a soft nature; he neither sold or drank anything intoxicating at Roddy's since May 1st.

John Murray testified that he had been at Roddy's on May 24th, when he had a drink of ginger beer with a piece of lemon floating on it; the liquor was poured out from a pitcher. To the best of his knowledge it was ginger beer,—what he asked for.

An important witness not answering to his name when called, the case was enlarged till Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

VICIOUS DOG.

Mr. W. J. Watson was summoned before the court charged by Mr. C. Halpin, with keeping a vicious dog.

The magistrate on hearing the evidence enlarged the case, to allow Mr. Haslin an opportunity to produce a witness to prove that the "old dog" had bitten a second party which he claimed it had, and that it was the dog that bit the boy.

LIQUOR SPILT.

Inspector Cochrane made an affidavit to the effect that the jar of liquor found by him in a room adjoining the billiard room, above Darcy's was intoxicating, to his belief what is known as "cocktail." The liquor was produced and a quantity poured out in a glass for trial. The magistrate ordered Chief Cooper to spill the liquor on the street, which was done.

NUMBER SIXTEEN.

QUEEN vs. CROFT.—Wm. Croft, charged with unlawfully keeping liquor for sale between the 1st and 20 of May, was next called.

Mr. Moore appeared for the defendant and pleaded not guilty.

Thos. Blezzard, M. P. P., testified that he had been at Croft's hotel about once a week since May 1st; he had several drinks of pop and ginger beer with several friends, but nothing intoxicating; he had been in the bar when parties asked for intoxicating drinks, under the name of "a curtain," etc., and Mr. Croft and the bartender both refused to supply it on any consideration.

The court then adjourned till 2 o'clock.

Mr. Croft's wife was first called that up to the 1st of May he kept an hotel at the corner of Hunter and Water streets. His stock of liquors was run very low, amounting to two gallons of native cherry and a gallon of John Bull Bitters, which was removed a day or two after the first; it was removed to a house north of the hotel property, the key of which he carried in his pocket. No intoxicating liquors of any kind had been sold on the premises since the 1st of May.

Mr. Edwards said he would accept Mr. Croft's statement and call no further witnesses.

The magistrate dismissed the case with costs.

Mr. Croft asked to have Mr. Flavelle sworn, but the magistrate did not consider it necessary.

Mr. Danford, re-called, testified that the liquor he had in the flask was whiskey and port wine, which he got at home; it was bought before the Scott Act came in force; he gave the contents away.

LOOKING OUT FOR PLACES.

Sir Hector Langevin knows that he cannot be re-elected for the constituency of Three Rivers, and is looking to Bonaventure. To make this riding solid for the twin post office site Minister the Government proposes to bribe it with the people's money. A grant of $6200 per mile for 100 miles of road or $620,000 has been made to the Baie des Chaleurs Railway, running through the riding and Sir Hector is pushing the bill to change the terms of the grant to virtually give away the road which the Government was to own in consideration of the grant. The indications are that great as was the bribery corruption and shameful waste in the Pacific Scandal general elections it will not be a patch upon the amount which will be spent, of the people's money, in the coming general elections to maintain the Government in power. The enormous sum of two hundred millions has been added to the public debt since Confederation and the piling up process continues without abatement. The enormous taxation imposed upon the country does not suffice for meeting the current expenses of Government, because millions have been and are being wasted by the Government to purchase political support. The country can't stand this sort of thing much longer and it is hardly a matter of doubt that, at the coming elections the people will rise in their might and "turn the rascals out."

OUR FIRST ANNIVERSARY.

One year ago to-day the first number of the DAILY EXAMINER was issued. At that time the want of a daily edition, to meet the requirements of a business that, through the generous appreciation of the public, had outgrown the capacity of the weekly edition, and the want of a daily journal to represent the large Liberal element in our constituency, decided us in undertaking the enterprise. Though the financial result has not been of a nature to subject the publisher to the Scriptural penalty of one who "maketh haste to get rich," yet, in this respect, considering the invariable difficulties that prevent a new journalistic venture from being immediately remunerative, no reason for complaint exists. The success has, in this respect, been equal to expectations. In other respects, the DAILY EXAMINER has cause for self-congratulation. It has a very large and steadily increasing circulation, a gratifying mark of recognition of an adequate fulfilment of its mission. Consequent upon this is the fact that its advertising patronage is unprecedentedly liberal. Starting as a six-column paper, the pressure of advertisements became so large that before the expiration of its first year it was compulsory to permanently enlarge to a seven-column size. In order to meet the wants of our advertising patrons and at the same time, give space for a full presentation of current local news, which is expected of a live local daily newspaper, such as the EXAMINER, aims, and it may be said, we trust, without vanity, successfully aims to be. Practical expressions of appreciation of an honest attempt to discharge a duty faithfully are most encouraging. We take this occasion to tender our thanks to all those who have, by their generous patronage of the DAILY and WEEKLY EXAMINER, as of all the several branches of our business, earned our gratitude, and to assure them that our aim will be to make them all continuously more deserving of our support.

Following Suit.

The Whitby Chronicle thus refers to an editorial item that appeared a few days since in the EXAMINER:—

"The Peterborough EXAMINER does not approve of the Senate as at present constituted, but since the Senate is a fact and not likely to be altered under the present administration, the EXAMINER urges equal representation for the country, in that body. The EXAMINER thinks Mr. H. Calcutt, of Ashburnham, a good man to take the place of the late Hon. John Simpson. The Chronicle endorses all the EXAMINER says of Mr. Calcutt. He is a good and honorable gentleman, and if there is to be an appointment made to the Senate, from this part of the province, no better choice can be made than H. Calcutt, Esq."

DOMINION PARLIAMENT.

Fifth Parliament—Fourth Session.

THURSDAY, MAY 27th.

In the House of Commons to-day the bill respecting property in the North-west Territories was read a third time.

The greater part of the afternoon was spent in committee on Mr. Chapleau's bill establishing a Bureau of Printing and Stationery. After recess the bill was reported and read a third time, a motion for a six months' hoist being defeated.

Mr. McLean moved the House into Committee of Ways and Means, and announced a number of tariff changes, including the prohibition of the sale and manufacture of oleomargarine, the re-adjustment of the sugar duties, and the increase of the export duties on saw logs.

Mr. Cameron (Huron) took this opportunity of substantiating some charges made in his speech on timber limits.

Mr. Somerville (Brant) moved for a committee to enquire into the charge made against Mr. Cameron (Victoria) of offering to procure a grant to the Erie and Huron Railway for a percentage. Mr. Cameron (Victoria) having denied the charge the Speaker ruled the motion out of order. The House then went into Committee of Ways and Means. The resolution was adopted, and the House adjourned at 2.45 a. m.

Meritorious Machinery

Turned Out by the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company.

The superiority of the saw mill and other machinery made by the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company keeps the establishment constantly employed with a full staff of workmen. During the present year they have been so busy that, in order to keep pace with their orders, it has been necessary to work from seven o'clock in the morning till ten o'clock at night, and it is only this week that orders have been sufficiently overtaken to admit of a return to ten hours per day.

No establishment in Canada can approach this one for perfection and solidity of work, and none in the United States is superior to it.

The William Hamilton Manufacturing Company is the first in Canada to manufacture band saws for cutting logs into lumber. The first completed apparatus has been supplied to the Muskoka Mill and Lumber Company, but it is not yet got into operation.

The Company is making, and have nearly completed, a band saw for Messrs. Hall Bros., Buckingham, P. Q. This gigantic band saw is on the same principle as the ordinary one, used in factories, only on a much larger scale. The saw for the one in question is six inches in width and forty nine feet in length. The advantage of these saws is that the cut is about twice as rapid as a single saw in a gang, for it is continuous, and the saving in the width of the cut is fully 25 per cent.—equivalent to an extra band or two in every averaged sized log. Each saw is capable of cutting from 30,000 to 35,000 feet per day. The pulleys for this board saw are each eight feet in diameter. The iron column supporting the upper pulley is eighteen feet in height and the total weight of this and the iron foundation which rests on the masonry and of the attached machinery all of which the company supplies from special patterns, is 20,000 lbs. or ten tons. The machinery will be shipped early next week.

Besides, the company is engaged in building for Mr. C. Anderson, Little Current, Manitoulin Island, a 32-saw gang, and the accompanying machinery. The saws are short and are geared to run at a very high rate of speed, with a short (7 inch) stroke. The cutting capacity is 100,000 feet per day of ten hours. The company has recently sent out two other of these gangs, one to Messrs. Hall, Neilson & Co., Three Rivers, and the other to the Ontario Lumber Company, French River. As indicating the wide area of demand for the product of these works, it may again be mentioned that recently the company shipped to the United States—Hurd, Hotchkiss & Whipple, New York State—a twin circular with gearing, adjustable to cut a slab a width of 6 to 26 inches. The establishment is to be congratulated upon the prosperity which its superior machinery produces, and it is one of which the town may speak with just pride.

A Peterborough Canoeist Abroad.

The Lindsay Post, in speaking of the canoe sailing races at the meet of the Lindsay, Peterborough and Bobcaygeon clubs at Sturgeon Point on May 24th, says:—"The sound of the captain's whistle brought to the starting flags the following craft: Verona, E. B. Edwards, of Peterborough; Ling, S. Britton; Zip, W. J. Reed, Bobcaygeon; Kate, A. F. D. Macpherson; Scynda, L. Calvert; Bitters, Jer. Britton. The wind blowing stiff, those who had reefing sails pulled them down as small as possible, while those who had lateen sails of respectable size put them in use. The start was made very fairly and the canoes headed off across the lake to the first buoy. Ex-Commodore Edwards in the Verona rapidly worked ahead and rounded the buoy in advance of the others. Mr. Edwards is one of the best and most skillful canoemen on the continent, and handles his boat in a manner that calls out the warmest admiration of canoeists and onlookers alike. Mr. Macpherson rounded the buoy after Mr. Edwards, but when it came to the rest of the fleet to follow they all failed. It called for the feat known as "sailing into the eye of the wind," and the eye of the wind seemed to close up as tight as a blacking box. Mr. Edwards was the only skipper who went over the course and came in fully thirty minutes ahead of the next arrival."

Care of Horses.

By Dr. Wm. M. Giles.

Many persons keep horses, and any information which will be of use in assisting to improve the condition of this useful animal will be read with interest and profit. The following excellent treatise is written by a gentleman who has had a very extended experience among horses and whose advice and care is often sought. The treatise is both comprehensive and valuable alike for the variety of diseases treated and the remedies recommended:

"Every horse should be re-shod at least once a month. After such days work, the animal's feet should be carefully examined, to ascertain that the shoes are in good order and greased or stone removed. Also once each week the animal's feet should be systematically examined, broken nails re-placed, loose shoes fastened, and projecting clinches reduced. The feet should be stuffed once a week with fattened meal, wet clay, or cow manure. The appearance of thrush or any unhealthy condition of the hoof must be immediately attended to. Horses should be groomed at least an hour to an hour and a half each day. They are to be rubbed dry after being used, and not allowed to stand without rubbing when heated. The nostrils should occasionally be sponged with a weak mixture of vinegar and water. The sheath must be washed once a month with castile soap and water and then greased. A horse should never, while heated, be wet by use of a hose or stream of water, and never with cold water. Feed should be examined with great care and kept free from dust, foreign substances and bad odor. Frequent feeding in small quantities is best. Bran mash should be given once a week, never oftener than twice a week except to purge. Glauber salts should be given once a week. Watering before feeding is not objectionable; drinking while warm or after eating, until an hour has elapsed, is to be avoided. While at work, frequent watering is preferable. An animal will very rarely drink enough very early in the morning. Stables and their vicinity should be kept thoroughly clean and free from smells, and well whitewashed; feed boxes clean, and washed with pioneer and water once a week. Dose ears should be given to ventilation, according to the weather, avoiding both injudicious exposure to draughts and cold and exclusion of air to prevent cold.

"An animal with glanders or threatened discharge from the nostrils should be immediately isolated and kept tied to prevent infection, of which there is great danger to both man and beast. The rack, manger, and every part of the wood and iron work of the stall where an animal with glanders or farcy has stood, as also the vessels used in watering or feeding him must be thoroughly cleansed with hot water and soap. They are then to be covered with a wash of quicklime, fresh mixed, which must be scraped off and removed after an interval of five days. After the disease in any animal has become infectious, such harness as may have been used with him is liable to become infected, and all horse clothes, saddle cloths, and blankets used with glandered animals must be destroyed. Two ounces of salt should be given every week in the feed. For thrush, clean thoroughly with castile soap and water, and inject GILES' LINIMENT IODIDE AMONIA, using a glass or rubber syringe.

A Whole-Souled Suggestion.

To the Editor of THE DAILY EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—I noticed in yesterday's issue of your paper that "someone"—he had cause of shame enough to conceal his name—proposes that a collection box be placed in the park for the purpose of collecting money to buy uniforms for the band. It's a pity he hadn't shame enough to have kept such an insulting proposition to himself. The band are not paupers that they need to have a poor box set up for them, and if the public, which enjoys their music free of cost, has not the decency to contribute except through such a medium as a poor box, the public don't deserve to have first-class music, such as the band always gives, to listen to—a hurdy gurdy is good enough. I am not a musician and don't know B flat from G round, but still I can enjoy good music and respect good musicians too much to place them before the public in forma pauperis.

Yours, etc.,
GROWLER.

Police Court.

The hearing of the charge against Mr. W. J. Watson for keeping a vicious dog, was continued this morning at the police court before Police Magistrate Dumble.

Two witnesses were called but refused to take the oath.

C. T. Halpin testified that the dog complained of had attacked him on several occasions.

John Watson testified that the dog was only vicious to those who teased it.

The dispute as to which of the dogs had bitten the child was continued. Mr. Watson said he was willing to allow Mr. Halpin to kill the dog that had bitten the child.

Mr. Geo. Edmison appeared for the defendant.

Talmage Sermon.

hours, you have no right to keep him harnessed for seventeen. I do not think that any intelligent employer can afford to be reckless of the physical and mental health of his subordinates.

But above all, I charge you, O, employers! that you look after the moral and spiritual welfare of your employes. First, know where they spend their evenings. That decides everything. You do not want around your money drawer a young man who went last night to see "Jack Sheppard." A man that comes into the store in the morning ghastly with midnight revelry, is not the man for your store. The young man who spends his evenings in the society of refined women, or in musical or artistic circles, or in literary improvement, is the young man for your store. Without any disgusting inquisitiveness, without any impertinence, you ought to have your young men understand that you are interested so much in their welfare that you want to know where they spend their leisure hours, and they will frankly and gladly tell you.

Do not say of these young men: "If they do their work in the business hours, that is all I have to ask." God has made you that man's guardian. I want you to understand that many of these young men are orphans, or worse than orphans, flung out into society to struggle for themselves. A young man is pitched into the middle of the Atlantic ocean, and a plank is pitched after him, and then he is told to take that and swim ashore. Treat that young man as you would like to have your son treated if you were dead. Be father to that clerk. There is nothing more beautiful than to hear an aged merchant addressing his clerks, and saying: "My son!" That young man in your employ has a history. His father was a drunkard. His first remembrance of his father was the father coming home late at night intoxicated and the children hiding under the bed frightened. And that young man has stood many a time between father and mother, keeping her from the brutal blows. He is prematurely old in trying to provide for the house, rent and clothing for his younger brothers and sisters. He may seem to you like all other young men, but God and his mother know he is a hero. At 20 years of age he has suffered as much as many have suffered at 60. Do not tread on him. Do not swear at him. Do not send him on a useless errand. Say, "good morning," and "good night," and "good-by." You are deciding that man's destiny for two worlds.

One of my earliest remembrances is of old Arthur Tappan. There were many differences of opinion about his politics, but no one who ever knew Arthur Tappan, and knew him well, doubted his being an earnest Christian. I saw more in New York he had a room where every morning he called his employes together and he prayed with them, read the Scriptures to them, sang with them, and then they entered on the duties of the day. On Monday morning the exercises differed, and he gathered the young men together and asked them where they had attended church, what had been their Sabbath experiences and what had been the sermon.

Samuel Budgett had the largest business in the west of England. He had in a room of his warehouse a place pleasantly furnished with comfortable seats and "Fletcher's Family Devotions" and Wesleyan hymn books, and he gathered his employes together every morning, and, having sung, they knelt down and prayed side by side—the employer and the employes.

Do you wonder at that man's success, and that though thirty years before he had been a partner in a small retail shop in a small village, at his death he bequeathed many millions. God can trust such a man as that with plenty of money.

Sir Titus Salt had wealth which was beyond computation, and at Saltaire, England, he had a church and a chapel built and supported by himself—the church for those who preferred the Episcopal service, and the chapel for those who preferred the Methodist service. At the opening of one of his factories he gave a great dinner, and there were thirty-five hundred people present, and in his after-dinner speech he said to those people gathered: "I cannot look around me and see this vast assemblage of friends and work people without being moved. I feel greatly honored by the presence of the nobleman at my side and I am especially delighted at the presence of my work people. I hope to draw around me a population that will enjoy the beauties of this neighborhood—a population of well paid, contented, happy operatives. I have given instructions to my architects that nothing is to be spared to render the dwellings of the operatives a pattern to the country, and if my life is spared, by Divine Providence, I hope to see contentment, satisfaction and happiness around me.

That is Christian character demonstrated. There are others in this country and in other lands on a smaller scale doing their best for their employes. They have not forgotten their own early struggles. They remember the first yard of nankeen they measured, the first quarter of ten they weighed, the first banister they turned, the first roof they shingled. They remember how they were discouraged, how hungry they were, and how cold and how tired they were, and though they may be 60 or 70 years of age they know just how a boy feels between 10 and 20 and how a young man feels between 20 and 30. They have not forgotten it. Those wealthy employers were not originally let down out of heaven with pulleys of silk in a wicker basket, satin lined, fanned by cherubic wings. They started in roughest cradle, on whose rocker misfortune put her violent foot and tipped them into the cold world. Those old men are sympathetic with boys.

But you are not only to be kind to those who are under you—Christianly kind—but you are also to see that your boss workman, and your head clerks, and your agents, and your overseers in stores are kind to those under them. Sometimes a man will get a little brief authority in a store or in a factory, and make any one very unpleasant to you, the employés, or to you, the head men of the firm, they are most brutal in their treatment to those under them. God only knows what some of the lads suffer in the cellars and in the lofts of some of our great establishments. They have no one to appeal to. The time will come when their arm will be strong, and they can defend themselves, but not now. Alas! for for some of the cash boys and the messenger boys, and the boys that sweep the stores! Alas, for some of them! Now, you capitalist, you, the head man of the firm, must look, supervise, see those all around you, investigate all beneath you.

And then I charge you not to put unnecessary temptation in the way of your young men. Do not keep large sums of money lying around unguarded. Know how much money there is in the till. Do not have the accounts books loosely kept. There are temptations inevitable to young men, and enough of them, without your putting any unnecessary temptations in their way. Men in Wall street having thirty years of reputation for honesty have dropped into Sing Sing and perdition, and you must be careful how you try a lad of 18. And if he do wrong, do not pounce on him like a hyena. If he prove himself unworthy of your confidence do not call in the police, but take him home, tell why you dismissed him to those who will give him another chance. Many a young man has done wrong once, who will never do wrong again.

Ah, my friends! I think we can afford to give everybody another chance, when God knows we should all have been in perdition if He had not given us ten thousand chances.

Then, if in moving around your factory, or mill, or barn, or store, you are inexorable with young men God will remember it. Some day the wheel of fortune will turn and you will be a pauper, and your daughter will go to the workhouse, and your son will die on the scaffold. If in moving among your young men, you see one with an anxious pallor of cheek, or you hear him cough ing behind the counter, say to him: "Stay home a day or two and rest, or go out and breathe the breath of the hills." If his mother die, do not demand that on the day after the funeral he be in the store. Give him at least a week to get over that which he will never get over.

Employers, urge upon your employes above all, a positive religious life. You can do it. You are in a position not to be laughed at, or scoffed at, or jeered at. You hold the keys of the establishment, and by your position you demand reverence. Now urge all those employes into a religious life. So far from that, how is it, young man? Instead of being cheered on the road to heaven some of you are caricatured, and it is a hard thing for you to keep your Christian integrity in that store or factory where there are so many hostile to religion. Ziethen, a brave general under Frederick the Great, was a Christian. Frederick the Great was an infidel. One day Ziethen, the venerable, white-haired general, asked to be excused from military duty that he might attend the holy sacrament. He was excused. A few days after Ziethen was dining with the king and with many notables of Prussia, when Frederick the Great, in a jocose way, said: "Well Ziethen, how did the sacrament of last Friday digest?" The venerable old warrior arose and said: "For your majesty I have risked my life many a time on the battle field, and for your majesty I would be willing any time to die; but you do wrong when you insult the Christian religion. You will forgive me if I, your old military servant, cannot bear in silence any insult to my Lord and my Saviour." Frederick the Great leaped to his feet, and he put out his hand and he said: "Happy Ziethen! forgive me, forgive me. You will never be bothered again."

O, there are many being scoffed at for their religion, and I thank God there are many men as brave as Ziethen. Go to heaven yourself, O, employer! Take all your people with you. Soon you will be through buying and selling, and through with manufacturing and building, and God will ask you: "Where are all those people over whom you had so great influence? Are they here? Will they be here?" O, shipowners! into what harbor will your crew sail? After being tossed on so many seas will they gain the port of heaven? O, bankers! will those young men who are running up and down the long lines of figures, and handling the checks and drafts, and handling the rolls of government securities—are they keeping their accounts right with God?—the credit account of mercies received and the debt account of sins forgiven. O, you dry goods merchants! are those young men under your care who are providing fabrics of apparel for head and hand and foot and back to go unclothed—unclothed into eternity? O, you merchant grocers! are those young men that under your care are providing food for the bodies and families of men, to go starved for ever? O, you manufacturers of this United States! with so many wheels flying, and so many bands pulling, and so many new patterns turned out, and so many goods shipped—are the spinners, are the carmen, are the draymen, are the salesmen, are the watchers of your establishments working out everything but their own salvation? Can it be that, having those people under your care, five, ten, twenty years, you have made no everlasting impression for good on their immortal souls? God turn us all back from such selfishness, and teach us to live for others and not for ourselves. Christ sets us the example of sacrifice, and so do many of his disciples.

One summer, in California, a gentleman who had just removed from the Sandwich Islands told me this incident. He said one of the Sandwich Islands is devoted to lepers. People getting sick of the leprosy on the other islands are sent to that isle of lepers. They never come off. They are in different stages of disease, but all who land on that island die of leprosy. On one of the healthy islands there was a physician who always wore his hand gloved, and it was often discussed why he always had a glove on that hand under all circumstances.

One day this physician came to the city authorities, and he withdrew his glove, and he said to the officers of the law: "You see on that hand a spot of the leprosy and that I am doomed to die. I might hide this for a little while and keep away from the isle of lepers; but I am a physician, and I can go on that island and administer to the sufferings of those who are farther gone in the disease, and I should like to go now. It would be selfish in me to stay amid these luxurious surroundings when I might be of so much help to the wretched." They, seeing the spot of leprosy, of course took the man into custody. He bade farewell to his family and his friends. It was an agonizing farewell. He could never see them again. He was taken to the isle of the lepers, and there wrought among the sick until prostrated by his own death, which at last came. O! that was magnificent self-denial, magnificent sacrifice, only surpassed by that of Him who exiled Himself from the hearth of heaven to this leprous island of a world, that He might physician our wounds and weep our griefs and die our deaths, turning the isle of a leprous world into a great blooming paradisiacal garden. Whether employer or employe, let us catch that spirit.

RUPTURE CURED
EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 25th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two expensive trusses made in New York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child here; and 90 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

HOMES OF GREAT MEN.

HOUSES WHICH SHELTER DISTINGUISHED NEW ENGLANDERS.

The Contrast Between the Roomy and Restful Homes of the Past and the Oddities of Modern Architecture—Residences of the Admirals.

Our people are paying considerable attention of late years to the subject of beautiful homes. The tendency seems to be to build showy and unique structures with all sorts of surprises in the way of odd shaped rooms and curious nooks, produced by numerous gables. Windows stuck here and there are used more for the architectural requirements of the exterior, than for practical value to the interior. Then the rainbow-hued glass of the windows, the dazzling wall coverings and highly decorated ceilings, all take away from the interior that restive quality which it should be the endeavor to produce.

The nervous man of the present turns from the whirl and rush of business to the quiet of home for rest; but there, in its kaleidoscopic interior, his eye, followed by his already over excited mind, wanders round attracted by the brilliant coloring and the glistening objects, without any opportunity for repose, until often he breaks down under the bewilderment and confusion, without knowing the reason. Then the physician orders rest for him; removal to a quiet farmhouse or a trip across the sea is recommended—and why? Because the monotony of the sea is an antidote to the delirium with which he has been surrounded, while the plain country farmhouse brings rest to his eyes and mind.

The facts are, that in our endeavor to beautify the home we are overdoing it. We have gone from the simplicity of the Quaker meeting house to imitate the dazzling splendor of a theatre interior. The reaction has not yet made its appearance, but when it does come it is likely we will model our homes more after the stalwart Americans of the passing generation.

Let us look at some of their homes, and as the New England states were the earliest settled we will find most of them there.

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL'S RESIDENCE.

The home of the late Henry W. Longfellow has been often described and its appearance is familiar to most readers. It was built in the early part of the last century by a wealthy West India trader who settled down to end his days in Cambridge. His son succeeded to the estate and lorded over the young colony. When the revolution swept over New England the house was confiscated after its Tory proprietor fled. During the siege of Boston it was assigned to Washington as headquarters, and he who so much needed rest and had had an opportunity of testing the soothing qualities of the best homes in America, pronounced this house at Cambridge one of the most comfortable he had found. After the war Andrew Craigie, the apothecary general of the army, purchased it, and here it was epigrammatic old Talleyrand was entertained, and Everett, Sparks and Worcester, the lexicographer, lodged. Longfellow, while a college professor, was also a boarder there, and later purchased it so that it will remain in history as Longfellow's home. Yet this house after all was but a plain, square two story wooden structure, with broad piazzas on two sides. The interior is made up of a broad hall, easy ascending staircase and plain, hard finished walls in its spacious old rooms, but there is an air of repose about the whole that is rarely met with in modern houses.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS' HOME.

Then there is the residence of Charles Francis Adams, at Quincy, Mass. This house was built by a rich English planter who also "sheadalled" at the outbreak of the revolution. It was purchased by the future president of the United States, John Adams, and it was here, just fifty years to a day after signing the Declaration of Independence, that he passed away. It was also the home of his son, the president, John Quincy Adams. Few houses have entertained more distinguished men beneath its ample roof. During the trying times of the post-revolution period it was the resort of the men who were endeavoring to adjust the wheels of our new government.

How impressionless the mansion is our illustration shows, but its rooms are large and comfortable, with big fireplaces and chimneys and an air of quiet about the whole interior.

RESIDENCE OF JOHN QUINCY ADAMS.

The oldest of the present representatives of the family lives in a house of modern construction, but it has at least the advantage in its site of a commanding view of Boston harbor. This is one improvement we have made on those who have gone before. We are choosing better sites for our houses, for the reason probably that a fine view costs nothing to preserve.

Another house, which to our modern ideas, would be considered a barn-like structure, is the residence of James Russell Lowell. The house was once the home of Elbridge Gerry, another of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and it was here that our poet Lowell was born, reared, and has always lived. Everything about this house impresses one also with that feeling of rest and roomy comfort to be found in these old homes. Would that our modern architects would take some lessons from them.

A Lady's Secret

"I'd give a good deal if I had such a pure healthy skin as you have," said a lady to a friend. "Just look at mine, all spots and blotches, and rough as a grater. Don't be Duped.

Smokers will further their own interest by insisting upon having the "Cable" or "El Padre" brands of cigars, which have stood the test for a quarter of a century, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to persuade them to take other brands which pay them a larger profit, the consumer being the loser thereby.

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Horses for the Rockies.

On Monday Mr. T. Cavanagh will ship another carload of horses to the Rocky Mountains for Messrs. Ross & McDermott. The lot is allowed to be one of the finest ever collected for shipment.

Military.

Captain E. B. Edwards and the members of No. 1 Company held a meeting in the drill shed last night for re-organization. The majority of the old members of the company presented themselves or their regrets at not being able to attend. A number of applications for admission to the ranks of the company were received.

Beautifying the Town Buildings.

Mr. John Schubert, of Rochester, N. Y., who has been engaged to "tuck point" the new town buildings, commenced at his task to-day. The beauty of the buildings will be greatly enhanced, but Councillor Cahill will still maintain that, though they are very nice as far as they go, they don't go far enough.

A Clever Forgery.

Yesterday afternoon Wm. Feegan, lately from the "old sod," succeeded in "working" a forged cheque purporting to be drawn by Mr. J. E. Belcher, at Rubidge's tobacco store. Mr. F. Perry, who cashed it, was paid the amount, $13, at the bank, but had to pay it back when the cheque was found to be a forgery. The forgery was a clever one. Feegan has departed from town.

Important Sale.

On Monday, May 31st, the beautifully situated and valuable property of Mr. G. A. Mitchell, in the North Ward, lots No. 1 and 2, on the corner of Smith street and Communication Road, will be offered for sale on the premises, by Chas. Stapleton, auctioneer. On lot No. 2 a fine brick dwelling, with kitchen and suitable outbuildings, is erected. This will be an excellent opportunity to secure valuable properties at reasonable prices.

No One Need be Bald.

Dr. Dorenwend's Great German Hair Magic will produce a luxuriant growth of hair on bald heads, provided the roots are not entirely extinct. It will restore gray hair to its original color, prevent all falling of the hair, and remove all traces of dandruff. It is not oily, is a most elegant dressing, and keeps the hair and scalp in a clean, healthy condition. Ask for Dr. Dorenwend's Hair Magic and take nothing else. A. Dorenwend, sole manufacturer, Toronto. J. D. Tully, agent for Peterborough.

Extending Premises.

Mr. W. Wand, of Ashburnham, owing to the increased demand for the productions of his sash, door and planing mill, is extending his premises westward. The addition, 16x40 feet, will give Mr. Wand more room for shafting and machinery which he proposes putting in, thus facilitating the handling of materials used in manufacturing. In future Mr. Wand intends heating by steam and will put in a boiler for that purpose. Business is very brisk with him and he has found it necessary to increase the dimensions of his factory to keep up with increased orders.

Fire at Baillieboro.

On Sunday morning last between 7 and 8 o'clock, the general dry goods and grocery store of Messrs. Berry & Sallee, of Baillieboro, was found to be on fire. A son of Butler who lives in the dwelling part of the building west of the shop, made the discovery, where the joists and floor were burning in close proximity to a large quantity of paper. The flames were quickly extinguished. Had the fire originated during the night it is doubtful if the family of Mr. Butler would have escaped, as the building is old and well seasoned and would have burnt quickly. The origin of the fire is unknown. The stock and building was insured but Mr. Butler's furniture was not.

Prof. Parker's Benefit Concert.

Tuesday, June 15th, is announced as the date of the last concert of the season, to be given as a benefit to Mr. J. S. Parker, who has contributed very largely in musical events during the season. The concert will be given in Bradburn's Opera House under the direction of Mr. Parker. The following talented vocalists will take part in the concert: Mrs. Agnes Corlett Thomson, soprano, of Toronto; Mrs. R. H. Dennistoun, soprano, town; Mr. Thos. Dunn, baritone, town; and a glee party of sixteen select voices. The admission fee is fixed at 35c. for reserved seats, and 25c. for unreserved seats. Let there be a bumper house, as the concert is sure to be a grand finale to a brilliant season.

Personal.

Rev. A. H. Munro left town to-day for Lindsay. On Sunday Rev. Mr. Munro will occupy the services in the Baptist church, Lindsay, exchanging pulpits with Rev. W. K. Anderson, who will conduct the services in the Murray street church to-morrow.

Mr. David Wallace, jr., who gained his appointment with Mr. Wm. Hamilton, but recently employed with Mr. Law, Central Iron Works, left this morning for Milwaukee, where he has secured a good situation with E. P. Allis & Co., one of the most extensive firms of the kind in the United States. Mr. Wallace, who is a first class pattern maker, got his present place on the good word of W. H. Trout, formerly of this town.

Forester's Funeral.

The funeral of the late Charles Robinson, which takes place to-morrow at 3 p.m. from his late residence, will be conducted by Court Peterborough, Canadian Order of Foresters, of which he was a charter member.

A New Dress.

Our evening contemporary, the Review, last night appeared in a complete and neat dress of new type. The EXAMINER congratulates its journalistic confrere on such an evidence of prosperity, which it trusts is only an earnest of a greater yet in store for it.

Cricket Match.

The date of the match between the Peterborough and the Toronto University Cricket Club teams has again been changed by request of the University men, they not being able to play on Friday. Wednesday next, June 2nd, has been decided on, and it is probable the match will be played in Toronto on that day.

Harness Stolen.

A night or two ago Mr. Geo. B. Sproule had stolen from his stables in rear of his residence George street, a set of single harness, saddle, linen lap wrap, and phaeton cover. While the loser regrets the loss he thinks the party that made the grab will return the goods before proceedings are taken against him.

Proof of Popularity.

A proof of the popularity of the steam heating boilers manufactured by Mr. George Bolton, which have a provincial reputation for excellence is shown by the fact during the past two days he has shipped to various parts of the province four of his celebrated heaters, one to Lindsay, two to Brockville and one to Arnprior.

Additional Facilities.

Mr. Peter Hamilton has cleared the lot south of his agricultural warerooms preparatory to putting up an addition building—for putting together the completed separate pieces of machinery in connection with his business, which has outgrown the present premises. The new building will be 30 x 56 and will greatly facilitate the completion of the large amount of machinery daily manufactured at Mr. Hamilton's works.

Market Report.

The market this morning was very active, all kinds of the season's produce being offered in abundance and bought up quickly. Prices were very little changed and were quoted as follows: Butter, 13 to 16c.; eggs, for shipment, 10c.; for local use, 11c.; chickens, 60 to 70c.; veal, 5 to 6c.; potatoes, 45 to 55c. per bag; rhubarb, lettuce and onions, 5c. per bunch; hay, $7 to $9 per ton. Pigs, little ones for $3.50 to $4.50 per pair, were particularly plentiful.

Building Brick.

Mr. James Rose, whose brickyards are situated near the locks on the Otonabee side of the river, will place on the market on Wednesday, 200,000 first-class red brick, the first of this season. Mr. Rose proposes making about a million and a half brick this year. He says his present season's make of brick is superior to anything yet produced by him and equal to any made in the province. Any person desiring first-class brick for building purposes will do well to call on Mr. Rose.

A Rift in the Clouds.

The prospects ahead for all sorts of business are gloomy, and the farmers' prospects are especially dark. The prices of grain are down to the lowest ebb, cheese and butter will be a drug in the market. If the farmer, who feeds us all, fails, then there is a grim lookout for the rest. But there is a rift in the clouds—the silver lining shows, for no matter how hard the times and how scarce the money, there is always cheap clothing of all kinds at Gough's, the Wonderful Cheap Man, Arcade Buildings, Peterborough.

Almost a Drowning Accident.

Yesterday afternoon while two little boys named Trotter were intently angling for chub in the pool immediately below the "apron" of Paterson's dam, the smaller one, aged about six or seven years, slipped on the wet boards and fell in the water. His efforts to get out only resulted in drawing him into deeper water, and, not being a swimmer, he disappeared out of sight, leaving his hat as a float. His brother made frantic efforts to rescue the little fellow, and, if he had continued in his efforts, would have followed his brother to the bottom. Mr. Archie Moore happened to pass along Hunter street just then, and hearing the elder Trotter brother calling for assistance, and seeing the hat on the water, he took in the situation and went to the relief. He plunged into the pool and succeeded, after thoroughly wetting himself, in getting little Trotter out. The boy was almost drowned and very much exhausted. He soon recovered, however and started for home a wetter and a wiser boy. Boys who cannot swim should keep away from the pool or something more serious may happen.

The new portion will be of the same height as the main building, and finished similarly except that a verandah surmounted by a balcony will be added. The EXAMINER with Mr. Belleghem's many friends rejoices in this evidence of his business prosperity.

The First Cricket Match.

The Lakefield Juniors Defeat the Peterborough Juniors by Two Runs.

The first cricket match game of the season was played on the P. A. A. A. grounds on Saturday afternoon, between the Peterborough and Lakefield juniors. Pursuant to a challenge issued by the Peterborough boys, the Lakefield team composed of seven boys from Mr. Sheldrake's school and four from the junior club of the village arrived in town after an adventurous drive, in time to allow the local juniors to get a team together for two o'clock. Wickets were pitched about three o'clock. The local team winning the toss sent their opponents to the bat. The visitors showed that they were going to make things lively for the boys, running up a score of 41, of which A. Mellor contributed 12, and E. Atwood 9. The Peterborough boys went to bat and retired after scoring 27, Strickland's bowling being very destructive, while the fielding was particularly sharp, excelling that of the home team by large odds.

The Lakefield boys again went to the bat, playing steadily and scientifically. From the first over they struck the balls all over the field, knocking numerous flys which the fielders would not accept, Millar who caught out several being the only exception to the rule. The batting of the Lakefield boys in this innings was much admired, they scoring on the average 6 runs each, making a total of 65. Unfortunately the Lakefield scorer carried away the scoring sheet for this innings, which prevents us from giving the individual play of each.

The outlook for the Peterborough boys was as dark a blue as that of a huge cloud which began to make its appearance in the north-west, at the beginning of their 2nd innings. As the rain began to fall in huge drops Kingsmill, McCormack and Hamilton retiring for two, one and none, respectively did not improve the outlook. But as the clouds scattered Haultain batted steadily, making a two-bit nearly every time and sometimes three, and once four, until he scored 24, when he was run out, after a brilliant bat, retiring amid applause. W. Revell and B. Boucher made good stands for 7 and 5, while Dunford, one of the smallest boys on the field, made the score of the day, wielding the willow with dexterity and vim until he ran up 26, Butler taking his stumps at the finish. F. Bromfield, not out, scored 6, making the score for the innings 77, totaling 104, the visiting team carrying the day by two runs, their combined scores being 108.

At the close of the game a number of enthusiastic admirers of Lee Dunsford carried him from the field amid the cheers of both teams and the spectators.

Proper scoring sheets were not used, and it was impossible to keep a correct analysis of the game.

The score of the second innings for the Lakefield boys was, by an oversight, taken away by the scorer. The scores for the other innings were as follows:—

Gladstone's Triumph Sure.

Whigs to Vote Against Home Rule and the Radicals to Abstain.

LONDON, May 29.—It is authoritively stated that Lord Hartington and his Whig followers have resolved to vote against the Home Rule Bill when it comes up for a second reading, but that Mr. Chamberlain and his Radical supporters have made up their minds to abstain from voting, thus ensuring the success of the measure on its second reading.

British Empire Mutual Life Assurance Company.

At the thirty-ninth annual meeting, held on the 6th April, it was reported that the new assurances for the past year amounted to over $6,000,000, under 2,125 policies, with new annual premiums, making the total annual income now considerably over $1,000,000. This amount of new business is larger than has been reported in any previous year. The rate of interest realized showed a satisfactory improvement, and the accumulated fund has been largely increased during the year, and now amounts to between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. The expenses of management, after deducting medical fees and commission, were 11 per cent. of the total income. A tabular statement was submitted, showing that during the past fifteen years the business in force was nearly doubled, the total income more than doubled, the new business increased to nearly five times its former amount, and the accumulated fund considerably more than doubled, while the expenses of management are away below the maximum of contingent dollar premium in Canada.—Monetary Times. In reference to the above it may be mentioned that Mr. E. E. Henderson is the general agent in Peterborough. In additional reference to the above company, it may be stated, a few days ago a paragraph was published in this journal under the heading, "Life Insurance in Canada," no doubt taken from the abstract report of the Superintendent of Government Insurance (the blue book not being issued yet) showing the total of the business done by Canadian companies, and only giving the Canadian business of American and British companies. This would probably mislead some persons, giving them the impression that "the relative standing of companies" was greatly in favor of some of the Canadian companies. For instance, take the British Empire; it is put down at bottom of list, giving the premiums for 1885, ending 31st December, $99,410, and the net amount in force at same period, $2,866,280. The public will understand at once that this only refers to the Canadian branch, which was opened out in this country about three years ago, and it is scarcely yet organized. The popularity of the company, however, is shown from the fact that notwithstanding the company has only established its Canada branch such a short time, it has done a larger business in Canada than any other British office. It was established in 1847, same year as the Canada Life, during which time it has paid back to its policy-holders, in cash, over four millions of dollars ($4,000,000), and has paid in death claims considerably over six millions of dollars ($6,000,000), in all, over $10,000,000, and its cash assets to-day is between five and six millions of dollars, with an annual income of over one million of dollars. Total policies in force, upwards of twenty-eight millions of dollars ($28,000,000). This company has paid more money to its policyholders than any Canadian company in existence to-day.

The Scott Act in Whitby.

As Rev. N. R. Willoughby remarked on Sunday evening, it is greatly to the credit of the hotel keepers of Whitby town that they should observe a law passed in opposition to the votes of a majority of the ratepayers that they should change their mode of business in a matter where the effect is to cause a sort of revolution in the habits of society. And especially [illegible] they are exposed to a constant temptation from men who find it difficult to break off the custom of years of life, is it to be pronounced [illegible]; and entitles them to [illegible] degree of consideration. In fact [illegible] in this matter is the strongest argument [illegible] of compensation. We trust [illegible] will be [illegible] and liberal [illegible] have been the hotel keepers.—Whitby Chronicle.

[illegible] Down.

The Lakefield [illegible] cricket club in driving to town on Saturday met with an accident in the shape of a breakdown, when near the Asbury Mills. A seat [illegible], one of the front wheels left the axle, with the result of overturning the covered bus, (Roger's) throwing the boys against the roof of the vehicle and otherwise shaking them up. Fortunately no one was severally hurt. One of the boys who sat in front with the driver was thrown on to the back of one of the horses, while the driver landed on all fours on the roadside. The wheel was fastened on with a piece of rope as a rest and the party, the boys walking proceeded to town. The seat was replaced at a blacksmith's shop and made secure for the home trip.

A Vernal View of "Cordoch."

The Flourishing Home of Flowers and Fruits.

One of the delights of the spring time, or, for the matter of that, any time of the summer, is a visit to "Cordoch," the conservatories and gardens of Mr. G. M. Roger, conducted by Mr. Arthur Blade. They are now in the full flourish of their vernal beauty, and their increased and increasing capacity speak strongly of the development of the esthetic in the people of Peterborough. The EXAMINER has before had the pleasure of noting the beauty of these premises, and it now has pleasure in noting the additions and improvements as increasing patronage has made necessary.

In addition to the greenhouses in existence before, there has been added, for this spring, a large conservatory 60x30 feet, constructed on the best principles, and heated with hot water piping, by one of Gurney's improved furnaces. Altogether, 2,000 square feet of glass, for green house and propagating, have been added for this season, and the prospects are that still further additions will have to be made. The new structure is to be devoted altogether to flowers, of which there is an infinite variety, including the latest and rarest plants in the market. Recently Mr. Roger visited the gardens of Mr. Peter Henderson, New York, and secured a large number of his rarest plants, and Mr. Blade visited Vick's, Rochester, on a similar errand. The consequence is that the conservatories at "Cordoch" present a vast variety of the most beautiful flower plants grown. Among these is to be found a fine collection of palms, yuccas and draccenas, sub-tropical plants of great beauty of foliage.

The demand for flowers this spring has been unusually great. The season was early, but fortunately, Mr. Blade was ready for it, and he has already run off the large number of 10,000 pots and 2,000 boxes of seedlings, and the demand still continues.

In addition to the flower plants, a trade has been opened in ornamental trees, etc.

The small fruits, raspberries and strawberries, promise an abundant return. The blossoms of the latter indicate the crop will this season be unusually productive. Within another month or so thousands of boxes of this luscious fruit will be placed upon the market.

Anyone interested in the culture of fruits and flowers can, by a visit to "Cordoch," see them at their best.

"The Flowers That Bloom in Spring"

Found in Beautiful Profusion at Mason's.

Not only the "Flowers that bloom in Spring," but those that unfold their odorous petals from January to December, are to be found at Mr. Frank Mason's floral warerooms, George street. The demand for flowers has increased so greatly that conditions which a year or two ago fully answered every requirement are now entirely inadequate. Extensive as were Mr. Mason's facilities, he is compelled to enlarge his premises. He has, with this end in view, secured a property on Argyle street near the Bernardo Home, of a soil excellently adapted to his business, consisting of 4½ acres. On this he has let the contract to Mr. H. C. Stubbs for the construction of a residence and a green house and propagating houses, etc., 40x100 feet in area. This department will be available for the supply of his floral warerooms on George street, which are where his stock for sale is kept. At the present time, and in fact at all times, this is a beautiful place. It is a literal mass of bloom—of flowers of infinite variety. It is heated with Bolton's system of hot water heating, and is furnished with city water, and not the least attractive feature is the musical plash of the little fountain that graces the conservatory.

Mr. Mason's business is the production and sale of flower plants and vegetable bedding plants, and he does an immense trade. He and his staff have this spring been kept busy as bees in clover time, and there are no symptoms of a cessation of the demand. In addition to the local trade Mr. Mason has developed a fine trade in sending flower plants by mail. He has originated a mode of sending them safely by this medium. They are shipped, packed in moss, in cylindrical boxes of thin wood veneer and can be transported as safely thousands of miles in these boxes as if carried in a basket from one room to another. He has sent flower plants in this way to every part of Canada—British Columbia and Manitoba—and has received letters announcing the safe arrival and perfect condition of the plants.

Mr. Mason keeps a fine stock of roses which are sold at from one quarter to one half cheaper than those sold by unreliable agents, who gull the public into buying, at fancy prices, plants that rarely grow, and when they do grow are not true to name.

Mr. Mason is meeting with great success in his business which is daily growing in importance. An important factor in his success, and an outgrowth of his enterprise is the publication by him of the Canadian Florist and Cottage Gardener, a beautiful quarterly illustrated magazine, treating on the subjects indicated by the title, which brings him into, next to, personal contact with his outside constituency of customers.

SIR "JANUS" MACDONALD.

The Romans had a god, called Janus, with two faces, and anyone who contemplates Sir John Macdonald's political methods, cannot be struck with the appropriateness of the name for the "chieftain" for his apotheosis. Throughout his past Sir John has carried a double face—promising one thing and performing another or nothing, as best suited his political purposes. Those who have been deceived and duped and betrayed by him once are to be pitied, but those who with open eyes trust him again deserve no pity. His life has been a perpetual play off of one faction against another; both have been deluded by his false promises, both have been betrayed and at the coming elections he will doubtless elect to favor one at the expense of the other. But it is difficult to believe that any one can now be found to trust to his promises. Every one is familar with the manner in which he has betrayed the Orangemen. He solemnly promised them incorporation and deliberately broke his promise. His apologists claim that he voted for that measure. But that did not carry it. Will anyone pretend to say that, with an overwhelming majority in the House, Sir John could not by merely lifting his finger, have secured the passing of the Orange Incorporation Bill? But it did not suit his purposes to do as he had promised, and Sir John as effectually defeated that bill as if he had flourished the party whip and compelled his supporters to vote against it. But has he treated the Roman Catholics any differently? Not at all. He promised them representation in the Cabinet and then refused to fulfil the promise, which is shown by the following letter:—

(Letter from Sir John Macdonald to the Roman Catholic Bishops of Ontario.)

"Toronto, June 5th, 1882. (Private and confidential). MY DEAR LORD.—Mr. O'Donohoe will tell you of the tempest that has been raised here in Toronto on account of the supposition that his views are extreme as to the Irish question. This might destroy his future, and it has therefore been arrangbetween the Hon. F. Smith and O'Donohoe that the former is to represent the Irish Catholics in the Cabinet, while O'D. will get a seat in the Senate.

"FRANK SMITH IS TO MAKE WAY FOR O'DONOHOE IN THE MINISTRY WHEN THEY THINK THE TIME IS OPPORTUNE. Those two gentlemen are acting in perfect accord, and desire that I should explain to your Lordship the nature of their arrangement, which of course, MUST BE KEPT A PROFOUND SECRET AT PRESENT. Believe me, my dear Lord, faithfully yours, (Signed.) JOHN A. MACDONALD."

Can a statesman (save the mark!) who solemnly commits himself in writing, and breaks his solemn promise be considered worthy of trust by any party? He has betrayed both, and if he gets the chance and sees it is to his political advantage, will do so again.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The estimated expenditure of the Dominion for the year 1882 reaches the startling total of $40,606,389, of which $6,388,058 is on capital and $34,220,319 on income account. Forty millions a year to run a country of five million population should make the people pause and ask if our Tory rulers are not rapidly ruining the country by wasteful extravagance.

Saturday evening's issue of our evening contemporary contains a letter, in alleged reply to the remarks of the EXAMINER on the subject of "Toryism and Home Rule." The first paragraph contains abundantly the elements of the very offences it affects to reprove, and the remainder of the letter is just what one is accustomed to expect from an amateur politician, who, not content with doing one thing well, in the station in which he is placed, descends therefrom to mingle in the muddy stream of political strife. Our remarks dealt solely with the Tory opposition to the principle of Home Rule, and the Liberals, quoted by "Anti-Home Rule," do not oppose the principle of Gladstone's measure, but one or two matters of detail, and the indications are that that measure will, at least, pass its second reading. We shall then see if Ulster's ultra-loyalty will make good the silly bluster it has been blowing off for some time past. If Ulster's rebellious instincts lead the people to rebel and take up arms against Her Majesty, because she, through her Parliament, dares to pass a measure for the better government of Ireland, the world will be treated to a revised version of loyalty to Queen and Constitution. Rev. Dr. Burns, of Hamilton, when he deals with the question, outside the pulpit, deals with it as a citizen, but that is a far different matter from converting a place, consecrated exclusively to the worship of God, into a political platform. Ne sutor ultra crepidam.

RUPTURE CURED
EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 25th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 50 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spring-less trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child here; and 99 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

NEW CINCINNATI COURT HOUSE.

It Is Planned, but When Will It Be Finished?

Two years ago this spring the people of Cincinnati had an impression that justice had not been done in a murder trial. A colored murderer was sentenced to imprisonment instead of to be hanged. Thereupon the indignant populace proceeded to wreak vengeance, not on the judges who heard the trial, or the jury who let the prisoner off, or yet on the lawyers whose eloquence magnetized the jury, but on the magnificent Hamilton county court house. They riddled it and set it on fire. The fire destroyed the finest law library west of the Atlantic states. The damage done was almost incalculable. A vast amount had to be added to the tax list of the county, and the citizens will have to go down into their pockets and pay it. It was a jolly sort of vengeance that.

NEW COURT HOUSE

A splendid new court house will rise, phœnix-like, from the ashes of the old one, to the tune of $1,000,000 or more. The judges, jury, and lawyers are living still and in good health. The new building is not like the old one outwardly. That had the roof all upon the level, and had Greek columns in front. The new one will have offsets and pitches in the roof, to conform more to the requirements of modern high art. Half the building is seen in the illustration.

Conveying an Idea of Size.

A naturalist who has bestowed attention upon the sea and its inhabitants says that he has observed whole shoals of herring, "in their anxiety to escape when pursued by whales, piled up above the surface of the sea to a height of from three to six feet. On one occasion the fish formed a mass even with the top of the mast of a fishing boat, namely, about fifteen feet, and had part of this mass fallen into the boat it would doubtless have sunk." There is on record another curious description intended to convey an idea of size, namely, that of "a pumpkin so big that eight men could stand around it."

ARTHUR'S ILLNESS.

DISQUIETING RUMORS ABOUT THE EX-PRESIDENT'S HEALTH.

A Poor, But Handsome Boy—Brilliant College Student and Successful Lawyer. His Portrait and Picture of His Residence.

One day the papers announce that ex-President Arthur is preparing to go fishing soon, either at his favorite West Island, near Newport, or to Canada, it is not yet decided which. The next day they say he is slowly dying of Bright's disease and heart trouble, and that, in fact, he really has come nearly to the end. Then next day again his physicians or somebody else deny the whole story of Bright's disease, and say the ex-president is not dying, though they do not deny that he is ill. It is a race between the newspapers and the doctors, which on the one hand can tell the most and on the other can conceal the most.

Mr. Arthur seems to be really in an alarming condition. Not long since his old pastor, who preaches in the church President Arthur used to attend in Washington, was sent for to go from that city to New York and visit the invalid. Now, a man does not usually send for a preacher unless he has good reason to suppose that it is all up with him. Moreover, any one who within a year has met the ex-president in the street in New York city must have been struck with the look of age and declining health that seemed to have suddenly come over him. No wonder. It is enough to kill a man to be president of the United States. The storm of abuse, the misconstruction and out and out lying, in short, to which he is subject, must break a man of iron. It seems as though an American president is not entitled to common decency of treatment. He is one whom no man need envy.

EX-PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

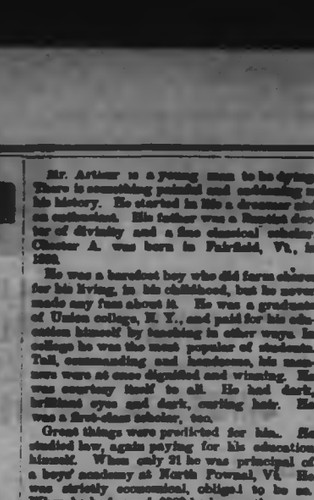
Mr. Arthur is a young man to be going. There is something peculiar and outstanding in his history. He started in life a dreamer and an enthusiast. His father was a Baptist doctor of divinity and a fine classical scholar. Chester A. was born in Fairfield, Vt., in 1830.

He was a harefoot boy who did farm chores for his living, in his childhood, but he never made any fuss about it. He was a graduate of Union college, N. Y., and paid for his education himself by teaching in other ways. In college he was the most popular of students. Tall, commanding and handsome, his manners were at once dignified and winning. He was courtesy itself to all. He had dark, brilliant eyes and dark, curling hair. He was a first-class scholar, too.

Great things were predicted for him. He studied law, again paying for his education himself. When only 21 he was principal of a boys' academy at North Fowsal, Vt. He was strictly economical, obliged to be so. When he had saved $600 he began the practice of law, first in the west then in New York city.

Mr. Arthur's first days were his best days. He came from college full of enthusiasm and determined to do right at all cost.

He was intensely anti-slavery in his convictions. He had hardly settled in New York and was only 30 years old when a law case was put into his hands that tried both his principles and his intellect. It was the celebrated Lemmon slave case, to decide whether, under the laws of New York, slaves brought into the state did not become free. Arthur took up the side of the slaves and won their cause triumphantly. The trials were carried up from court to court, and Charles O'Conor was the opposing counsel to him, but the brave young man won. From that day on it was settled that slaves brought into New York by their owners became free. Then Arthur took up the grievance of a negro woman who had been put off a street car on account of color. He sued the company and collected damages, and again from that day on, colored people had the right to ride unquestioned in the public conveyances of New York.



HOUSE ON LEXINGTON AVENUE.

As a member of the staff of Governor Morgan, of New York, during the war, it fell to him to equip regiments of soldiers and forward them to the front. He did this admirably, and in this work he got the title of general. The title is a civil, not a military one. He was Governor Morgan's adjutant. Afterwards he was collector of the port of New York and vice-president. It is said to have been directly opposed to his friend, Roscoe Conkling's, wish that he accepted the second place on the Garfield ticket. Conkling hated Garfield so intensely that he thought him not good enough to stand on the same ticket with Arthur.

The split in the Republican party of New York wrecked Arthur's fortunes politically. The bitter and final quarrel that resulted in consequence between himself and his warmest friends, distressed him and rendered his life not pleasant socially. He is said to have a fixed belief that the American people have misunderstood him and not given him his due, and that those on whom he lavished favor and friendship have turned against him and tried to do him injury. His life has not been a very jolly one since he left the White House.

Mr. Arthur's wife died in 1879. He was devotedly attached to her, and never remarried. He lives alone with his children, a son and daughter, in his house on Lexington avenue. His son Allan, looks like a dude, and is not greatly remarkable, except for having broken a marriage engagement with a charming girl, while his father was president.

So, from having started in life with the highest prospects and aspirations, with all that nature could do for him in the way of physique, and with a fine brain, from beginning with a brave record on the side of liberty and justice, the ex-president is finishing his career in declining health and obscurity, at his home. Until his illness called attention to him again, his name had scarcely been mentioned since he left Washington.

His little daughter Nellie was the sweet, bright flower that cheered his checkered life in the White House. She is now nearing womanhood, and resembles her father in face and features.

In his youth Mr. Arthur was called "an ideally faithful friend," and it was this which caused his overthrow. When vice-president of the United States he went to Albany and worked like a very lobbyist for the re-election of Conkling and Platt to the United States senatorship. He recognizes now that this was the mistake of his lifetime. He has, perhaps, had plenty of time to brood over it since. He is said to be the only one of the Republican presidents who never made a reference to the south in any of his messages.

A Lady's Secret

"I'd give a good deal if I had such a pure healthy skin as you have," said a lady to a friend. "Just look at mine, all spots and blotches, and rough as a grater. Tell me the secret of your success in always looking so well." "There is no secret about it was the reply. 'Dr. Pierce's 'Golden Medical Discovery' cleansed my blood, and when that was done, my skin, which was worse than yours, began to look smooth and healthy as you see it now." d121-6tw21

MONDAY, MAY 31, 1886.

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Loosed from Limbo.

Theo. Parrington, sent to jail for refusing to answer a question at the police court, when giving evidence in the Roddy case, was liberated this morning, he agreeing to answer.

Gone West.

Chief Cooper, armed with a distress warrant, made a call at Darcy's hotel this afternoon, the three fines for violation of the Scott Act not having been paid by the proprietress. It is said that Mrs. Darcy, the proprietress of the hotel, has left the town.

The Annual Inspection.

The Street and Bridge Committee, His Worship the Mayor and Inspector Wilson, this morning commenced on their annual inspection of the town. It is possible and probable that a written report of their adventures will be submitted at the Town Council to-night.

Proof of Popularity.

A proof of the popularity of the hot water heating boilers manufactured by Mr. George Bolton, which have a provincial reputation for excellence is shown by the fact during the past two days he has shipped to various parts of the province four of his celebrated heaters, one to Lindsay, two to Brockville and one to Arnprior.

Funeral of the Late Charles Robinson.

The funeral of the late Charles Robinson, conducted by the local courts of Foresters and headed by the Fire Brigade Band, proceeded yesterday afternoon from the family residence, on Water street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. The procession was a very lengthy one, there being in it over forty vehicles, besides a large number on foot, composed of the members of Court Peterborough and a very large representation of Court Little John. The Fire Brigade Band played the solemn strains of the Dead March in Saul, heading the procession. It was one of the largest and most imposing society funerals ever conducted in Peterborough, the occasion being a last tribute to the fidelity and estimable qualities one of the oldest and most faithful members of the order in town, the deceased being one of the charter members of Court Peterborough. The feeling of brotherhood among Foresters is strong and is expressed in the most practical ways—sitting by the bedside of the sick Forester—following his remains to their last resting place and comforting the bereaved and fatherless he leaves behind.

Paid their Fines.

On Saturday Messrs. W. Kennedy, T. Cavanagh and W. B. Chamberlain paid their fines for violation of the Scott Act to Police Court Clerk C. D. McDonald. Wm. Kennedy for two offences paid $118.19, besides $3.50 costs for distress warrant, Mr. Cavanagh $64.80 and Wm. Chamberlain $62.35. That's the way the money goes, witnesses may now call on Mr. McDonald for their fees.

Hot Water Heating.

A proof of the increasing popularity of the hot water heating boilers manufactured by Mr. Geo. Bolton, Peterborough, which heaters have a provincial reputation for excellence, is shown by the fact that during the past few days Mr. Bolton has shipped to various parts of the province, four of his celebrated boilers. One of these was sent to Lindsay, two to Brockville, and one to Arnprior. The testimonials received by Mr. Bolton from parties who have used his heaters are all of the most flattering character, recommending the Bolton boiler as the best in the market. This, as well as being a source of satisfaction to Mr. Bolton, is also creditable to the town, and it is hoped that his business will still continue to increase and his boilers to boil.

Increasing in Importance.

Mr. Bennet Sawyer, Principal of the Peterborough Business College, has under contemplation the opening of a branch college in Port Hope as well as in Lindsay. Mr. Sawyer, in speaking to a reporter of the EXAMINER to-day, intimated that in instituting these branch colleges, he has under contemplation the perfecting of a scheme which will give the Peterborough college even greater importance than heretofore. Mr. Sawyer does not wish to make his plans public at present.

Church Chimes

The sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered in St. Andrew's church on Sunday morning after the usual services, Rev. A. Bell, pastor, officiating.

Rev. W. K. Anderson, of Lindsay, occupied the pulpit of the Murray street Baptist church, morning and evening, yesterday, delivering eloquent and earnest sermons to large congregations. Rev. Mr. Anderson, though a veteran preacher, is still vigorous and eloquent.

Orange Delegates.

Messrs. J. R. McWilliams, Peterborough County Master; Robert Weir, Past County Master, and William King, District Master will represent Peterborough County at the fifty-seventh annual meeting of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America, to be held in Toronto this week, commencing to-morrow.

Messrs. F. Weir, M. Barry, H. Sherwood, S. Weir and Jas. Craig of McWilliam's Lodge of True Blues, left town to-day to attend the meeting of the Grand Lodge to be held in Lindsay to-morrow.

Police Court.

The Sixteenth Case Disposed of—The Charge Proved.

The hearing of the charge against R. N. Roddy and Catherine Roddy, for violation of the Scott Act, was continued.

Mr. O'Meara submitted further evidence of witnesses who had been subpœnaed since the first adjournment being taken.

The objection was noted.

Mr. J. S. Murray testified that he had never been in Roddy's hotel, and was allowed to depart.

Mr. Wm. Laidlaw testified that he was a tailor and had been on strike two weeks ago; he visited Roddy's on May 24th, but did not get any intoxicating liquor to drink; with three other tailors he had a drink of pop; he thought there was a few cents touched in it, but, to the best of his knowledge there was no intoxicating liquor in it.

Mr. John White testified that he had been at Roddy's hotel on several occasions since the 1st of May; he had several drinks of whiskey there; to the best of his knowledge it was whiskey; Wm. Reynolds was bartender; the time he drank with Laidlaw, the last witness, the liquor was taken from a pop bottle; he could not say it was not pop. On the day the late Bishop Baget was buried the bartender gave him whiskey from a flask he carried in his pocket, which liquor he paid for. On May 24th he got "a little off" on what he drank out of the pop bottle at Roddy's.

To Mr. O'Meara he stated that Mr. Roddy had ordered him out on May 24th after he had been in the hotel about an hour. He had a drink out of a flask carried by one of the party in which he was; the drink was necessarily small, as the flask was small and the party large. The party who served him with whiskey on May 7th was not behind the bar when he entered, but went there afterwards. Reynolds, the barkeeper, served the pop in the presence of Mr. Roddy.

Mr. James Walsh testified that he had several drinks of what Mr. Roddy called ginger ale at Roddy's hotel since the 1st of May; the drink was mixed, and when he drank it he was of the opinion that there was something intoxicating in it; he did not get enough to make him feel good.

To Mr. O'Meara—He said he asked for something to drink, and Mr. Roddy answered that he had nothing but Montreal ginger ale, which he took; he admitted being intoxicated on Sunday and Monday, but said he did not get the liquor at Roddy's.

Mr. Robert McDonald testified that he was at Roddy's since the 1st of May, and got a couple of glasses of whiskey there. A little girl served the liquor, which he paid for.

To Mr. O'Meara he stated that he had not given any information to any person with regard to the case and was not giving evidence with the expectation of being paid for so doing.

Mr. Wm. Argue testified that he had several drinks at Roddy's since May 1st, but they were all ginger ale.

Mr. J. W. Flavelle was called by the defendant and stated that he did not know John White nor Richard McDonald, nor any witnesses on the case. He did not offer a reward to any of the witnesses or authorize any person to offer a reward to any of the witnesses on the case. He admitted subscribing $100 or $130 toward a fund for the enforcement of the act. Mr. Dumble was not a member of the association and had not subscribed toward the fund. He had nothing to do with this case and had no conversation with any of the witnesses.

Geo. A. Cox, was also called by the defendant. He stated that he knew the witness White was a son of Mr. John White, but he had no conversation about the case. He also knew Robert McDonald by sight, but had no conversation with him. He was a member of the Scott Act Association and had subscribed towards a fund to enforce the law, but had not been appealed to yet for money. He did not know anything about the arrangements with Mr. Rossiter.

Mr. O'Meara submitted that there should not be a conviction in this case as the parties who sold the intoxicating liquor were not connected with the hotel.

The magistrate held the defendant R. N. Roddy, (who assumed the whole responsibility for himself and wife,) guilty and imposed the usual fine of $50 and costs, to be paid in five days and in default of payment and distress, three months in jail.

The court then adjourned.

P. B. C.

The regular monthly meeting of the Peterborough Boating Club will take place this evening at the boat house, at 7.30 o'clock.

Funeral of the Late Charles Robinson.

The funeral of the late Charles Robinson, conducted by the Court Peterborough Foresters and headed by the Fire Brigade Band, proceeded yesterday afternoon from the family residence, on Water street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. No One Need be Bald.

Dr. Dorenwend's Great German Hair Magic will produce a luxuriant growth of hair on bald heads, provided the roots are not entirely extinct. It will restore gray hair to its original color, prevent all falling of the hair, and remove all traces of dandruff. It is not oily, is a most elegant dressing, and keeps the hair and scalp in a clean, healthy condition. Ask for Dr. Dorenwend's Hair Magic and take nothing else. A. Dorenwend, sole manufacturer, Toronto. J. D. Tully, agent for Peterborough.

Ready to Row.

Mr. E. G. Lech, captain of the rowing division of the Peterborough Boating Club, announces that the club four-oar and double-scull shells are ready for use, and would be pleased if all parties wishing to row this season would leave their names with the keeper at the boat house, or at Mr. Lech's store with the captain; where a membership book is also kept. There is a prospect of the once famous four-oared crew getting into trim again, while new material will oppose them. It is proposed to institute fortnightly regattas to increase the interest in rowing.

Medicine C.O.D.

A healthy and not very verdant young man of town has been made the victim of a peculiar practical joke during the past few days. Several friends of this young man directed letters to nearly all the quack medicine institutions in Canada and the States, signed on behalf of the said supposed-to-be-sick young man, giving symptoms of all the diseases described by their advertisements. During the past few days the victimized youth has been receiving by express, C.O.D., bottled goods sufficient to start a temperance house, besides the necessary apparatus for application accompanied with sealed directions. Saturday's express brought thirteen bottles and a letter stating that the proprietor of a patent institution had taken particular interest in his case, and advising the invalid for "G——'s sake not to allow himself to remain despondent." At first the victim raised Cain, and broke the bottles, but now he smiles serenely and sends a boy to the express office for parcels. The young man's father was very much alarmed on reading the labels on some of the bottles and advised the son to visit the family physician immediately. The son still lives and swears—no, smiles.

Town Council.

The Regular Meeting of the Regular Character—A Long and Windy Session—The Annual Report of the Street and Bridge Committee—The Scott Act Discussed.

The regular meeting of the Town Council was held in the Council Chamber yesterday evening.

There was a full representation of the Council present; the Mayor in the chair.

COMMUNICATIONS.

After routine the following communications were received:

From Mr. E. B. Edwards, town solicitor, asking for instructions with regard to the case, Dumble vs. the town.—Received.

From D. W. Dumble, police magistrate, asking for the amount of judgment and costs in the suit won by him against the town at the last sittings of the Assizes.—The amount was ordered to be paid.

From Mr. E. Burnham, asking for drain repairs, and threatening an action for damages if repairs were not made.—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

From Wm. Hickey, asking for street crossing, Wm. Martin for new sidewalk on Chamberlen street, and Wm. Leek for new sidewalk on Stewart street.—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

From H. Grundy and 21 others, asking the Council to open and grade Cross street from McDonald street to Cedar street.—Referred to Street and Bridge Committee.

ACCOUNTS.

Craig & Mooney, furnishings	$25 50
Review Printing Co.	20 00
Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co	5 50
Carton Bros.	6 00
H. C. Rogers, postage	5 00
Mrs. Adlam	2 00
N. W. Telegraph Co.	2 25

The last three accounts were ordered to be paid, while the others were referred to the Finance Committee.

SPALDING'S BAY.

A report from Mr. J. E. Belcher, town engineer, was read, stating that according to instructions he had prepared plans and made an estimate of the cost of filling Spalding's Bay as proposed, which he placed at $2,000.—Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

THE FIRE BRIGADE.

A communication was received from J. D. Craig, secretary of the Fire Brigade recommending to the Council the advisability of increasing the efficiency of the brigade by providing it with new hook and ladder apparatus, a hose waggon with horses to draw the waggon, and a complete set of snap harness; also to furnish rooms in the fire hall suitable for the accommodation of four men, to remain on the premises all night.

Mr. Moore, Mr. Kendry and others spoke in favor of granting the request of the firemen.

Mr. Cahill suggested the forming of auxiliary brigades at different parts of the town, such as the Hamilton Works, the Stove Works and the Auburn Mills.

Mr. McClelland opposed Mr. Cahill's suggestion, holding that it would be as poor an investment as the hand engines purchased some years ago.

After further discussion the report was referred to the Fire, Water and Light Committee.

REPORTS.

Mr. Davidson, chairman of the Finance Committee read the following report:

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts:—

R. B. McKee	$40 37
B. Shortly	1 20
H. W. Watson	6 00
H. W. Watson	4 80

Your committee would request the commissioners to notify the Canada Pacific R.R. Co. that, they not having complied with the terms of the lease of four lots west of Bethune street, the said lease is forfeited and cancelled and that they be requested to pay the town the value of the lands occupied by their roadway, etc.

That $79.75, referred to in the auditors' report for uncollected balances of Public School levies, be paid over to the Treasurer of the Board of Education, as suggested by the auditors, also any school monies that may be received from time to time from the sale of non-resident lands be paid to said Treasurer, and that the Public School proportion, collected by the Town Collector in fines for non-payment of taxes for school purposes, be paid over by the Town Treasurer to the said Treasurer from time to time.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

R. S. DAVIDSON,
Chairman.

On motion the report was adopted.

Mr. Cahill read the following

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE STREET AND BRIDGE COMMITTEE.

Peterborough, May 31, 1886.

To the Mayor and Councillors of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Street and Bridge Committee beg leave to report that they have this day made the usual annual examination of the streets and bridges. As on the occasion of the last annual examination, your committee is pleased to note the continued prosperity of the town, as evidenced by the very large number of buildings that are to be seen in course of erection in every part of the town, as well as the repairs and extensions that are being made to old buildings; the planting of trees and boulevarding of streets by citizens generally.

Your committee is also pleased to note that considerable additions have been made to our manufacturing industries during the year by the erection of centennial and commodious stove works, lock works, and also a number of manufacturing establishments on the Dickson raceway, all of which are fully occupied at their respective callings.

Your committee further recommend that any portion of the work may be done by contract or otherwise, as may be deemed expedient.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

THOS. CAHILL,
Chairman.

After considerable discussion, in which a number of additions to the report were suggested, it was adopted.

MOTIONS.

Moved by Mr. Kelly, seconded by Mr. McNeil,—That the Street and Bridge Committee be requested to have a sidewalk laid down on the south side of Brock street from George street to St. John's church.

This motion called forth a lengthy discussion, in which several members maintained that the sidewalk was not necessary, and others that a crossing at Brock street, opposite St. John's church, would be made useful.

Mr. Kelly was called to order on the ground that he had spoken twice on the same subject, and should not speak the third time. Mr. Kelly insisted that he was not out of order, but on the Mayor leaving the chair he submitted to the ruling, and the Mayor resumed his seat.

Mr. Cahill showed that a grant to build this sidewalk was made last year, but overlooked owing to an understanding that the church authorities did not wish to have it built, and amended the motion by referring it to the Street and Bridge Committee with power to act, which carried.

Moved by Mr. Kendry, seconded by Mr. Hartley,—That $200 be granted to the Horticultural Society for expenditure on Court House Park.

Mr. Cahill suggested amending the motion by supplementing the grant by $600, to be applied in filling Spaulding's Bay, which he withdrew, however.

Mr. Menzies moved in amendment that the sum granted be $150, instead of $200.

On the vote being taken, the amendment was lost and the original motion carried.

Mr. Menzies called for the yeas and nays, which stood—Mr. Menzies nay, and all the other members of the Council yea.

Mr. Rutherford's notice of motion to remove the telephone from the fire hall to the police station was carried.

NOTICE OF MOTION.

Mr. McNeil gave notice of a motion to the effect that parties holding billiard licenses be allowed to keep their rooms open on Saturday nights the same as other nights during the week.

MOTIONS CONTINUED.

Mr. Davidson moved, seconded by Mr. McNaughton,—That the petition of Mr. White, asking for street improvements, be referred to the Street and Bridge Committee with power to act.

Mr. Menzies suggested hearing Mr. Bryan on the question of marking drivers' carters' waggons, which was not acted on.

Moved by Mr. Moore, seconded by Mr. Yelland,—That it be referred to the Town Solicitor to ascertain what are our rights in the matter of compelling the G. T. R. to fill up those portions of Bethune street on either side their track or to lower the track so that it will be in the position required by law.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Moore, seconded by Mr. Yelland, that the Street and Bridge Inspector be directed to repair the sidewalk on the south side of London street, between Bethune and Aylmer streets, and that the Street and Bridge Committee be directed to place a proper water table on the west side of Bethune street between the foot of Smithtown hill and McDonald street. Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

Moved by Mr. Menzies, seconded by Mr. Kendry, that a sidewalk be built on the north side of Dublin street, from George street to Water street, and that the Street Inspector have power to act in the matter.—Carried.

ADDITION TO THE POLICE FORCE SUGGESTED.

The Mayor stated that he heard and knew of several cases where dead animals were lying exposed around the street, and on enquiring of Chief Cooper the cause of the neglect to bury the animals, was informed that the police force had not time, being busy in serving parties on the Scott Act cases. He proposed that two additional policemen should be appointed to efficiently perform the duties devolving upon the force.

Mr. Kendry, chairman of the Police Supervision Committee said it was the first he had heard of the force not doing their duty efficiently, and thought the Mayor should have spoken to him, so that the committee might be called together to investigate the matter. He also said that he had heard that the Mayor instructed Chief Cooper not to enforce the Scott Act, and that he as chairman of the Police Supervision Committee instructed the chief to see that the Act was enforced as well as the other laws of the town and country.

The Mayor denied having directed the chief not to enforce the Act or interfering in any way.

Mr. Davidson asked who authorised the police to serve Mr. Blezzard in Otonabee on the Croft case.

Chief Cooper was called to explain and stated that Mr. Blezzard was served in town, and for the benefit of the Council explained that all summonses issued by the magistrate were supposed to be served by the police.

Mr. Rutherford called the attention of the Council to the fact Mr. Beavis was Sanitary Inspector, and it was his duty to bury dead animals and not that of the Chief of Police.

Mr. McClelland said that he had heard that the police had been instructed to watch all persons who visited hotels, under direction of the chairman of the Supervision Committee. He also asked on what authority the chief offered sums of money to the men of the force to increase their efforts in securing evidence in Scott Act cases.

Mr. Kendry denied the charge against him and Chief Cooper was again called on to explain. Chief Cooper said he did not order the men of the force to watch persons who frequented hotels or to sneak around hotels. In support of this statement he produced and read his written orders to the force, which instructed the members of the force to see that the Act was carried out. He also stated that he in private conversation with his men had offered them $10 out of his own pocket for the first conviction secured by evidence sadplied by them.

Mr. McClelland thought it was beneath the men to accept such money which in his opinion was a bribe. He also asked how it was the cow by-law was not enforced, cows being allowed to run at large.

Mr. Yelland severely disagreed with Mr. McClelland on this point and submitted in favor of his argument that the Street and Bridge Committee had walked all over the town on Monday and had not seen one animal running at large.

Chief Cooper explained that it was customary for heads of police and detective forces to offer rewards to their men as incentives to increase their efforts in particular and urgent cases.

Mr. Hartley said it was the first time he ever heard of a man being bribed to do his duty. He also said that he had heard on good authority that members of the Council had instructed the policemen not to do their duty. He thought it was a small, mean thing of the policemen to make public what the Chief had stated to them in private.

Mr. McNaughton moved, seconded by Mr. Moore, that no constable be allowed to leave

THE TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Another munificent appropriation for further work on the Trent Valley Canal! In the second instalment of Supplementary Estimates, presented to the House on Friday, the munificent appropriation of $57,000 appears opposite "Trent Navigation Works"—we say $57,000 for, of the $160,000 said to be appropriated, $103,000 is simply a revote of that amount formerly appropriated. Can anything half so farcial as this be imagined in the way of trifling with a great public work? Does such a little peddling appropriation indicate any honest intention on the part of the Government to prosecute the work to anything approaching completion? During the present decade, hardly anything permanent, worth mentioning, has been accomplished. The money voted has been shamefully frittered away on surveys that amount to nothing, and the contractor for the section now under way is, with the knowledge of the Government, so hampered that he cannot make satisfactory progress with his work. After all the thousands expanded on surveys, it is not probable, nay, it is highly improbable, that the plans for a single new section are in readiness. What more can be expected so long as the Government retains an engineer, known by the Government to be hostile to the work? The idea of a large staff being kept employed, at the people's expense, at the head office, engaged in anything but the work for which they are employed, is discouraging, to say the least, to those who have the promotion of work on the canal at heart. No plans ready; no work laid out; no money forthcoming; with the Government engineer fighting against, instead of promoting, the enterprise, what can be expected in the way of progress?

A Salesman's Remark.

One of the requisites of a good salesman is knowing just what to say, and when to say it, to customers who are undecided and hardly know what they want, and to whom a word spoken at the right time is sufficient very often to effect a sale. Sometimes, however, salesmen with the desire of assisting a hesitating customer, say things which have the opposite effect from that intended, as the following anecdote will show:

A gentleman who was several years younger than his wife, and who was besides small and rather boyish in appearance, entered a dry goods store in one of our towns with his wife and requested to be shown some carpets. The proprietor himself, to whom as it happened they were unknown, waited on them. He showed them very politely his extensive stock of carpets, and exhibited with great pains their beauty and excellence of quality. The gentleman and his wife seemed somewhat undecided as to what suited them among the various patterns displayed, and the proprietor, with the laudable desire of assisting them to decide, remarked blandly to the gentleman, pointing to one of the carpets, "I think, sir, this is the carpet your mother likes."

The gentleman looked a little surprised, but quietly said, "she is not my mother, sir, but my wife."

The lady said nothing, but it is needless to add that she did not find any carpet to suit her, and they left the proprietor, who felt that he had lost a sale by his unfortunate remark, a sadder and wiser man. If there is anything that a woman will not forgive it is to be thought older than she is.—Detroit Free Press.

"Dr. Pierce's 'Golden Medical Discovery' cleansed my blood, and when that was done, my skin, which was worse than yours, began to look smooth and healthy as you see it now." d121-6tw21

Town Council.

the town on county business while on duty. Carried.

Mr. Kendry said he was as zealous in seeing that all the by-laws of the town were carried out, but he had heard that Mr. McClelland had instructed the police not to enforce the Scott Act.

Mr. McClelland emphatically denied the charge, and asked the Chief to endorse his statement, which he did.

Mr. McGaughton, on being charged by Mr. Rutherford with taking every opportunity to whack at the Chief, said he had never said anything against the Chief, but believed in making the Chief work for his money.

Moved by Mr. McNeil, seconded by Mr. McClelland, that the Chief of Police and members of the force are hereby forbidden from offering or receiving any pecuniary remuneration from any source for supplying information which may lead to a conviction or any infraction of the Scott Act or any other laws.

Mr. McNeil at length gave reasons in support of his motion.

Mr. Rutherford held that if the motion was carried it would show that the Council did not wish the act enforced.

Mr. McNaughton made a short speech in favor of the Salvation Army, when he was called to order.

Mr. Hartley objected to the Scott Act being referred to specially, and made a reply to Mr. McNeil's speech on the Scott Act.

On motion the session was continued after 11 o'clock.

Mr. Moore did not like the wording of the motion and thought it reflected on the police force, in which point Mr. Kendry agreed with him.

Mr. Menzies also held like views and thought Mr. McNeil should be asked to withdraw his motion.

The Mayor suggested leaving the word Scott Act out. He thought it was bribery to offer money for services before they were performed, and did not agree with the action of the Chief.

Mr. Cahill said he agreed with the members who held that the Scott Act should be enforced, but he thought the Chief was decidedly wrong in offering a reward, and was in favor of the motion. He had not voted for the appointment of Chief Cooper, but since his appointment he had been very favorable to the Chief. By his action in offering a reward he thought the Chief had placed himself "between the devil and the deep, deep sea."

On motion of Mr. Rotherford, seconded by Mr. Hartley,—Mr. McNeil's motion was amended by leaving out the words Scott Act, the clause to read, "for any infraction of the laws," which was carried.

Mr. McNeil asked for the yeas and nays, but withdrew his request.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 28th, 1885.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two Sprinkler trusses made in York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This Cut shows one Style only.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 80 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. CHARLIE'S LUCK.

"Any news from the case this morning, Hutchinson?"

This question was asked by Mr. John Holbrook, senior partner of the firm of Holbrook and Hutchinson, solicitors and land agents, one certain morning, in the latter end of September, as he entered his office in the principal street of the old cathedral town of Dullminster.

His partner, Tom Hutchinson, without looking up from the papers he was reading, answered in the negative.

"Well," continued the senior member of the firm, "we must exhaust every effort to find the missing deed. There is a letter by this morning's post from Mr. Arnold, authorizing us to increase the reward to a thousand pounds."

"That ought to bring it to light, if it is in existence," said Tom Hutchinson.

And he threw down his papers, and wheeled his office chair to face Mr. Charles Wilson, aged twenty-two, with legal aspirations, who was "reading" in the office of this celebrated firm.

"Wilson," he said, "write out another advertisement in the Arnold case, and take it round to the Gazette' office."

"Yes, sir," answered the young man.

And he took a sheet of paper and began to write.

After awhile he read the following, and the firm agreed that it was the proper thing,—

"To Solicitors' Clerks and Others.—Information wanted of a certain parchment deed, given by Andrew Sharp to Archibald Arnold, conveying to said Archibald Arnold a certain plot of valuable building land, containing about five acres, more or less, situated in the City of London, said deed having been given in the year 1845. This deed was lost or stolen some fifteen years ago, and anyone furnishing information which will lead to its recovery will receive a reward of One thousand pounds, by applying to Holbrook and Hutchinson, Solicitors, &c., Dullminster, Chalkshire."

"You'd better take it round at once," said the head of the firm.

And the young man left the office to perform the errand.

Messrs. Holbrook and Hutchinson's articled clerk was a poor young man—poor—but he had a stout heart and great ambition, and although he found it a serious matter to make both ends meet, he was studying very hard to perfect himself for his profession, after which auspicious event, he felt that all would be plain sailing.

He had rosy day-dreams sometimes of the future, after fame and wealth should have fallen to his share, and the central figure of these dreams was pretty Madge Bevan, who was nearly as poor as himself, and whom he had loved ever since he was a boy at school.

"If I could find the missing deed," he thought, as he hurried to the newspaper office, "all would be well. A thousand pounds would give me a good start in life, and I could make dear Madge happy, and lift the burden of the support of her mother from her frail shoulders. I shall be admitted to practice on my own account next term, and it will be pretty up-hill work at first, unless I have a reserve capital. By-the-way," he muttered aloud, "I promised Madge to take tea with them this evening."

Charlie Wilson had expended a great deal of thought on the most important factor in the great land of Arnold v. Sharp, the missing deed to the immensely valuable lot of building land, and for the past month he had spent his idle moments visiting marine stores, in the faint hope of somewhere running across the parchment.

In the course of his search he had overhauled tons of old paper, but so far he could discover not the slightest trace of the missing document, and hundreds of others who had been tempted by the large reward offered for its discovery, were equally unsuccessful.

To-day he thought more about the deed than he did of Coke and Blackstone, and was so restless and pre-occupied that when the clock struck three he laid aside his books and left the office.

Mrs. Bevan and her pretty daughter lived in an old farm-house in the suburbs of Dullminster.

Madge was employed as a copyist in a private firm, and usually finished her day's work at four o'clock.

Until that hour, Charlie paced slowly up and down the pavement in front of the tall building where she worked.

They amused themselves with discussing what they would do with the reward, supposing they should chance to find the important document, and were talking in this ridiculous strain when they reached Madge's home.

"Tea is ready," says Mrs. Bevan, greeting Charlie kindly, ..nd I've opened a jar of my home-made strawberry jam just for your benefit."

"I know it's excellent," said Charlie; and he seated himself beside Madge.

While Mrs. Bevan poured out the tea he removed the cover of the jam-pot. Suddenly he turned pale, his jaw dropped, and he sat gazing coldly like one spellbound.

"Are you ill, Charlie?" cried Madge, rising to her feet.

"No, no!" gasped Charlie, after a time. "It's nothing. I shall be all right directly. It's—it's the thousand pounds!"

He seized the piece of parchment that had covered the jam pot, and bending over, began to decipher the written characters upon it.

"'Witness this my hand—Andrew Sharp—witness!'" he muttered, and then raised his head and turned to Madge, who was bending over his chair, with a glad light in his blue eyes.

"I've found it, dear!" he cried.

"What?"

"A part of the missing deed, and now, if we can trace the rest," he cried, excitedly, "our fortune's made!"

"Mercy on us!" gasped Madge, beginning to cry, in her bewilderment.

"Did you ever!" ejaculated Mrs. Bevan, and in her excitement she dropped the teapot to the floor, smashing it into bits. "Madge," she finally managed to say, "the rest of the jars are in the cellar, on the swinging shelf."

Charlie dashed down the cellar stairs, and there, on a shelf in the middle of the cellar, were two dozen stoneware jars, looking dim, each with a piece of parchment tied over it for a cover.

"Take them upstairs!" he ordered of Mrs. Bevan and Madge, who had followed him.

And he gathered up as many of the jars as he could carry.

When they were placed on the table he removed the covers.

It was an anxious moment, and his hand trembled as he fitted the bits together.

At last the thing took definite shape. Not a line was wanting. A few of the "and wherefores," and "provided alway's" were a trifle sticky, and a few of the words had lost a letter or two, but the main points were all there, and Charlie Wilson fairly danced with glee.

"Where did you get it?" he asked, turning to Mrs. Bevan.

"I had no idea the paper was of any value," answered that good lady, "and I selected it from a number that I found in the attic, because it was parchment. They were there when we moved into the house, and I expect they were left by Mr. Arnold, the owner of the property, when he moved out."

"Arnold—" began Charlie.

"Yes—Mr. Archibald Arnold. He owns this house and land, but the property is managed by an agent."

"That explains it," said the young man. "Mr. Archibald Arnold is the plaintiff in the suit."

"Well, I'm glad it's found, although they were excellent covers. Sit down and eat your tea."

He put the precious covers into his pocket, and proceed, with all possible speed to the office of Holbrook and Hutchinson.

His employers had not yet gone home, and Charlie laid the discolored document before them on the big office table.

One glance convinced them that their clerk had secured the long-lost deed, and the good news was telegraphed to their client, who came on the next day, and they told him the story.

At its close he drew a cheque for a thousand pounds, payable to Charlie's order, and the following month Charlie and Madge were married.

Mr. Arnold won his suit, and one day paid a visit to the old homestead where Mr. and Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Bevan still lived.

They received the rich man very graciously, and he helped to eat some of the strawberry jam.

"That paper," he said, at parting, "was worth a hundred times a thousand pounds to me."

A few days afterwards a letter was received addressed to Mrs. Charles Wilson, inclosing a very kind note and a deed to the old farm-house and the plot of ground in the centre of which it stood, "given," as the letter read, "in token of my appreciation of the great service you have rendered me."

Smokers will further their own interest by insisting upon having the "Cable" or "El Padre" brands of cigars, which have stood the test for a quarter of a century, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to persuade them to take other brands which pay them a larger profit, the consumer being the loser thereby.

THE NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Sports!

Life, Love and Death.

The vital statistics for the town during the past month, as registered with the Town Clerk, are as follows:—Births, 15; marriages, 6; deaths, 9.

Mission Services.

Rev. E. F. Torrance will conduct the services this evening in the Mission Rooms, over China Hall. Efforts are being made to have regular services in this place two or three times per week, the several ministers to take the services in regular order.

Ashburnham Council.

The Ashburnham Council met as a Court of Revision yesterday evening. A number of appeals were entered, three of which were allowed, being those of Messrs. H. Calcutt, H. Peck and Mrs. Swanson. A more extended report will be given to-morrow.

Grand Officer Elected.

Y. M. C. A. Bible Class.

Mr. D. B. Gardner will conduct the above class this evening at 8 o'clock, as the Rev. Mr. Wallace, who usually takes charge of it, is away from town. All young men will receive a cordial welcome. The training class led by Sheriff Hall will be held at 9 o'clock.

The Boating Club.

The interest in the Boating club still continues to increase. At the regular meeting held yesterday evening eleven new members were elected and initiated. Members owning lookers were requested to mark them with their names, as all not so marked would be opened for sale. The canoeing members of the club will meet at the boat house this afternoon and paddle down to Robinson's Island.

The Last of the Season.

Bear in mind that the last concert of the season will be given on Tuesday, June 15th, for the benefit of Prof. Parker. The concert will be one of the best ever given in town. The following talented vocal soloists will take part: Mrs. Agnes Corlett Thomson, Toronto; Mrs. R. H. Dennistoun, town, and Mr. T. Dunn, town. A chorus of sixteen select voices will also contribute selections.

No Special Meeting.

An effort was being made last evening, in view of important matters arising out of the visit of High School Inspector Seath to have a special meeting of the School Board, as that gentleman could not remain till to-night. But, owing to the fact that Messrs. Stevenson, Kendry and Rutherford had to attend the regular meeting of the Town Council, it was found impossible to hold a full meeting, and consequently no meeting took place.

Officers' Meeting.

A meeting of the officers of the 57th Battalion was held at the drill shed this morning. It was decided to have all clothing, arms and accoutrements of the outlying companies removed to town as soon as possible. Also to call the regiment together for organization on Wednesday of next week. In the meantime the captains of the several companies will open rolls for the enlistment of members. As the company is entitled to new clothing, an application will be made to the Government for such. It is probable the City Battalion will be thoroughly organized and equipped by the first week in July.

The Collegiate Institute.

Mr. Seath, High School Inspector, was engaged yesterday in inspecting the apparatus, appliances and equipments of the Collegiate Institute, and the buildings and premises for the purpose of seeing if they conformed to the Departmental rules, regulations and requirements. It is to be regretted that Mr. Seath was anything but favorably impressed by the results of his inspection. The Inspector without particularly commenting on the efficiency of the work of the Institute, found the apparatus for science studies totally inadequate and nothing like what the Institute should possess; the library is next to nothing; there is no gymnasium, no facilities for the practice of calisthenic exercises; the maps and globes deserve only the respect due to age; the school grounds and closets are not what they should be, by any means, and in fact the High School is in such a state that it will take from $1200 to $1500 to place the Collegiate Institute in the condition required by both the rules and regulations of the Department and the needs of the school apart from these.

Extra Good Cattle.

Mr. Archibald Goodfellow, of Springville, is a most successful breeder. The other day he sold to Mr. Thos. Grandy, cattle buyer, of Cavan, two heifers, two years old, weighing 1,000 pounds each, for $35.00 each. Also one steer, one year and ten months old, weighing 1,365, for $30.00. He also has a calf ten and a half months old which weighs 863 pounds. These animals were all grades, and Mr. Goodfellow's careful selection and good feeding have put him far on the way to develope a herd deserving, in all essential points, the name of thoroughbreds. What farmer can produce a record to equal or surpass Mr. Goodfellow's?

News Nuggets.

Leafy June.

Mr. John Sisson has the contract for stumping the new exhibition grounds at Bethany.

Trinity School Cricket Club defeated the Trinity College Club at Port Hope on Saturday by five runs.

A handsome new desk has been supplied the council chamber for the use of the Town Clerk, at a cost of $12.50.

A boulevard is being placed and trees planted around the Ontario Bank premises on Water and Simcoe streets.

The Hastings Grangers will hold their annual pic-nic at Idyl Wild to-morrow. Parties from town may participate by taking the Whistlewing which will land them at the grounds.

Personal.

Mr. Geo. Dawson left town yesterday for Warkworth, where he will for the next two weeks assist Mr. Pope in conducting Messrs. Giroux & Sullivan's branch store.

The members of the School Board last evening gave Mr. Seath, Inspector of High Schools, a drive about town. He was delighted and surprised at the extent and solidly built nature of the town, commenting particularly on the excellence of the electric light and the abundance of growing shade trees.

Mr. James Little has been appointed by Mr. W. H. Hill, inspector of agencies for Mr. Hill's insurance district, under the Sun Life Assurance Company. Mr. Little will make a careful and efficient official in this capacity. His duties will be to look after the agents in the five counties, and appoint sub-agents, while Mr. Hill will devote his time to pushing the interests of the Sun in town.

The Dollar.

From the king on the throne, from the peasant who toils,
From the lawyer who pleads in his choler,
From the client who waits for his share in the spoils,
Comes the cry of the crowd for the Dollar.

As it ever has been, as it ever shall be,
While the heart to the head is a scholar,
The Grindems and Grandys by Nature's decree
Shall worship the almighty Dollar.

A round bit of gold! That is all! Yet I'm told
That the world is built up by its glistenings;
That the ching-a-ling-ling of this idol so old
Brought the devil to stand at his christenings.

—John Whitcomb Riley.

An African explorer, H. H. Johnson, in an account of a journey to Kilimajaro, describes the natives as clever smiths, who forge all sorts of tools, arms, and decorative articles from pig iron, which is brought from the country of Usanga, near Lake Jipe. The forge consists simply of a pair of goatskin bellows with a stone nozzle, which is thrust into the furnace of charcoal. The bellows is kept steady by several pegs thrust into the ground, and a huge stone is often placed on the pipe to keep it firm. After the iron has been heated white hot in the charcoal it is taken out by the iron placers and beaten on a stone anvil. The Chaga smiths not only make spear blades and knives, but can fabricate the finest and most delicate chains.

Board of Education.

The Regular Monthly Meeting—The Schools to be Better Equipped—The Northward School Site Discussed.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was held in the Institute rooms yesterday evening.

Present, Mr. Jas. Stevenson, in the chair, and Messrs. Dumble, Rutherford, Errett, Deane, Cox, Wrighton, Sawers, Stratton, Sproule and Kendry.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

INQUIRIES.

Mr. Rutherford made inquiries as to the conduct of the Headmaster of the west ward school in keeping the pupils in after four o'clock.

The chairman said he had not heard of any complaints of such a nature.

Mr. Stratton, chairman of the Supervision Committee said he would investigate the matter and report. He was confident that Mr. McCreary was satisfied that he was doing his utmost to advance the interests of the school.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From G. C. Rodd, with regard to the steam boiler used in heating the Institute, the the draft of which he considers poor owing to a defective chimney. Referred to the Property Committee.

From J. H. Burnham, with regard to the medal offered by him to the pupil of the Collegiate Institute who takes the highest marks at the Toronto University matriculation examination, and intimating that the winner would be required to take first-class honors in one subject.

From L. E. Horning, tendering his resignation as Mathematical and Science Master of the Collegiate Institute.—Received.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The reports of the attendance for the several schools for the month of May were as follows:

	TOTAL.	AVERAGE.
Central School	393	276
West Ward School	186	147
South Ward School	233	204
Collegiate Institute	146	127

FEES COLLECTED.

The fees paid in for the past month for the Collegiate Institute and Public Schools were as follows:

Institute	$122 75
Public Schools	19 50

The report, on motion, was received.

The chairman intimated to the Board that the Town Council had, at its last meeting, ordered the town treasurer to pay to the treasurer of the Board of Education all uncollected balances of Public School levis, and also all school monies that may be received from time to time on the sale of non-resident lands and sums collected by the town collector in fines for non-payment of school taxes.

SUPERVISION COMMITTEE REPORT.

Mr. Stratton, chairman of the Supervision Committee, after showing the necessity of new teaching appliances in the schools, read the following report:

To the Board of Education of the Town of Peterborough:—

GENTLEMEN,—The School Supervision Committee beg leave to report that they have had under consideration the suppplying of the schools with articles such as maps, books of reference, globes, etc., necessary to adequately assist in promoting the carrying out of the prescribed course of study and the regulations of the department and would recommend that your committee have power to purchase the following maps:—The Dominion of Canada, of Europe, of Australia, and the other Australasian colonies, of the World, of Asia, of the Two Hemispheres, of Italy, France, Greece, Norway and Sweden, the British Isles, two or three physical maps, geographical charts, two globes, a planetarian, a tellurion, etc.

The following books of reference:—Hodgson's "Errors in the use of English," Bains "Higher English Grammar," Parkman's "Old Regime," Lippencott Gazetteer—latest editions, Appleton's Encyclopedia, 27 volumes, ($6 per volume with cash discount of 15 per cent. placed in school) Also a rack and support for the maps, and six copies of Webster's dictionaries for use in the Central and Ward Schools.

Your committee recommend the procuring of the above, as a step towards conforming to the requirements of the departmental regulations for the equipment of High Schools.

Your committe submit the information that the cost of the articles embraced in the above recommendations will be about $350, part of which is for use in the Public and part in the High School, but all available for either if required.

All of which is respectfully submitted.
J. R. STRATTON,
Chairman.

On motion the report was adopted.

Mr. Errett suggested that the supervision committee should not order these articles embraced in the report until Mr. Heath had reported, when it was probable other articles would be required. The matter was left to the discretion of the committee.

Mr. Stratton said it was intended to hold the principals of schools responsible for the apparatus and appliances used in teaching.

MOTIONS.

Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Dumble,—That the resignation of Mr. Horning be accepted and that the Committee of Appointments be requested to advertise in the Globe and Mail for a Mathematical and Science master for the Institute, duties to commence after the summer vacation, and that Mr. Horning be paid according to law.—Carried.

Mr. J. Stratton, Inspector, made a verbal report as to the condition of the school. The ink used in the schools was again a source of complaint, but he believed the cause would be removed in a few days as a new supply of ink had been ordered. The teachers in the several schools were doing all in their power to further the interests of the schools, and were giving special attention to writing, the teaching of which was impeded by the state of the desks and the ink. He condemned the system of crowding employed in the schools, which was the fault of parents as much as teachers and could not be remedied at once.

Mr. J. R. Stratton, informed the Board that the Supervision Committee had ordered several gallons of ink from New York, which would be supplied the schools in a few days.

Mayor Stevenson said that he had heard complaints that the chalk from the boards, on being rubbed off, floated through the rooms in clouds to the detriment of the health of pupils, and suggested that the chalk troughs be extended further from the board.

It was shown that this would not catch all the dust, and Mr. Dumble suggested that in sweeping the rooms wet sawdust might be used to great advantage which would prevent the chalk dust from rising after settling on the floor.

Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Dumble, that this Board, on the occasion of the retirement of Mr. L. E. Horning, Mathematical and Science Master, places on record its high appreciation of his services and its recognition of the fact that during his incumbency he has not only won the respect and love of his pupils, but also efficiently and satisfactorily discharged the duties of his position in a manner which causes this Board to regret the loss of his services.—Carried.

Mr. Kendry, chairman of the special committee appointed to select a site for the proposed North Ward School, reported verbally. He said the committee had visited several lots in the North Ward, and had selected a site owned by the Toronto Real Estate Investment Company, west of the Barnardo Home. This lot contained about two acres, and could be bought for $300.

Mr. Dumble, who was one of the committee, spoke in favor of a lot owned by the same company on the other side of the hill, and south-west of the lot Mr. Kendry spoke of.

It was suggested that half an acre would be sufficient.

This brought Mr. Dumble to his feet, who in a most vigorous speech advocated the purchase of the whole lot, to give the children sufficient room to play, and not to coop them up as at the other schools.

He also spoke in support of building a school that would be a credit to the town, observing the laws of health of rather than expense.

Mr. Cox suggested a lot owned by Mrs. Dixon.

Mr. Deane held that owing to the crowded state of the schools it was necessary that the school should be built before winter.

On motion of Mr. Dumble the whole Board was appointed a committee to visit and inspect the lot proposed to pass an opinion upon it, the Board to meet at the lot west of the Barnardo Home on Thursday evening at 5 o'clock.

The meeting then adjourned.

British Empire Mutual Life Assurance Company.

At the thirty-ninth annual meeting, held on the 6th April, it was reported that the new assurances for the past year amounted to over $4,000,000, under 2,135 policies, with new annual premiums, making the total annual income now considerably over $1,000,000. This amount of new business is larger than has been reported in any previous year. The rate of interest realised showed a satisfactory improvement, and the accumulated fund has been largely increased during the year, and now amounts to between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. The expenses of management, after deducting medical fees and commission, were 11 per cent. of the total income. A tabular statement was submitted, showing that during the past fifteen years the business in force was nearly doubled, the total income more than doubled, the new business increased to nearly five times its former amount, and the accumulated fund considerably more than doubled, while the expenses of management are away below the majority of companies doing business in Canada.—Monetary Times. In reference to the above it may be mentioned that Mr. E. E. Henderson is the general agent in Peterborough. In additional reference to the above company, it may be stated, a few days ago a paragraph was published in this journal under the heading, "Life Insurance in Canada," no doubt taken from the abstract report of the Superintendent of Government Insurance (the blue book not being issued yet) showing the total of the business done by Canadian companies, and only giving the Canadian business of American and British companies. This would probably mislead some persons, giving them the impression that "the relative standing of companies" was greatly in favor of some of the Canadian companies. For instance, take the British Empire; it is put down at bottom of list, giving the premiums for 1885, ending 31st December, $99,410, and the net amount in force at same period, $2,896,380. The public will understand at once that this only refers to the Canadian branch, which was opened out in this country about three years ago, and it is scarcely yet organized. The popularity of the company, however, is shown from the fact that notwithstanding the company has only established its Canada branch such a short time, it has done a larger business in Canada than any other British office. It was established in 1847, same year as the Canada Life, during which time it has paid back to its policy-holders, in cash, over four millions of dollars ($4,000,000), and has paid in death claims considerably over six millions of dollars ($6,000,000), in all, over $10,000,000, and its cash assets to-day is between five and six millions of dollars, with an annual income of over one million of dollars. Total policies in force, upwards of twenty-eight millions of dollars ($28,000,000). This company has paid more money to its policyholders than any Canadian company in existence to-day.

The Fire Brigade's Boom.

Trying to get the Band Boys Suited.

The regular monthly meeting of the firemen took place last evening, at their hall, Simcoe street. There was a good attendance. Besides the transaction of routine business, it was decided that the committee appointed recently to look after funds for the purchase of uniforms for the Fire Brigade Band, would enter actively upon the prosecution of the project. The committee, which consists of Messrs. T. Wilson, chairman, J. Haggart, J. Yelland and C. Rutherford and A Jones will at once proceed to make arrangements for a grand excursion to Campbelltown during the present month—some time between the 9th and 15th. Several of the members were provided with subscription lists to secure subscriptions and contributions towards the Uniform Fund.

A baseball club was organized in connection with the brigade and the captain was empowered to purchase balls, bats and other necessary material.

A programme was outlined for the celebration of Dominion Day. Riverside Park has been secured for the occasion, and the morning will witness a base ball match between the brigade and local club. In the afternoon a fine programme of sports will be presented and the evening will be devoted to a promenade concert given by the Fire Brigade Band and display of fireworks, to conclude by a grand ball to be given in the pavilion to be erected for the purpose. The work of putting up this pavilion, which will be a permanent structure, 30 x 60 feet, will be begun in ample time to secure its completion by July 1st.

The proceeds of excursion and Dominion Day celebration will be devoted to the Uniform Fund and it is to be hoped that the boys will receive the liberal encouragement, which they do not receive in the quarter from which they may legitimately expect it.

Police Court.

Patrick Handrigan, charged by P. C. Pidgeon with vagrancy, was arraigned before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning, and was given a term of six months in jail at hard labor.

John Dwyer, charged by Mrs. Elizabeth Root with using grossly insulting language toward her, did not appear in court after having been served, and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

Mrs. Root was sworn and related to the magistrate the nature of the insult, the court room having been previously cleared, with the exception of those interested in the case.

The magistrate found the defendant guilty and imposed a fine of $10, to be paid forthwith, and in default of payment and distress, 20 days in jail.

A Tailor Talks.

To the Editor of THE DAILY EXAMINER:

In regard to the item in Tuesday's Times about the tailors and the Scott Act, that paper leads its few readers to infer that the tailors were either informers or drunkards. Now, I am acquainted with some newspaper men, that, if the informers did their duties, would have as many subpœnas as all the tailors combined, and if he had the same regard for the truth as they had, would have done the same.

Yours truly,
A TAILOR.

FROM BAD TO WORSE.

If the people of Canada, who in 1878 and 1882 voted for a policy of high taxation, are not satisfied and think they can stand a little more, the following figures may set them thinking, and they may realise how much the government has been taking out of their pockets.:—

Expenditure in 1878	$23,868,000
Do. in 1884	31,107,756
Do. in 1885, including $1,700,000 war expenses	25,687,000
Estimated expenditure for 1886, including $3 462,930 war expenses	26,126,413
Estimated expenditure for 1887	40,046,330
Fixed charges (interest, subsidies, etc.) in 1878	14,878,667
Fixed charges, 1885	23,443,231
Do. 1886, estimated	23,079,982
Do. 1887 do.	25,264,567
Taxation in 1878	17,811,000
Do. in 1885	23,354,579
Do. in 1886, estimated	26,000,000
Do. in 1887, do.	27,200,000
Deficit in 1885, including $1,700,000 war expenses	2,340,000
Estimated deficit in 1886, including $3 400,000 war expenses	4,900,000

Here we have the yearly expenditure nearly doubled in the nine years between 1878 and 1887. As the Hamilton Times points out, the Macdonald Government was bad enough in the five years between 1878 and 1882, but its extravagance has been even greater and its corruption still more open and flagrant in the following four years. At this rate of progression on the road to ruin, what will the condition of things be in the next five years if the people give them another term of office?

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Northwest unpleasantness revealed terrible examples of the economy of the Tory Government in suppressing the rebellion the government oppression originated. Sir Adolph Caron, who, by the way, owes his title to his brilliant management of that little campaign, used public money to buy tea enough to last 41,362 men for 90 days, meat enough for 14,220 men, $1 a pair for sock and $10 per pair for blankets And every contractor whom Sir Adolph allowed to thus shamefully rob the country will be a contributor to the government bribery fund for the next general election.

Let the Liberal farmer ask his Tory neighbor to set forth what the N. P. has done for the agriculturist. In 1878 and 1882 Sir John assured the farmers that if they voted for high taxation he would insure them good prices for their farm produce. They did vote for high taxation. Since 1878 taxation has increased from twenty-three millions to forty millions. Have the prices of farm produce increased in proportion? There would seem to be considerable pertinence in a few questions of this kind.

Ashburnham Council.

Court of Revision—Three Appeals Allowed—Reward Offered.

The Council of the village of Ashburnham met on Monday evening as a Court of Revision.

Present—Reeve Burnham in the chair, and Councillors Calcutt, Wand, Faint and Craig.

The G. T. Railway not allowed.

Martin Kyly was placed on the resident roll, being assessed for lots 1 and 2 on Dufferin street.

H. A. Tousnett was assessed for a dog instead of a bitch.

The assessment of D. W. Dumble was confirmed.

The assessment of Wm. Swanson was reduced to $1,000, instead of $1,300.

The assessment of A. H. Peck was reduced $500—to $3,000.

The assessment of Henry Calcutt for personal property to $1,000, and his assessment of lot 7, west of Lake street and north of Robinson street, was reduced to $2,500, being reduced in all $2,300, by reason of the decrease in the value of his property, caused by the passing of the Scott Act.

The Court of Revision then adjourned and the Council took up general business.

A communication was received from Mr. H. T. Strickland, asking the Council to notify the C. P. R. Company to remedy several dangerous holes on Lake street.—Received.

On motion of Mr. Wand, the Reeve and Councillors Wand and Faint were appointed a committee to examine the approaches to railroads through the village.

An account of $17.14 for municipal election expenses was ordered to be paid.

On motion of Mr. Wand, it was decided to offer a reward of $5 for information that will lead to the conviction of boys or other persons that throw stones at or otherwise molest passers-by in the north end of the village.

A resolution calling the attention of the public to the fact that the herding of cattle and horses in the street is prohibited, and that all cattle running at large would be impounded, was passed.

The Council then adjourned.

Training Hops.

Various devices are employed in central New York for training hops. Formerly two poles to a hill were almost exclusively used, but since poles have become more scarce, various substitutes have been used. One arrangement uses stakes about seven feet long, over the top of which strings are run each way of the row. This plan has not been received very favorably, as the hop vine prefers climbing up, instead of climbing horizontally. Various and complex methods of using twine have been gotten up and patented, but they have pretty generally proved insufficient. The simple system of using one pole to the hill, and twine running obliquely from the bottom of one pole to the top of the next, and so on, by the test of time, seems to stand ahead, and is, I believe, he cheapest, most practical and best way to grow hops to-day.

A new method of training hops employs large poles and wire, and does away with the common hop pole entirely. These large poles are to stay in the ground the year round. They are placed at about every fifth hill, and for good results should be twenty, or at least eighteen feet above ground; but they are often used less. A wire is stretched on the top of these poles over each row, to which twine is fastened from each hill. Stakes are driven in the ground at each hill to tie the twine to. It is better when these stakes are about four feet long, but they may be only long enough to tie to. The wire rests in a hook, and when the hops are harvested it is let down. There is no patent on this, and it is rather cheaper than poles. However, some serious objections are urged against it. The strings are liable to break from the wire, and the vines killed by whipping in the wind. But I believe if good, strong twine is used, the wire is stretched tight, and stakes four feet long are used at the bottom, there will be little trouble. J. W. F. speaks of fence stakes to run the wire over. These would not answer at all, as the wire must be up high to give the hop plenty of run-way, or the yield will be materially reduced.

When the vines arrive at sufficient length, those which are intended to grow are immediately selected and tied to the pole about which they are to twine. The rest are carefully trimmed off. The vine should always be kept closely twining, as it grows much faster when it has something to cling to. All the season, up to harvest time, or when the growth becomes so dense as to prevent it, the ground between the rows should be kept mellow, with cultivator or plow; and hoeing occurs about three times—first, in early spring; second, when the unnecessary vines are trimmed off, and lastly, just before blossoming, when some growers make a practice of hilling up their hops, which does not accord with my notion, and which is fast going out of practice.—Cor. in the Country Gentleman.

A fair wielder of the pen whose staff is a "golden rod" with wild cherry wine for ink, writes from Blowing Rood, in the mountains of North Carolina: "We saw some fine sights. A log dairy, covered with moss, looking as if it had grown out of ferns and rocks, with limpid water dripping over them, a call for glasses, and the girl who brought them had caught the wild beauty of the flowers about her. In plain blue cotton skirt, a spotless handkerchief carelessly crossed over her throat, she pushed back a long bonnet to lift to us the softest eyes my own ever looked into, lips like a scarlet thread, and bright hair tossing around a low, sweet forehead. Glass after glass until the little brown hand must be tired. The stream near by is alive with speckled brook trout. We wind up the days by romping through the Virginia Reel, with old Uncle Dick to play for us. Nobody hears a note of the thin strains he draws from his violin, they are drowned by the rush of young feet, the laughter of happy women, the big guffaws from the gentlemen. Swarms of lovely girls."

A CHAPTER OF HISTORY.

How a Pile of Confederate Gold Disappeared—The Last Meeting of Jeff Davis' Cabinet.

On a cold day in February, 1865, a train drew up at the depot here with a mysterious car attached. With it came several agents, who busied themselves in hiring teams for the transportation of the contents of this car. Abbeville is about twenty miles from the Savannah river, which divides South Carolina from Georgia, and is the terminus of the branch of the Columbia and Greenville Road that runs off about twelve miles from Hodges depot to this village. Consequently the only way to reach the Georgia frontier is by horse power.

By 10 o'clock that night enough horse teams were secured, and they began loading from the mysterious car. The goods rolled out were in stout little kegs of phenomenal weight, and though the packages were small, they taxed the strength of the able-bodied negroes detailed for the work. At length the loading was accomplished, and amid the flash of lanterns and the crack of whips and the cries of drivers, the long line of teams pulled out of the muddy railroad yard up the steep, sloppy hill, through the village streets, where curious crowds had gathered to watch them pass, and disappeared in the darkness on the winding "snake road" that leads to Georgia.

When the teams had gone about ten miles, forty or fifty masked men rushed upon the astonished drivers and caretakers, held them mute under the muzzles of pistols, and proceeded to unload the wagons of their stout little kegs. A cloth was spread upon the ground, and around it assembled the ring, with flickering torches held aloft, while deft hands stove in the heads of the little kegs and poured their contents into a single heap. It was gold—bright yellow, glittering gold-pieces by the thousand! The hungry eyes behind the masks gleamed with reflected avarice. It was a weird, mystic scene, like a page from some Arabian romance. The abyssal silence of the forest, broken only by the rearing and plunging of the affrighted mules, the shivering ring of light varying as the torches were moved to and fro in the surrounding gloom, the anxious faces of the negro drivers gazing with startled eyes and gaping lips upon the fantastic spectacle, the eager circle of masks, and last, the solid pile of sovereigns, the centre of the whole—all formed a panorama which those who saw will never forget.

With all possible haste the money was divided up between the masked men, and in fifteen minutes they were gone. So was the gold. Nothing remained but the empty kegs and empty wagons, and the care-takers of this last remnant of the Confederate Treasury sent the teams back to Abbeville, while they continued on their way to Georgia. What became of the money and who got it remains to-day a profound secret, and will probably never be learned. My information about the forest scene was derived from one of the negro drivers of the teams, to whom a mask had thrown a tin bucket full of gold in exchange for a commodious carpet-bag, and he showed the gold in confirmation of his story.

A few days after this, stray squads of Wheeler's cavalry began to wander through Georgia and through a part of South Carolina, a little lower down than Abbeville. The broken forces which opposed Sherman were taking the back track a little higher up, and seeking to reach the pine lands of Georgia.

One evening about sundown Jefferson Davis reached Abbeville. Judah P. Benjamin was with him and two other members of his Cabinet, I think, but who they were I do not now remember. Abbeville is a long, straggling town of one street, being built on the crest of a hill until it reaches a point where it branches off into the upper or western part. Just in this fork is situated what used to be the residence of Armistead Burt, who was before the war a Congressman from South Carolina. Mr. Burt is dead now and the house is in strange hands. The house is a square, solid, unpicturesque three-story building, surrounded by what used to be lovely grounds and garden and orchards. Jefferson Davis and his Cabinet proceeded to the house of Mr. Burt, where they were hospitably received.

A strange coincidence! Has it ever been noted before? I believe not. Here was about to be performed the last official act of the Confederacy, while hardly a stone's throw from the spot was Secession hill, the grove which gave birth to the war. Just four years previously this amphitheatrical hill, shaded by oaks and other giant trees, was filled with a sea of excited faces, all looking toward a stand constructed against three tree trunks at its foot, and containing the leading men of the State. It was the first of the secession meetings. Speaker after speaker dilated in glowing terms on the necessity of severing the relations of the State with the Union, and every word was cheered to the echo. At length the venerable Judge Wardlaw, a man whose decisions had been quoted throughout the land, and who held a place in the front rank of jurists, rose and solemnly warned the people against this rash step they were taking. He told them plainly that they would be crushed, that they had not a single chance, and that aside from arguments about their political rights, it would be better for them to remain in the Union with disadvantages than to fight and be forced back at the point of the bayonet, with all the evils that war and defeat would entail. Judge Wardlaw was hissed off the platform. The people were determined on their course. But such of them as now survive are convinced of the wisdom of his counsels.

The almost deserted condition of Abbeville on that bleak February day, when Jefferson Davis sought the hospitable shelter of Mr. Burt's residence, bore mute but eloquent witness to the prophetic words of Judge Wardlaw. In gloomy loneliness Davis and his Cabinet assembled in one of the sitting-rooms. They held their last consultation, discussed plans that were discussed only to be abandoned, and finally decided that the end had come and that they had better try to escape. Then they examined such papers as they had with them, and when the hour of 12 struck the ashes of nearly all of those papers were smouldering in the glowing coals of a big wood fire. The question then came up as to the disposal of the seal of the Southern Confederate States. It was plain that it ought to be destroyed; but how could they do it? Time pressed. They should be on their weary flight for safety even now. There was an old covered well in Mr. Burt's yard, and into this Mr. Benjamin threw the seal. It has since caved in and filled up, and now the seal of the late Confederacy is safe under fifty feet of ground, and in exactly what spot there probably lives no man who can tell.

The sequel is known. A week or so after this meeting Mr. Davis was captured in Georgia. Mr. Benjamin escaped to England.—Abbeville (S. C.) Correspondence of the N. Y. Sun.

Cuban Courtship.

One pities the Cuban young man who is in love. He can not see her alone, and can not come regularly to the house until a fair understanding of his intentions is arrived at. And when at last he has attained the felicity of being daily expected, he must do all his courting in the presence of the family, and utter his sweetnesses across the critical ear of his future mother-in-law. Until they have been to church, they are two and never left alone. The whole family take sly turns in watching them. There is a regular detail made from the older servants of the house to keep an eye upon them. But there is human nature everywhere, even in Cuba, and the two are always getting off to a window seat or a distant pair of chairs, though with equal certainty, somebody slides off in that direction and mounts guard. The smitten pair do not walk together in the evening. He does not accompany her to the theater or to mass. They enjoy all the bliss they can under great difficulty, and with all mankind looking on. The indirect result of all this espionage, of course, nobody in this land of custom has ever observed. There are a great many small intrigues and innocent endeavors to circumvent the detectives. There are eloquent glances, signals, fan talk, and the sly interchange of notes. Then the iron-guarded window, instead of being a protection, becomes a great convenience. It is more than the front gate is with us. She knows when he will pass by, and stands inside with a fair hand clasping the bars of her cage, and waits for him. They stand there with the iron between them and talk. Every day it is so, and if mamma wants to stop it she must come and stand in a window also. There are other respects in which the young man has a hard time. He must come every day. He must, and she holds him to the strict letter of this law. He is bound to show, by every means in his power he holds all other women in contempt and detestation. He must not dance with any other, and had better not be caught holding on to any other window bars, in any other street. He tells all his friends about it, and she all hers, and the matter is diligently discussed. If he should fail to come around regularly every day he has to tell a satisfactory story. He takes his revenge after marriage.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 2, 1886.

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Ladies' Bible Class.

The Rev. Mr. Munro's bible class for ladies will not meet this week.

The Last of the Season.

Bear in mind that the last concert of the season will be given on Tuesday, June 15th. The following talented vocal soloists will take part: Mrs. Agnes Corlett Thomson, Toronto; Mrs. R. H. Dennistoun, town, and Mr. T. Dunn, town. A chorus of sixteen select voices will also contribute selections.

Battery Drill.

In future the Right Division of the Durham Field Battery will only drill once a week—on Friday evenings. It is not known for a certainty whether the Battery will go into camp at Port Hope on June 21st or in September, but it is not probable they will go this month as no orders have been received from the Department to that effect.

Football.

At a meeting of the match committee of the Ontario Rugby Football Union held in Toronto, on Saturday last, the season's matches were arranged. The constituent clubs are Strathroy, London, Hamilton, Toronto, St. Catharines, Peterborough, Kingston, Almonte, and Ottawa. In the first round Toronto will oppose Peterborough, the game to be played in town, before October 9th.

In the Park.

The park was a most inviting and enticing spot last night. The flickering lights of the gas jets in the pavillion showing through the green foliage of the trees, the delightful music furnished by the band, and the joyous laugh of the merry throng assembled, all adding their charms to the scene. There were other charms and attractions to, but let everyone speak for himself—or herself. The park is generally admitted to be a fine place to spend an evening, especially when the band is present.

Gorgeous Harness.

The prancing chestnut which draws the Canadian Express Company's van came out this morning in a grand new suit of harness, gorgeous with brass mounting as the harness of an old-time Grecian warrior. The name of the company appears in brass letters in alto relievo on the blinkers. This outfit is from the shop of Mr. B. Shortly. The popular conductor of the express van, Mr. J. Sim, is justly proud of his now complete turnout, which, however, cannot, as much as it may please the eye, make him any more obliging and punctual than he always has been.

The Nicholl's Hospital.

The lady superintendent thankfully acknowledges the following, donations for May: Mrs. Pigeon, 3 dozen eggs; Mrs. Paterson, raspberry vinegar, eggs; Mrs. Wallis, clothing, rhubarb, buttermilk; Mrs. J. R Stratton, preserves; Mrs. Jas. Stratton, rhubarb; Mrs. R. B Denniston, flowers and books; Miss Haultain and Miss Denniston, flowers and books; Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, London "Graphics;" Mrs. Wallace, Mrs anderson, Mrs. J. W. Flavelle, Mrs. J. W. Robinson, Mrs. Alymer, Mrs. W. Lasher, Mrs. Bradburn, Mrs. T. Morrow, old muslin and cotton; the Women's Christian Temperance Union, flowers and bouquet holders.

No Eleven.

The match to have been played to-day with Toronto Cricket Club is off, the energetic captain, Mr. J. E. Hammond, in spite of the efforts made, not being able to get an eleven together that would include a proper amount of bowling ability. The members of the club, always willing to play at home, should remember that the axiom "home-keeping youths have ever homely wits" applies with a difference to cricketting as well as anything else. No matches can be expected at home if the club does not go abroad occasionally. Its a pity to see first rate cricketting ability, such as the local club abundantly possesses, "wasting its sweetness on the practice crease."

Triple "A" Topics.

At a meeting of the directors of the P. A. A. A., held at the Secretary's office, Brock street, last night, it was decided to effect a lease from Mr. John Baraham, M.P., of the present grounds for three years and to make still further improvements.

An effort will be made to get on a cricket match with Campbellford for Saturday, June 12th.

The match between the bachelors and benedicts next Saturday, will be a sharp one. The unmated element will have to look to their laurels, for the eleven that enjoys home rule promise to put a strong team in the field, which, in addition to its intrinsic ability both behind and before the wicket, will derive a potent moral support from the domestic reserve, which will make them formidable opponents. Two (in one) to one on benedicts is about the odds.

Large Attendance.

The attendance at the Central School for the month of May was the largest in the history of the school, the names on the roll numbering 626, while the average attendance was 573.

Market Items.

The market this morning was small and prices remained unchanged. Prices were quoted: Butter, in prints, 13 to 15c.; eggs, for shipment, 10c., for local use, 11c.; chickens, 60 to 75c. per pair; veal, 4 to 6c.; potatoes, 50c. per bag; green garden truck, 5c. per bunch; hay $7 to $9 per ton.

The First Monthly Match.

The first of the series of four monthly matches of the Peterborough Rifle Association will be held at the butts to-morrow afternoon. The prizes to be competed for are the Ontario medal, for the highest aggregate scoring in the series, and ammunition prizes to the highest scorer in each match. It is expected that the attendance will be large and a good day's shooting is assured—weather permitting.

West Riding Agricultural Society.

A meeting of the Directors of the West Riding Agricultural Society was held in town yesterday afternoon, at which the prize lists were revised and matters relating to the erecting of the proposed new buildings discussed. A deputation was appointed to wait upon the County Council on Wednesday, June 16th, with a view of securing a special grant in aid of the building fund of the Society. On the same day the Directors will meet for the final revision of the prize lists.

Hastings Men Mysteries.

The Hastings Star says:—"A curiosity in "hen fruit" was found by Mr. Fuller, sr., of this village, one day last week among the products of his fowl. This freak of nature was in the form of two full sized eggs, which were linked to each other by a filmy substance as large and round as a pipe stem. One of the eggs was covered with a hard shell, and the other was of the "soft" variety. There, if that doesn't knock the spots off the EXAMINER man's two-tailed Dummerconian calf, we'll give in."

Calcutt's Line of Steamers.

Steamer Golden Eye will commence her regular trips next Monday—and will run in close connection with the Cobourg railroad, leaving here at 7 a. m. and arriving in Cobourg at 11 a.m. An excursion will be run for one dollar from Peterborough to Cobourg every Wednesday, one from Cobourg to Peterborough every Friday. The steamer will also run to Alnwick Landing to enable parties living on the south side of the lake to visit Peterborough. The steamer will call at Idyl Wild every day; this will give parties 4 hours good fishing at this favorite summer resort The Cobourg Railroad is being thoroughly overhauled, and under the able management of Mr. Pearse will become very popular. Family tickets on steamers at reduced rates.

Personal.

A well-known author in a street-car, rising and giving his seat to a stout woman, who does not acknowledge the civility—"I'm obliged to you madam." Stout woman, flushing angrily—"For what, sir?" Gentleman, courteously—"For taking my seat." Hilarity among the other passengers.—Beacon.

"Have you ever had any experience, sir?" asked the dramatic agent who was about to book an applicant. "Yes, sir, I used to play the leading part in 'Uncle Tom's Cabin.'" "The leading part, sir? What part do you mean by that?" "Why, sir, I was the man who had to lead in the dogs." His name was not taken.—Lowell Citizen.

An uncouth manufacturer, showing off the style of a favorite shoe to a buyer, had a handsome salesman at the time at his elbow. The buyer interrupted him, saying: "I don't know how it is, Mr. C., but when I buy your goods they look like your young man, but when I get home they look like you."—Shoe and Leather Reporter.

Col. Fizzletop was under the painful necessity of administering a severe castigation to his son Johnny. After he had completed his labors he said sternly to the suffering victim: "Now tell me why I punished you?" "That's it," sobbed Johnny; "you nearly pound the life out of me, and now you don't even know why you did it."—Texas Siftings.

"I infer that Chicago and St. Louis have resumed friendly relations," said the Judge to the Major. "What makes you think so?" "Only that I see a Chicago author has visited St. Louis and written a book about the place." "Ah, indeed! I should very much enjoy reading it. What is its title?" "Letters from Hell." "Ah-h-h!"—Pittsburg Chronicle.

Morris Clark, of Johnstown, Pa., can boast of the longest and strongest and handsomest beard in the world. In color it is rich, dark brown, and its length is between five and six feet. He is, of course, proud of it, but does not make any display, wearing the wonderful growth in a huge roll, a part of which is hidden under his vest. He is a blacksmith by trade, and has for years been employed in that capacity by the Canadria Iron Company, yet has preserved the beauty of his beard through all the flying sparks.

Some of the evolutionists are trying to make us believe that Adam and Eve were monkeys. Well, their genius for getting into mischief, the amount of mischief they were able to commit when they were turned loose in the garden, and their "general cussedness"

Our Darling.

WM. STEVENS, PETERBOROUGH.

In affectionate remembrance of Maudie, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stubbs, who died April 5th, 1886, aged three years.

"For of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

By a suffering infant's cradle,
Where the grieving parents wept,
Rang the summons, through the stillness
As they their lonely vigils kept.

'Tis the voice of Christ that speaketh,
"Suffer the sweet child to come,
In my arms I'll safely bear it
To a bright, eternal home.

In my Father's house are mansions
Well prepared by His own hand;
He is calling for his loved one,
Come and join this happy band."

Then upon the wings of angels,
Soared the little soul way,
To ascend into the radiance
Of the shining land of day.

There the crimson hand of fever
Ne'er shall paint that lily brow,
And no cry of pain or anguish
Mar her rest, so peaceful now.

Lo! I see the heaven gates open—
See a band of children fair—
Oh, the smiling little angels,
All in bright robes, standing there.

How their tones with gladness tremble,
As they tread the paths of light,
Singing fondly in their gladness—
"A little sister comes to-night."

Then unto the brink they hasten,
Where the blood-washed souls arise,
And welcome home their little Maudie
To a mansion in the skies.

Now their angel feet together,
Range the palms of glory fair,
And her voice doth sweetly mingle
With the choir celestial there.

There forever and forever,
'Neath the canopy of love,
Wait and watch, that priceless darling
In her blessed home above.

Next Door to Dynamite.

A Reputable Citizen's Residence Raided by Roughs—Volleys of Revolver Shots and Rocks.

About one o'clock this morning Mr. R. Mannell and family, who reside on Murray street, opposite the Separate School grounds, were awakened from their slumbers by the crash of breaking glass, and the bang of stones showered against the front door and front of the house. Almost simultaneously a fusilade of stones rattled against the west side of the house, smashing three panes of glass in the window of a room occupied by Miss Miller, who boards with Mr. Mannell. One of the stones was as large as a man's fist and was driven with such force as to knock the top completely off a sewing machine. Mr. Mannell went down stairs and took a look out of the window to see what the commotion meant, but could only hear several persons conversing in a low and intelligible voice in the Separate School grounds. Mrs. Mannell saw some parties passing through the lane on the west side of the house. After considering the circumstances Mr. Mannell came to the conclusion that his house had been mistaken for that of Mr. Rossiter, who is of the same trade, shoemaker, and lives a few doors west, but further back from the street. As no more stones were thrown for a while, Mr. Mannell concluded that the best thing to do would be keep in the house fearing that if he went out in the dark he might be be roughly handled, and returned to bed. About an hour after the first attack another volley of stones, accompanied by rained upon the front of the house. Mr. Mannell rushed down stairs and putting his head out of the door called out to the attacking party, whom he could hear quite plainly walking about on the school grounds and hanging around the gate, "Boys, I guess you have made a mistake; I'm not Rossiter, the informer," and then went to the back door and hollered "murder," with the hope of arousing some of the neighbors. He would have gone for the police, but knowing the house to be surrounded, he thought he might be taken for the person the party were in search of, and wisely remained in the house.

The besieging party dispersed shortly after this and did not again molest the house.

Mr. Mannell about five o'clock went to the police station and notified Constables Adams and Pidgeon of the outrage. They visited the house and inspected the places occupied by the parties who penetrated the outrage.

Mr. Mannell found a cartridge in the Separate School grounds this morning at the spot where he heard the parties conversing.

A reporter of the EXAMINER visited the house this morning. The front door is all marked with stone bruises, a bullet is imbedded in the sash above the door and another in the low pannel of the door, while the rough cast walls of the house are marked in several places.

Mr. Mannell is confident the parties were mistaken in attacking his house as he has not a single known enemy in town, and has no idea who the parties were.

More light may be brought to bear on the subject later on, as a diligent inquiry will be made.

It is rumored about town that the attack arose out of ill-feeling engendered by some dispute in connection with the Shoemakers' Union.

Police Court.

Two More Liquor Cases Disposed Of—John Monroe Committed to Jail for 3 Months.

Edward Welsh was arraigned before Police Magistrate Dumble this morning, charged by Chief Cooper with removing soils and mail from the roadside of McDonald street. Evidence was taken proving the charge.

The magistrate imposed a fine $10 and costs upon the defendant, remarking that he was determined to put a stop to such proceedings.

Edward Thompson and Michael Bolton, charged with removing sand and gravel from Rubidge street, both denied the charge.

Chas. Beavis, summoned as a witness, not answering when called, these cases were enlarged till to-morrow morning.

John Dwyer, charged by Mrs. Margaret Root, with the larceny of a rooster on Tuesday last, appeared before the court.

He pleaded not guilty, but admitted that he had taken the rooster, in exchange for a hen Mrs. Root had of his. He said he thought he would be able to return the rooster but was not sure. Having no money or distress, the magistrate gave him 5 days in jail.

Dwyer admitted the charge preferred against him by Mrs. Margaret Root yesterday, of making indecent proposals to her and using insulting language toward her.

The defendant not being able to pay the fine of $10 and costs and having no distress, the magistrate committed him to jail for 20 days.

The magistrate tried to impress upon Dwyer the serious nature of the charge, but his remarks seemed to have no effect upon Dwyer, who smilingly replied that he had been there before (at Root's house) and Mrs. Root had invited him to come again.

NUMBER SEVENTEEN.

Daniel Costello, of Young's Point, charged by Inspector Cochrane with a violation of the the Scott Act, admitted the charge, and was fined $50 and costs.

NUMBER EIGHTEEN.

Wm. John Kearns, John Kearns and Patrick Kearns, of Burleigh, appeared before the court, charged by Inspector Cochrane with unlawfully keeping intoxicating liquor for sale between the 1st and 29th of May.

The defendants pleaded not guilty and the witnesses were called.

A. Treanum, of Burleigh, testified that Kearns kept a boarding house at Burleigh; the name of John Kearns was on the sign; there was a bar in connection with the house; he, on Sunday last, had a drink of ginger ale at Kearns'.

Chas. Goodwin, of Burleigh, on the evening of May 22rd had several drinks of ginger wine at Kearns'; he was in the house about four hours and became intoxicated with the liquor; Wm. Kearns served him and the liquor was paid for.

Wm. Huston, a boarder at Kearns', testified that he had drank intoxicating liquor at Kearns' since 1st of May; he had not paid for it, but had a running account at the bar.

Allan McDonnell, of Burleigh, testified that he had had intoxicating liquor to drink at Kearns' on the evening of May 23rd.

W. J. Kearns admitted that he was the proprietor of the bar and that his father and brother had nothing to do with it.

To the magistrate he stated that the bar and effects owned by him might be sold for sufficient to pay the fines.

Inspector Cochrane stated that the goods were at the most worth about $20.

The defendant then admitted that he had not sufficient distress to pay $50 and costs.

The magistrate found the defendant, W. J. Kearns, guilty, and imposed a fine of $50 and $33.51 costs, and on the defendant's admission, committed him to jail for two months, unless the fine and costs are paid.

The defendant asked if the money could be collected from his father and was answered in the negative. He then drew from his pocket a roll of bills and handed it to his father who pocketed the wad.

Chief Cooper seized Mr. Kearns senior and called for P. C. McGinty to assist in rescuing the money, but on order of the magistrate allowed him to retain the money.

The magistrate, however, added another month to the prisoner's term, making it 3 months, and he was taken down to the cells below, seemingly well satisfied with the day's proceedings.

A Proud Celestial.

A Chinese baby, the first ever born in Philadelphia, has been added to the Chinese colony of this city, says the Times. It all happened on Sunday night, and Jeo James, the prosperous Chinese merchant on Eleventh street, near Walnut, is the happy father. The baby is in many ways just like the usual every-day baby that intrudes its presence in almost every household. It cries and kicks and scratches with vigor. It weighs seven pounds and the neighbors say has strong lungs. Its little toes have already begun to work their way through its shoes of Southdown wool in the fashion of a healthy American child. It is a girl. This fact was a little disappointing to Mr. James at first, but he became reconciled and then happy, and now it is thought that he is the proudest father in Philadelphia. He had an extra strut last night and his smile was childlike and bland as he stood in his store door enjoying the fragrance of a fine cigar, to which he had treated himself in honor of the event. Overhead, in the elegantly-furnished-second story front room, were the mother and child, with a well-trained nurse in attendance.

The baby was dressed in a slip of the softest silk, decorated with hand-painted roses of the most delicate tint and laces of the finest hand-work. The robe had been finished and laid away by Mrs. James many weeks before it was needed, as was a whole bureau full of little things for the expected arrival. The little one is of rich olive complexion, with bright little almond-shaped eyes, which peep out from the heavy lace with which its dainty pillow is trimmed. Yesterday Mr. James was the recipient of many congratulations from his fellow countrymen and the presents which were sent to the little heir were numerous, unique, and many of them costly. The news of the baby's arrival got out early yesterday among the Chinamen in the city, and little else was talked of.

M. James is very popular among his countrymen, and it is expected that the rejoicing over the birth of his child will be kept up for many days, as is the custom among the people of his nationality. As this is a girl, there was no feasting, as there would have been if the child had been a boy, but as it is the first Chinese baby born in this city the Chinamen think the occasion of sufficient importance for a general rejoicing. The name of the baby has not yet been decided on. Several names have been suggested, among which are Yum Yum and Rose Cleveland.

A Gambler's Nerve.

A New York correspondent of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat writes: That coolness and steadiness of nerve which is a part of a gambler's professional acquirement, saved Frank Brower, a somewhat notorious New York gamester, from being hanged for murder. Frank has been for several years an active and blithesome figure in the vicious annexes of upper Broadway, where he ran a faro bank whenever the police relaxed their vigilance or grew complaisant. He was a handsome young rascal, bleached to an interesting whiteness by night wakefulness over the green cloth, and by day a dandified promenader in the district of feminine shopping. There he flirted with the pretty wife of John Healey, a clerk in a hotel, and soon became an ardent wooer at her home, from which her husband was kept absent most of the time by his employment. Brower was wild enough in his courtship, and he proposed elopement, with death as the only alternative. Day after day he insisted that Mrs. Healey should abandon her husband and child to go off with him, but she had no notion of so serious a kind of unfaithfulness, and at length, after trying in vain to dissuade him from the project, distinctly refused to continue the intimacy. This was at an interview wherein the only witness was the woman's boy, aged four. Brower again warned the woman that he would kill her unless she eloped with him. She again said no. Then he drew a pistol, chased her around the room until he caught her, held her fast while placing the firearm to her head, and pulled the trigger. Mrs. Healey fell unconscious, and the gambler, with calmness restored by the tragedy, pocketed the weapon and walked out. The wound was fatal; but before dying the erring wife, in a few painful, broken sentences, accused Brower of deliberately murdering her. His threat to do it had been heard by several persons. The child gave a circumstantial account of the homicide. Nothing seemed more certain than the doom of the murderer to the gallows. Nevertheless, the trial has ended in his conviction of the very lowest grade of manslaughter, punishable by a year in the penitentiary at most. The disjointed assertions of the dying woman were ruled out. That left the prosecution with the child as the only eye witness, and the little one gave a clear, credible narration. The murderous threats were also testified to before the jury. Opposed to these, however, the prisoner employed his professional nerve and composure in swearing that the discharge of the pistol was purely an accident. His appearance on the stand was excellent, his demeanor consummate acting, and his story was told without deviation under rigid cross-examination. He had an air of regret and self-condemnation that was captivating. The jury believed him, in spite of the strength of the case against him, and did the next thing in their verdict to acquitting him altogether. The police and the prosecutors say that this was the most flagrant miscarriage of justice in years of their experience. Brower is elated. He sent an order for a basket of wine to be opened for his gambler cronies in celebration for his escape.

A recent investigator into the causes of consumption says the disease is often inherited because the heir has taken for his personal use the deceased's old mattresses, upholstered chairs, and carpets.

FRANCHISE ACT BEAUTIES.

Individual citizens entitled to vote are only just beginning to appreciate the trouble and annoyance caused by the Franchise Act. Under the old system of preparing the lists he could rest content that his name would be on the voters' list. Under the Franchise Act he has practically to employ a solicitor in order to see that he is not figured out of his right to the franchise. Not only has Sir John's Franchise Act these inconveniences and annoyances but the expense of its application adds enormously to the expenditure of the country. The House of Commons sat until half-part 3 o'clock Tuesday morning discussing the supplementary estimates. The Ministers refused to give any estimate as to the probable cost of putting the Franchise Bill into force. Neither would they say how much is to be paid to each Revising Barrister for his services. Mr. Mitchell charged that it would probably cost a million dollars to put the Act in force, and the Government were not in a position to deny the statement. All this trouble and disfranchisement of qualified voters is not only caused but a million dollars is added to the expense of a general election, because Sir John chose to pass an act entirely unnecessary, and whose only excuse of existence is that it will enable him to wrest a verdict against the people by silencing the voices of thousands of Liberal electors throughout the Dominion.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The population of the metropolitan district of London the great, increases by at least 65,000 inhabitants annually. In other words six Peterboroughs are added to its area every year.

The Toronto World thus accurately takes the measure of the chief Tory organ. Referring to the Mail's injudiciously vicious attacks on Mr. J. D. Edgar, the World says:—"The esteemed Mail's acute anxiety to write down Mr. Edgar in West Ontario can only have the effect of inducing the Reformers of that riding to hold him up. Grover Cleviand is not the only politician who is loved for the enemies he has made.

Tory members of Parliament and of the Government make politics pay—if not for themselves, then for their families. In the course of the debate on the Northwest estimates on Tuesday, it came out that Sheriff Chapleau, brother of the Secretary of State, not only draws two salaries—one in his capacity of Sheriff and another in his capacity of Superintendent of Public Works—but he also draws double travelling expenses when abroad, thus pocketing an enormous amount of swag every year. Mr. M. C. Cameron also showed on Friday last that this same Chapleau takes toll of all accounts against the Governmeat paid by him. The Opposition protested against such conduct, but a Tory member cynically remarked that it was no use to complain because the official referred to was a brother of a Minister.

The "Claimant" Arrives in New York.

NEW YORK, June 2.—In the passenger list of the Gaion steamer "Nevada," which arrived here from Liverpool, yesterday, appeared the name of R. Tichborne. This person is no other than the self-styled Sir Roger Tichborne, alias Orton, whose famous trial in London was followed by conviction and a long term of penal servitude. He was accompanied by a young lady, and intends to lecture in different parts of the United States.

Some Big Figures.

Statistics of Last Year's Wheat Product of the World—Estimates of this Year's Harvest.

WASHINGTON, June 1.—Statistics compiled by the Department of Agriculture show that the world's product of wheat in 1885 was 2,110,000,000 bushels, and the requirements of consumption 2,165,000,000 bushels, presenting a deficiency of 55,000,000 bushels drawn from the previous year's surplus of 125,000,000 bushels. They find the product of Europe a medium, those of India and Australia large, and a heavy reduction in the United States.

For the supply of the coming year the crops of Australia, India, and South America already harvested are probably about 32,000,000 bushels less than those of last year, while those of the United States promise fully 10,000,000 bushels more than the harvest of 1885.

The wheat in the United States on May 1st last was 104,000,000 bushels, April 1st, 152,000,000 bushels in 1885. The crop of corn in 1885 86 was 1,617,000 bus., the stock 567,000,000 bushels and the exportation 42,000,000 bushels. The estimated acreage of winter wheat now growing is 24,727,067; of spring wheat, 11,800,000; total, 37,527,067.

Omemee.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Beautiful growing weather. Our country never looked better at this season of the year.

Our town presents an unusually quiet and orderly appearance since the enforcement of the Scott Act. Not one single instance of intoxication, nor the sign of it here on the 24th May, although a large number of people were present.

Our band, under the leadership of Prof. H. Sherwood, is making rapid progress, and is now classed amongst the best of amateur bands.

Mr. A. Thornton, of Bradford, Pa., was here on a short visit amongst his friends. Mr. T. reports business lively in the oil regions, at which he is engaged.

The new steam yacht "Eureka" has been launched on Pigeon river, and intends running regular trips to Bobcaygeon and points north.

Keene.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

We are badly in need of rain.

Two "surprise" weddings last week. Miss Kate McFarlane and Mr. William Counsel on thd 24th, and next day Miss Jennet McFee to Mr. Jas. Edwards, all of Otonabee. Long life, happiness, and prosperity go with them all.

Mr. Sheris, of Peterborough, occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church here last Sabbath evening.

The population of our village is steadily on the increase. Three new arrivals inside a week or so—two lassies and a sturdy lad.

Keene is becoming a place of note for its romantic situation, good fishing, and general summer resort capabilities, as there is plenty of good hotel accommodation.

Mrs. Bull, of Winnipeg, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. Dr. Harrison here.

Mrs. Foley and party went to Healy's Falls via the Rice Lake and Trent River route on Tuesday. The little excursion was conducted by Mr. Barnett, of Burnett's Mills, and quite a number from Keene were fortunate to be of the party.

Miss Gerttie Gallon has returned to Keene to remain, we hope.

Club croquet match on Monday,—between professionals and non-professionals—the professionals won the day, (of course.)

The Scott Act.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR.—The Committee having in charge the enforcement of the Scott Act desire to make public the following facts in order to correct the many false impressions and rumors that are afloat in the town and county.

In the first place the Scott Act Association has deemed it to be its duty, having been largely instrumental in having the Act introduced in this county, to see that it is enforced. The work of stopping the liquor traffic would be less than half done if the Association now ceased its efforts. In this direction, however, there is no intention of interferring either with the town officials or the license inspectors if they choose to enforce the law. On the contrary, the Association would be only to glad if both would aid in the work, or if either would rigidly enforce the Act, It is recognized, however, that all the agencies combined will be necessary to effectually cope with the liquor traffic in its violation of the laws. But the Association desires to give all to understand that the law will be enforced.

The object of the Association is neither to persecute the liquor sellers nor to make money out of the fines; but now that the law is in force, and to remain in force for at least three years, to see that it shall be respected and that no one shall be allowed to defy it or break it with impunity. Not only is it intended that every dollar that may be awarded to the prosecutor out of the fines imposed shall be used towards enforcing the Act, but the members of the association have also formed an ample fund for the same purpose. The person whose name may at any time be used as private prosecutor will have no interest in the fines nor derive any personal advantage from them.

Mr. Rossiter, whose name was used as private prosecutor in the first batch of cases, had no more interest in the matter than any other member of the association, but as it was necessary that some person's name should appear on the papers to set the law in motion, Mr. Rossiter had the courage to say his name might be used for that purpose. At this time the Government Inspector for the West Ridiug had not received his commission, and though requested to act was not in a position to do so. Since the first convictions were made the work has grown so much that it has been deemed necessary that there should be a local Inspector for the town, in addition to the Government Inspectors for the East and West Ridings, neither of whom reside in the town, and Mr. Rossiter has been engaged by the Association in that capacity. The information and evidence are for the most part obtained from other sources, and Mr. Rossiter occupies in connection with the Association not the position of an informer but that of an Inspector, with duties similar to those of the Government Inspector.

The methods of the Association in procuring evidence are perfectly legitimate and fair, no person has been sent to any hotel to drink or to bring about the violation of the law. But nothing more clearly shows the growing feeling in favor of the Act than the fact that from all parts of the town and country information is voluntarily given to the committee of violations of the law.

Signed on behalf of the committee.

PRISON REFORM.

In order to reform any person addicted to evil living, an adequate motive must be offered. At Elmira the powerful motive is the desire of regaining liberty. This would seem enough, but it is not always sufficient to arouse ambition in a sluggish nature, especially when the period of incarceration is fixed and is short. This motive, then, has to be supplemented by others. A way must be found to arouse the sluggish body and interest the dormant mind. It is sometimes long before this way can be discovered. These ruined natures have often very little that can be appealed to successfully. But I do believe there is in most men and women, however degraded, the seed of a better life. The first step will probably be the awakening of an interest in something outside themselves; not a purpose of change, but simply an interest. It may be a desire to learn the alphabet, or an awakened taste for reading, or a little inclination to know something. It may be a pride in personal appearance, or a wish to get commendation for good behavior, or a dawning sense of the agreeableness of order, neatness, cleanliness. Or it may be some pleasure in a discovered power to do well a piece of work. This interest, once aroused, can be stimulated by various incitements, slight rewards of promotion, the fear of social degradation; and this path of doing well will become powerfully attractive when it is seen to be the path, and the only one, to liberty. But this interest in any form, with even the prise of liberation, can not be depended on to last. The will of the criminal is weak and vascillating. He can not be depended on, he can not depend upon himself, for continuance. He may fall and fall again and again. The only remedy in his case—and it is the common case—is to keep him at it, keep him trying, until a habit is formed, until his will is strengthened, until, in fact, it is mentally and physically just as easy for him to live a normal, healthful life as it was to live a disorderly life.

In the life that is required of him under the Elmira system it is very difficult for a man to sham. The study, the work, the behavior, demanded of him continuously almost preclude hypocrisy. The neophyte may try to pass himself off as docile, and even as pious, but no deceit lasts long under this severe, exacting, trying discipline, which is applied equally to his attention in the workshop, his alertness in school, and to all the details of his personal behavior and appearance. The requirements are too rigid. If the man does not put himself willingly and honestly into harmony with his position, he is pretty certain to break down and go back into the harder conditions of prison life. These he finds very unwelcome after a taste of something better, and he tries again, with a new resolution. The pressure is incessant. The incentive of liberty, better apprehended as he gets into a normal state, is always inviting him. Meanwhile habit is doing its work. He can continue longer in a straight course. He begins to feel in all his renovated physical and moral nature not only the desire for liberty, but a longing, however faint, to make a man of himself.

The important thing, as necessary in this system to getting out of confinement as to becoming a man, is the formation of habit. And here is where the notion of an indeterminate sentence comes in as the only condition of forming a fixed habit.

An indeterminate sentence is the sentence of a convict to confinement until in the judgment of some tribunal he is fit to go out into society again, until it is evident that he is likely to be law-abiding. If a person is determined upon a criminal life, the best thing that can be done for him and for society is to confine him where he can do no mischief, and where his labor will pay for his keeping, so that he may not be an expense to society nor a terror to it. And, logically, he should be confined until there is good reason to believe that he will be a self-supporting, law-abiding member of community. Now, the difficulty heretofore has been to determine when a person might safely be released on an indeterminate sentence. Under the present prison system, if release depended simply on good behavior, on external observance of rules, most criminals are shrewd enough to behave admirably, and to even offer evidence of Christian conversion, in order to get release. Where is there a tribunal that could pass upon his character? The Elmira system compels a person literally to work out his own salvation. It will take some men a longer and some men a shorter time to do it, that is, to acquire such a habit that for a given period they can stand perfect in study, in work, in conduct. Under our present rule of determinate sentences there are many incorrigible cases. Probably there are some natures incapable of being changed to anything better. Let such stay where they can pay for their living and not injure society. But it is difficult to say of any man that he can not be reached and touched by discipline, physical, mental and moral, for a long time and continuous; that it is impossible to drill him, in years of effort, into a habit of decent living and a liking for an orderly life. It is impossible, psychologically and physiologically, for a person to obey rigid rules of order and decency, to be drilled in mental exercises, to be subject to supervision for intelligent and attentive labor, for a considerable length of time, and not form new habits, not to be changed sensibly and probably radically. It may be in one year, it may be in ten years, but ultimately habits will be formed, and the man can not, without a greater or less effort, be what he was before he was subjected to this process.

This is the education of which I speak; this is the education which does not fit or incline a man to be an expert criminal, but which makes a disorderly life in his case improbable. And he himself determines when he is fit to go out of confinement and out of discipline to which he has been subjected. His record shows it, for his record shows whether he has acquired new habits and is really changed. Of course some tribunal must pass upon this record and upon the whole appearance and tendency of the man, but its work is comparatively easy, and liable to few mistakes. After release, of course, something must be done to place this man, who has acquired a habit of and a liking for a correct life, in a position in community where he has a chance to maintain himself. He can not be turned loose to all temptations in face of the contempt of the world. But philanthropy can provide for that as a part of the system which has given him, by long discipline, the habit of decent living. And it will happen that when the community understands this system, the finding employment for men who have been in State-prison will not be so difficult as it is now.—Charles Dudley Warner, in Harper's Magazine for February.

"Sheet-Iron Jack."

"Sheet-Iron Jack," an audacious brigand, fifteen years ago was a terror to several counties of northern California. He was well educated, handsome, tall, the son of a minister, so all accounts agreed, and his name had been gained by the immunity from bullet-wounds that he appeared to possess. Men did not hesitate to declare that they had seen good shots fired point-blank at his breast and miss him squarely. He became known as the most expert horse-thief in the region, and innumerable exploits of his are related in Shasta and Tehama counties. On one occasion he threw his pursuers off his track, assumed a disguise, met the sheriff's party, delighted them with his songs and stories, put up with them at a little village inn, and during the night escaped with three of the best horses in the party, after having turned the others loose in the woods and leaving a saucy and funny letter of thanks ending with an apt Latin quotation for the sheriff, whose wrath was of such an abiding sort that brief would have been Jack's life-lease had he been overhauled; in less than two minutes he then were assuredly hauled over and dangling from an oak limb.

One of the most characteristic feats of this fellow was performed at a mountain ball in a log cabin. Young people had assembled from many miles distant, some of them coming a day's journey. The ball had hardly begun when a tall, black-haired, well-dressed, handsome stranger appeared and excited much comment. A particularly handsome young girl was taken out on the floor by her partner, and suddenly the stranger stepped up and with great politeness requested the gentleman to resign the lady in his favor. He whispered his name in the young man's ear, paid a compliment to the young lady, took her for h and led the dance. Word went around that Sheet-Iron Jack had come there to dance with all the pretty girls; that he had several revolvers, never missed a shot, and probably had friends hid within call. The long and short of it was that the thirty young men present were terrorized, and, one after another, the brigand danced with the prettiest maidens in the room. Then he bowed to the excited assembly, stood in the doorway a second, said mockingly that it was a pity the men were not as brave as the ladies were handsome, and disappeared the darkness.—New York Commercial Traveller.

A "Pointer."

When Col. Sellers gives you a "pointer" in stocks, my friend, leave them severely alone, but when your own feelings tell you that you have palpitation of the heart, asthma, bronchitis or catarrh which unless checked are apt to run into consumption, heed the admonition before it is too late. The Last of the Season.

Bear in mind that the last concert of the season will be given on Tuesday, June 15th. The following talented vocal soloists will take part: Mrs. Agnes Corlett Thomson, Toronto; Mrs. R. H. Dennistoun, town, and Mr. T. Dunn, town. A chorus of sixteen select voices will also contribute selections.

Black Knights of Ireland.

At the annual meeting of the Grand Black Chapter of British America, held in the new Orange Hall, Toronto, on Tuesday, the following Peterborough officers were elected; Mr. J. B. McWilliams, Deputy Grand Master; Mr. J. Smith, Grand Lecturer; Mr. W. King, Grand Censor, and Messrs. R. Weir and — Hall, Grand Committeemen.

A Dog's Delmze.

Last evening, while Mr. Wm. Saunders of Otonabee was entering town by way of George street, south, a dog, belonging to Mr. Thomas Desautel, corner of Sherbrooke and George streets, rushed out and assaulted the horse, seizing him by the fore foot. This started the horse on a run beyond the driver's control. Mr. Saunders was thrown out and, if the animal had not been caught at Hamilton's Agricultural Works by Mr. J. Moloney, he would probably have injured many others for the streets were well filled with persons at the time. The horse was put into Mr. Hamilton's stable and Mr. Saunders injuries received attention. They were not of a serious nor permanent nature, but he was nevertheless, badly shaken up. The too aggressive dog was treated on the same principle that Othello applied to Desdemona—he was shot so that he would cause no more runnaways.

The Late Bishop Jamot.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Toronto Separate School Board held Tuesday evening, the following resolution was adopted:—

"Whereas Almighty God, in His inscrutable wisdom, hath been pleased to remove from his episcopal labours an illustrious prelate, the Right Rev. John Francis Jamot, first Bishop of Peterborough, be it resolved that we, the trustees of the Roman Catholic Separate Schools of Toronto, as our first meeting after his decease, beg most respectfully to tender to the reverend clergy and the people of the diocese of Peterborough this expression of our sympathy with them in their hour of affliction; that knowing, as we do, the many sterling accordotal virtues of the deceased prelate, he having been for many years an honoured associate with us, how with resignation to the Divine will, and as a mark of our respect for his memory, record this resolution on the minutes of our board, and request that an engrossed copy be forwarded to Very Rev. P. D. Laurent, V. G., administrator of the diocese, and that the secretary be instructed to forward copies of it to the press of Peterborough and of this city."

Importance of Poultry.

At the meeting of the Directors of the West Riding Agricultural Society for the revision of the prise list a year ago, Mr. John McClelland, in an effort to have more attention devoted to the poultry department, made statements concerning the extent and importance of the poultry industry of Canada, which other directors considered altogether too sanguine. This year, at the recent meeting for the same purpose, Mr. Clelland repeated his statements and the arguments founded thereon, and the same doubt was expressed. To show that Mr. McClelland was correct in his assertions and to the importance of the poultry trade, the following tabulation of exports of the Dominion for the year ending 30th June 1885, may be submitted. These figures are taken from the Government blue book and have all the authority of an official return. During the time indicated the value of the exports were, of

Poultry and Eggs	1,966,107
Horses	1,664,669
Sheep, including Mutton Dressed	1,279,803
Swine including Bacon, Pork and Hams	729,807
Butter	1,429,895
Hay	1,270,805

It will be seen by this table that the exports of poultry and poultry products rank second amongst the products of the farm and is an industry second only in importance to the horned cattle trade.

Lacrosse.

There will be a meeting of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club at the Little Windsor hotel, Brock street, on Friday evening, to choose a referee for the closing match with the Orillias. Other business of pressing importance will come up, and a full attendance is particularly requested.

Another Grain Robbery.

Yesterday evening thieves visited the farm of Mr. Jas. Gillespie, of Otonabee, and drove away a load of wheat and a load of oats. Mr. Gillespie's farm is only about half a mile from that of Mr. Slattery, who was robbed a month ago. This is about the fourth raid that had been made in the immediate vicinity this spring. There is no clue to the identity of the thieves.

Pic-nic in the Park.

The noon express from Toronto to-day brought a large excursion from Sunderland, under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church, Sunderland, to town. The excursionists, numbering about two hundred, proceeded through the business part of the town to the Court House Park, where the majority pic-nicked. After dinner the excursionists visited the several places of interest around town, which they admired very much. They returned by the 5.15 evening express.

Band Uniforms.

Last evening Messrs. E. McCabe, president of Fire Brigade Band, T. Wilson chairman of the Firemen's Committe, and W. Bridges, visited several of the tailoring establishments for the purpose of inviting tenders for the making of new uniforms for the band. The new uniforms will consist of a shell jacket of dark blue cloth with gilt braid frogs, trefoil pattern, gilt braid shoulder straps, gilt braid sleeve ornaments. The trousers are of the same material, with inch and a quarter wide gilt stripe. The style of head-gear has not yet been decided on. The suits are to be ready by July 1st, at the latest.

Championship Match.

Mr. G. H. Giroux, secretary of the Peterborough lacrosse club received a letter from the Orillia club in which the latter accepts the arrangement for playing the match for the championship on June 17th. This match will be played on Riverside Park grounds. The boys are committed to this match, and they had better commit themselves to diligent practice. Everybody is surprised at their inactivity—not an hour's practice this spring. Mr. Calcutt said this afternoon that Riverside Park had been available for practice for several days, but not one of the boys has been near it. Wake up lads, begin practice at once and don't let the Orillia fellows get the medal by default,—amanner in which they seem most anxious to get it.

Masonic Excursion.

The public, no doubt, will be pleased to learn that Corinthian R. A. Chapter, No. 36, G. R. C., Peterborough, has completed arrangements for an excursion to Rochester, the "Flower City," via G. T. R. and steamer Norseman, on St. John's Day, Thursday, June 24th. Return tickets from Peterborough, good for three days, will be issued at the low rate of $2.75. The train will leave the G. T. R. station at 7.06 a.m., connecting with the steamer Norseman at Port Hope, arriving at Rochester at 3 o'clock. The leading hotels of Rochester will cater to the wants of excursionists at $1.50 per day. The Masonic excursions have always been successful and the public may rest assured that nothing will be left undone to make this excursion especially so. For further particulars see posters.

Personal.

Mr. J. M. Ferris, M.P.P., West Northumberland, was in town to-day.

Mr. J. R. Dundas, M.P., of South Victoria, was in town to-day, on his way home from Ottawa.

Mr. W. A. Hurley, who has been in Mr. J. Garvey's store here during the past year leaves for London to-morrow morning to take a position in Mr. Garvey's wholesale house in that city.

Don't be Duped.

Smokers will further their own interest by insisting upon having the "Cable" or "El Padre" brands of cigars, which have stood the test for a quarter of a century, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to persuade them to take other brands which pay them a larger profit, the consumer being the loser thereby.

THE LABOR QUESTION.

REV. T. DE WITT TALMAGE AT THE BROOKLYN TABERNACLE.

Men do Not See the Trials and Hardships of Others—The Laborer Not Responsible for the Acts of the Anarchists—The Woes of Women.

BROOKLYN, May 30.—Rev. T. De Witt Talmage, D. D., preached to-day in the Brooklyn Tabernacle, the third of his series of sermons on "The Labor Question," entitled "The Genuine Hardships of the Working Classes." The Brooklyn Tabernacle, which is the most spacious Protestant church in America, largely overflows at ordinary times; but during the present series of sermons the multitudes who cannot get inside the building are vastly more numerous.

Dr. Talmage's text is found in Isaiah, xli, 7: "So the carpenter encouraged the goldsmith, and he that smootheth with the hammer him that smote the anvil." He said:

You have seen in factories a piece of mechanism passing from hand to hand and from room to room, and one mechanic will smite it, and another will flatten it, and another will chisel it, and another will polish it until the work be done. And so the prophet describes the idols of olden times as being made, part of them by one hand, part of them by another hand. Carpentry comes in, gold beating comes in, smithery comes in—and three or four styles of mechanism are employed. "So the carpenter encouraged the goldsmith, and he that smootheth with the hammer him that smote the anvil." When they met they talked over their work and they helped each other on with it. It was a very bad kind of business; it was making idols which were an insult to the Lord of heaven. I have thought if men in bad work can encourage each other, ought not men engaged in honest artisanship and in honest mechanism speak words of good cheer?

The Bible comes down to the minutiæ of everything. It tells us how many dollars Solomon paid for his horses. It tells us in Deuteronomy what kind of a roof we ought to have on our house. It applauds the industry and generosity of the Israelitish spinsters. It gives us specimens of old-time needle work, leather making, tanning establishment, pottery, brick kiln, city water works, ship building.

Man see in their own work hardships and trials, while they recognize no hardships or trials in anybody else's occupation. Every man's burden is the heaviest, every woman's task is the hardest. We find people wanting to get into other occupations and professions. I hear men in all kinds of toil wishing they were enabled to do something else, saying to me: "I have mistook my path in life; I ought to have been a mechanic and I am a merchant;" or, "I ought to have been a merchant and I am a mechanic. I ought to have been a lawyer and I am an artist; if I had undertaken some other path in life I would have had an easier time and I would have had grander successes." I suppose when the merchant comes home at night his brain hot with the anxieties of commercial toil, disappointed and vexed, agitated about the excitements in the money markets, he says: "Oh, I wish I were a mechanic! when his day's work is done, the mechanic lies down; he is healthy in body, healthy in mind, and healthy in soul, but I can't sleep;" while, at that very moment, the mechanic is wishing he were a banker or a merchant. He says: "Then I could always have on beautiful apparel; then I could move in the choicest circles; then I could bring up my children in a very different sphere from that in which I am compelled to bring them up."

Now, the beauty of our holy religion is that God looks down upon all the occupations and professions, and while I cannot understand your annoyances and you cannot understand mine, God understands them all. He knows all about the troubles of these men mentioned in my text—the carpenter who encouraged the goldsmith and he that smootheth with the hammer, and the goldbeaters.

I will speak this morning of the general hardships of the working classes. You may not be one to this class, but you are bound as Christian men and women to know their sorrows and sympathize with them; and as political economists to come to their rescue. There is great danger that the prosperous classes, because of the bad things that have been said by the false friends of labor, shall conclude that all this labor trouble is a hullabaloo about nothing. Do not go off on that tangent. You would not, neither would I, submit without protest to the oppressions to which many of our laborers are subjected.

You do a great wrong to the laboring classes if you hold them responsible for the work of the scoundrelly Anarchists. You cannot hate their deeds more thoroughly than do all the industrial classes. At the head of the chief organ of the Knights of Labor, in big letters, I find the following vigorous disclaimer:

"Let it be understood by all the world that the Knights of Labor have no affiliation, as society, sympathy or respect for the band of cowardly murderers, cut-throats and robbers known as Anarchists, who sneak through the country like midnight assassins, stirring up the passions of ignorant foreigners, unfurling the red flag of anarchy and causing riot and bloodshed. Parsons, Spies, Fielding, Most and all their followers, sympathizers, aiders and abetters should be summarily dealt with. They are entitled to no more consideration than wild beasts. The leaders are cowards and their followers are fools."

You may do your duty towards your employés, but many do not, and the biggest business firm in America to-day is Grip, Gouge, Grind & Co.

Look, for instance, at the woes of the womanly toilers, who have not made any strike, and who are dying by the thousands, and dying by inches.

I read a few lines from the last labor report, just out, as specimens of what female employees endure. "Poisoned hands and cannot work. Had to use the mean for fifty cents." Another: "About four months of the year can by hard work earn a little more than three dollars per week." Another: "She now makes wrappers at one dollar per dozen; can make eight wrappers per day." Another: "We girls in our establishment have the following fines imposed: For washing your hands, twenty-five cents; asking a piece of bread at your loom, one dollar; also, for sitting on a stool, taking a drink of water, and many trifling things too numerous to mention." Some of the worst villains of our cities are the employers of these women. They beat them down to the last penny, and try to cheat them out of that. The woman must deposit a dollar or two before she gets the garments to work on. When the work is done it is sharply inspected, the most insignificant flaw is picked out and the wages refused, and sometimes the dollar deposited not given back. The Woman's Protective union reports a case where one of the poor souls, finding a place where she could get more wages, resolved to change employers, and went to get her pay for work done. The employer says: "I hear you are going to leave me?" "Yes," she said, "and I have come to get what you owe me." He made no answer. She said: "Are you not going to pay me?" "Yes," he said, "I will pay you," and he kicked her down stairs.

I never swore a word in all my life, but I confess that when I read that I felt a stirring within me that was not at all devotional.

By what principle of justice is it that women in many of our cities get only two-thirds as much as men, and in many cases only half? Here is the gigantic injustice—that for work equally well, if not better done, woman receives far less compensation than man. Start with the national government. Women clerks in Washington get $900 for doing that for which men receive $1,800. The wheel of oppression is rolling over the necks of thousands of women who are at this moment in despair about what they are to do. Many of the largest mercantile establishments of our cities are so canny to these abominations, and from their large establishments there are scores of souls being pitched off into death, and their employers know it. Is there a God? Will there be a judgment? I tell you, if God rises up to redress woman's wrongs, many of our large establishments will be swallowed up quicker than a South American earthquake ever took down a city. God will catch these oppressors between the two millstones of His wrath and grind them to powder.

Why is it that a female principal in a school gets only $625 for doing work for which a male principal gets $1,650? I hear from all this land the wail of womanhood. Man has nothing to answer to that wail but flatteries. He says she is an angel. She is not. She knows she is not. She is a human being who gets hungry when she has no food and cold when she has no fire. Give her no more flatteries; give her justice! There are 60,000 sewing girls in New York and Brooklyn. Across the sunlight comes their death groan. It is not such a cry as comes from those who are suddenly hurled out of life, but a slow, grinding, horrible wasting away. Gather them before you and look into their faces, pinched, ghastly, hunger-struck! Look at their fingers, needle-picked and blood-tipped! See that premature stoop in the shoulders! Hear that dry, hacking, merciless cough! At a large meeting of these women held in a hall in Philadelphia, grand speeches were delivered, but a needle woman took the stand, threw aside her faded shawl, and with her shrivele arm buried a very thunderbolt of eloquence, speaking out the horrors of her own experience.

Stand at the corner of a street in New York at 6 or 7 o'clock in the morning as the women go to work. Many of them had no breakfast except the crumbs that were left over from the night before, or the crumbs they chew on their way through the street. Here they come! The working girls of New York and Brooklyn. These engaged in head work, these in flower making, in millinery, paper-box making; but, most overworked of all and least compensated, the sewing woman. Why do they not take the city cars on their way up? They cannot afford the five cents. If, concluding to deny herself something else, she gets into the car, give her a seat. You want to see how Latimer and Ridley appeared in the fire. Look at that woman and behold a more horrible martydom, a hotter fire, a more agonising death. Ask that woman how much she gets for her work and she will tell you six cents for making coarse shirts and finds her own thread."

I speak more fitly of woman's wrongs because she has not been heard in the present agitation. You know more of what men have suffered. I said to a colored man who, in Missouri last March, came into my room in the morning to build my fire: "Sam, how much wages do you people get around here?" He replied: "Ten dollars a month, sir." I asked: "Have you a family?" "Yes," said he, "wife and children." Think of it; $120 a year to support a family on. My friends, there is something in this world awfully awist. When I think of these things I am not bothered as some of my brethren with the abstract question as to why God let sin come into the world. The only wonder with me is that God don't smash this world up and start another in place of it.

One great trial that the working classes feel is physical exhaustion. There are athletes who go out to their work at 6 or 7 o'clock in the morning and come back at night as fresh as when they started. They turn their back upon the shuttle, or the forge, or the rising wall, and they come away elastic and whistling. That is the exception. I have noticed that when the factory bell taps for 6 o'clock the hard working man wearily puts his arm into his coat sleeve and starts for home. He sits down in the family circle resolved to make himself agreeable, to be the means of culture and edunction to his children, but in five minutes he is sound asleep. He is fagged out—strength of body, mind and soul utterly exhausted. He rises in the morning only half rested from the toil. Indeed he will never have any perfect rest in this world, until he gets into one narrow spot which is the only perfect rest for the human body in this world. I think they call it a grave! Has toil frosted the color of your cheeks? Has it taken all spontaneity from your laughter? Has it subtracted the spring from your step and the luster from your eye, until it has left you only half the man you were when you first put your hand on the hammer or in your place of toil, Hiram, and you will hear a voice above the hiss of the furnace and the groan of the foundry and the clatter of the shuttle—a voice not of machinery nor of the taskmaster, but the voice of an all-sympathetic God as He says: "Come unto me all you who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Let all men and women of toil, remember that this work will soon be over. Have they not heard that there is a great holiday coming? Oh! that home, and no long walk to get to it. Oh! that bread and no sweating toil necessary to earn it. Oh! those deep wells of eternal rapture and no heavy buckets to draw up. I wish they would put their head on this pillow stuffed with the down from the wing of all God's promises. There remains a rest for the people of God.

I wonder how many tired people there are in the house to-day? A thousand? More than that. Two thousand people who are tired, tired out with their life; tired in head and foot and back and heart! Ah, there are more than two thousand tired people here to-day, supposing all the rest to be in luxury and in ease! Yonder is a woman who has her head down on her hand. What does that mean? Ask her. It has been a tiresome week to her. "Oh!" she says, "when will I ever get any rest?"

Do you say: "We have sewing machines now in our great cities, and the trouble is gone." No it is not. I see a great many women wearing themselves out amid the hardships of the sewing machine. A Christian man went into a house of a good deal of destitution in New York, and he saw a poor woman there with a sick child, and he was telling the woman how good a Christian she ought to be, and how she ought to put her trust in God. "Oh!" she said, "I have no God; I work from Monday morning until Saturday night, and I get no rest, and I never hear anything that does my soul any good; and when Sunday comes I haven't any bonnet that I can wear to church, and I have sometimes got down to pray and then I got up, saying to my husband: 'My dear, there's no use of my praying; I am so distracted I can't pray; it don't do any good.' Oh sir, it is very hard to work on as we people do from year to year, and to see nothing bright ahead, and to see the poor little child getting thinner and thinner, and my own almost broken down, and to be getting no nearer to God, but to be getting farther away from him. Oh, if I were only ready to die!" May God comfort all who toil with the needle and the sewing machine, and have compassion on those borne down under the fatigues of life.

Another great trial is privation of taste and sentiment. There are mechanics who have their beautiful homes, who have their fine wardrobes, who have all the best fruits and meats of the earth brought to their table. They have their elegant libraries. But they are the exception. A great many of the working people of our country are living in cramped abodes, struggling amid great hardships, living in neighborhoods where they do not want to live, but where they have to live. I do not know of anything much more painful than to have a fine taste for painting and sculpture and music and glorious sunsets and the expanse of the blue sky, and yet not to be able to get the dollar for the oratorio, or to get a picture, or to buy one's way into the country to look at the setting sun and at the bright heavens. While there are men in great affluence, who have around them all kinds of luxuries in art, themselves entirely unable to appreciate these luxuries—buying their books by the square foot, their pictures sent to them by some artist who is glad to get the miserable daubs out of the studio—there are multitudes of refined, delicate women who are born artists and shall reign in the kingdom of Heaven as artists, who see genius every picture, and every sweet song, and every musical instrument. Oh, let me cheer such persons by telling them to look up and behold the inheritance that God has reserved for them. The king of Babylon had a hanging garden that was famous in all the ages, but you have a hanging garden better than that. All the heavens are yours. They belong to your Father, and what belongs to your Father belongs to you.

But I have no time this morning longer to dwell upon the hardships and the trials of those who toil with hand and foot, for I must go on to offer some grand and glorious encouragements for such; and the first encouragement is, that one of the greatest safeguards against evil is plenty to do. When men sin against the law of their countries, where do the police detectives go to find them? Not amid the dust of factories, not among those who have on their "overalls;" but among those who stand with their hands in their pockets around the doors of saloons and restaurants and taverns. Active employment is one of the greatest sureties for a pure and upright life. There are but very few men with character stalwart enough to endure consecutive idleness.

Again: I offer as encouragement that you have so many opportunities of gaining information. Plato gave thirteen hundred dollars for two books. The Countess of Anjou gave two hundred sheep for one volume. Jerome ruined himself financially by buying one copy of Origen. Oh, the contrast! Now there are tens of thousands of pens gathering up information. Typesetters are calling for "copy." All our cities quake with the rolling cylinders of the Harpers, and the Appletons, and the Lippincotts, and the Petersons, and the Ticknors, and you now buy more than Benjamin Frank in ever knew for fifty cents! A hard working man comes along toward his home, and he looks into the show window of the bookstore and sees an elegantly bound volume. He says: "I wish I had that book; there must be a great deal of information in it." A few months pass along, and though that book which he looked at cost $5, it comes now in pamphlet shape and costs him fifty cents. The high wall around about the well of knowledge is being broken down, and people come, some with porcelain pitchers and some with pewter mugs, to dip up the living water for their thirsty lips. There are people who toil from 7 o'clock in the morning until 6 o'clock at night, who know more about anatomy than the old physicians, and who know more about astronomy than the old philosophers. If you should take the learned men of two hundred years ago and put them on one bench, and take twenty children from the common schools in Brooklyn and put them down on the other bench, the children could examine the philosophers and the philosophers could not examine the children. "Ah!" says Isaac Newton, coming up and talking to some intelligent lad of 7 years: "What is that?" "O! that is a rail train." "What is that?" "That is a telegraph." "What is that?" "It is a telephone." "Dear me! I think I shall go back to my bed in the dust, for I am bewildered and my head turns." O! rejoice that you have all these opportunities of information spread out before you, and that seated in your chair at home, by the evening light, you can look over all nations and see the descending morn of a universal day.

The Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, JUNE 4, 1886.

THE TRUTH AT LAST.

The EXAMINER extends its hand across the "bloody chasm" and grasps the hand of the Review. The last issue of our evening contemporary has an article on the Trent Valley Canal, which upholds the contention the EXAMINER has been making for years in respect of government trifling with the prosecution of this "most important Dominion as well as Provincial work." Considering the party loyalty of the Review it must require a strong provocation to induce that organ to revolt, and the very fact that it "kicks," goes as far in denouncing the delinquency of the Government as the most emphatic language could do, if used in other relations by another organ. But our contemporary does not speak at all dubiously, for it is "deeply grieved and disappointed at the treatment this scheme is receiving at the hands of the present Minister of Railways and Canals"..... "every railway, no matter how short or local its character, applying for aid, has had substantial assistance out of the Dominion Treasury extended to it during the session just closed, (and) we do say that those interested in the Trent Valley Canal scheme have been treated in a manner which we did not believe possible at the hands of a government led by Sir John Macdonald." The EXAMINER has maintained time and again that the pretended interest in the scheme, shown by the Dominion Government, was but the deluding expression of a determination to utilize the work as a political aid. The Review is careful to exculpate Sir John. But Sir John is the responsible party. Minister Pope is a mere puppet in his hands. If Sir John had wanted a substantial appropriation to be made for the Trent Valley Canal he had only to say so. Both he and his colleagues have shown themselves hostile to the work, the gravest evidence of that fact being the retention of an engineer who is not friendly to its prosecution. Will the party loyalty of Sir John's friends in this district stand the course of contempt which he and his government have shown throughout for this important enterprise? So long as they tamely submit, so long will they be snubbed and put aside like troublesome children.

WHAT WILL THE END BE?

The following from the Montreal Herald is an outline picture giving a faint illustration of the existing state of things in Canada and furnishes food for serious reflection:—"'Whither are we drifting!' Where is it all to end! Into what frightful abysm of political and financial bankruptcy is the Dominion to be plunged ere a halt is called in the mad career of those who claim to be 'governing' the country? How much more misrepresentation and misadministration will the people stand before they rise in wrath, and cast out those unclean spirits that have made the honoured name of Legislature a by-word in the land? How many more charters must be sold, how many more 'blind shares' purchased, how many more sales of politicians' influence for money or money's worth, how man more 'boodle' Bills must pass through Parliament, how many more railroad subsidies must be distributed among members of the Commons and Senate, how many more licenses of timber limits, coal lands, ranches, etc., must go to the members, how many more tariffs must be made, and changed, and reconstructed to put money in the pockets of M.P.'s and their friends, how many more monopolies established, how much more ring legislation, before the electors of Canada will rise en masse, and thrust from them the unfaithful stewards, who instead of protecting the property committed to their charge have themselves plundered it and promoted its plundering by their allies and camp followers?

The head of the bed in the Cleveland-Folsom bridal chamber is level—it goes west—at least, the telegraphic despatches state that this is the way it points.

Ministerial papers say that the Liberal journals are pursuing a policy of slander. That's notso; they are only exposing the policy of plunder practised by the Tory Government, and professional politicians of the Tory party.

The Montreal Herald gives currency to the state of things political at the Dominion capital, as follows: "The fact is the country has been allowed to fall into a fearful condition; corruption is our God, and Sir John Macdonald is his High Priest.

THE USEFUL SENATE.

Sir John has made the Senate of use to him this session. That well tamed body has demonstrated how the creature can be of use to the creator. Sir John did not think it politic—whether a thing is right or wrong does not enter into his calculations—to oppose the striking out of the clause in the Pacific Junction Railway Bill, permitting the security of the Government claim to be weakened, but he accomplished this end through the Senate. The obedient body reinserted the clause in the bill and Sir John gratified himself by forcing this amendment through the House of Commons by means of the "brute majority." That's one instance in which the irresponsible Senate was of use to Sir John, in helping him to reward a supporter, found useful in the whitewashing department. The other instance. Sir John wanted to pander to the workingman vote, a Government anti-Chinese bill was introduced for that purpose and having secured the passage of the bill through the Commons, thought that was enough to fool the workingmen, and therefore his Senate, knowing his sentiments at heart on the subject, obediently threw out the bill, and threw open the gate, to Chinese cheap labor,—the next best thing to imported imigrants, for injuring the laboring class. Yes, indeed, the Senate is a very useful institution for the Dominion Government for its political purposes.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Mr. Dalton McCarthy has an ambition to get into the Cabinet. Could'nt Sir John create a new departure, making Mr. McCarthy Minister of Whitewash?

The St. Patrick's Literary Association of Ottawa Tuesday night adopted a resolution thanking Mr. Blake for bringing forward the resolutions in favor of Home Rule in the House of Commons. The resolution was moved by Mr. F. R. Latchford, a Conservative barrister.

Dominion Doings.

Brantford city was nine years old on Monday last.

Stobart postoffice at Duck Lake, the scene of the first fight of the rebellion, has been closed.

Fifty-one Italian laborers from Chicago were sent out from Winnipeg last week to work on the C.P.R.

The Winnipeg residence of A. W. Ross, M.P., which cost $70,000 in the boom period is to be converted into a convent.

The Finance Committee of the St. Thomas Council has declined to sanction an account for $5.95 for stationery for the city auditors.

Ald. Allen to Ald. Brick at the last meeting of the Hamilton City Council:—"If I start at you, my boy, I'll make you over right from your foundation."

For the past five months Rev. Messrs. Hunter and Crosley have held revival services in London, Ont., and the result is between 1,000 and 1,500 conversions.

During the past six years twenty-seven horses and rigs, valued at $10,000, have been stolen in Waterloo, and in only two cases have the thieves been captured.

Three of four prisoners who recently escaped from the lock-up at Edmonton are still at large. One who has been re-captured reports that the party endured terrible sufferings.

The new shipping rates promised by the Canadian Pacific Railway to the Winnipeg delegates took effect Wednesday. The reduction is fifteen per cent. on the old rates from Winnipeg to points west.

The casting of the Brant Memorial is about completed, and the sculptor, Mr. Percy Wood, will visit Brantford early in July to superintend the laying of the foundation and the erection of the monument.

The London School Board has adopted a recommendation to dispense with the central and intermediate schools, and to make such additions to the principal ward schools as may be necessary to convert them into graded schools.

There is a dead-lock in the St. Thomas Council. The Mayor announced at the close of the last meeting that a market by-law, which, it seems, has been largely petitioned against, would be the first matter considered at the next meeting, and a number of aldermen decline to attend the Council sittings until the Mayor consents to give the business precedence.

The effect of a judgment of the Court of Review declaring the illegality of the Montreal statute labour tax will be to throw the municipal franchise open to some 17,000 new voters. At the last election in Montreal 17,913 persons were disqualified for non-payment of this tax. The total number entitled to vote was but 13,598. The fight against the tax was conducted by the Trades and Labour Council.

Don't be Duped.

Smokers will further their own interest by insisting upon having the "Cable" or "El Padre" brands of cigars, which have stood the test for a quarter of a century, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to persuade them to take other brands which pay them a larger profit, the consumer being the loser thereby.

Cooling to Hot Blood.

The Yankee bill 25 ridiculously says that the treaty of 1818 would be brought into force and when it came in force and they were not allowed to steal our fish, they threatened to smash this country into its original chaos. But sober reflection teaches them that they are not very well prepared to "smash" anything. The New York Tribune rebukes in this connection:

Have the people of this country recently stopped to consider what a war with England would imply or what an absolute condition of unpreparedness for the defence of our seaports we are in, should the English fleet appear in our waters? Every seaport on our Atlantic coast from Portland to New Orleans would be at its mercy. It would demand indemnity and destroy, if refused, without any effective resistance. We have not a foot on our coasts, Atlantic or Pacific, that would stand against its terrific ordnance. Its scores of light draft, armoured gunboats could go up Hudson to Albany, up the Delaware to Philadelphia, up the Potomac to Washington, up the Mississippi to St. Louis, up the Ohio to Louisville, and we have not a gun or a vessel to stop them. In the war of the rebellion our wooden boats, with nothing but a thin shield of boiler iron, went all over our inland rivers in spite of shore batteries. How much less resistance could be made to these six inch steel plated English cruisers! Suppose some of these same iron clad cruisers should go up the St. Lawrence and get through the Welland canal before our forces could seize it and destroy the locks, what is there to save Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Toledo, Duluth, Milwaukee and Chicago from bombardment? Not a vessel, not a gun! There is not a port on the coasts of the United States nor a city on its great lakes and inland rivers that is not absolutely helpless against English naval power.

Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St. Catharines,—hundreds like it:

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1884.

GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 30 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two spring less trusses made in New York State, costing me $40. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down. It holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.

This new Spiral Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 9 out of every 10 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. When writing please mention this paper. Address,

Police Court.

The charge against Wm. Northey, of Selwyn, for violation of the Scott Act, preferred by Inspector Cochrane, was heard at the police court yesterday. The defendant pleaded not guilty. After hearing the evidence of three witnesses, the case was abandoned and the charge dismissed.

The hearing of the charge against Michael Bolton for removing sand and gravel from Rubidge street, enlarged from yesterday, was continued at the police court this morning.

The charge was amended so as to read Park street.

Mr Wm. Beavis was sworn, and testified that Mr. Bolton removed black muck or soil from Park street in front of his residence about the 15th of May. He was in the habit o' doing this. He had warned Mr. Bolton not to remove the soil as he was doing an injury to his premises and to the street.

The magistrate informed the defendant that fortune favored him as the by-law did not cover black loam, but only sand and gravel, and he had to dismiss the charge, much against his will.

A similar charge against Mr. E. Thompson, enlarged from yesterday, was also called. The defendant pleaded not guilty, and no evidence to the contrary being produced, the charge was dismissed.

Court of Revision.

Forty-two Appeals from the Assessment—Five Cases Disposed of—Three Appeals Allowed.

The Court of Revision met in the Council Chamber yesterday evening for the consideration of appeals from the assessment for 1886, of which there were 42 in all.

Present—Mr. W. H. Moore in the chair, and Messrs. R. S. Davidson, John McClelland, Thos. Menzies, and Wm. Yelland.

The following cases were considerd and disposed of:—

E. F. Carpenter, appealed against the assessment of part lot 8, on the corner of Aylmer and Murray streets, on the ground that the assessment had been raised from $400 to $2,000 since last year as per assessment sheet. On referring to the role it was found that the assessment was only $400 which was confirmed.

Mr. J. M. Masson, appealed against the assessment on the Blythe Mills, $5,500, and personal property, $300. He asked to be relieved from paying personal property tax, and complained that the mill property was over assessed. The personal property was struck off, and the real estate confirmed.

Mrs. Elizabeth Gray, applied to have the house on Stewart street, now assessed to Miss Knowlson, assessed in her name. The application was granted.

Rev. G. H. Davis appealed from the assessment of $1,500 on the house occupied by him, and asked for exemption on the ground that he is a minister of the gospel engaged in no secular employment. The request of the appeal was granted.

John Booth, assessed for $800 on real estate and $300 on income, appealed against income assessment. The assessment was confirmed.

Ten other appeals were discussed and allowed to stand over, the court agreeing to visit several of the lots against the assessment of which appeals have been entered, with a view of forming a better idea of their value.

Several appeals against the assessing of lands as parks and paddocks were allowed to stand over, the Town Solicitor being absent from town.

Imperial Parliament.

The Split among the Liberals—Forecasting the Future.

LONDON, June 3.—A meeting of the General Committee of the National Liberal Federation was held yesterday. The resignations of Mr. Richard Chamberlain and other prominent officials, was accepted in consequence of the vote at the recent conference in favor of Home Rule for Ireland. Mr. Jesse Collings addressed the meeting. He deplored, what he termed the sad crisis in the affairs of the Liberal party. The Liberals, he said, had not deserted Mr. Gladstone. Mr. Gladstone had deserted the Liberals and had sprung schemes without warning or consultation. Mr. Shandhorst also made a speech in which he heartily endorsed the Premier. It was resolved to establish an emergency fund to further the Government bill in view of the approaching elections.

In the lobby it is thought a division would not be taken before Tuesday, or even a later date. The Parnellites will meet before the division to discuss the situation. Several members of the Chamberlain party are reported to have returned to the Gladstone fold.

THE LABOR QUESTION.

One more encouragement. Your toils in this world are only intended to be a discipline by which you shall be prepared for heaven. "Rejoice I bring you glad tidings of great joy," and tell you that Christ, the carpenter of Nazareth, is the working man's Christ. You get His love once in your heart, Oh, working man! and you can sing on the wall in the midst of the storm, and in the shop amidst the shoving of the plane, and down in the mine and at the forge of the worker, and on sabbath while attending residence. If you belong to the Lord Jesus Christ, He will sweat the drops of sweat on your brow. He knows every ache and every pain you have ever endured in your worldly occupations. Are you weary? He will give you rest. Are you sick? He will give you health. Are you cold? He will wrap around you the warm mantle of His eternal love. And besides that, my friends, you must remember, that all this is only preparatory—a prefatory and introductory. I am a few moments before the throne of God. Who are they! "Oh!" you say, "These are princes; they must have always been in a royal family; they dress like princes; they walk like princes; they are princes; there are none of the princes' pomp there—one of the people that ever laughed with hand and foot." Ah! you are mistaken. Who is that bright spirit before the throne! Why, that was a sewing girl who, night after night, in the dark, cold, dismal garret, bent over the shirt and the vest, and the coat, and the pantaloons, and the dress that were to be worn by others, and who drove her cot on a cold winter night, and she flew into heaven. What are those kings and queens before the throne? Many of them went up from Birmingham mills and from Lowell carpet factories.

And now I hear a sound like the rustling of robes, and now I see a taking up of harps as though they were going to strike a thanksgiving anthem, and all the children of the saw and the disciples of the shuttle are in glorious array, and they lift a song so clear that awful I wish you could hear it. It would make the pilgrim's burden very light, and the pilgrim's journey very short. Not one weak voice or hoarse throat in that great assemblage. The accord is as perfect as though they had been all eternity practising, and I ask them what is the name of that song they sing before the throne and they tell me it is the song of the redeemed working people. And the angel cries out, "Who are these so near the throne?" and the answer comes back, "These are they who came out of great tribulation and had their robes washed and made white in the blood of the lamb."

Painful Accident.

Willie Shannon, son of Mr. S. Shannon, of Ashburnham, Wednesday evening, while playing on the farm of Mr. M. Graystock, Otonabee, where he was visiting, met with a very painful accident, by which he came near losing an eye. He was running with a sharp stick in his hand, when he tripped and fell, driving the stick into the corner of the eye, between the nose and eyeball. He was brought to town and Dr. King summoned, who did all in his power to alleviate the little fellow's sufferings. Though the wound is a dangerous and painful one, the doctor has hopes that the sight has not been injured.

Matrimonial.

On Tuesday last Mr. Thomas McNamara, son of Mr. P. McNamara, of Lake street, led to the altar, Miss Mary Flemming, of Auburn. The ceremony was performed at St. Peter's Cathedral by Rev. Father Conway, Mr. H. Macdonald performing the duties of groomsman and Miss B. Welsh acting as bridesmaid. After the ceremony the bridal party repaired to the residence of the bride at Auburn, and a very pleasant evening was spent in admiring the large array of bridal presents and in the enjoyment of the amusements incidental to such occasions. The happy pair start life under the most favorable circumstances, amid the congratulations and good wishes of their many friends.

Wedlock.

The President of the United States had just nicely completed his life contract with Miss Folsom, and started for the Alleghenies, when an interesting ceremony of a similar nature was celebrated in town on Tuesday evening. Mr. Robert Mein was the happy man most interested and Miss Jessie Logan, the blushing bride. The ceremony was performed at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. John Logan, Park street, Rev. E. F. Torrance officiating. Miss Millie Rae acted as bridesmaid, and Mr. John Mein, brother of the groom, assisted as best man. The presents were numerous and valuable. Among the many was a silver sugar bowl and spoon holder combined, the gift of the band boys. Both bride and groom are excellent musicians, Mrs. Mein being one of Peterborough's sweetest singers, and Mr. Mein one of the Brigade Band's best blowers, and their married life cannot fail to be most harmonious. They have the best wishes and congratulations of a large circle of friends.

An Expanding Business.

The Central Canada Loan and Savings Co. have opened a branch of that institution in Lindsay, with J. R. Dundas, Esq., M. P., vice-president of the company, as local manager. The ability, reliability and capacity of Mr. Dundas for properly managing the affairs of the Company at Lindsay will give the public confidence in the concern, and, if any further recommendation is needed, it is supplied by the facts of the stability of the institution, its rapid progress in the acquisition of the immense business it has secured, its solid financial standing—representing a million dollars of capital, and having a large and growing reserve fund. Under the efficient management of Geo. A. Cox, Esq., the president of the Company, the Central Canada has become established on a basis as firm as any other institution of the kind doing business in Canada. To both investors and borrowers in Lindsay and vicinity this Company can be commended as a safe and sure investing medium, giving good and prompt returns, and borrowers will receive the most liberal and equitable treatment consistent with the safe transacting of business.

Mr. W. Loch has imported four nobby black helmets for the local police force, which are now in Mr. Loch's shop receiving necessary trimmings. The Chief's helmet will bear a badge with the word's "Police Force" encircling the word "Chief," while the others will be numbered in city style. They are handsome helmets for handsome men. It is likely they will be donned to-morrow.

Second Session.

The senses of sight and hearing of the Norwood Register man must be well developed. He saw the reflection of the Sawers fire on May 24th, and heard "the last seven guns" of the royal salute fired on the Queen's birthday by the Peterborough Division of the Durham Field Battery. The cannon only spoke seven times. The Register representative, to lead the public to believe that he was not elevated, says there is "no Montreal ginger beer" sold in Norwood.

The regular monthly meeting of the Separate School Board was held in the Murray Street School yesterday evening.

On motion of Mr. Delvin, seconded by Mr. Morrow it was unanimously decided that the Separate Schools be closed on the last Monday in June and opened on the 1st Monday in August.

On motion it was decided to provide an Encyclopedia for the school and a committee was appointed to make a selection.

The meeting then adjourned.

The First Monthly Match

Of the County Rifle Association—Dr. Bell Makes the Highest Score.

The first of the monthly matches of the Peterborough County Rifle Association was held at the butts yesterday afternoon. The attendance was fair and the shooting good considering the weather, while the competition was particularly keen. A high and unsteady wind was blowing across the range, according to nimrods a "ten o'clock wind." At times 20 feet had to be allowed for windage, at the 600 yards range. Major R. W. Bell succeeded in making the highest score—37. Five rounds were fired at each range, 200, 500, and 600 yards. The following are the scores:—

Dr. R. W. Bell	15	15	7	37
W. Bell	13	13	7	37
F. Hall	21	14	2	37
W. A. Mason	14	10	10	34
D. Cameron	17	8	6	31
R. H. Smith	16	11	4	31
T. Rutherford	2	16	11	29
G. Fitzgerald	13	6	6	25

Four hundred rounds of car ridge are awarded monthly as prizes in these contests, in addition to the Ontario medal for the highest aggregate score out of any three of the four matches.

To the Editor of THE DAILY EXAMINER:

SIR,—In your issue of to-day appears an account of the smashing of Mr. Mannel's house by rowdies last night, after which appears a foot-note which reads thus: "It is rumored about town that the attack arose out of ill-feeling engendered by some dispute in connection with the Shoemakers' Union." Now, sir, whether intentional or otherwise, you have wronged a class of men in whose ranks, I believe, you will find as many sober, industrious and law-abiding citizens as can be found in any other class of the same number, not excepting lawyers or editors, (with all due respect to the professions) but sir, if such a rumour is circulated, it is totally untrue, as I think I know most of the business of the Union and know that Mr. Mannel was a member in good standing, never having a charge brought against him and paying all dues to the day he commenced business for himself, after which we had nothing to do with him, and, moreover, I don't think there is a single member of our union that has one word to say disrespectfully of Mr. E. Mannel. Nor do I think there is a shoemaker in town that would use a pistol or dynamite to injure even Rossiter, who, to the mind of some of us, at least, has brought disgrace on an ancient and honorable profession by becoming an informer. But sir, there is no use trying to shift the onus of last night's rowdyism on the back of the shoemakers, because if you are as cute as I believe you to be, you know well that this attack on Mr. Mannel was only a mistake, and in fact an offshoot of the Scott Act, which may be repeated in the quarter intended with more effect next time.

By giving space to the above you will oblige

Yours, etc.,
JOHN IRWIN.

Peterborough, June 3rd, 1886.

The paragraph which gave rise to the above letter was printed on the authority of a responsible citizen who took an interest in the matter. It now appears the rumor was unfounded, and we gladly give space for the correction of a rumor which otherwise would not have been contradicted, but of which, however, the good character of the craft would have been an ample refutation. Tennessee Volunteers.

Many years ago Tennessee earned the sobriquet of the "Volunteer State," growing out of the alacrity with which her sons have enlisted in the various wars in which the country has engaged. Scores of Tennesseeans figure prominently in the Indian wars in the early history of the country, and hundreds whose names have been forgotten, except in tradition, gave up their lives for this beautiful country. In the Mexican war regiments were formed in many instances in advance of calls and waited patiently for their turn. Tennessee's quota was always full, and scores of men enrolled their names whose services were never called for at all. And in the late war Tennessee fully maintained her reputation as the "Volunteer State." Our information is that there were more "volunteers" in the confederate army from Tennessee than any other one state in the confederacy. We do not mean to be misunderstood; we do not allege that there were more men in the confederate army from Tennessee than any other state, but there were more "volunteers." From the best information we can gather, there were from 80,000 to 85,000 men in the infantry service from Tennessee in that army, and from 30,000 to 35,000, perhaps more, in the cavalry and artillery branch of the service. It will be borne in mind that very few men were conscripted, very few. As early as February, 1862, before conscription had fairly begun, a large portion of middle and west Tennessee was occupied by the union forces, and if conscription had been necessary or desirable the machinery could not have been put in motion. In east Tennessee a majority of the people were unionists, and instead of waiting to be conscripted into an army to which they were opposed they left the country and volunteered in the union army. We do not believe there were less than 120,000 Tennesseeans in the confederate service from beginning to end, and nineteen-twentieths of them were "volunteers." In addition to this there were about 33,000 Tennesseeans in the union army, most of them from the eastern division of the state. More than half of these enlisted while the territory embracing their homes was yet occupied by the confederate forces, and had to make greater sacrifices to enlist than have ever fallen to the lot of men in modern times. The circumstances under which they enlisted were peculiar. They were not inspired by martial music or military pomp or by soul-stirring public demonstrations. They had not the inspiration of the flag under which they were to fight—a public exhibition of the flag would have subjected them to arrest and imprisonment. And, in addition to all this, they were leaving their friends to the mercy of a powerful foe, with no means of communication except by the exercise of extraordinary secrecy and at great peril. But this did not deter them, and 32,000 of them volunteered in the union army. It has been alleged, and we believe it is true, that there were as many volunteers in the union army from the first and second congressional districts of Tennessee as from any other two congressional districts in the union. —Knoxville (Tenn.) Journal.

A Hard Country on Bookkeepers.

The money that is used in Brazil is liable to give a stranger the nightmare. Imagine yourself presented with a bill for 50,000 reis after eating a dinner and drinking a bottle of wine at a cafe. One is apt to engage in some expression of astonishment, even if he is too honest to attempt an escape by the back door. But composure is restored when it is discovered that a "reis" is worth only the twentieth part of a cent, and at the present discount of Brazilian money such a bill amounts to about $7. The bookkeepers of Brazil have a hard time of it, however, as the reis is the standard of value, and the long lines of figures which represent the commercial transactions of the ordinary mercantile or banking house each day are a severe tax upon the mathematical accuracy and ability of the people. For example, $1,000,000 equals about 4,000,000,000 reis, and the paper currency of Brazil represents 488,000,000,000 reis. The commercial statistics of Brazil look very formidable; but the people simplify matters somewhat by using the term milreis, which means 1,000 reis. The currency of the country consists of irredeemable paper shinplasters, the smallest denomination being 500 reis and below that sum, which is equal to about 13 cents in gold. Nickel and copper coins are used, the reis being a very minute disk of copper. There is no gold or silver in circulation, and as the balance of trade has been largely against Brazil of recent years, there isn't coin enough in the country to pay the interest on the public debt, and the bondholders are given bills on London.—Rio Janeiro Letter to the N. Y. Sun.

It seems that the want of entire success with steel sleepers on some of the English railways has led to the substitution of an article which, it is thought, will meet the difficulties hitherto experienced. According to the new system the metallic sleeper is rolled to the requisite trough-like section. Under each rail is a sole plate to strengthen it there. The chair is formed of two jaws of steel plate stamped into form and ribbed centrally so as to give strength to resist the pressure of the wedges. The jaws, sole plate and sleeper are united by rivets passing through the three thicknesses. The iron sleepers that these are intended to take the place of were sufficiently elastic and did not rust sensibly, but, being seriously weakened by the large holes necessitated by the character of the fastenings, and those holes being situated on either side of the rail just where the strain on the sleepers was greatest, the latter were continually breaking there, thus rendering it obvious that the acknowledged advantages of metal sleepers must be realized under [illegible] system.

ENGLISH ELECTION SCENES.

Lord Charles Beresford was to make his final address to the parliamentary electors of East Marylebone. Lord Charles is a conservative. Sir W. Carden opened the proceedings by taking a glass of water and the chair. He is much past 80, and has a nice face, set in a jungle of argentine hair and beard. "Gentlemen," he began.

"What's the crony's name?" said an artisan.

"Sir Walter Carden," answered a few voices.

"He is liked by all folks," Sir Walter said, "church folks, laboring folks, military folks——"

"Funny folks!" prompted the joker.

"I wish," begged the alderman from the assembly, "that you could keep the man still."

"Gentlemen," he said, "the campaign is nearly over, and this will be my last speech."

"Thank God!" exclaimed a new interrupter.

Here all joined in laughing.

"Gentlemen," pursued the speaker, "it is impossible to be blind to all mistakes and faults of the last government."

"Three cheers for Joe!" shouted a radical.

Joe is the popular name of Mr. Chamberlain. Some answer was made to the appeal. The majority protested. Fists were shaken; a short man took off his coat.

"Well, now," said Lord Charles, "let us speak of the trade, and at the same time of the navy; for both are inseparably united, as the former would perish if it could not rely upon the latter."

"Gentlemen!" roared the lord, "I could shout, I think against two or three, but not against a dozen."

"I would have thought you would have let a fellow speak!" pursued his lordship, ever smiling and accommodating. "Are we not all Englishmen here?"

"Yes, all but you, perhaps," retorted a new opponent. "You are a bloody Irishman!"

"Three cheers for Gladstone!" interposed the radical.

And for two or three minutes it looked as though the wretched music-hall would topple and bury us all under its wreckage. Lord Charles, as impassive as if he were still repairing his boiler, with his engineer under the fire of the Soudanese, proceeded:

"You must look after the thorough efficiency of your navy," he said.

"He couldn't if he tried," asserted another.

Both the dissenters were in the gallery.

"What about your friend, my lord?" politely queried a new individual—"that creature beyond contempt—Ashmead Burdette Coutts?"

"Yes, the Yankee adventurer!"

"Shut up!" "Order!" "Chair!" clamored many, and there was an interval of silence.

"Listen to me, Charley," came from a radical throat. "What's the name of the German flunky her majesty has been kissing since Brown's departure?"

"Will you vote for another grant in favor of some royal beggars?"

"No further grant may possibly be asked," replied Lord Beresford.

Not a few thought that his lordship could have said more. They howled their dissent in a way that sounded like the zoological garden in an uproar.

"Shut up!" commanded the majority.

A member of Lord Charles Beresford's committee, a long man in spectacles, holding a gray topper with mourning band in his hand, arose on the platform and tried to smooth matters.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The following article appeared in the Peterborough Review of Thursday June 3rd :—

"While Ontario as a province has no reason to complain of the appropriations made during the past session of the Dominion Parliament for public works of various kinds within its bounds, yet that section of it more particularly interested in the Trent Valley Canal has good cause for complaint against the present Dominion Government, inasmuch as, as we understand, the estimates for 1886-87, no provision has been made for the commencement of another section of this most important Dominion as well as Provincial work during the present season ; and we are sure we but re-echo the unanimous feeling of the political friends and supporters of Sir John Macdonald throughout this section of Ontario when we say that we are deeply grieved and disappointed at the treatment which this scheme is receiving at the hands of the present Minister of Railways and Canals.

Had the failure now more particularly complained of arisen from a decision to curtail all expenditure of this kind until the revenue was more buoyant, while we should have looked upon such a decision as a mistaken one, we would not have felt as we now feel, that we in this section of Ontario have been treated unjustly. But as it is, and in the face of the fact that, so far as we know, every railway no matter how short or local in its character, applying for aid has had substantial assistance out of the Dominion Treasury extended to it during the session just closed, we do say that those interested in the Trent Valley scheme have been treated in a manner which we did not believe was possible at the hands of a Government led by Sir John Macdonald, and which cannot yet bring ourselves to believe we would have been possible had it not been that Providence prevented him from paying the same attention to such matters during the past session as he usually does, and were it not that there is some occult influence at work to prevent the speedy if not ultimate completion of this undertaking which is every day becoming more and more important."

We take the liberty of emphasing the above by the introduction of italics, a perhaps unnecessary matter for the article as it stands, is a strong condemnation of the Government. The "kick" was intended to be a vigorous one, for in journalism, the unusual importance and desire for prominence of an editorial article is indicated by "double-leading" it. The Review is right as far as it goes, but while the Government is directly responsible for the failure to prosecute the work of Trent Valley Canal construction, the representatives of this riding and of the Midland district are indirectly to blame and the electors themselves are not free from responsibility in the matter. The members of this riding have supported the Dominion Government through thick and thin, and if they had resolutely presented to the government the alternative of loss of support or justice to the people of this district and to the interests of the commerce of the Dominion, no doubt attention would have been paid to such an ultimatum. While our members were elected to support the present government, they were also elected to uphold the interests of these two riding, and the most rigid exaction of party loyalty could not require them to sacrifice those interests, as they have done in continuing to support, without remonstrance, the Government in its course of practical opposition to the Trent Valley Canal. And the people who support the present government which, sacrifices not only the common commercial interests of the country but those of this district also, are fatuously pursuing a course contrary to the interests of the fulfilment of their wishes. The electors of these ridings, and of this district have long enough been a battle-door in the hands of Sir John, for the political shuttle cock he has made of the Trent Valley Canal scheme.

CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

It will be gratifying news to the many policy-holders of the Canada Life Assurance Company in Peterborough, as well as elsewhere, to learn that the year's business, which closed a few days ago, is the best in its history. The new business accepted by this old and reliable company amounts to the very handsome sum of $5,350,000. This speaks volumes as to the popularity and honorable dealing of this, the leading life office in the Dominion ; it is an institution the Canadian people are justly proud of, and its last year's record is an evidence of the growing hold it has on the confidence of the insuring public. It will not be out of place to make a few comparisons as to business done by this and other life offices doing business in the Dominion for the last year. In order that the Canadian people can the more readily see what company has the preference and confidence of the people seeking life insurance, it is seen by examining the latest Government report that the Equitable wrote last year in the Dominion $2,092,784, the Ætna $2,056,764, the New York Life $2,022,000. These are the leading American Companies securing Canadian business. Now as to English offices. The "British Empire" secured $2,022,000. The "Standard" $1,151,650 and the "London and Lancashire" $1,152,000, while the "Canada Life Assurance Company" secured $5,-300,000. These figures are only given to show the feeling of our people to a home institution. We are also pleased to learn, that East Ontario Branch under the able and energetic management of Mr. Geo. A. Cox, has done its share of the work, his Branch having taken $1,426,700. And here again a little comparison will not be out of place. A glance at the business done by the above mentioned English offices shows that with one exception it is below what was done through the Eastern Ontario Branch alone, and, even that company's entire business for the Dominion but slightly exceeds the business of the Eastern Ontario Branch. We congratulate Mr. Cox and his assistants on the result of the year's business.

Don't be Duped.

Smokers will further their own interest by insisting upon having the "Cable" or "El Padre" brands of cigars, which have stood the test for a quarter of a century, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to persuade them to take other brands which pay them a larger profit, the consumer being the loser thereby.

No One Need be Bald.

Dr. Dorenwend's Great German Hair Magic will produce a luxuriant growth of hair on bald heads, provided the roots are not entirely extinct. It will restore gray hair to its original color, prevent all falling of the hair, and remove all traces of dandruff. It is not oily, is a most elegant dressing, and keeps the hair and scalp in a clean, healthy condition. Ask for Dr. Dorenwend's Hair Magic and take nothing else. A. Dorenwend, sole manufacturer, Toronto. J. D. Tully, agent for Peterborough.

MADRE E HIJO CIGARS.—Try them. Exceptionally fine. Superior to any Imported Cigar in the market

It is a well-known fact that the CABLE and EL PADRE brands of cigars are the oldest, most reliable, and best value in the market. For the last quarter of a century the demand for these brands has steadily increased, necessitating the employing of close on to one thousand operatives. Smokers will find it to their advantage to insist upon having the above-mentioned brands, and not allow greedy and unscrupulous dealers to palm off inferior goods for the sake of additional gain. Talmage Cameron and His Brother.

It does not look as though the venerable Simon Cameron ever expects to die. He is chipper and bright always, and as full of jokes as he was when he cast his first vote and knew nothing of the cares, anxieties, and responsibilities of statesmanship and political leadership that were in store for him. An Irishman named Dick Connelly, a barber of Harrisburg, has been shaving the general every day, when he is at his Front street mansion, for many years. The general is fond of Dick, and not only delights to joke with him, but gives him the benefit of many a reminiscence that nobody else has ever heard. The other day while Dick was flourishing a razor in his most artistic style about the old man's chin he said to the general:

"I hope you will," replied the general, cheerily. "And I'll tell you what I'll do, Dick: If you shave me when I'm a hundred years old I'll make you a present of the handsomest horse and carriage that money can buy. But you must agree to shave me every day in the meantime."

"But what if Oi become a millionaire, and git elected to congress?"

"That doesn't make any difference. You will have to get your barber tools together, sacrifice your constituents, and come to shave me."

"But, gineral, what if Oi die?"

"You must shave me, dead or alive. If you don't you won't get the carriage and horse. Is it a contract?"

Foote and the Jolly Gentleman.

When Foote was in Scotland he travelled from Dumfries to Edinburgh in a stage-coach in company with a country gentleman of enormous size. Becoming by the way pretty familiar with his companion Foote asked him in what employment he was or if he was in any. The gentleman replied that he was a land owner. Foote inquired how much that might yield him a year. "From £80 to £70." "What!" exclaimed Foote, affecting the utmost amazement, "and is it possible so small an income can ever maintain so immense a man as you are? Ah, my good friend, how I pity you. Here," pulling out of his pocket some half a dozen guineas, "there, take them, my honest fellow, they are all I have at present; I wish for your sake they were more; but few as they are they will be a help to a gentleman in your melancholy circumstances." The stranger, who was luckily a man of sense as well as bulk, laughed heartily at this sally of his fellow-traveler, but assured him that in his country it was not the custom for men to grow fat on the charity of others. "But how then," said Foote, "do you contrive?" "Oh!" replied the gentleman, "I'll tell you. There's an old saying, laugh and grow fat. And do you know," continued he, "that though I have laughed a great deal to be as fat as I am, I am on my way to Edinburgh to have some more laughing. There's one Foote——" "Now sitting opposite to you," whispered the English Aristophanes, "who is delighted to find that, though you won't accept his guineas, he may help you in another way, by making you laugh to your heart's content."

Tin Roofs For Bee-Hives.

Mr. John Rey, of East Saginaw, Mich., writes to the Bee Journal: I have obtained only half a crop, or thirty-three pounds per colony, this season. I started last spring with twenty-five colonies, increased them to seventy-three during the season, and obtained eleven hundred pounds of comb honey and thirteen hundred pounds of extracted honey. I have sold five colonies, which leaves me sixty-eight; these I have packed in planer shavings on the summer stands. I have contracted the most of my colonies down to seven and some to six Langstroth frames, and filled in the space and over the brood-frames with shavings. My colonies are strong in bees, and I left them thirty pounds of honey per colony to winter on, the most of which is white clover honey. The past summer I put tin roofs on my hives, and gave them two coats of paint, which makes a good roof, and costs only 13 cents per hive. I lost two colonies last winter just on account of leaky roofs, and for the value of those two colonies I could have roofed one hundred hives. I use the roofing tin 20x28 inches, and it is just the size for the ten-frame Langstroth hive. I also use hooks for the covers of every one of my hives. To fasten and unfasten them is but the work of a moment, and less trouble than handling a large stone. My hives stand in the open air all the year around, except in midsummer, when I shade them with a large board, a la Heddon; for the tin roof draws too much heat from the sun.

A Curious Cave.

A man calling himself T. C. Fyle, who is teaching school in the mountains of Tennessee, in a letter to an Ohio paper, graphically describes the finding of a cave by a party of railway engineers. The cave was explored for a considerable distance. At the entrance was discovered an inscription in Hebrew characters. After passing some 300 yards into the cave it enlarged into a great amphitheatre. Still further in the cave was found an appalling sight that struck terror to the hearts of the explorers. There, on the right and left and in front, were thousands of grinning skeletons, encased in brass armor, with ponderous shields. Not less than 5,000 skeletons were seen, each of which was reclining on his shield. They presented the appearance of men killed in battle, who had been brought there for burial. A large brass box contained manuscript giving an account of their wanderings. According to this veritable chronicler, Tennessee holds the remains of the lost tribes of Israel.

The Daily Examiner.

SATURDAY, JUNE 5, 1886.

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

Men's Sewed Oxford Shoes, our own make, at $2.00, the best shoe in Peterborough for the money. J. CAREY.

$100 Reward.

The Town of Peterborough will pay $100 reward for information that will lead to the conviction of the parties who attacked the house of Mr. R. Mannell on Thursday morning last.

County Court.

The regular half yearly sitting of the County Court will be held in the Court House on Tuesday next, before His Honor, Judge Weller, when the Whiteman bigamy case will be disposed of.

Shipment of Furs.

Mr. W. Loch shipped by C.P.R. to-day two bales of beaver pelts and bear skins to Montreal. The consignment is valued at $1,200. Mr. Loch is the most extensive fur dealer in the district and knows how to handle them well.

Another Industry.

It is probable that the Scugog Paper Mill Co., whose mill at Lindsay was recently destroyed by fire, will locate in town. Mr. J. C. Patterson was in town this week and was impressed with the splendid water privileges of the town. The company has several other places under contemplation.

Running Race.

The running race between J. E. McIntyre's "Gray Bird" and Alex. Elliott's "Maggie Roach" will take place at the Driving Park on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Best three in five heats for a purse of $200—$100 a side. The race no doubt will be close and speedy as both animals are in good trim.

Appreciated Appreciation.

The Bowmanville Statesman kindly says: "Peterborough is blessed with two bright and newsy daily journals that are a credit to that prosperous town. The EXAMINER has just celebrated its first anniversary and is strong and vigorous. It is thoroughly Liberal in principle and is ably edited. May its future be bright and prosperous."

Dr. Brennan.

Dr. F. H. Brennan, M. D. C. M., has opened an office for the practice of his profession on Hunter street, opposite St. John's church. Dr. Brennan is a young man of much natural ability, has passed his course of study with marked success, and there is no reason why he should not receive a liberal share of the public patronage.

Bobcaygeon's Missing Medico.

Inquiries are being made says the Independent, for Dr. Lloyd. Just before the ice broke up, he left the village for Harvey He has not been seen in the village since, and it was supposed here that he was in Buckhorn or somewhere in Harvey. It appears now that he has not been seen in that neighborhood for a considerable time, and fears are entertained that the little Irish doctor, to whose warm hearted good nature, many a poor person is indebted for relief from suffering, has fallen through the ice and been drowned

Market Items.

There was a busy market this morning, the offering of produce being large and buyers were proportionately larger. Vendors of butter, eggs, chickens, etc., occupied benches all around the market building under the shade of the verandah, as well as in the market room. Garden truck was particularly plentiful and little pigs were again numerous. Prices were about the same as last week and were quoted as follows: Butter, 10 to 15c.; eggs, for shipment, 10c., for local use, 11c.; chickens, 60c.; turkeys, $1.00; geese, 40 to 60c.; veal, 4 to 6c.; mutton and lamb, 6 to 7c.; potatoes, 50 to 60c. per bag; this year's growth of beets, 5c. per bunch; onions, lettuce, radishes, rhubarb, etc., 5c. per bunch; hay, $7 to $9 per ton. Small pigs sold at $4 per pair.

Railway Change.

Mr. F. R. Jennings, C.P.R. station agent, will leave town in the beginning of the coming week to take charge of the North Toronto Junction station, he having been promoted to that position. For the past two years Mr. Jenning has occupied his present position and by his extreme courtesy and obliging manner in the discharge of his duties, has made both himself and the company deservedly popular with the public. By his energy and nice tact, he has worked up the local business of the company in a manner which will make straight sailing for his worthy successor, Mr. Archibald Free. Mr. Free is an experienced railway man having been at one time, agent of the G. W. R. R. Co. at Guelph, and more recently the city agent for that company at Hamilton. While the EXAMINER has always opposed the immense monetary concessions of the Dominion Government to the C.P.R., it cannot but admire the extraordinary enterprise of the company and congratulate it on the success it meets in securing courteous and obliging officials, who make the business relations of the public with the road a genuine pleasure.

The Parisian Sighted.

Mr. George A. Cox has received a telegram stating that the steamer Parisian, having his family on board, has been sighted from Moville, Ireland, equivalent to the announcement of the safe arrival of the steamer.

The Gallant Bellegham.

Mr. D. Bellegham has purchased five hundred fans, one of which will be presented to each of the first five hundred ladies visiting his furniture establishment Hunter street. Mr. Bellegham not only knows how to conduct a first class furniture establishment, but he knows how to advertise to the best advantage. Ladies call and procure one.

A Handsome Vehicle.

Mr. Geo. Carten, grocer, has placed on the road a new and neat delivery waggon, the workmanship of Messrs. Porter Bros., who make a specialty of this class of vehicles. It is of demorest style with double panelled box, the box being painted a vermillion and silk lining gives coburg. It is a fine article and reflects credit on the manufacturers, and will no doubt do good service for the owner.

Illicit-Whiskey Still.

Some years ago, an illicit-whiskey still flourished with impunity, almost a gun shot from the borders of the town, in the recesses of a swamp and on the banks of a clear stream, and it was said yesterday by a gentleman that the same still is still at work in this county. The quality of the whiskey produced is not of the first order, nothing at all like the double-distilled bargains in men's youth's and boys' clothing at Gough's the Wonderful Cheap Man, Arcade building, Peterborough. Lowest prices, best value. See the goods.

Building Operations Suspended.

The public will regret to learn that Mr. T. G. Hazlitt has decided not to erect the four story block on Hunter street as was contemplated. The building was to be four stories in height, and was to cover the entire half acre lot west of the Oriental hotel, and would have cost from $40,000 to $50,000. The block was to contain, among other things, an opera house to cost $20,000, and it was arranged to include in the building an extension of the Oriental hotel, which would have comprised several suites of rooms with no superior in Canada. Mr. Hazlitt thinks the present state of feeling would not warrant the carrying out of so large an expenditure on buildings of this kind.

The Scott Act Appeals.

The appeals against the conviction of Police Magistrate Dumble in the Scott Act cases against Messrs. Cavanagh, Daly Bros., and Halpin, was heard before Chief Justice Cameron yesterday in Toronto, Mr. E. B. Edwards for the Scott Act Association and Mr. Blackstock for the liquor dealers. The application for a writ of certiorari was granted in each of the cases. The appeals will be heard as soon as the necessary papers have been served on the Police Magistrate and County Crown Attorney. The magistrate will be obliged to forward all the papers in connection with the cases to Toronto. The grounds of appeal submitted are: That a defendant cannot be made to convict himself; that the Scott Act is not in force in the county of Peterborough; that no power of distress is given by the Act; and that the Police Magistrate under the Act should be appointed by the Dominion, instead of the Ontario Government.

Lacrosse.

A meeting of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club was held in the "Little Windsor" hotel yesterday evening and an adjourned meeting in Mr. Jas. Sheehy's store. It was decided to play the Orillia's on the 17th and not to allow the Orillia's to win the game or the championship by default. About fourteen names were booked to select the team from, but the selection will not be made for some days, The boys are arranging to practice running on Monday evening and after that day will institute practice games, continuing practice till the day of match.

The names of those selected by the lacrosse club to face the Orillias on the 17th instant are:—W. J. Scott, M. Halpin, J. J. Sheehy, M. Tierney, W. Welsh, J. Canning, T. Traynor, W. McAvella, R. Parnell, M. Larose, F. Larose, H. Foot, T. Giroux, and George Giroux. Of these only the first four were members of the old team. The medal would have been sent to the Orillias had it not been for the opposition of the "Cretes" who are determined to fight for the championship and the celebrity of the town. They are made of the right stuff and will do their best to down the Orillias.

A Public Benefactor.

Mr. Frank Mason, the energetic florist, has undertaken to maintain at his own expense, so long as he remains in the business, four flower beds in Court House Park. One of the beds is devoted to early flowering bulbs, another to choice varieties of pansies, the third to a variety of fuchsias, bordered with echeveria. But the fourth is something as unique as it is beautiful. It was completed to-day. It is situated north of the central flower plot and its style is called carpet bedding. This one consists of the figures "1886" formed of alternanthera, as a centre piece. Between the individual figures an ornamental infringement of the printer's art appears in the shape of a single plant of echeveria. The ground work of the carpet consists of closely set, golden feverfew and the carpet is completed by a double border, the outside composed of the delicate foliage and azure flower of the lobelia and the second of the low growing cerastium. All the plants in this bed are of a low habit of growth, and the effect when in full growing will be exceedingly pleasing. Mr. Mason is entitled to the thanks of the public, for the public appreciation is the only reward he receives for the pains he has taken and will continue to take in adding to the floral beauty of Court House Park.

Police Court.

Mr. Charles Stapleton was arraigned before the police court this morning, charged by Mr. H. Rossiter, with using grossly insulting language towards him on the 1st inst.

On the application of the defendant the case was enlarged till Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

"The Mannel Outrage."

We were surprised this morning to receive the following letter:

JAMES R. STRATTON, ESQ.,
Publisher of "EXAMINER"
Peterborough.

SIR:—I am instructed to demand of you an explanation of the article or letter published in your paper of yesterday, headed "the Mannel Outrage" and signed "John Irwin," threatening and inciting to the commission of a felony. I refer particularly to the sentence ending, "which may be repeated in the quarter intended with more effect next time."

Yours, etc.,
E. B. EDWARDS.

We have no explanations to make. We published the letter of Mr. Irwin's in bona fide and if it contains anything "threatening and inciting to the commission of a felony," we take the responsibility.

We observe that Mr. Edwards does not give the name of his client or clients, but we suppose is acting as parental guardian of the public morals.

We can only regret that we should be unavoidably subject to the receipt of a letter of the tenor of that of Mr. Edwards.

Certainly a little more discretion might have been used by those who are endeavoring to promote the success of the Act.

We are not aware that Mr. Edwards is an officer of the Crown whose duty it is to guard its interests.

This is not the first occasion in which the Scott Act has been the flimsy foundation upon which to get a "party shot." The subpœnaing of Thos. Stenard, Esq., M.P.P., a man who holds a prominent public position in our legislature, without the slightest tittle of evidence to connect him with any offence under the Act, at least leads to the presumption that something more than mere temperance loyalty is at the bottom of many of the actions of interested parties.

The fact that other quasi-public men in the town were mentioned as witnesses and afterwards not required to attend open court, on account of their position, further tends to the belief that strict impartiality is not always a rule of conduct for guidance in such matters.

Police Court.

The hearing of the charge preferred against Chas. Stapleton of using insulting language toward Henry Rossiter, enlarged from Saturday was opened at the Police Court this morning before Police Magistrate Dumble.

Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q. C., counsel for the defendant, objected to the charge as the offence had not been committed on the street.

Mr. Edwards, who appeared for the prosecution, held that the objection was not valid, and showed that the insulting language had been used in a public place.

Mr. Poussette also raised the objection that the number of the by-law was not stated in the charge.

The magistrate overruled Mr. Poussette's first objection and the charge was amended to comply with the second.

Mr. Rossiter was called and testified, that while attending an auction sale at Irving's jewellry store, Simcoe street, he bid on a clock offered for sale, Mr. Chas. Stapleton, who was acting as auctioneer, refused to take his bid, saying he would not take the bid of a mean sneak of a whiskey informer. Mr. Rossiter insisted that he was entitled to bid, and bid $1.00 on a second clock, which was knocked down to another party at $1.00. Mr. Stapleton again called him a sneak and said he would call a policeman to put him out if he did not leave the place.

To Mr. Poussette, the witness stated that he was not a sneaking whiskey informer, but was the prosecutor. He admitted bidding on a clock to provoke Mr. Stapleton.

Mr. C. B. Routley, John Craig and T. A. Donnell, also gave evidence in support of that of Rossiter, with the exception that they did not hear the words "mean" and "whiskey" used.

Mr. R. W. Muncaster was present at the sale for a while but did not hear the allegations. He had spoken to Mr. Rossiter on Saturday and he admitted having bid on the last clock offered for the purpose of provoking Mr. Stapleton.

Mr. M. Gi[illegible] stated that he had heard Mr. Stapleton order Rossiter out, saying that he was injuring the sale as he carried a revolver and might shoot some person if they trampled on his toes.

Mr. J. Armstrong gave evidence of the same nature.

Mr. Charles Stapleton was sworn and testified that he conducted an auction at Irving's jewellery store, as bailiff of the Division Court. He admitted refusing to accept Mr. Rossiter's bid, not caring to have him at the sale as he was injuring it by his presence; he also admitted calling him an informer and a sneak and threatening to have him put out by the police; after a while he accepted his bid and knocked a clock down to him at $5.50 which he then refused to take.

After hearing the remarks of Mr. Poussette and Mr. Edwards the magistrate delivered his judgment. He held that the conduct of a person giving information against infactions of the Scott Act was as honorable as giving information in a case of larceny. Mr. Stapleton was acting as a public officer in a public capacity, and when he undertook to insult a man he broke the law. Mr. Rossiter should not be made the butt of anybody while enforcing the laws of the land. He found the charge proven and imposed a fine of $10 and costs, to be paid in ten days.

Charges against John Condon and —. McFarlane for violation of the Scott Act were enlarged till Thursday.

A charge against Mr. H. Calcutt, preferred by H. Rossiter, of unlawfully selling, in the township of Otonabee, intoxicating liquor in less quantity than eight gallons, between the 1st and 25th of May, this being the second charge, Mr. Calcutt having been convicted on May 22nd of a similar offence, was called.

H. Marshall was sworn and testified that on May 24th he went down the river on the steamer Golden Eye; there was a bar on the boat for selling drinks; he had several drinks of beer which the bar-tender served him, which slightly intoxicated him.

To Mr. Burnham he stated that it was a mile or two below the locks before he had anything to drink.

Mr. J. Barnham, counsel for the defendant, admitted that it had been shown that liquor had been sold on board the boat, and laid before the court a memorandum showing that the boat had been chartered to a second party for the 24th of May, submitting that Mr. Calcutt was not responsible for what occurred on the boat on that day, and that the charge should be against the party chartering the boat.

Wm. Marks testified that he was on board the Golden Eye on May 24th. He had several drinks of beer at the bar, which he paid for.

Mr. J. Brown, testified that he went down the river on the Golden Eye on May 24th, but did not get any intoxicating liquor to drink on board the steamer. He saw several parties staggering and the lake was not rough.

Wm. Payne testified that he was employed on board the steamer Golden Eye on May 24th, by Mr. Calcutt; he generally worked on the boat on excursion days; on the day in question he attended the bar and sold beer; there may have been more than a barrel sold; it was sold by the glass by himself and Chas. Calcutt; he began to sell beer when about two miles down the river, between the township of Otonabee and North Monaghan, in the County of Peterborough.

Capt. Carson was sworn and testified that he had charge of the boat on the 24th of May. He sold the tickets for Rogers and handed the money to Mr. Rogers and Mr. Calcutt the next morning.

Mr. H. Calcutt was sworn and testified that Mr. Rogers came to him on the evening of May 22nd to charter the boat for the 24th. He agreed to pay $75 for the boat and signed an agreement to that effect, he (Rogers) to have full charge of the boat. Mr. Rogers after the agreement had been signed, stated that he was going to sell liquor. Mr. Calcutt told him that if he would not sell liquor he would give him some beer to sell. He gave him 4 half barrels of beer which was placed on the steamer early on the morning of the 24th. Mr. Calcutt also supplied ginger ale, ginger beer, and cigars for which he received about $18. He received no money for the sale of the beer and had no interest in its sale. Mr. Calcutt's men had charge of the boat and bar as usual.

The Magistrate held that Mr. Calcutt received payment for the beer, as he chartered the boat for $15 more than the usual price, the beer being thrown in as part of contract. It was a means taken to avoid the law. Mr. Calcutt being paid for the beer as well as the boat, and he would find him guilty.

On application of Mr. Burnham, the judgment was reserved till Thursday, to allow Mr. Edwards an opportunity of receiving instructions as to whether the last part of the charge, making this a second offence, should be acted upon.

Defunct Assessment Societies.

How Insurers Lose the Golden Opportunity.

Obituaries of defunct assessment societies have become monotonous reading, being all very much alike. The Dominion Mutual Benefit Society of Canada has petered out in the usual way. Its organizers thought they had found an improved plan, and drew in as co-directors a number of well-meaning men who knew little or nothing about any sort of underwriting. In every place where they sought business they obtained endorsement for their scheme from those who, eminent as mayors, sheriffs, judges, barristers and merchants, were utterly ignorant of the thing they recommended. On account of these high, though baseless recommendations, the great promises which the society made were believed by very many who wanted cheap insurance, and who had not learned how brief is the average life of co-operatives, nor how easy it is to start new ones in the place of those that have met the inevitable fate. For a time the outlook was fair, but the happy morning was short. The managers were learning that their plan was not the best. They grew discouraged, and resolved to transfer as many of their passengers as possible from the sinking ship; but unfortunately, they could only send them to vessels of similar construction, and as little capable as their own of making long voyages. However, there was another society that would receive such of their members as were under fifty years of age and could pass the required examination. Another company still would take those over fifty years, but of course under conditions that would exclude many belonging to that class. One unhappy circumstance connected with every such case of disintegration is that many members since their certificates were taken have come into a condition of impaired health which debars them henceforth from obtaining life insurance. They have been cheated of their golden opportunity of laying hold of the substance by the shadowy mirage, which the unwise counsels of some unthinking man of note, led them to consider as lasting in beauty and true valor. The lesson ought to be heeded by those who have not yet suffered.—The Insurance Critic.

Rev. I. Tovell, at the Bay of Quinte Conference, Picton, was appointed a delegate to the General Conference.

Mr. F. W. Scott who last year took first class honors in Mathematics from our Collegiate Institute at Toronto University, has been reading the honor classics of the first year with Mr. Horning during the last six months and at the recent examinations in Toronto obtained second class honors. This is exceedingly creditable to Mr. Scott as he had no previous drill in honor work and to Mr. Horning for his successful coaching with the very limited time he has at his disposal.

A "Pointer."

When Col. Sellers gives you a "pointer" in stocks, my friend, leave them severely alone, but when your own feelings tell you that you have palpitation of the heart, asthma, bronchitis or catarrh which unless checked are apt to run into consumption, heed the admonition before it is too late. As the diseases enumerated, and others, arise from impure blood. Put the liver in action the largest gland in the human body, and you will speedily regain your lost health, and your bad feelings will disappear. SLICK FRANK'S LUCK.

Three broad-shouldered miners who sat in the bar-room of the Miners' Arms in Front street yesterday and sipped their drinks with the air of men who could afford to pay for them, were talking of the ups and downs of miners in gold and silver excitements among the Rocky Mountains.

"It beats all," said old Sam Whitaker, as he filled his pipe, "how some men allers strikes it rich and others has to hustle around to get a grub stake. What's bad luck for some allers turns out good for them as is in for it."

"Taint luck," said the bartender, wiping his hands on his partly-white apron. "It's the early bird what catches the worm, and them that humps themselves gits thar some time."

"There weren't none of you fellers up at the big bend in the Columbia just after the war, 'cause if you had have been there I'd seen you. There was a chap there named Frank Lablonde, 'Slick Frank' they called him, 'cause he never turned a hair and had stacks of dust about all the time. He came into camp one night in a canoe that he'd swiped from the Injuns and found lodgings alongside of it on a sand spit where a little brook ran out of the gulch. Bein' that everybody got there ahead of him, there weren't no show for him to stake a claim. Most folks would have called that hard luck, but after three or four days a couple of chaps what had prospected over a bit of bottom half a mile away give it up as worthless. Slick Frank 'lowed that it would hold a shanty, and he'd build one, and wait for something to turn up. Bein' as winter was coming on, Slick laid out to make a shanty what he wouldn't freeze in, nohow, and so began to cut away the side of the mountain where it run down to his claim, keepin' his eye peeled for traces of dust, but seein' nothin'. After about four days' work he'd got a perpendicular wall, about ten feet high, to build his shanty against, and had begun to cut his timber for the hut, when a smart chunk of a sapling that he was chopping at fell the wrong way and started a big boulder down the mountain. That fetched a couple of bigger ones along, and they plumped right down on the ground where he'd laid out to build his shanty. That was his first streak of good luck. Most folks would have called it hard luck, but if the sapling hadn't started the rock a snow slide would, and the rocks would have wiped out Slick Frank.

"So he went to work scooping out another place for a shanty, taking care this time that no loose rocks weren't hung up above him. He was right under a very solid sort of a precipice this time that he hadn't noticed before on account of the bush. There was a small stream of water poured over on one side, which he 'lowed would make things very comfortable when he wanted to mix his grog and for cooking purposed. So he got a good log hut up after a week's work, and roofed it over with bark and turf, and hanked it up and built a good stone hearth and a chimney at one end. It was a genuine home comfort, and Slick began to lay out for a good time, when early one morning he waked up to find a stream of water trickling over the precipice and squash down his chimney.

"Most men would have been exasperated, but Slick didn't have no such word in his sweet lexicon. He just dug a little trench to carry the water out of his parlor door, as he called it. The stream was about as big as your arm, and mighty regular in its flow after it once got its work in. Something had dammed the brook 'way up the mountain and turned part of the current into a new channel. Slick watched it run for a while, cogitating how he should spout the water away from the shanty, when he noticed that the sand that came down with the water was forming a little ring around the outer edge of the hearth. Without thinking much about it, he scooped up some of the sand and put it under a bit of a magnifier that he carried. He told me afterward that that was the first time in his life that he ever hustled. He'd found the dust in uncommon quantities in that sand, for the new channel was right over a vein of pay dirt, and he wanted to get a trough and cradle rigged without any delay."

The miner here turned toward the bartender, who hastily set a bottle holding a yellow liquid on the table beside four clean glasses, and the miner continued impressively:

"Some men humps theirselves until their fingers wears out and never raises an ounce, and others builds houses, and while they sleeps the dust gets spouted down the chimney or in through the keyhole, or it gits to 'em some way, and all they has to do is to rig up a trough to catch it. That's what I call luck."—New York Sun.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Dr. Gilmour, of West Toronto Junction, has been nominated to contest the representation of West York with Clark Wallace, the sitting member. The doctor is an able young Liberal, and will make a good run, judging by the enthusiasm which prevailed at the Convention.

Hon. Alex. Mackenzie, M. P., was in Montreal a day or two since. He had interviews with the prominent Liberals of the city and many other friends, who came to bid him good-bye, and express their earnest hope, that his shattered energies might be restored through his trip across the Atlantic. Mr. Mackenzie sailed from Quebec on the Oregon on Saturday.

Dalton McCarthy et al, attention! Senator Beck has moved in the United States Senate that no member of Congress shall under a penalty of $5,000 "accept employment as attorney at law or receive payment for services of any kind from any railroad which receives its charter or any grant of land or pecuniary aid from the United States." Some rule of this sort, says the Toronto World, is badly need at Ottawa.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher sails for England on June 17th. He has been granted leave of absence by his church till October 1st, on the understanding that his health needs recruiting. While absent the rev. gentleman will make an honest penny by lecturing in the principal towns and cities of Great Britain. Lecturing is a new remedy, which possesses the merit that it not only does not cost anything, but, on the other hand, produces a profit.

Before the end of June, says the Hamilton Times, the voters lists under the Dominion Franchise Act will be "signed, sealed and delivered." Any name that is not enrolled before the Court closes cannot be enrolled after, no matter how good the voter's qualification may be, and if the name of an unqualified man is left upon the lists till the close of the Court he can put in his vote. Reformers will have to look after their interests in this matter, before it is too late. The Tories depend upon the manipulation of the voters' lists, and not on the goodness of their cause, to carry them through the next elections. A week's careful work now by the committee will make all the difference between failure and success on election day.

The Appeal Cases.

To the Editor of the DAILY EXAMINER:

With reference to the paragraph relating to the Scott Act in the Mail of to day, I beg to state that Mr. Moore was senior counsel in Messrs Daly's case and that the application for a writ of certiorari in said case was made by Mr. Blackstock on Mr. Moore's behalf. I am interested in all the cases brought up and did attend the argument thereof in Toronto, that I was the principal in each case, which but the Mail reporter seems to have assumed is incorrect, so far as Daly's and Cavanagh's cases are concerned.

Yours, &c.,
J. O'MEARA.

EGAN'S IMPERIAL TRUSS
Read the following extract from a letter of a well-known citizen of St Catharines,—hundreds like it:
ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 20th, 1886.
GENTLEMEN,—Being over 70 years of age, and over 20 years ruptured, looked upon my case as hopeless, especially as I tried various appliances without success, among others, recently, two springless trusses made in York State, costing me $30. Nothing would retain my Hernia. I have worn your truss over four months, night and day, with great satisfaction and comfort; even to bathe in it the rupture has never come down, it holds me perfectly secure under all circumstances. You may publish it for the benefit of other sufferers. Yours truly, CAPT. B. KING.
This new Spirial Spring Pad Truss has taken ten years to make it perfect; is guaranteed to hold the very worst case during the hardest work or severest strain. It will cure every child sure; and 80 out of every 100 of adults. Be warned—don't waste your money on useless appliances, but send stamp for our treatise; it contains full information, your neighbors' testimony, price list and questions for you to answer. THE CLIMATE OF MADRID.

An Unpleasant Place to Live in During the Winter.

The first thought that a stranger gives to Madrid on his arrival is inspired by the climate, writes a correspondent of the San Francisco Chronicle. It is peculiar. There is nothing exactly like it elsewhere in the world. To one who has spent half a score of years in San Francisco and a year in the tropics, Egypt, Algiers, and Italy, it is indescribably trying. I have had some little experience in climates. I have felt the fogs and mists that creep in the winter over the delta in Tonquin; I have had a touch of the autumn winds that come down from the Alps and the plains of Lombardy; shivered under the October mistral at Marseilles, grown nervous in the northers of California, and been pierced to the bone by the penetrating airs that harrow the soul of the traveler in winter on the lower Mississippi. All these winds are possessed of a certain individuality, and, though they never send the thermometer down into the neighborhood of the bulb, they go through and through the body like an icy blade. But one and all of these winds are less cold, less characteristic than the biting airs of Madrid, which, whether in rest or in motion, whether they can sweep down on this lofty plateau from the north, south, east, or west, freeze the marrow and shake you like the ague without congealing the blood. You might feel them less if preparations were made to resist them, as in the climates where the winters are so decided that they have no doubt regarding their meaning. But serious provisions for winter are made nowwhere in Spain. In the south of the peninsula, in lieu of good, honest, sensible stoves or fireplaces, there are furnaces fed with charcoal not unlike those used in Japan and China, around which families gather when the temperature is a little below the ordinary, and over which social parties, assembled for an evening's pleasure, bend and hover with hats and cloaks on. In Madrid there are also the braziers, but preparations are somewhat more elaborate, though not in proportion to the increased severity of the climate, where rigors are usually attributed to the Guadarrama range of mountains, a short distance to the northward.

But the Guadarrama is connected by spurs with the Pyrenees, and the chill is a concentration of the low temperatures of all imaginable upper regions, including the Cavennes, the Alps, the cold northern seas, with something polar thrown in gratuitously. You think it ought to freeze, but it does not freeze. You are in momentary expectation that it will snow, but it does not snow. You wake in the morning expecting to find the water frozen in your pitcher, but that special act of congelation has not occurred, though your sufferings are greater than in the region where such a result comes nightly. As you shiver and shake in your bedchamber, so you shiver and shake all over your hotel, in the corridors, in the reading-room, in the dining-room. Fuel is dear and economized. There are braziers on the landings and gas stoves in the dining-room which diffuse their feeble warmth only at dinner-time. In the streets everybody appears to be in a state of red-nosed discomfort. The whole male population rushes about wrapped in cloaks, the cavalier being impossible without this loose, flapping, bellying garment of tradition, like a great jail delivery of heavy villians bent on mischief, though dissembling for the moment. The right side of the cloak is thrown round over the left shoulder and brought up over the nose, and over this barrier of new and richly lined or faded and frayed broadcloth the men glare at one another as if each held everyone he meets responsible for his climatic sufferings. No one can blame amiable Alfonso for having succumbed to a climate so abnormal, so detestable, which, by a curious atmospheric electism has contrived to unite all the bad qualities of all the bad winter climate of the world.

Old Hyson—"O, I say this bill is altogether wrong. I haven't used any such amount of gas as this the last month." Grimes—"Well, all I know about it is what the meter shows. The great ox flow h[illegible] in the parlor." Old Hyson—"[illegible]'s been darker than pitch in th[illegible] for the last six months. My g[illegible]et a fellow now. You can't fool [illegible]h any such lying bill as that."—Peter Post-Express

The Rev. Dr. Simmons was examining one of his Chinese candidates for baptism the other day, and was anxious to discover whether or not the catechumen fully understood the Christian doctrine of love and forgiveness. "If you were attacked on the street," he asked, "by one of the bad men who persecute you and call you names, and if he were to throw a brick at you an[illegible] should cut your head and make the blood flow down your face, would you love that man?" The Chinaman answered, as quick as a flash, "I would love the man; but I'd hate the brick." The doctor thought that was eminently satisfactory.

There is a man in San Francisco who has four ears.

An improved railroad tie, just invented, is formed of two inverted bowls having plain upper surfaces, two fastening clips secured to the plain surface of each bowl by bolts, with a bar connecting the two bowls, and secured by the fastening bolts of the inner clips; the concave side of the bowl is filled with earth well tamped, or with concrete, the object being to furnish a tie which shall be practically indestructible.

Miss Winslow, the American beauty, who has been dividing with Miss Chamberlain the admiration of the gay world beyond the Atlantic, belongs to a well-known Boston family. Miss Winslow is a blonde, tall and stately, with regular features, and the air that people call "aristocratic." She came naturally to her personal attractions through her mother, whose portrait, painted by Porter before he had become fashionable, preserves the features of one of the most beautiful women the Hub has known.

What's the Use?

Honor to a Journalist.

Mr. J. M. Kennedy, late editor of the Whitby Chronicle, has been the recipient of a very handsome testimonial from the public men of Whitby on the occasion of his departure from that place. An address, signed by the mayor and presented to Mr. Kennedy, bears testimony to the many excellent qualities as well to the esteem in which he was held by the people of Whitby.

O. & Q. R.R. Bridges.

Mr. W. H. Law of the Central Iron Works, has been invited to tender for forty-two spans of iron bridging on the Smith Falls extension of the O. & Q. Railway. The conditions are that the work is to be completed by December, but as Mr. Law has enough of orders in the regular way of business to keep him busy till that time, he will not tender for the work. The fact of his being invited, among leading firms in Great Britian and the United States, is, however, a flattering testimonial to the excellence of his work and the capacity of his establishment.

Peterborough's Biggest Batch.

Immigrant Children.

Mr. John T. Middlemore, the founder of the Orphan Children's Emigration Charity, London, Ont., leaves Liverpool on the 15th June in the S. S. Superior with a party of 50 girls and 70 boys between the ages of 3 and 18 years, who are brought out to this country for adoption or hire, chiefly among farmers. They are expected to arrive at the Guthrie Home, near that city, on or about the 27th inst. This will be Mr. Middlemore's 14th annual visit to these shores with juvenile emigrants from Birmingham, Eng. land, since 1872. Already many applications accompanied with good references have been made for the children expected to arrive, but more are required. Further particulars may be obtained by addressing Mr. H. Gibbens, manager of the Guthrie Home, London, Ont.

Decoration Day.

The local body of Oddfellows have set apart Monday, June 22nd, as a day to decorate the graves of departed brethren. In the afternoon the Oddfellows will march from their lodge rooms in a body and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery, where the impressive and solemn ceremony and memorial service will be performed.

Contract for Uniforms Awarded.

At the meeting of the Fire Brigade Board on Saturday evening, the tenders for making the new uniforms were considered, and the contract for twenty-four suits awarded to Mr. Duncan Cadwell. The uniforms are to be supplied by the 1st July, and the boys are sure that, if making a good job, Mr. Cameron will strike the bullseye.

Flourishing.

Messrs. D. W. Karn, of Woodstock, for whom Mr. D. Smart is local agent, received a cablegram on Saturday from their agent, who is now at the Colonial and Indian Exhibition in London, stating that he had made a contract to supply one of the leading European dealers with 3,500 organs. The firm were so well pleased with the tone of the instruments on exhibition that they at once gave the order. Their already large staff will have to be doubled, and preparations made for again enlarging the premises. —Woodstock Times, Ont., May 29, 1886.

The Return Match

On Saturday afternoon the local junior cricketers drove into Lakefield, attired in their cricket suits, all ready for the return match with the Lakefield juniors. The game was soon started, and too soon stopped to satisfy the visitors. During the second innings it began to rain heavily, preventing the continuance of the game. The home team having scored more runs in the first innings than the visitors, the game was decided in their favor. The scores stood:—

"Poor Married Men."

Married vs. Single—Benedicts Badly Beaten by Bachelors on the Cricket Grease.

The long-talked-of match between the married and single men of the P. A. A. A. Cricket Club was played on the Association grounds on Saturday afternoon, the bachelors defeating the benedicts by 3 runs and seven wickets. The game was began about the time it began to rain—three o'clock—the married men going to bat, only five of their men having put in an appearance. Messrs. H. T. Strickland and Sam. Ray were sent to face the bowling of Mosgrove and Carter. Mr. Strickland retired for four, Mosgrove taking his stump, and Mr. R. B. Rogers, who than came on the field (making the sixth married man) was placed to fill the vacancy. After scoring 4 Mr. Rogers retired, Mr. J. E. Hammond taking his place. S. Ray, who ran up a score of 19, was cleverly caught by Lawford, and Mr. W. Smith next took a turn with the willow. Mr. Hammond, after batting well for 10, was put out by Orde, who threw the ball from a distant part of the field taking Mr. Hammond's stump as he came striding over the crease. Mr. H. A. Hammond then went to bat but did not score. Mr. Smith, not out, made 4, and the side retired.

The rain was pelting down in a steady stream during the whole innings, wetting the ball so that it was hard to hold, bat or bowl, while footing was not of the best. After waiting in vain for about a quarter of an hour for the shower to stop and for reinforcements, the married men took to the field and practiced bowling for a time. The bachelors admired the form of their foes from a distance and finally went to bat. The married men bowled from both ends, Messrs. H. B. Rogers and J. E. Hammond stationed behind the wickets, and later on Mr. Strickland. Mr. Smith stationed himself under the friendly branches of the tree, darting out to field a ball when it came his way, while Messrs. Ray and Strickland fielded on either side. Messrs. Geale and Lawford batted first, Mr. Lawford retiring for 7. Mr. A. St. A. Smith wielding the willow next for 3. Mr. Carter took his place, and Mr. Geale retiring for 8, was replaced by Mr. Cooper and an umbrella. These batsmen made the necessary score to win the game. The bowling was heavy and the ball hard to hold, by reason of which the byes were almost as numerous as the hits. The umpires were obliged to wear umbrellas during the contest. The score stood as follows:

MARRIED MEN.

H. T. Strickland, b Mosgrove	4
S. Ray, c Lawford, b Carter	19
R. B. Rogers, run out	4
J. E. Hammond, run out	10

It will be seen that the unmarried men won by 3 runs, with Mosgrove, Lee, Stirling, Orde, Fife and King to bat, Cooper and Carter not out. So ended the famous fight on the cricket crease between bachelors and benedicts.

Honouring His Honour.

The Graceful Tribute of the Bar—On the Occasion of Judge Weller's First County Court—His Honour's Reply.

At the June sittings of the County Court and General Sessions, held at the Court House this afternoon, his honor was presented with an address by the Law Association. The address, which was read by D. W. Dumble, Esq., is as follows:

To His Honor Charles Alexander Weller, Judge of the County Court of the County of Peterborough:

The Peterborough Law Association desires to give expression to the feelings of its members on the occasion of this, your first appearance at the Bench, as a County Court Judge.

For many years associated with you in the practice of law, and for a long period brought into contact with you while you discharged the responsible duties of Local Master in Chancery, we have learned to respect your legal attainments, your painstaking discharge of duty, your impartial judgments, and your ever kindly and courteous bearing to all.

At the time of your appointment you received the hearty and unanimous endorsations of all the members of the local bar as the one entitled, on every ground, to the position of Judge, and it is with the warmest feelings of personal pleasure that we now tender to you our hearty congratulations on your elevation to the Bench.

We wish you a long incumbency of the office, and trust that the satisfactory and happy relationship which has heretofore existed between us may ever continue.

Signed on behalf of the Association,
D. W. DUMBLE,
Vice-President of the Law Association.
June 8th, 1886.

His Honor, Judge Weller, replied thanking the members of the bar. He said it was very gratifying to him to find that he had won the approbation and esteem of his collegial associates. With regard to his legal attainments and impartiality of judgment which the address complimented him upon possessing, he would exercise these to the best of his ability in discharging his duties. He did not think that his attainments would ever give him a high position as a judge, but if he should be wanting in this respect he would always endeavour to be strictly impartial. His relations with the legal profession of which he was the oldest member in point had always been of the most pleasing character and the new relation which he now bore to them would not prevent him from giving them any assistance which they might require of him. He had the satisfaction of knowing that there was no ill feeling between himself and many of the practitioners and trusted that [illegible] would continue to be as harmonious in the future as they had been in the past.

SUDDEN DEATH.

The many friends of Mrs. Wm. Moore will be sorry to hear of her sudden death. The deceased lady accompanied by her husband had been visiting friends in the vicinity of Warsaw, on Friday, returning home at an early hour in the evening. Mr. and Mrs. Moore were partaking of their evening meal. Mrs. Moore arose from the table to go to the stove and fell to the floor; she breathed a few times and was no more. Mr. Moore has the sympathy of the whole community in his sad affliction. The funeral on Monday showed by the number of those in the procession, the respect in which deceased was held.

Mr. Joseph Gillogly, of Lindsay, has been the guest of Mr. Ed. Carton during the past few days.

Sellers gives you a "pointer" in stocks, my friend, leave them severely alone, but when your own feelings tell you that you have palpitation of the heart, asthma, bronchitis or catarrh which unless checked are apt to run into consumption, heed the admonition before it is too late. As the diseases enumerated, and others, arise from impure blood. Put the liver in action the largest gland in the human body, and you will speedily regain your lost health, and your bad feelings will disappear. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will accomplish the work speedily and certainly. Of your druggist. d122-6t-w22

IN PIOUS MEMORY

Of the Late Bishop Jamot.

Requiem High Mass—The "Month's Mind"—Solemn Ceremony at St. Peter's Cathedral—The Attendance Church Dignitaries and Clergy.

To-day, the thirtieth day from the death of his late Lordship Bishop Jamot, requiem high mass was celebrated with all the solemnity of service and impressiveness of ceremonial at St. Peter's Cathedral. Strictly, the day proper was Holy Thursday, but as that was a holy day of the church, it was decided to postpone the solemn ceremony till to-day. At ten o'clock this morning the bishops and clergy who had previously assembled at the palace, formed and went in procession to the cathedral. The following bishops, vicars and priests formed the procession: Most Rev. Archbishop Lynch, Rt. Rev. Bishop O'Mahoney, Toronto; Carberry, Hamilton, and Cleary, Kingston; Very Rev. Vicars-General Laurent and Rooney, Toronto, and Laurent, (Administrator of the diocese) Lindsay, and the following clergy: Rev. Fathers Brown, Port Hope; Murray, Cobourg; O'Connell, Brighton; Casey, Campbellford; Quirk, Hastings; Sweeney, Burleigh; O'Connell, Downe; Keeley, Hamburg; McVay, Peterboro Falls; McCloskey, Victoria Road; McGuire, Lindsay.

The church was decorated for the occasion. The high altar was the same in its trappings of woe as at the funeral a month previous. In front of the altar entrance rested the bier, empty, save for the mitre and stole of the deceased prelate, which rested upon it. Over the grave, under the eastern gallery a pyramidal platform draped in black was a mass of bright hued flowers.

REQUIEM HIGH MASS

was sung by Rt. Rev. Bishop Carberry, of Hamilton, with Rev. Father Haden, Superior of the Jesuits, Montreal as assistant priest, Vicar-general Laurent, of Toronto, as deacon, and Rev. Father Murray, of Cobourg, as subdeacon. The musical portion of the service was excellent. As the clergy entered the sacred edifice the organ played by Miss Merrier, pealed forth the solemn strains of a funeral march, which was followed, while the clergy were taking their positions, by the De Profundis, Miss A. Dand and Miss M. Tiernay taking the principal parts. Then followed the service of the mass, in the music of which Messrs. George and William Ball and James Coughlin took the solos. At the offertory, Riccis' Recordare Jesu Pie was sung by Mrs. J. E. McIntyre. At the communion, Miss Mary Dand and Messrs. Geo. Ball and L. Lemay took a trio of Verdi, the choir joining in the full chorus.

THE ARCHBISHOP'S ADDRESS.

At the conclusion of the mass Archbishop Lynch of Toronto, addressed the congregation. He said that the church throughout Canada sympathized with the diocese now in mourning for their beloved bishop. He had never seen a people so loyal to the memory of a departed pastor, and especially commended the loyalty of the children. He assured them that as they loved and reverenced the memory of their departed bishop, so he would love them in heaven. He referred in becoming terms to the piety and zeal of the deceased bishop with their good results. He had done much to advance education, assisted by the good sisters and teachers. He exhorted the congregation to pray for the repose of the soul of their late beloved bishop, and also for the success of their new bishop. The name of three candidates elected for the vacancy would be sent to the Holy See, and the people should pray that the best selection would be made, and also for a special blessing on the new pastor, for the sake of their own souls, for the glory of God and the Church. The Archbishop suggested that the congregation might erect a beautiful altar, which he was confident would be done, and to make fitting preparations to receive their new Bishop. In conclusion he asked the divine blessing on the congregation and again asked his hearers to pray that they might be united as one family in heaven with their departed Bishop.

At the conclusion of His Grace's address, the choir rendered the Libera, the clergy chanting alternate parts. The prelates and clergy then surrounded the tomb and the ceremony of the absolution was performed by Rt. Rev. Bishop Carberry, and the solemn services of the day were over.

Greece and Turkey.

Hostilities Suspended—Peace Becomes Amicable Affair.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 7.—Great hopes are entertained both here and at Athens that the advent of Tricoupis to power will lead to a quasi-alliance between Greece and Turkey. The recent manifestation of Russia's aggressive policy at Sebastopol, the proceedings at Moscow and the speeches made there are reckoned as showing the necessity of both the former Governments preparing to meet at an early date further manœuvres of the common enemy in the Balkan States. Although troops are being withdrawn from Thessaly, the Porte has no intention of placing the army on a peace footing. A large remittance will be sent to Hungary for the purchase of horses. According to present intentions the garrisons Erzeroum and frontier posts are to be strengthened by the dispatch of a large portion of the troops which are no longer required on the Greek frontier.

Over a C.P.R. Bridge.

PEMBROKE, June 7.—A C.P.R. freight train coming east went through the iron bridge at Petawawa, ten miles west of here, about 11.20 this morning. Conductor Williams was instantly killed and a number of others dangerously injured.

Henry Taylor, of Perth, hardware merchant, received a remittance of six dollars from an unknown person—"Money," says the writer, "that I got from you in a wrong way, but up to this time had not the moral courage to return."

INDIAN POTTERY.

Making a Faithful Copy of a Traveler's Face in Clay Within a Few Minutes.

The origin of the craze for Indian pottery may be traced back some few years since, to a party of New Yorkers who were traveling in old Mexico, and one day happened upon a tribe of Indians who were busily engaged in molding pottery. They were filled with admiration and wonder, and lost no time in collecting what specimens they could from the tribes whom they visited.

Returning to New York they proceeded to set up their goods, and worship them to the intense envy of their friends, who had nothing so unique with which to decorate their drawing-rooms, and who for a long time were at a loss to know where to procure these novelties. After a time a dealer in curiosities opened a correspondence with some of the better class of natives in one or two of the Mexican cities, and the result was that several shipments of superior pottery were obtained, and more New York drawing-rooms began to be curiously adorned. After a time Denver merchants, too, began to take hold of the subject. Two of the most successful pottery establishments in the union may also be found in the Town of Santa Fe, New Mexico, where many of those who now buy these articles are as well used to them, having seen them for so many years, as they are to the commonest necessities of life. The pottery sells well there because it is a native product, and the better class of citizens have some pride in that which has caused such a furore in the great cities.

In Denver the rage for it is not so great as it has been, although some handsome pieces have been sold here during the last year. Mme. Gerster bought a pair of images when she was here and had them shipped to Bologna. She expressed great delight with the workmanship displayed in them, and thought they would attract a good deal of attention among her foreign friends. The great water jars and bowls used to sell well here, but their sales have now mostly given place to that of "The Little Gods of Pain," who are small individuals, their features usually contorted, as if they were in various excruciating stages of colic or toothache. Children are greatly amused with these funny little images, and it is often for them that they are purchased.

In the south-western part of old Mexico, near the city of Guadalaja, on the west side of the Sierra Madre mountains, is made the famous Guadalaja pottery by Indians who live in huts and are but partly civilized. Occasionally they bring their wares into the city and dispose of them in trade, but not often. They are usually sought out by correspondents or agents who have orders to buy them, and who seldom fail to procure at least a few pieces of the pottery when they are sent on these missions.

Formerly the Indians did not care to exchange their wares for money; they preferred trading them for bright-colored goods and provisions, but they have long since learned that their goods are valuable, and they cannot now be induced to part with them except for a good round price. It is said to be a novel sight, that of coming upon a hut unexpectedly and watching unseen a group of Indians molding and patting into shape the yellow clay, from which all their wares are made. The habits of these tribes are said by those who have visited them to be very cleanly, and one may sit down in a hut and watch the Indians at their work with perfect impunity, and a tolerable degree of comfort. The old Mexican tribes particularly seem to have a born genius for pottery-making; their wares are fine and finished, having a silky surface, which is decorated with delicate traceries of birds and leaves, usually done in gilt. These pieces are remarkably beautiful, and remind one vividly of the work of the ancient European potters, save that the shapes are usually ponderous, whereas the antique shapes are known for their slender and graceful outlines.

There are three or four Indians in old Mexico who are sculptors as well as potters; a tourist who has traveled through the country says that he stood for five minutes before one of these gifted old savages, who at the expiration of that time had produced a faithful copy of his face in clay. This story seems almost incredible, but it is known to be true. The Mexican traveler now has the bust in his possession, and says it is as faithful a likeness as an Italian sculptor would cut out of marble for the alleged reasonable compensation of $5,000. Naturally these workers do not know enough to put any semblance of a signature on their work, and a recent game of the wily agents has been to stamp it with their names, thinking thus to gain reputation and to increase the state of their finances. The buyers, however, were not easily deceived, and lost no time in putting an end to the attempted swindle.

It is not possible always to get pottery when it is wanted, because, as is well-known, the Indians are very lazy and will only work when they are in great need. Aristocratic gentlemen are said to be unable to work, save when they are inspired; perhaps this is true also of those lords of the forest who occasionally turn out such beautiful specimens of handiwork. With them ability is all gift; they have not had the benefit of schools, nor that of suggestions from their composers; they are not stimulated by private envies, neither have they drunk deep of the fountain of ambition; they are nature's artists, purely and simply; so purely and simply, in fact, that they have no suspicion of it themselves, and the consequent lack of possession of this knowledge adds much to their daily contentment, and preserves them from the intense bitterness which always befalls their superiors in art. These remarks apply chiefly to the male Indians of old Mexico, as little of their work is done by squaws. All the fine pottery which is seen in different parts of the union is made by the natives of this country.

Baptism Concessions.

We have been requested to publish the following article from the Messenger or Visitor published in St. John's, N. B.:

A few months ago, the Croil lectures were delivered in Edinburgh. The gentlemen delivering them is always selected by reason of distinguished ability and scholarship. Dr. John Cunningham, an eminent Presbyterian, was the lecturer this year. The admissions of Pedobaptists on the subject of baptism are so frequent, that we did not refer to his statements at the time they were made. We give a part of them, now, hoping that they may do good in offsetting the assertions of tractates, written by nameless ignorance, and scattered abroad. No Baptist could put the facts more strongly, and no scholar could put them less strongly, if he were candid. Read carefully what he says:

John the Baptist immersed his converts in the waters of Jordan. As understood by the Apostles, it was simply that ceremony by which man or woman was admitted to the Christian community. Notwithstanding the numerous references to baptism in the New Testament, there was not one passage in which the mode of its administration was described; but there was no uncertainty about it. Baptism meant immersion, and was immersion. In the Christian literature of the second century there were several references to it, which showed, beyond doubt, that the proselyte was dipped in a pool, or a river, or a sea. There was no ceremonial at first, the simple immersion was the intiation.

The belief that baptism was regeneration led to the other belief that none could be saved unless they were baptised. This led to infant baptism. For at least a hundred and fifty years infant baptism was unknown in the church, and even in the third and fourth centuries it was not common. But when it was preached that all who died unbaptised must perish everlastingly, mothers became clamorous that their infants should be baptised as soon as they were born. This originated baptism by layinea and even by women. It also lead to baptism by sprinkling, for neither could a dying man be taken from his bed, nor a sickly child from its mother's lap, and plunged into cold water. The belief in regeneration, which had shaped the whole history of baptism, was still enshrined in the service-books and creeds of most of the churches of Christendom.

Our readers will remember Mr. Aitken, the Episcopal evangelist, whose preaching made such a stir in New York last winter. In a sermon preached shortly before leaving for England, he uses the following language, referring to Rom. vi: 4.

St. Paul speaks of our being buried with him by baptism into death. We never understand Holy Baptism till we take this view of it. It is not a mere washing; it is a burial and a rising from the grave; its lesson is death and resurrection. We can understand how eloquently this symbol must have appealed to the feelings of those converted to God from heathen or Jewish systems. We can understand as they passed down into the waters of baptism, and rose up again recognized Christians, how completely they would feel they were severed from their old relations, and identified with Him in whom they had professed faith. They were saying farewell to all the associations of their former years; they were saying farewell to all the habits of their former lives; they were turning their backs on their old selves. As they rose up from the water they must have felt that they occupied a new relationship to the world, a new relationship to their fellow-Christians; nay, a new relationship (if I may use such an anomolous expression) to themselves.

When we hear such clear statements of the truth as to baptism, and such accurate descriptions of the origin of the errors of infant baptism and sprinkling, it is one of the greatest wonders how those who know the facts so well, can possibly practice what they themselves declare to be erroneous. We are not alone in our astonishment. A London paper, the Christian Commonwealth, though not Baptist, shows up their inconsistency in the following vigorous way:—

Now, how is it possible to reconcile these utterances with the continued practice of sprinkling for baptism, and the continued sprinkling of infants for believers' baptism? Candidly, we scarcely know how to deal with such men who make admissions and yet continue to practice directly contrary to them. . . . We do not forget that such men do apologize for their conduct on the ground that the matter is of no particular consequence. Dean Stanley held to the notion that it mattered very little which way the ordinance was administered, and regarded the fact that sprinkling had become largely popular as evidence of "the triumph of common-sense and convenience over the bondage of form and custom." Perhaps Dr. Cunningham would state his case somewhat in the same way, but it must be evident to all honest persons that such thinking cannot be regarded as proper means by which to advocate the conscience. And if scholarship must be regarded first in all questions of this kind, and the commence made a convenience of by being remanded to a second place and nursed into a good humor by such nicely-turned phrases as "common-sense and convenience over the bondage of form and custom," then it really seems to us that it would be vastly better for the church if the scholars would all retire and say nothing more on the subject at all.

The article concludes:—

But when they (i. e., the people) are distinctly taught by such scholars as we have referred to that the practice of sprinkling and pouring and infant baptism are entirely out of harmony with New Testament practice, and therefore, continues in antagonism with the only infallible guide which we have in the matter, surely the time has come when scholars themselves should not only practice what they preach, but should also insist on the people respecting the authority of the Word of God. If scholars expect the people to have faith in the Word of God they must not only vindicate what that Word is, but also its authority. It is quite useless to defend the Bible against the attacks of infidels, if we run with impunity issues its teaching upon such a vital question as the meaning of the words of the Great Commission which Christ gave to His Church. We simply enter our protest against all this trifling, and demand that theologians shall not only speak as that ultimate authority shall be respected, but also act so that their sincerity may be above suspicion. If immersion is what Christ commanded and what the apostles practised, and if only believers were baptised by the primitive Christians, by all means let us understand the matter clearly, and let all who claim to be guided by the Divine Spirit act accordingly. The time has certainly come when we should at least be honest. Who, then, will set the first example in meeting the demands of consistency? Let our scholars especially answer this question.

Who will say these strictures are too severe? There is, however, one thing worse than the course of these scholars. It is to twist Scripture and torture history, in the vain attempt to make them support false practice as to baptism. In the one case the truth is admitted, though not practised; in the other, there is neither the candor to admit, nor the loyalty in the practice. May the time be hastened when all eyes shall be opened to see the truth, and all hearts ready to embrace it.

Important to Members of Life Assessment Associations.

Justice Given, of the Supreme Court, in deciding the case of Leininger vs. the New Era Life Association, held that it cannot be considered that either the making or the payment of assessments depends in any degree upon the interception of the company or its members. Between the lines of the decision we read in confirmation of Judge Given's opinion, that it is of no use, when a member has joined an association of this kind, for him to drop out and expect to be wholly free from the consequences of his associate membership so long as the association has obligations to fulfill to its deceased or living members. The company is bound by law to assess all seceding and remaining members, and even pursue them till the whole debt is liquidated.—The Insurance Times.

Smothered to Death.

An Incendiary's Awful Crime.

CHICAGO, June 7.—Eight persons were smothered and burned to death in frame houses Nos. 731 and 732 South Canal street at four o'clock this morning. Both houses were filled with smoke before any of the occupants were aroused. Many of the sleepers were, doubtless, smothered in their beds. The firemen in searching the ruins came upon the most harrowing scenes. Some were lying in the half burned beds, and others, who were awakened before death, were clutching each other in groups on the floor. It is believed the fire was the work of an incendiary.

Spice a Flying Shoe.

Ah Yah stood in the doorway of his laundry at 256 Montgomery street last evening, with a fellow candle in one hand, the other holding to his mouth a the whistle, out of which he blended a series of shrill squeaks. He was very much excited, and as he blew the whistle he danced up and down. A crowd gathered in a few moments. The Chinaman kept on dancing and blowing his whistle until someone clubbed it out of his hand.

"What's the matter?" he was asked.

"Lobbed, lobbed!" answered the Chinaman; "everything, he gone, alle gone."

It was too true. Ah Yah had gone down town early in the afternoon to do into a game of sun lee in a Chinese gambling house on Clark street. During his absence thieves broke into the basement and made off with a lot of linen, a silver watch and chain, $60 in money, and a brass joss. It was the loss of the last-named effected Ah Yah most. He had carried it with him from China, and so long as it was safe in his possession it brought him good luck, but the moment it departed he was ruined.—Chicago News.

TUESDAY, JUNE 8, 1886.

NEWS OF THE TOWN.

June 9th and June 10th.

Dr. Washington, the noted specialist in throat and lung diseases, will be at the Grand Central Hotel, Peterborough, on Tuesday and Wednesday, June 8th and 9th. To-morrow will be Dr. Washington's last visit to Peterborough.

Malicious Mischief.

Some parties have made themselves busy in mutilating the posted bills announcing the Masonic excursion to Rochester. If the committee can find out who is guilty of such pure meanness, the guilty party will be visited with all the punishment the law allows.

The Last of the Season.

Bear in mind that the last concert of the season will be given on Tuesday, June 15th. The following talented vocal soloists will take part: Mrs. Agnes Corlett Thomson, Toronto; Mrs. R. H. Deanistoun, town, and Mr. T. Dunn, town. A chorus of sixteen select voices will also contribute selections.

Decoration Day.

The local body of Oddfellows have set apart Tuesday, June 22nd, as a day to decorate the graves of departed brethren. In the afternoon the Oddfellows will march from their lodge rooms in a body and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery, where the imposing and solemn ceremony and memorial service will be performed.

A New Dress.

The Toronto World, in a spick and span new suit of type, looks as neat as a pretty girl in a newly laundried calico dress, and is as piquante as the average sixteener. The World's head, though it is sometimes a little lop-sided and wobbley, politically, generally maintains an equilibrium. It is a sparkling, saucy, newsy sheet, and the EXAMINER rejoices at its prosperity. Wag on, little World.

The Late Hour System.

The session of St. Paul's church have decided the late hour system is detrimental to the interests of the community. On Sunday evening Rev. E. F. Torrance read an intimation from the session, stating that on inquiry it was found that many young persons of the congregation were engaged at their employment until, 10 and 11 and sometimes 12 o'clock at night, which prevented many from attending service on Sunday morning, and from properly observing the Sabbath day; also asking the members of the church to do all in their power to aid in the abatement of the evil.

Baseball.

The secretary of the Peterborough baseball club has received a communication from the Ottawa nine, asking the club to arrange for a match, to take place in town, during this month, and from the Uxbridge team with regard to return matches. Also a straight challenge from the Port Hope and Cobourg clubs, which have crack nines in the field. At a small meeting held in Mr. T. Spencer's cigar store yesterday evening, it was decided that the team should practice vigorously for a week, and if the result is satisfactory to accept the Port Hope club's challenge.

W. C. T. U.

The regular meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union was held in the Y. M. C. A. rooms yesterday afternoon. The meeting opened with the usual devotional exercises. Mrs. Fife occupied the chair. It was decided that the essays which were to be received in June be left over till September. Communications were received from Brantford and Ottawa, the latter urging the organization of a Young Women's Christian Temperance Union. It was resolved that seven dollars of the funds be devoted to benevolence. Those willing to send flowers to the hospital this week will kindly leave them at Miss Sanderson's store, not later than Wednesday.

Stations of Ministers.

The following is the first draft of ministers' stations as presented at the Bay of Quinte Conference, Picton, for the Peterborough district:—Peterborough (George street), Isaac Tovell, Secretary of Conference; Henry Sherin left without a station at his own request; Peterborough (Charlotte street), F. H. Wallace, B. D.; Ashburnham, Foster McAmmond, B. A.; Millbrook; Arthur Browning; Cavan, D. N. McCamus; Cavan South, Henry Thoma; South Monaghan, Benjamin Greatrix; Keene, Francis Johnston; Norwood, James Anderson; Lakefield, Jas. McFarlane, George Marvin; Warsaw, John Tossland; Bethany, R. T. Courtice; Janetville, John Power; South Manvers, William J. West; Hiawatha, Edward Craggt Blairton, Isaac W. Puffer; Hall's Bridge, J. H. Oke: Mud Lake, to be supplied form Hall's Bridge; Chandos, J. X. Morse.

Bible Class.

Sheriff Hall will conduct the young men's Bible class in the Y.M.C.A. rooms to-night at 8 o'clock. All young men are invited.

Firemen's Excursion.

The date of the Firemen's excursion has been fixed for Tuesday, June 15th. The Golden Eye which has been chartered for the occasion, will conduct the excursionists to Campbellstown, leaving her wharf in town, at eight o'clock. The palace scow will be attached and the splendid orchestra of the band will furnish music for those desiring to dance. Canoes will be carried free of cost. The proceeds of the excursion will be devoted to the Uniform Fund. The object is a worthy one and it is to be hoped the excursion will be largely patronized. Tickets 50 cents, children under 12, half price.

A Praiseworthy Act.

There is, says the Port Hope Guide, a man and his wife who live on Bramley street, Port Hope, who have no children, although a middle aged pair. On coming home one evening, the husband was surprised to find his wife giving supper to six small children in rather dilapidated condition. "Hello! what does this mean?" The particulars were given him by the good hearted woman, to wit:—that she had learned that a woman was very ill and with a destitute family, the husband being away looking for work. On going to the place, she found the mother lying dead on the lounge and the children in a sad plight. Her first effort was to have the body looked after, and then to scrub up and feed a hungry lot of children by taking them to her own house. It is hardly necessary to say that the husband was well pleased with the acts of his noble wife, and Father Brown, too, has reason to be well pleased with the generosity and kindness shewn in this instance by members of his church. We understand these children have been provided with homes by adoption.

County Court

And General Session of the Peace.

The semi-annual sittings of the above court opened at the Court House this afternoon, His Honor Judge Waller presiding. His Honor in opening the court announced that he had seen fit to make a change in the time of opening, viz: from 12 to 1 o'clock, which he thought would be convenient to all concerned.

THE BAR

The following gentlemen composed the

John Finlay, foreman, John Cardwell, Jas. Condon, Alexander Fitzgerald, John Ferguson, Duncan Fife, Samuel Faulkner, D. D. Gallelly, George Howson, Robert Handbridge, Robert Landy, Joseph McKee, Andrew McNeil, Robt. Mahood, Jas. R. Moore, R. Moore, F. Mason, Neil McDonald, Thomas McKee, J. P. Strickland, W. A. Sanderson, W. Webster, Alexander Watts and David Henderson.

His Honor congratulated the jury upon the lightness of the criminal docket, the only case which they would be required to consider being the charge against Joseph Whiteman, for bigamy, and explained to them the nature of their duties. He also referred to the many excellent qualities of the late Judge Deanistoun, and intimated that although he had not completely recovered from his attack of illness, he was making satisfactory progress toward recovery. He felt confident all hoped with him that the late judge would be speedily restored to health to enjoy that dignified ease which he so well merited.

QUEEN VS. YOUNG.

The case of Queen vs. Young, a charge of obstructing the highway, in which case the Grand Jury brought in a true bill at the last sittings of the court, was first called and was being heard at the time of going to press.

FRISE VS. BROAD.

The case of Frise vs. Broad, a dispute with regard to wages, was, by consent of both parties interested, referred to the arbitrament of Mr. John Burnham.

Personal.

Mr. J. McNamara left town yesterday for Toronto, on a holiday trip.

Among the other persons who were honored in yesterday's issue as pupils of the Collegiate Institute, passing creditable examinations, the name of Mr. R. E. Hall was omitted. He passed the second year's examinations in law, taking second class honors and standing first on the list, an excellent standing for a lad, barely sixteen years of age.

Home Rule Defeated.

Mr. Gladstone's Bill Lost by Thirty Votes—The Largest Vote Ever Cast.

LONDON, June 7th.—In the early hours of this morning the division was taken upon the second reading of Mr. Gladstone's Bill, with the result that the Bill was defeated by a majority of 341 to 311.

This is without doubt the largest vote ever polled in the House of Commons, which, under the new Redistribution Bill, numbers 670 members. There are several seats vacant, so that practically the whole House was present.

After the vote was taken Mr. Gladstone moved an adjournment till Thursday. On the House reassembling his resignation will doubtless have been accepted, for it is not likely that Her Majesty will grant a dissolution as it is has been demonstrated that the business of the country cannot be carried on by a coalition Ministry.

Daniel Webster's Brother-in-Law.

The terror of Daniel Webster's boyhood was his brother-in-law, John Colby. This man Colby was notoriously wicked. He did not learn to read until he was 80 years old. At the age of 85 he was converted. At this time Webster had not seen him in forty years, but when he heard the news he rode over to talk with him. Old Colby was glad to see his visitor, and congratulated him upon his success in life. Then he said: "You are a great man; are you a Christian man? That is the only question worth asking or answering." To this the great statesman replied with all the eloquence of which he was capable. He said: "John Colby, you have asked me a very important question, and one which should not be answered lightly. I intend to give you a truthful answer. I hope I am a Christian: I profess to be one, but I say it with shame that I am not such a Christian as I desire to be. I have lived in the world, surrounded by its honors and its temptations; and I am afraid, John Colby, that I am not so good a Christian as I ought to be. I am afraid I have not your faith and your hopes; but still I hope and trust that I am a Christian, and that the same grace which has converted you and made you an heir of salvation, will do the same for me. I trust it and I also trust, John Colby—and it won't be long before our summons will come—that we shall meet in a better world, and meet those who have gone before us, whom we knew, and who trusted in that same divine free grace. It won't be long. You can not tell, John Colby, how much delight it gave me to hear of your conversion. The hearing of that is what has led me here to-day; I came here to see with my own eyes and hear with my own ears the story from a man that I know and remember so well. What a wicked man you used to be!" When he left Mr. Webster said to a friend who witnessed the interview: "I should like to know what the enemies of religion would say to John Colby's conversion. There was a man as unlikely, humanly speaking, to become a Christian as any man I ever saw. He was reckless, heedless, impious, never attended church, never experienced the good influence of associating with religious people. And here he has been living on in that reckless way until he has got to be an old man: until a period of life when you naturally would not expect his habits to change; and yet he has been brought into the condition in which we have seen him to-day—a penitent, trusting, humble believer. What-ever people may say, nothing," added Mr. Webster, "can convince me that anything short of the grace of Almighty God could make such a change as I, with my own eyes, have witnessed in the life of John Colby."
